Dog licenses and tags have turned in $851.47. One man allowed as how "Bro. Volstead wasn't a bad old scout, as he had bought a new furnace for the town hall." In 1925 the current expenses were $28,406, in 1926, $30,513 with the were $28,406, in 1927, $30,513 with the outstanding items of difference being in bridges and highways. During the last three years there has been no removing of snow expense and no losses paid for damage done by deer. The damage done by dogs last year cost the town $52, in $1926, $90 and in 1925 $67. For the last ten years Griswold has had to pay $600 to farmers for damage to flocks of sheep.

In one case two half wild dogs got into a flock in the south part of the town one night, killed 15 and so wounded a dozen others that they were mercifully spared further suffering.

Alex Desjardine, overseer of warping and spooling for the Ashland Cotton Co., has resigned. He is succeeded by Albert Paquette, who was succeeded by Mr. Desjardines. Now with Mr. Paquette back, he has succeeded his predecessor.

P. W. Chase, editor of The Acco Smile, published for the operatives of the Ashland Cotton Co. by the Ashland club, has some very interesting comment on the recent fifty-foot swan dive, made by Miss Mildred Mondor, an attractive young Jewett City girl.

The issue out Tuesday says:

Many had their doubts as to this young lady's courage to go through with her stunt, knowing that facilities for such a dive were not available until a few days previous to the meet. Mildred climbed the ladder very confidently; she rested very professionally on the platform while two large American flags whipping about her plainly indicated the velocity of the wind with which she had to contend. She wrapped the flags about their staffs and again waited the moment that would permit her to take off without danger of being diverted toward the diving board below her. The crowd was spellbound and breathless as she arched her back, beautifully confident she sprang outward, arms outstretched, floating downward, a rare dive from such a height with perfect form which was maintained until submerged beneath the surface of the water.

All about the fields and meadows of Griswold are to be seen fall flowers with honors going to the golden rods, asters, Joe Pye weed and bone set. Take these three in a meadow where there happens to be a patch of iron weed, with the colors yellow, white, purple and red meeting the eye together, and one will see one of the surpassing color schemes of nature's fall array.

Local passengers on the big expresses out of New York coming up over the Shore Line Saturday night, tell of the adjustment of the new schedule which became effective at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, as applied to trains actually in operation. Through trains like the Quaker, The Narragansett and the Owl were all on the road at 2 a. m. when the new fall time card became effective. All these trains were held up one hour, and then proceeded, on time under the new card. Some wondered as to this solution of the problem of reconciling the change, as relative to trains actually on the road, that had left the terminals on the old schedule. If the eastbound night express train 32 had kept going it would have left New London an hour ahead of the time advertised in the new schedule. In the spring when the train times are advanced, then trains on the road, after 2 a. m. keep going, but are one hour late. Trains are often late but are never operated ahead of time.

Mrs. James B. Palmer, Jr., seems to be one of the few local flower lovers who know where to find the fringed gentian. High-Compression POWER in all models

The New Magnificent Special Six Sedan $995 f.o.b. factory

THE high-compression engine principle may be new to some cars now making a feature of it, but to Chandler it's as old as balloon tires or 4-wheel brakes!

Chandler's Pikes Peak Motor needs no special cylinder head—it is, and has been for years, a complete high-compression motor in itself.

And if you want to feel how high-compression power really feels, get inside any one of Chandler's two dozen new models, either a Six or a Royal Eight, and step on the gas!

Another thing: Chandler is the one and only car in its price class with a chassis that lubricates itself the moment you press a plunger.

Is it any wonder that Chandler is making whirlwind gains in sales?

DANIELSON

LIEUT. URQUHART SHOWS HOW STATE COPS WORK WITH COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 27. — Some statistics were made available today by Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart of the Danielson barracks of the state police department that clear away more or less misunderstanding as to how the department and the town court get along financially and as to just what the relations of the department and the court are in certain cases, it having been published, in the past, that the state shared in the fines in certain cases, took all in others but let the town pat the costs when the police department fell down, as to obtaining convictions.

A check-up shows, Lieut. Urquhart says, that during Killingly's fiscal year ending July 31 last, there were 142 arrests in Killingly by members of the state police. Out of this total of cases 131 convictions were obtained. In the other 11 cases, which were disposed of through nolle or by discharge, the state collected $39.99.

From the cases where there were convictions the town of Killingly netted $1486, through sharing equally with the state in the fines imposed. This was a very large part of the total revenue of the court for the entire fiscal year.

Under the statutes applying to processes under consideration here, the town hereafter will not be liable to lose even as much as $39.99, during the course of year, through any liability of a prosecution failing to be successful. The rule is now that in cases where convictions are not obtained or where cases are nolled without costs or where there is a discharge of the accused, an order will be drawn on the comptroller of the state for reimbursement of any expense to which the town has been put and such an order will be approved and paid.

Forthcoming town reports will show that the net profits over and above expenses in the town court of Killingly during the past fiscal year are in the neighborhood of $500. Without the net revenue produced from cases originating through the activities of the state police in Killingly, the town court, it appears, would have shown close to $1,000 deficit the past fiscal year.

If you are interested in dolls as a means of depicting historical periods of dress, in this and many other lands, you would have spent an entertaining hour at the Jacobs' Memorial library in the Westfield Congregational church this afternoon, when a collection of more than 100 of these manikins, as they may be called for the purposes of the moment, were placed on public display by Mrs. W. H. Polhemus, resident here many years.

Mrs. Polhemus has devoted time and attention to the assembling of this collection of dolls. They are representative of various periods in the history of the United States, various sections thereof, of South and Central America and Mexico, of Italy, France, Spain and Africa; of the Balkan states Japan and India, of Russia and other far-flung sections of the globe. Mrs. Polhemus acquired numbers of them from friends living or traveling in foreign lands as well as through her own personal efforts. The dolls are in size from tiny things three to four inches long to those that approximate the size of a new-born child, and all have, in one way or another, some special charm of their own. For instance, there is one from Bermuda that is made of banana husks that is altogether different from the average doll that the average American thinks about. Some of the dolls in the collection, it may be mentioned, are in excess of 100 years of age. Those of living generations who have religiously kept their dolls as mementos of childhood days certainly would be mightily interested in the collection Mrs. Polhemus possesses.

CORONER TO INVESTIGATE DEATH OF MRS. WM. ST. JOHN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 27.—The death at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam of Mrs. Lillian Katherine St. John, 50, wife of William St. John, of the town of Sterling, may become the subject of an investigation as to the circumstances surrounding her requiring hospital treatment, Coroner Arthur G. Bill said today. The body of Mrs. St. John is now at the family home in Sterling and no official action, if any, will be taken until after the funeral. Coroner Bill said today that he had been at the hospital relative to the case and in conference with the surgeon in charge of it. The basis of the official interest is not revealed at present. Mrs. St. John is the mother of a large family of children, the majority of them grown to adult age. Her death occurred at the hospital late Monday and the body later was removed to the family home in Sterling.

The accused will be presented before Justice Chester B. Jewett ni Hampton on Friday morning to answer to the charges filed against him.

The flying game promises to develop into a widespread indulgence hereabouts. It is promised that further opportunity for a ride in the air will be afforded the coming Sunday at the Kimball aviation field. There is the possibility, too, that some stunt flying will be included in the program of bolstering interest in the program of finding ways and means of developing an aviation field that will be called the Danielson field, though it happens to be in a corner of Pomfret. In any event, a flight is now regarded as the real shot for a thrill, and dozens of people hereabouts can be found who have tried it and assert it's great stuff.

Elfgren, a civil engineer who for years has lived in the Bear Hill section of East Killingly, has added his voice to the many who are pressing the state highway department to do something about building Connecticut's part of a trunk line highway, long since surveyed, that will lead from Dayville Four Corners to the Rhode Island line, there to connect with a road Rhode Island is to build, re-developing an old and direct stage coach route between Providence and Hartford.

By fans who are intensely interested in what has been termed the national sport, a drive is already on for tickets to see at least some of the World's series baseball games—those that are to be played in New York.

It was stated by John M. Dowe today that the laying of the foundation walls for the new Come block will start Wednesday morning, weather permitting. Excavators have cleared a section sufficient to allow of masons getting at the work.

Numbers in surrounding communities have made a note of the fact that The State Trade school courses at Putnam are to open in the very near future and that registrations are now being made. There are no tuition fees for these fine courses in trades, domestic arts, millinery, etc. The opening of the State Trade Evening school is of prime interest to the ambitious.

Deer are reported as particularly plentiful all through this section of Windham county, a fact that will tempt many a hunter to carry along proper ammunition to safeguard themselves from attacks by the animals when the hunting season opens within a few days—if you get what one means.

PUTNAM

BIDS ASKED FOR BUILDING STATE HIGHWAY AT PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 27—Bids have been asked for the building of a state highway to extend from the present cement highway at Grosvenordale northward towards the Massachusetts line, and it is expected that the work will be begun soon, although actual construction may not be done this year but it is believed that it will be started in the early spring.

The new road will not follow what has been known as the state highway which crossed the railroad near the Catholic church at North Grovenordale, but will run straight along to a point where it swings over the railroad bridge and joins the other road, which has previously been a town highway. This will eliminate a dangerous grade crossing.

The plans call for an extension of the road to Wilsonville with a view of joining the cement highway later that is to be built to the state line by the highway department of Massachusetts.

The mystery was solved finally when the little girl of seven years was discovered as she was milking this pet cow into a large open-mouthed bottle. When asked why she was doing it, she replied that they were having tea parties and they needed the milk to use.

Does illness keep you from your work?

A GIRL who earns her living — whether in store, office, factory or home — realizes the necessity of regular attendance at her place of employment. For this reason she works on day after day. When she becomes tired out and run-down, she feels that she must keep at her work without taking time to rest.

Thousands of girls have found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored them to a normal physical condition, and has made them fit for work. These two women testify to that fact:

HEALTHY AND STRONG

Silverton, Oregon:— "I am writing to tell you how much your medicine has helped me. I was doing cannery work, canning, sealing, etc., but had to quit work when sick as I would be so weak I could hardly walk across the room. A friend of mine told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have found relief when sick and it helps me more each time. Every one says I am a healthier and stronger girl. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends." Julia Schmidt, 113 Willow St., Silverton, Oregon.

Remember this package. None genuine without the signature of Lydia E. Pinkham.

LOOK AS YOUNG

Fruitdale, South Dakota:— "I felt badly. It seemed like my back broke all to pieces and I couldn't stoop down to get anything from the floor. Then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I did, and it sure has helped me. I can work all day long and I feel so good. I am 38 years old and I look just as young as if I were 20. I am glad to answer letters from any one about this medicine because it has done me good." Mrs. Francis F. Fajardo, Box 31, Fruitdale, South Dakota.

BEWARE OF POISON GAS

We are approaching that season of the year when those who work upon their automobiles will be more and more inclined to do it indoors away from the cold. There are certain things about a machine that can be done with safety under such conditions, but there are others which cannot and it is well to fix it firmly in mind that disastrous results are liable to follow a disregard of safety.

This is called to attention by the case of a Boston man who considered his carburator needed adjusting and went to his garage to do it. He started his car and got under it for such work as was necessary. He had taken the all wise precaution of opening the garage doors but while he was under the car the wind blew them together. The result was that he was shut up in the building with the deadly fumes of carbon monoxide gas, apparently unaware of it until too late, and it was only because members of his family became suspicious at the long time he was gone that he was found, dragged into the air and resuscitated in the nick of time.

This man's experience is very similar to that of others. Some may have escaped by a wider margin while others lost their lives. It puts emphasis upon a real danger at the time of the year when it becomes greater than ever because of the inclination to work on a car indoors, and too frequently with the doors shut for comfort.

The deadly gas from the auto exhaust works quickly and stealthily. Its presence is often not suspected until too late. The victim may get the idea something is wrong and decide to get out into the air. If he is fortunate he succeeds, but in too many instances he is put to sleep in his tracks and never knows what happened, and yet all such cases are preventable.

Care should be taken whenever an automobile is started in a garage to see that the doors are open, and if necessary fastened back so that the wind cannot blow them together. That doesn't make the garage warm to work in but it permits of the admission of sufficient oxygen to overcome the effects of the exhaust. It eliminates the danger of being killed by poison gas, and records show that many persons are not mindful of the need of such precaution.

THE MAGRUDER CRITICISM

As a result of an article published by Admiral Magruder, who is in charge of the navy yard at Philadelphia, Secretary Wilbur has asked the admiral to furnish the navy department with his plans for such a reorganization as he believes desirable and which would effect a saving of $100,000,000 a year, or turn that amount from present channels and devote it to the betterment of the navy.

It doesn't necessarily appear that Admiral Magruder has overstepped his rights in writing and publishing the article he did, a copy of which he has since submitted to the navy department. He has not revealed any vital secrets. He has however indulged in criticism concerning expenditures and, inasmuch as criticism is easy if nothing is offered in the way of a substitute or a betterment, it is quite pertinent that he should get the remedy down on paper in some definite shape.

He has made reference to the fact that many of the navy yards ought to be eliminated and that money which is being used for their maintenance might be used for the construction of new naval vessels and in other ways promote greater efficiency. Such a claim is by no means new. It has been urged by others and attempts have been made to accomplish such a change. He recognizes the fact that congressmen are frequently opposed to any such change and will not sanction naval station abandonment in many instances. When congress takes such an attitude it is not improbable that it represents the sentiment of the people to a large extent for they are unwilling to see large and costly plants abandoned or transferred to other points. There is a feeling in one section or one state that it is entitled to all the advantages from such naval establishment as exists in other state, and this is particularly true if a navy yard is already in existence.

As for the efficiency of the navy, it is the desire of every American. Opinions will vary concerning it. If Admiral Magruder considers there are conditions which ought to be improved he should be able to put his finger on them and show how it can be done and where. To make his criticism really efficient he should have a program and when the secretary of the navy asks him to prepare one he moves in a way to get the full benefit of the Magruder ideas.

DWINDLING PUBLIC SERVICE

Evidences are developing that the removal of two more trains from the Norwich & Worcester division of the New Haven road is not being looked upon with favor by those cities and towns which are served thereby.

It is inferred that these trains have been taken off because there has been an insufficient amount of patronage. When it becomes apparent that those using a means of transportation are so few as to make it impossible to meet the expenses of operation, it has become the practice to eliminate such service. It is understandable that the railroad does not wish to run trains which are helping to pile up a deficit, and that it should seek to be relieved of an unjust burden. But it is to be realized that there is more than passenger service to be taken into consideration.

The communities along the line of the Norwich & Worcester division are dependent upon it for express service and they are painfully conscious of the fact that service of all kinds, passenger, mail and express, has been steadily dropping until with the removal of these trains it has almost disappeared. Whether the substitution of a truck for the carrying of the mail will fill that gap appears to be a question in the minds of many.

Norwich has felt the cramp from trains which have hitherto been withdrawn. It is conscious of the fact that it is not getting the service that it got a few years ago and it is quite natural that there is a demand that there be no further curtailment. The fact is that there is need for replacement, of some form of substituted service. And it is apparent that there are other communities which feel much the same way.

The opportunity which is being provided by the chamber of commerce for the entering of protests against this latest change should disclose the sentiment up through the Quinebaug valley and even across the Massachusetts line, and while they are being made it might be well if some attention were given to not only the retention of what previously existed but some means of obtaining an improvement. It has dwindled until it has gotten about to the zero point.

SPEEDY SEAPLANES

The Schneider cup has changed hands frequently. It is a coveted seaplane trophy awarded to the aviator who makes the fastest speed over a given course. Last year it was won by Italy. This year it goes to Great Britain, Lieutenant Webster having won the contest at Venice by making a new record of 281 miles an hour as an average for the flight.

This is the contest in which Lieutenant Williams of this country hoped to enter and for which private interests furnishes the means to build a seaplane and whose transportation to Venice would have been provided aboard a naval vessel had he been able to complete the preparatory tests of his machine in time.

Much value is attached to these speed races of seaplanes by Great Britain and Italy. They make long and elaborate preparations as indicated by the fact that the British had six machines as possible entrants and both Great Britain and Italy actually qualifies three apiece.

For a machine to attain the speed of 281 miles an hour, it is apparent that it must be built with much more care than one which is expected to make only 50 to 60 miles an hour. It likewise becomes evident that the expense of construction will be greater for it must be in every way prepared to meet the test that it will be put to. Record breaking when it comes to fast flying calls in the first place for a machine that is capable of standing the strain and in the second place an operator who is skilled for such a performance.

There was much regret that the United States was unable to compete in the 1927 race. Whether Lieutenant Williams could have pushed his machine beyond 281 miles an hour is a question. By the time the next race rolls around it is to be sincerely hoped that he will have a chance to try.

A DOMESTIC RUG

On the corner of the avenue and the river road stands the clubhouse, four stories of brown stone, of 1,800 turrets, of vast planes of plate glass, many of them curved—glittering gestures of opulence, of weighty oaken entrance doors, of mighty chimneys, indicative of deep, glowing fireplaces within.

One day an army of workmen invested the clubhouse. They rigged up scaffoldings against it. They boarded over its windows. They began to make breaches in the walls, a breach on the first story and another on the street level. They seemed on the street level to be tearing out a window in order to insert a door.

Presently a wide, jagged hole appeared. Stones and bricks with crookedly serrated edges made a roughly scalloped border around the hole. After a day or two of mason work the hole disappeared. In its place one saw a piece of carpet, a quarter, apparently, of a rug of standard size. It was held in place over the opening by some strips of lath, some crooked, some broken, some straight; tacked there to keep the weather out.

A loiterer paused and looked at the piece of carpet. A man came around the side of the building and looked at the loiterer. He was a large man; large limbed, large shouldered, large handed. His clothes, which were large and loose, were flicked with powdered mortar. His face was flecked with building soil, too, but rosy cheeks shone out, and bright blue eyes, and a half-smile curled his large mouth.

"You lookin' at the old piece of rug?" asked the large man. The loiterer nodded.

"That there was a good rug, and not so long ago, either," said the large man. "Lord, mister, I thought I owned the earth when I'd that layin' the first night in my flat, bought and paid for. Yes, sir!" The loiterer, who liked stories, made an indefinite murmur.

"You see," said the large man, "I had had to learn myself everything I ever did learn. Hod carryin' when I was 13. Brick layin' soon's I could get me a card. Workin', workin' and not savin' a penny account of my mother was a widder with a bunch of children younger'n me. Her and me we took care of 'em, sent the last one of 'em to school we did.

"Then, o' course, I met up with a girl. Some girl, mister, believe me. So then there was me betwixt love and dooty. Five years of dooty. Gosh almighty. My girl waited, though.

"So when the oldest boy next to me he says it's his turn to shoo the old wolf from the door and I'm to go in a home of me own with the girl. That was the great day for us!

"We went to housekeepin' in one room with a bed an' a fryin' pan. She begins to save for us. She wants a regular flat, with a bedroom and front room separate.

"Before a year we get us that flat with them rooms. Then we get a baby. Whoopy! Then she says we got to get bettern' where we are to live. We got to get another room for that baby. But we got another baby and I see where we got to buy lots of milk for the babies and lots of victuals for the bricklayer.

"But by and by I set out to cheat her some. Keep my envelope till I can change it and keep out on her. One of these things she wants so bad she can taste it is one of these soft carpet rugs. I don't know what you call 'em. Anyhow, I go peddlin' and snoopin' 'round a while before one Christmas to see what do they cost. When they told me—it was long about 13 years ago—when they said $60 or $70 for one, why, I liked to fell dead.

"But, mister, I got it, and I wisht you could a-seen her when she first see it, spread out on the front room floor. She cried. She pretty near kissed it.

"But after that? Well, we have to move rapid after that. We got to match up first one thing and then the other with the rug. We got to match up not only the chairs and the tables. We got to match up ourselves and the kids.

"Well, the first time we move to a bigger flat, the rug still lays in the front room. Next time it goes to our bedroom. Next time in the kids room. Then I don't see it any more, not for a long time. We're livin' in a house of our own, now.

"So, I land this contract, and I'm sayin', at home, where we're tearing out this wall to put a service door in, and I wonder where I'll get a good thick somethin' to cover it over, and she says, 'Why, Tom, I'll give you something good and thick. If you'll come up in the attic for it,' she says. And she takes me where this old rug lays, rolled up. 'Will this do?' she wants to know. And I say yes, remembering a lot of things, like how she looked first time she see it.

"She runs downstairs and up again, with her biggest pair of shears, and she squats down on the floor and begins to cut off a slice of the rug, and I says, 'What's that for?' and she says, 'This is to be buried with me when I die, Tom.'

"Women," said the large man, laying a carressing hand on the piece of carpet that was fastened to the side of the wall, "women are awful sentimental, mister."—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Regrets Misunderstanding.

Mr. Editor: In The Bulletin of September 24, 1927, there appeared the report of the Woman's Relief corps' last meeting. In this report appears these words — "The Buckingham Memorial is sadly in need of some repairs and there was much discussion of ways and means for procuring money. If anyone is interested in the upkeep of the building a contribution will gladly be received."

Knowing that this appeal would not be seen by all citizens I concluded to do my part towards raising the necessary funds by paying for a space in your paper, so that all might see. In this morning's issue the representative of the W. R. C. disclaims the appeal. I have been accused of giving the W. R. C. and the D. of V. a black eye. I regret exceedingly that my interest in the G. A. R. has caused so much misunderstanding, when I simply made more prominent the written words of the W. R. C.

YOUR HEALTH

PERIODIC PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS LENGTHEN LIFE

By Elmer Hess, M. D., Erie, Pa.
Member Gorgas Memorial

During recent years certain life insurance companies have offered free physical examinations to their policy holders. This is an added expense of many thousands of dollars to these companies and many persons have asked the question, "Why, when these concerns are in a money making business, do they spend money that isn't necessary and in such enormous amounts?" The answer is easy.

These big insurance companies realize that if their policy holders can be induced to have an examination every six months or every year small defects will be discovered early and, if corrected before they become serious, the policy holders will live longer, thus benefiting the companies far more than the cost of examination.

Insurance companies have blazoned the path for health programs because their records reveal that many causes of sickness and death are preventable. The public owes a debt of extreme gratitude to the insurance companies for the knowledge of health matters they have disseminated.

To keep any machine properly it must be regularly inspected and cared for. The better care given the longer the machine lasts and the better it serves. With a machine one is fortunate in that when a single part wears out a new part can be procured. This is impossible with the human body.

God has given each of us a machine that will run so long, with care. Twenty years ago the average longevity of the human machine was about 35 years. Today, thanks to modern medical science and an awakening public knowledge, the average span of life in America is about 45 years. What we all want to do is to live. The average span of life can and will be gradually increased. You can do your bit toward this end. Go to your family physician at least once every year; once every six months would be better. Ask him to give you a complete examination. If he finds anything wrong, have it corrected at once. If he finds something wrong with some part of your anatomy, but doesn't know exactly what it is, he will send you to a specialist whose training and experience will enable him to diagnose the condition. He will advise you how to correct the abnormality and, corrected early, the span of your own life will be greatly increased and your usefulness to yourself, your family and the world at large will be greatly enhanced.

Your doctor would rather be busy giving you periodical examinations than be worried over you during a serious illness. Wouldn't you rather spent an hour twice a year with your physician than spend two weeks in bed and six months convalescing after a serious illness that could have been prevented? The great majority of diseases to which human flesh is heir can be prevented or at least controlled very often with less cost in both time and money to yourself if taken care of early.

Periodical physical examinations pay big dividends to insurance companies, and they will pay you bigger ones. Don't forget that your family physician is your best friend. Use him.

Stories That Recall Others

New Way of Knowing.

Jean, age four, knew every one in her neighborhood.

"Who is that lady who passes our house each day?" the child's mother asked her one day.

"I don't know her name," replied Jean, "but I know where she lives."

"And how did you learn where she lives?"

"I saw her yesterday peeling a chicken in her backyard," was the ready response.

A Disappointment.

Mr. and Mrs. R. and two children had returned from a week end trip, which had included crossing a river on a ferry boat. In discussing the various pleasures of the trip, Mrs. R. remarked that she could think of nothing that could have made the vacation more delightful.

"There was one thing that disappointed me," said Ruth, age seven. "I watched and watched while we crossed the river, but I did not get to see a single fairy. I thought that they took the boat across."

The first factory in the United States for the manufacture of bee-sugar was built at Northampton, Mass., in 1838, but was not a commercial success.

PROTESTS GROW OVER WITHDRAWAL OF TWO TRAINS ON WORCESTER LINE

An indignation meeting has been called for Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the office of the Norwich chamber of commerce in protest against the pulling off by the N. Y., N. H. & Hartford railroad of trains 705 and 708 which operated through Norwich between New London and Worcester.

A steadily increasing number of complaints against the pulling off of the trains is piling up at the chamber of commerce office and indications are that the protest meeting will have a large attendance. It is generally felt that the discontinuance of the trains not only handicaps passenger travel between this city and New York and Boston, but hits the Norwich mail service as well.

With the inauguration Monday of what is called an overland mail truck service between New London and Worcester, passing through this city, it is now necessary to shunt all mail destined for delivery in Norwich, and points north and arriving on mail trains at New London, from the New London railroad station to the New London post office where it is sacked. Then the sacked mail has to be placed aboard the two-ton vehicle now in use between New London and Worcester. It is understood that the mail truck will carry all classes of mail, including insured and registered matter. Heretofore mail arriving at New London for Norwich and points north to Worcester was sacked aboard the Worcester bound trains.

The new arrangement, it is felt by some Norwich business men, does not facilitate mail delivery but on the other hand results in a loss of time, due to the necessity of sacking the mail at the New London post office and the slower speed of the truck as compared with the railroad trains. It is also felt by some local business men that the new arrangement does not provide the safety and protection for mail that the trains provided.

Southbridge, (Mass.) Manufacturers and Merchants' association which has taken up the matter of the discontinuance of the two trains is to send a represenattive to the Norwich meeting Thursday to participate in the local protest meeting.

TWO LOUVAIN GRADUATES ARE GIVEN PASTORATES

Clerical announcements announced on Friday included Rev. Richard P. Morrisey from St. John's church, Plainfield, to St. Mary's church, Union City, pastor.

Rev. John H. Landry to St. John's church, Plainfield, pastor.

Rev. Richard P. Morrissey, who will succeed Father William J. Fanning as pastor of St. Mary's church, Union City, was born in Ballyloobу, County Tipperary, Ireland, June 23, 1880. He received his early education and his classical course in his native land. On graduating he went to Paris, where he made his philosophical studies. On finishing this course he went to Louvain, where he studied theology at the American college. He was ordained in that city July 16, 1905.

Father Morrissey served as curate at St. Joseph's, Willimantic; St. Mary's, Greenwich; St. Mary's Windsor Locks; St. Patrick's, New Haven; St. John's Watertown. He was appointed pastor of St. Thomas' church, Voluntown in 1911. September 6, 1919, he was promoted to the pastorate of Plainfield. Father Morrissey is a relative of the late Bishop Tierney.

Rev. John H. Landry was born in Bristol, Conn., November 11, 1887. After graduating from Bristol High school he entered St. Thomas' seminary, Hartford. After completing his studies there he was sent to the American college, Louvain, where he studied philosophy and theology. He was ordained July 13, 1913, at the American college, by Right Rev. Anthony Wachter, auxiliary to the late Cardinal Mercier.

Besides serving as chaplain in the United States army from August 1919, he held curacies in the following places —St. Mary's Baltic; St. John's Watertown; Blessed Sacrament church at Waterbury; All Hallows' Moosup; St. Louis, New Haven; Blessed Sacrament, Bridgeport; St. Patrick's, Waterbury; St. Mary's Jewett City.

PLAINFIELD BIDS FAREWELL TO REV. R. T. MORRISSEY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Sept. 27—On Tuesday evening a large crowd assembled in the community building to bid farewell to Rev. R. T. Morrissey, pastor of St. John's church. It was perhaps the largest assembly ever held in the building, many of Father Morrissey's parishiners being present as well as a large number of his friends from St. Paul's church and the Congregational church to attend this farewell reception. The address of welcome was made by James A. Coffey of the Lawton Mills Corp., followed by an address in French by Joseph Metzler. A beautiful basket of flowers was presented to Father Morrissey by two of his youngest parishiners, Seline Flynn and Veronica Foy. On behalf of the parish, John A. Leahy, trustee of St. John's church, presented Father Morrissey with a substantial check donated by members of the parish and his many friends of the village.

The reception came as a complete surprise to Fr. Morrissey and his very touching response brought many tears. Rev. Mr. Prentice of the Congregational church was called upon and spoke of the great loss to the community and the friendly spirit that Fr. Morrissey always exhibited, not only among his parishioners but in the entire community. A brief program of musical and vocal selections followed, concluding with Auld Lang Syne by the audience.

Father Morrissey has been pastor of St. John's church for eight years. During his pastorate he has had the church interior most artistically decorated. At the conclusion of the war he erected a beautiful monument of Joan of Arc to the heroes of the World war. Through his foresight a very choice plot of ground was purchased for a cemetery and the many improvements made to the property have made it one of the many show places of Eastern Connecticut.

Father Morrissey represented in the community the best in American citizenship and is truly a man among men and an honor to his church. His interest in the children was equalled only by his devotion to the sick and afflicted. His leaving is Plainfield's loss and Union City's gain.

DONOHUE SHORTAGE MOTION TURNED DOWN BY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 27—The common council at a special meeting held tonight refused to sustain a motion by Alderman William E. Jackson that the exact amount of shortage in the accounts of former city clerk and treasurer, James S. Donohue, Jr., be ascertained and the matter then be presented to the prosecuting attorney. Alderman Jackson stated that while the council could take no steps toward prosecution, which was advisable, that it present its evidence to the prosecutor leaving it to the descretion of the latter as to what, if any, action should be taken. The council remained in executive session for over an hour while debating Alderman Jackson's motion, which failed to be seconded.

On motion of Alderman Aime J. Martineau the session adjourned without action being taken. At the opening of the meeting the combined office of city clerk and treasurer was declared vacant as a result of Donohue's resignation last Friday night. GERMAN AVIATOR HAS NOT LEFT ANGORA, TURKEY

PARIS, Sept. 27.—(AP)—A sensational development in the case of the reported "missing" of Lieutenant Otto Koennecke, the German aviator, came in a dispatch from Angora today quoting the Anatolia News agency as declaring that Koennecke had not left the Turkish capital last Sunday morning, as his engine was working badly.

The departure announced Saturday morning, says the Angora advices, was an error, in reality this was another plane which hopped off for Eskihissar, Anatolia.

The message to Paris stating that Lieut. Koennecke had not left Angora up to that time, came from the semi-official Anatolian Agency, which originally reported his hopoff on Saturday. Its explanation of mistaken identity is taken here as a conceivably acceptable explanation of the whole mysterious disappearance of the aviators.

MAYOR WALKER JOYFUL ON RETURN TO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker, who packed 25 "hardboiled" shirts in his luggage about a month ago and started on a tour of European cities to study municipal problems, is back ready to "kiss every inch of the sidewalks of New York" from sheer joy at being home again.

Nattily dressed but fatigued, the mayor, accompanied by Mrs. Walker returned today on the Ile De France to find himself the focal point of a welcoming demonstration that included brass bands, handshakes, cheering, large crowds and the presentation of a bouquet of roses.

"I cannot imagine a finer reception than we received every place we went," said Mayor Walker in speaking of his trip.

"It was a matter of great joy to find the respect with which people hold New York, the admiration I found for this city everywhere I went was astounding.

"I bring a message of admiration and respect and no little affection from all the peoples of all the places we visited."

NEW TURN IN CONN. VALLEY TOBACCO CONTROVERSY

HARTFORD, Sept. 27.—(AP)— The affairs of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco association took a new turn this morning when 400 dissatisfied members petitioned Judge Newell Jennings in the superior court to grant an injunction against President Joseph W. Alsop and the board of directors to restrain them from distributing the proceeds of tobacco sales "according to the arbitrary judgment" of the officers instead of "according to the net proceeds" as provided for in the marketing agreement.

Judge Jennings denied the petition because it was "such a radical departure from the original claims" for a receiver, and because the defendants were not prepared to meet the issue at this stage in the trial.

Haldeman said that the projected Trans-Atlantic flight attempt was at least 48 hours off because of storms over the Atlantic ocean.

TUNNEY TELLS OF HIS REACTIONS WHEN KNOCKED TO FLOOR IN SEVENTH

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—The crisis Gene Tunney expected to face sooner or later in his ring career—coming up from the floor, dazed and wobbly at the count of nine—taught the heavyweight champion something new about psychology.

On his homecoming today from the Soldier field battleground, Gene told how for a dozen years he had planned to meet the situation that confronted him when Jack Dempsey crashed him to the floor in the seventh round of the spectacle on the Chicago lakefront.

"Ever since I entered the professional ring in 1919, I have known that sooner or later I must be knocked down. I also knew that when that happened I must get up, come on, and win my fight despite the handicap.

"I had worked out two lines of action. The first was to get up and camouflage my real condition by letting go a right hand punch with everything behind it—including a prayer that it landed.

The second was to get up and dive into a clinch, holding on desperately no matter how the referee tried to break us, and if necessary to go down again for another nine count from whatever punch came next. If my head then was not clear I planned to take still another count and so on until I reached my senses.

"But when I actually found myself down I realized my plans were foolish. I couldn't gamble with my title. My best chance was to make Dempsey follow me and I thought: "He can't catch me."

"They say that I ran away from Dempsey. You dont realize that I could have travelled twice as fast if I had wanted and if I had been hurt just a bit more. Instead I regulated my pace, putting on steam when I thought it necessary, and slowing enough to let Jack catch up whenever I thought he would come close enough for a stiff counter wallop.

"My head was clearer then than at any moment from the time I reached Chicago three weeks earlier. All the cobwebs left my brain by the heat at Lake Villa and the excitement of the day, were swept away by that series of punches to the head in the seventh round.

"Then Dempsey beckoned 'come on and fight,' admitting his own inability to control the situation. It certainly was gratifying to think that again I was master even though only seconds before I had been on the floor.

Gene smiled at the recollection and then went on to explain how the first principles of "situation mastery" had been pounded into him by one of his early fistic tutors.

"I've forgotten his name,' Gene said, "but his teaching was this:—'If you can be master of every situation even when you are being licked, you'll be great. Know when to box, when to slug, when to protect yourself at all costs, and then box enough and slug enough to keep things under control even when you are being outboxed and outslugged.'"

Tunney said Dempsey landed six smashes on his chin before the crash in the seventh round, and that he felt the first three only and that his first impression as his brain cleared was:

"Gosh, but this floor is comfortable."

Referring to the "long count" controversy, Gene said the referee warned both him and Dempsey on the knockdown rules just before the first bell.

The champion, after 10 days in New York during which he plans to see two world series games will leave for a few weeks in the Maine woods. He does not expect to fight again until next fall.

ACADEMY CAMPUS SCENE OF MUCH ATHLETIC ACTIVITY

That historic plot of land, chuck full of tradition, the Academy campus, can count 1927 as its most useful year in the task of providing clean entertainment in the nature of high class athletics for fandom of this section. This tract of ground sure has been the proverbial friend in need to Norwich sports and more so than ever has it performed in this manner this year.

Right now, when the baseball aspect is being erased at the local field and footballs, goal posts, etc., are beginning to dot its face, it is interesting to look back over just what has been done there during the last few months. It is the only athletic field of any size in the city limits and because of this fact sure has been worked hard.

Well over 200 baseball games have been played there this season and it is estimated that close to 100,000 have seen these games. In addition four or five track meets have been staged to say nothing of the multitude of tennis matches that have been run off on the adjoining court.

The Academy played 16 home games to average attendance of about 1,800; the Industrial league played 64 games to average attendance of about 700; 40 playground games were held with average attendance of about 100 while it is impossible to say how many other tilts between amateur elevens of the city have been staged there.

The seating capacity at the campus was close to 1600 during the year until a few weeks ago the old portable bleachers were disposed of to make room for newer and larger seats which will bring the capacity to nearly 2000.

These are expected to be ready for the Academy's opening grid game here Saturday with Chapman Tech.

Work on Hollyhock Island the city's new recreation field, will be started soon and the recreation commission's project will take some of the load off of the Academy but many will still hold that affection for the campus where so many derived their entertainment from sports.

For the coming football season the gridiron will have to be shifted a bit to conform with the new rules. It is understood that the north goal post will be left here. It has stood in concrete all winter and summer, which will of necessity move the field up ten yards and place the south post twenty yards nearer the fence than it was in 1926. The field was being measured Monday afternoon, the other goal post will be set in a day or two so that everything will be in first class shape for the opening battle in the popular fall sport's campaign.

SEVENTH OF REVIEWS OF DUSTY LEAGUE TEAMS

Corticelli Silk

The Silkmen won four and lost ten in the Norwich Industrial league season, finishing in seventh place, two full games behind J. B. Martin and one game ahead of the last place Atlantic Carton team. Forced to shift the lineup about considerably at times this club was never able to get coordination and the resultant teamwork although at times they flashed nice ball. Especially during the last few games this team was confronted by hard luck with breaks going against them. That they managed to keep out of the cellar after such a stormy year was considered something for them.

Pete Labenski, Steffy Cimikoski, Mace Goldblatt, Bob Shaw, Lussier and Joe and Hymie Sadinsky played good ball for this club.

Most valuable—Pete Labenski.
Best infielder—Steffy Cimikoski.
Best outfielder—Hymie Sadinsky.

RUTH'S HOMER IS FACTOR IN YANKEES' VICTORY

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—The Yankees handed the Athletics a 7 to 4 drubbing today before 12,000 fans while Ruth and Gehrig each contributed a homer, the Babe poling out his 57th with the bases full in the sixth and Lou his 46th with none on in the fourth. Ruth needs a homer in each of the three remaining games to break his 1921 record of 59. Hitting for the circuit, with all the sacks occupied has been a rare feat for Ruth. He had accomplished the performance six times prevously but this was his third as a Yankee. The score:

PIRATES HOLD TWO-GAME LEAD BY BEATING CUBS

CHICAGO, Sept. 27—(AP)—Pittsburgh retained its two game margin over the St. Louis Cardinals today by taking the final game of the series from the Cubs 2 to 1, making a clean sweep of the four game series.

It was the final game of the National league season in Chicago.

George Grantham's home run smash in the fifth inning following a single by Traynor gave the league leaders the victory.

Chicago jumped into the lead in the third inning when Adams walked and a single by English and Heathcote's sacrifice fly produced a run.

Lee Meadows, who started for the Pirates, was relieved in the fourth inning, after Wilson had led off with a single and Hill had been hit by a pitched ball. Meadows was yanked in the sixth inning when the Pirate pitcher broke his glasses.

Carlson held the visitors to seven hits, only three of which came in one frame. The Cubs touched Meadows for four hits while Hill yielded only one and Kremer was invincible. The score:

ALEXANDER HOLDS CARDS IN RACE BY BEATING REDS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27—(AP)—Grover Alexander held the Cincinnati Reds to two paltry bingles and a three base hit while his team mates plied the willow to defeat the Reds 4 to 1 and make the Cardinals win two straight in the series.

The three base hit by Critz with none out in the sixth gave the Reds their only run when Critz scored under the protection of Hargrave's long fly.

Frisch ran his stolen bases to 49 by taking two today and Hafey's homer went over the left field wall to make the game spicy.

Bottomley's double to right in the fourth with Frisch on second scored the Red Birds' first run and Schulte broke a one to one score in the seventh with a double that scored Toporcer.

Hafey made sure of things in the eighth when he poled the long one after Douthit had singled. Donohue got in a worse jam in the eighth but pulled through safely. Bottomley singled and Orsatti forced him. Orsatti stole second and Toporcer singled. They tried a double steal and Orsatti was safe back at third when Dressen had dropped Donohue's throw, and Toporcer made second. Schulte walked to fill the bases. There were two down and Maranville's fly finished the inning.

The Cardinals took eleven hits from Donohue. Before the game the Cardinals, optimistic over the results of the season, held a meeting and cut their season's baseball money based upon two ifs—if they win the pennant and if they finish second. The score:

NEW LONDON LEGION TO STAGE BOXING BOUTS

Thirty rounds of whiz-bang boxing and one big grudge wrestling match, together with music furnished by the Coast Guard band, will mark the big show to be staged by the John Coleman Prince post of the American legion for the benefit of its building fund at the Lyceum theatre, New London, on Oct. 3.

Promoter H. M. Neilson, athletic officer of the legion, announced today that he has secured the signature of Dan Bover of New York to meet the local favorite, Sid Taylor of the Coast Guard, in the main bout of 10 rounds at 145 pounds.

For the semi-final Henry DeJulio of Bridgeport, light heavyweight, will meet Batling Banker of the Coast Guard academy at 175 pounds in an eight round tilt. Reports indicate that the semi-final bout will vie with the main bout for action.

Julio Rossi of the Westerly Rossi family, will mix it up with Young Phonson of the academy at 132 pounds for six rounds in one preliminary and Micki Rossi of Westerly, a local favorite, will meet Bellenzi of Norwich at 132 pounds for six rounds.

The wrestling match is an out and out grudge affair in which the participants, Young Monday and Soldier Keller have been aching to get together for some time to wrestle their grievances to an end. They will weigh in at 150 pounds.

Sid Taylor, who has three service championship belts to his credit as the result of his campaigns in the south, and Banker and Phenston are working out daily at the academy gym.

PAID ATTENDANCE AT CHICAGO SMALLER THAN AT SESQUI

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—Although the gate of $2,658,660 at the Tunney-Dempsey match in Chicago smashed all fistic records for receipts, the paid attendance, as revealed through the internal revenue bureau today, fell far short of the throng that attended the battle of the Sesqui-Centennial in Philadelphia.

A crowd of 102,450 persons paid to see the match in Soldier Field, the revenue report showed, as compared with approximately 118,000 who bought tickets to see Tunney win the heavyweight crown last fall. The federal tax of 10 per cent amounted to $242,065.71. The Philadelphia gate totaled $1,895,723 with a $25 top price for ringside seats. The Chicago "top" was $40.

FUGAZY IS SUSPENDED BY N. Y. COMMISSION

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—Humbert Fugazy, Metropolitan boxing promoting rival of Tex Rickard, was suspended indefinitely by the state athletic commission today, but hoped to be back in its good graces within a week.

The suspension was imposed because of Fugazy's alleged failure to return to Charles Cardio, manager of Red Chapman, Boston featherweight, $2,500 forfeit money for a fight which never materialized minus $1,200 to $1,400 Fugazy claims Cardio owes him. Fugazy said he was willing to meet these terms and would so inform the commission at its meeting Thursday.

A CENTURY OF SERVICE

DEMPSEY UNDERSTOOD KNOCKDOWN RULE

CHICAGO, Sept. 27—(AP)—Blame for the situation which created heated discussions which have been continuous since Jack Dempsey knocked down Gene Tunney in the seventh round of their championship fight here last Thursday night was placed squarely upon Dempsey's shoulders today in a statement issued by the Illinois State Athletic commission.

"The instructions as given to the referees and timekeepers who we called into the commission's office at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the day of the fight were in exact accordance with the rules of this commission, as revised, and were followed out by the timekeeper and referee officiating in this contest," said the statement.

"Furthermore these rules, as discussed with the referees and timekeepers in the office of the commission, were given as part of the instructions by Referee Barry to both contestants, and their managers and chief seconds in the ring before the contest started and were understood and agreed to by each and every one of them."

In the old rule which has been cited as a basis for much of the discussion of whether Barry performed properly in chasing Dempsey out of the challengers own corner and into the farthest neutral corner before the turning to count over the sprawling champin, interpretation of the express "pick up unison" has been made much of.

The commission made public this interpretation of the rule under which Tunney and Dempsey fought:

"Interpretation of the count of the referee being made in unison with the timekeeper in the case of a knockdown would apply to a case where a boxer is knocked down and the contestant who is on his feet immediately retired to the farthest corner of the ring, in which case the timekeeper and referee would immediately start their count and would count in unison announcing the seconds to the boxer on the floor.

This rule, however, also provides that the boxer on his feet fail to stay in the corner, the referee and timekeeper shall cease counting until he has so retired, after which the referee shall start his count.

The formal protest Dempsey and his manager, Leo P. Flynn, said they were sending to the boxing commission did not arrive today, and the commissioners said they were not expecting to receive it.

New LA SALLE

Seven Passenger Sedan

A LARGER, longer, more striking La Salle—the seven-passenger sedan. The wheelbase is 134 inches. The interior is eloquent of luxury and close attention to detail. Upholstery is mohair velvet of finest quality. Hardware in silver finish. Walnut panels on doors and face of instrument board.

To the La Salle line has also been added a new seven-passenger Imperial and a new five-passenger Imperial—two limousines of ultra-smartness in design and appointments. Both are 134-inch wheelbase; both are of the convertible type, with a glass partition which may be raised or lowered, separating the front from the rear compartment so that the car may be either owner or chauffeur driven.

With the addition of these three models, and the recently announced Town Sedan, the complete La Salle line is increased to thirteen charming body styles—each the most advanced and distinctive car in its field.

WESTERLY

NEW TRAFFIC BEAGONS WORK OUT WELL IN TEST

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 27—The new traffic beacons placed in use for the first time on Broad street, at Dixon squareand at the east end of Pawcatuck river bridge at the head of Main street were given a good tryout last night following the Tail Cedar parade. All auto traffic was stopped, with the exception of allowing an emergency truck of the South County Public Service company to pass through the square and at the east end of Pawcacolumn of marching men had countermarched at the West Broad street grammar school and was proceeding up Grove avenue, toward Dixon street armory. Long columns of autos stopped on Main street and up Broad and High streets signalled by a bedlam of blowing horns their desire to proceed. Once traffic was started by Lieut. Champlin from the control platform at the sidewalk at the northwest corner of the Rhode Island hotel it was not long before the congestion was cleaned up. Chief of Police Brown and Town Council Police Committeemen Trainer and Smith were present in the square to witness the working of the new traffic control lights, with 8-inch lenses, the former 6-inch lense beacon in the square being removed to the corner of Elm and School streets. During the process of installation auto traffic was controlled with hand signal by Police Officer Robert Kessel from the pulpit in thecenter of the square. With the newly suspended beacon, there is a flood lightjustabove this pulpit.

MRS. ARTHUR DAYON'S BURIAL IN JEWETT CITY TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 27—Funeral services for Mrs. Arthur Dayon, formerly of Plainfield, Conn., were held this morning at 8:30 o'clock at her home on Mystic avenue. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Michael's church at 9 o'clock by Rev. J. F. Quinn, celebrant, with Rev. Michael J. Keating, deacon, and Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., sub-deacon.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery in Jewett City, Conn., where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. McCabe. The bearers were Edward Dayon, Archelda Dayon, Joseph Dayon, Ferdinand Dayon, Henry Cyr and Isaac Julicocum.

Reports will be presented by the entertainment, charity, clambake and house committees. The Elks' quarters in the Potter-Langworthy block on High street haverecently been redecorated. It is planned to hold a "ladies' night" program later.

Leaving Westerly Tuesday morning as delegates from the Broad Street Christian church were Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, the pastor, Miss Lizzie E. Martin, Mrs. Perry J. Dawley, Mrs. Elizabeth R. West and Orlando R. Smith.

Monday of next week it is expected that the September term of the superior court for Washington county, with Associate Justice Charles A. Walsh of Providence on the bench, will adjourn from the West Kingston county court house to the superior court house on Union street, Westerly, to complete this term of court. When the Kingston docket was called Judge Walsh announced that this term of court would probably end Oct. 5th for on that date he was due to open court in Woonsocket, R. I. There has been some question as to whether the Westerly court rooms would be available entirely for court use and as it is almost certain that the main courtroom will not have repairs made from the damage caused by the fire of April 30th last, the use is hardly possible. At the time of the fire last spring the April term of court was in session at Westerly and the adjournment from Friday to the next week found the court room set up in the Westerly town hall. Two of the jury rooms were made usable, but at this time one of them is in process of being rebuilt where the flames licked in from the burning fire station. Should court come to Westerly next week it is probable that cases to the court would be tried first and then if it were found that the jury rooms were again usable, the petit jurors under summons for this term of court would be agai ncalled upon for duty or else discharged from further service this term.

James Dericco of Oak street, taken into custody by Police Officers Michael Curtin and LeRoy H. BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Cubby Says Goodby to the Farm

We seldom feel an aching heart
Until the time has come to part.
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

Farmer Brown's Boy had been quite right in feeling that Mother Brown had stood all she could from that little Bear. At the dinner table that night it was decided that Cubby would have to go back to the Green Forest. Farmer Brown's Boy couldn't protest much when he realized all the extra work that little Bear had caused Mother Brown by the mischief he had gotten into. So, although he hated to think of parting with Cubby, he agreed that the next morning he would take him back where he had gotten him.

So, early the next morning, Farmer Brown's Boy and Cubby started for a walk. Cubby was on a chain. You see, Farmer Brown's Boy didn't want Cubby to give him the slip. Cubby had grown and he could travel very nicely now. It was great fun going to walk with Farmer Brown's Boy. He had done that thing before. He wondered if they would go over to the Laughing Brook. He liked to go over to the Laughing Brook and pull over stones and try to catch frogs. It was great sport.

But this time they didn't go to the Laughing Brook. They went down the Long Lane and across the Green Meadows towards the Old Pasture Cubby was picked. You see, the bushes were so thick there that the chain would get tangled. Up along the old cowpaths Farmer Brown's Boy trudged, carrying Cubby and talking to him all the time. By and by they reached the very place where Farmer Brown's Boy had first seen Cubby, the very place where Cubby had caught his foot between two roots. That foot was wholly well now. Farmer Brown's Boy looked around for some sign of Mother Bear and the other cub, but they were nowhere to be seen or heard. That they had been there every day he knew by the looks of the berry bushes.

"Well, Cubby," said he. "I guess you'll have to go back to your mamma. I don't know where she is, but she'll show up or I am greatly mistaken. You can have a perfectly beautiful time with these blueberries until she comes. You're a little black rascal, that's what you are, and I hate to think of parting with you. But I guess now's the time to do it."

He put Cubby down on the ground and took his collar off. Cubby shook himself. He was glad to be rid of that collar. Then he stood up on his hind legs, pulled down a branch of blueberry bush and began to eat berries freely. He was not at all fussy; green ones and even leaves and bits of stick went into his mouth with the ripe berries. It was all the same to Cubby. Farmer Brown's Boy watched him for a few minutes. Then, seeing that Cubby was very much engaged, he softly stole away, taking the collar and chain with him.

Down the old Cowpath he hurried and already felt lonely. That little Bear certainly had been a lot of company. Yes, sir, he certainly had been a lot of company. Back across the Green Meadows and up the Long Lane he hurried, and tossed the chain and collar over by Bowser the Hound's little house.

"Well," said he, trying to speak cheerfully as Mother Brown came to the door, "I've left him up in the Old Pasture instead of in the Green Forest. I've left him just where I found him. I do hope his mother will find him soon. I hate to think of him running around there all alone.

"He'll be all right," said Mother Brown. "I hope we've seen the last of the little rascal, but I have a queer feeling that we haven't."

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 27—(AP)—Corn prices underwent a severe tumble today, the corn crop having again escaped an expected widespread frost. Heavy selling of corn futures deliveries took place and the day's lowest quotations were reached in the final hour. The corn market closed unsettled, 3 3-4c to 4 1-8c net lower, wheat unchanged to 1 1-4c up, oats at 1-2c decline to 1-4c advance, and provisions 10c to 27c down.

With temperatures throughout the corn belt today failing to substantiate a forecast that they would get down to a winter basis, the corn market began to drop right from the outset. Price breaks soon forced into operation many standing orders to let holdings go at various fixed limits and thus put a stop to losses. Meanwhile, diminishing prospects of serious damage to the bulk of the corn crop was emphasized by an official estimate that 87 per cent of the Nebraska crop is safe from frost and authoritative advices that corn is mostly safe over a considerable section of Minnesota.

A leading crop expert telegraphing from Olivia, Minn., said frost could do no more damage in that district, as husks are generally dry and corn is of good quality. Some buying developed at times because of assertions that wet weather prevailing over a good part of the corn belt would retard the maturing of the crop and would impair the quality.

Belief in these assertions however, did not appear general, and rallies had but little momentum as a rule.

Wheat values displayed a stubborn upward trend in the face of corn weakness. One of the reasons was better export demand for wheat from North America, European purchasers aggregating about 1,000,000 bushels, largely wheat grown in the United States. Besides, reports were current that British trade authority anticipated raising his estimate of European breadstuff requirements, lateness of the trans-Atlantic harvest, together with drought in Australia, having reduced thep rospective surplus. Oats were easy, sympathizing with corn.

Provisions responded to the downward tendency of hog values, and to the break in corn.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—Buying in the bond market showed further signs of broadening today, and offerings became slightly more numerous in the high grade division, as prices of many issues advanced into new high ground. More than 30 new peaks for the year, or longer, were established, practically all of them by bonds which are selling well above par. Simultaneously more than a score of securities duplicated their previous maximums.

Continued easy money conditions supplied most of the foundation for the firmness of prices, while the relatively small volume of new offerings undoubtedly was a contributing factor. While a number of new issues in formidable aggregate, are due on the market within the next few days, those offered thus far in the present week have been negligible.

Railroad and public utility bonds were again the most favored by buyers. Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, and St. Paul bonds were freely absorbed at top prices, along with Chicago & Northwestern 4 1-2s, Texas & Pacific "B" 5s, Western Maryland 4s and numerous others. Erie "D" 4s, which are convertible into common, 2 shares for each $100 par value of bonds, were briskly accumulated a point higher than yesterday's close. The conversion privilege on this issue expires next Friday night.

International Telephone 4 1-2s led the utility group, strength of which was based on the current prosperity of the industry. Utah Light & Traction 5s, North American Edison 5s and Southwestern Bell Telephone 5s also were active at new peaks.

French bonds were favorites in the foreign group, but there was some selling of United Kingdom 5 1-2s and one or two of the German issues.

Second liberty 4 1-4s sold at 100 1-2 again after having sagged below that figure yesterday. Other federal government securities were dull and irregular.

New England Industries

COTTON, THREAD, YARN AND TWINE

(Note: The information, on which this article, issued by the research department of the New England council, is based, was obtained by the domestic commerce division, United States department of commerce, through an industrial survey of New England conducted in co-operation with the New England council. The department of commerce is now preparing for publication a full report of this industry which will contain additional information of practical value to all New England business men.)

The cotton thread, yarn, and twine industry in New England has had a chequered history in recent years, judging from the results of an industrial survey conducted by the United States department of commerce in cooperation with the New England council. Total sales of reporting plants in 1923 were 20 per cent over. This was more than made up in 1925, when at the end of the year sales were 24 per cent over 1924 the preceding year, but dropped to minus 11 per cent by the send of 1924. Both the recession and rise have been less in Massachusetts than in Connecticut.

Fifty per cent of the concerns considered in this group make cotton yarns, 29 per cent cotton thread, and the balance make seine and wrapping twines, mercerized darning cotton, etc. Annual sales for the entire group range from $30,000 to $2,000,000 per establishment, the average being $804,000. The average period of plant operation is 22 years. Nearness of market, labor conditions, transportation facilities, and accessibility of raw materials, in the order mentioned, have been the attractions to this section. Water power was an early influence.

Total sales during the last three years have increased in 53 per cent of the concerns reporting in this survey, have decreased in 18 per cent, and have remained fairly constant in the remainder. Competition with other sections (where it is most serious for half the concerns,) change in nature of demand, and general overproduction have been blamed for decreases.

One manufacturer of crochet, knitting and embroidery —d said that women's preference for golf and motoring over knittin— and fancy work had brought declining sales. A sewing thread concern increased sales 100 per cent in five years, mainly through "uniform service and uniform price." Another producer praised advertising, and yet another has developed export sales to 60 per cent of his total.

Seasonal employment variation was 22 per cent in ---- and 12 per cent in 1925, with the maximum in January and April and the minimum in October. A few concerns manufacture for stock in slack periods or make supplementary products. One company added colored twine to its line and another established a branch weaving plant. Improvements have been mostly in standardization of products, followed in importance by production control, uniform cost accounting, accident prevention, and other betterments.

Sales are about evenly divided between New England and other sections, and most sales are made direct to the manufacturer. One concern whose export business in 1925 amounted to 80 per cent of the total sales finds its Connecticut location an advantage for distribution through New York.

Among raw materials, cotton comes almost entirely from outside New England, and cotton yarn equally from within and without this area. Piece work wage payment is used in 70 per cent of the companies reporting, the average of workers in the entire group so paid being 36 per cent. About 60 per cent of the concerns use brands or trademarks for their goods.

FRANKLIN

Franklin Thimble Wearers, local 4-H Club made a meritorious showing at various fairs. Work done by its members was sent to Pachaug grange fair and to Hartford state fair. Fourth prize in the handiwork division at Hartford fair was awarded to the local club. At Pachaug their work was given first mention. A demonstration team, composed of Vera and Vivian Bushnell and Julia Rodman, was sent to Norwich fair.

Ernset Vallette is seriously ill at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Bernard Crandall and Buster Bushey were among those who attended the Springfield fair.

The interior of the parsonage is being painted and papered. New window shades were purchased this past summer by the Ladies' Aid society. Ray Beckwith and Bernard Crandall have been doing the work.

Florence Date, a senior at Windham high school has been confined to her home this past week with sciatic rheumatism.

Mrs. Ella E. Sager has returned to her home after spending ten weeks in Jewett City.

The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. R. W. Woodward Thursday, with a large number present.

Jacob Pember of Portland, Oregon, Mrs. Harriet Manning and Miss Augusta of Lebanon called on friends in town the past week. Mr. Pember, although seventy eight, made the trip from Portland to Lebanon unaccompanied.

Farmers are filling their silos. The corn crop was greatly benefitted by early September hot weather.

There is a general complaint that potatoes are rotting badly.

NEW LONDON SAFE LEFT UNLOCKED FOR ACCOMMODATION OF THIEF

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27.—A thief robbed the Carroll automobile accessory store, 318 Bank street, last night. The robbery was discovered this morning when the store was opened for business and the cash drawer was found to have been taken from the safe. Just how much cash there was in the drawer is not known, but it was not of an amount in access of $75. The store was closed about 11 o'clock last night and the money was deposited in the drawer, but the safe was not locked. When the store was opened at 8 o'clock this morning by an employe it was discovered that the cash drawer and its contents were missing. The police were notified and Patrolman George Perkins decided that the thief evidently had secreted himself in the store during the evening and awaited the closing of the place. When this was done the thief apparently, having knowledge of the practice of leaving the safe door unlocked, removed the drawer containing the money, leaving by a rear entrance, for there were no signs of any of the windows or doors having been tampered with.

STATEN ISLAND FATHER SEEKS DAUGHTER AND CHILD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27.—L. F. Johnson, 100 Bay View avenue, Prince's Bay, Staten Island, N. Y., today communicated with the New London police, requesting that an effort be made to locate his daughter, Mrs. Josephine Gripman and her daughter, Elizabeth, who are believed to be in New London for Johnson wanted his daughter to return home. Johnson said that the last knowledge he had of the whereabouts of his daughter was a few days ago and she was then staying at a lodging house here.

John Kontch, who said he resided at 87 Green street, went to police headquarters today and requested that he be given medical aid for he declared that he was ill. City Physician George P. Cheney was summoned and after examining Kontch, ordered him taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Kontch, who is apparently of Polish nationality does not reside at the Green street address, the occupants of the house being Frost Green and family, negroes.

Eleven cases occupied the attention of the police court this morning. James McArdle, James Dolan, Manuel Poit, Patrick McArdle and Tony Sueire, all strangers, were charged with vagrancy and trespassing. Each was fined $10 and costs. None could pay, so all went to jail to stay two weeks. The quintette was rounded up yesterday by Patrolman Clarence Wells and Special Agent David Marks, of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, when they were found occupying railroad property on Water street. The railroad officials have been annoyed of late because of the large number of vagrants who loiter daily on railroad property. The other six cases were for intoxication and most of the drunks were sent to jail.

The funeral of William J. Cullen, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. Requiem mass was sung by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, the pastor. The bearers were John Cullen, Francis E. Archer, Julius A. Koch, Harry J. Archer, Edward F. Koch and Richard C. Archer. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Fitzsimons.

Mrs. Catherine Harris, 72, widow of Joseph Harris, died yesterday at her home, 36 Belden street, after a lingering illness with heart disease. She is survived by two daughters, Miss Florence Harris and Mrs. David Harris, of Lynn, Mass. Mrs. Harris was a member of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the Ladies Catholic Benevolent association and of Hope lodge.

Samuel Rudnick, of Hartford, has sold a building lot on Midway place, Ocean Beach, to Joseph Rosen, also of Hartford.

Eagle Realty company has sold four building lots on the former Burrows homstead plat, Bayonet street, to Guiseppi and Rosario Micell.

Lucy R. Goddard, of Waterford, formerly of New London, has sold a house and lot and a second building lot, corner of Williams street and Post Hill place, to William H. Lincoln.

George A. Moran, sailor, stationed at the submarine base, and Miss Mary Loretta Rowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Rowley, 22 Lincoln avenue, were married at 8 o'clock last night at the rectory of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Timothy M. Crowley. The bride was until recently in the employ of the city of New London, having been a teacher in the public schools for several years.

FIRE IN OLD BANK ST. BUILDING DOES ABOUT $500 DAMAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27—A fire that broke out shortly after 2 o'clock this morning attacked the old wooden structure, Nos. 24-26-28 Bank street, owned by the Edward Burckle estate and occupied by Nathan Peck, restaurant, N. Giankopoulos, boot-black and pool room and Henry's Cut Rate Drug company. Because of the promptness with which the fire was discovered it is not believed that the damage will exceed $500. The fire was detected breaking through the roof over the drug store and because of the age of the building, the fire burned rapidly. An alarm was sent in from Box 23, corner of State and North Bank street. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds, the Nameaug Engine company, Konomoc aerial truck, Allen Hook and Ladder, Thomas Hose company, Niagara Engine company and Northwest Hose company responding. By the time that the firemen reached the building the fire had made its way through the uppermost section of the roof and was eating its way across the building. A stream of water was directed on the fire from Railroad avenue and another stream was sent to the roof from Bank street and a half hour after the fire was discovered it had been extinguished. How the fire started is not known. It originated in the roof of that section of the building occupied by the drug company, possibly from a defective flue, or electric light wires. A section of the roof was burned away and water entered the drug store and Armour Beef company's stock room in the basement, while a small amount of water found its way into the Giankopoulos pool room. Today temporary repairs were started on the building.

James Kirby, 62, died at 10 o'clock this morning at Lawrence Memorial hospital, where he had been a patient but a few days. Mr. Kirby is survived by two brothers residing in Providence, and a nephew, a college student. One of the brothers came to New London today to make arrangements for the funeral. Mr. Kirby was a member of New London lodge of Elks and F. L. Allen Hook and Ladder company. Of late years he had resided on Starr street. Mr. Kirby was born in Downeyville, Westerly and when a young man went to Waterford where he was employed at Booth Brothers' Hurricane Isle quarry. Later he came to New London and conducted a cafe about 30 years, retiring with the advent of prohibition. During his residence in this city Mr. Kirby contracted tuberculosis and went to Saratoga Springs, N. Y., for treatment. After remaining there several weeks, Mr. Kirby returned to New London and resumed his business duties. Several years ago, Mr. Kirby displayed symptoms of ill health, aggravated from the weakened condition of the lungs and went to Lawrence-Memorial hospital for treatment. He remained there about a fortnight and was discharged. About a year ago he was compelled to seek additional treatment and again last Saturdy his condition became such that he was taken to the hospital. His condition declined rapidly from then until the end today.

The annual town meeting of the town of Groton, held last night in the town hall, Poquonoc Bridge, was marked by the usual verbal tilts that have come to be a part of these meetings. Several months ago a resolution was passed at a town meeting that the selectmen have prepared and printed a list of delinquent taxpayers. It was expected that these lists would be ready for last night's meeting, so that when First Selectman Clark B. Whaley asked for action on the first resolution, which was the annual report of the various officers of the town, Charles Ladden moved as the list of parties in arrears was not ready the reports were not complete and moved that the reports be laid on the table. This was voted down and the reports were accepted. This means that the names of the parties in arrears will be published in phamplet form. Selectman Whaley explained that there was no appropriation with which to pay for the printing of these lists. It is understood that great objection has been raised to this list becoming public and many rather personal remarks were made last night regarding their publication. When the matter of voting on the payment of the town patrolmen came up, Mr. Cook, one of the active workers for the Groton Fire company, objected to voting this money, as the rural population did not receive benefit. The items, however were passed. Some of the other voters present did not see why Groton should help finance the ferryboat, Mohican, plying between Groton and New London, but like the other matters, it was passed. The matter of selling the old building and an acre of land opposite Spicer home, which is a part of that property, was defeated, as the general opinion of the voters was that the building should be torn down and the land continued as a part of the farm. Selectman Whaley was chairman of the meeting. Town Clerk Henry L. Bailey, was absent, so Latham Avery acted as clerk. The following appropriations were made: Maintenance of highways, $25,000; roads in Groton borough, $12,000; roads at Groton Long Point, $5,000; oil for highways of town, $9,500; schools, $120,000; Spicer home and insane, $15,000; administration expenses, salaries, etc., $15,000; interest on town debt $18,000; town court, $2,000; contingent fund, $4,000; repair of town buildings, $1,000; decorating graves of war veterans, $100; state tax, $7,800; military tax, $1,600; county tax, $5,100; town patrolmen, $4,800; payment of town bonds, $16,000; Groton and New London ferry, (estimated), $1,500; compiling next report, $750; state aid roads, $2,500. The selectmen were authorized to make temporary loans not to exceed $350,000. The amount to be raised by taxation is $242,210 and will necessitate the levying of a 25 mill tax.

MAYOR FOX MAY PROTEST DEFECTIVE VOTING MACHINE

(Special to The Bulletin).

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27—There is a possibility that Mayor William C. Fox, who was defeated at the polls yesterday for member of council, will file a protest in connection with the election of Lucius E. Whiton. The returns from the fifth ward show that Whiton received 520 votes. Mayor Fox's contention is that an error was made in some way or other, probably faulty mechanism of one of the two voting machines, for one of the machines showed Fox to be but four votes behind Whiton, while the other showed Whiton to lead Fox by 101 votes. A state statute exists which provides for a machine that is apparently faulty in its mechanism, being tested. Whether this course will be followed remains to be seen.

The funeral of Mrs. Erilla J. Miner, wife of Willis E. Miner, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home in Jordan village, the services being conducted by Rev. Ernest F. Weise, pastor of the Noank Baptist church. Relatives of Mrs. Miner acted as bearers. Burial was in Noank Valley cemetery.

The New London evening school opened for the winter session last night when students received instruction in the Winthrop, Nameaug and Jennings schools. Studies were under the supervision of Principal Fred L. Newton. The attendance was larger than a year ago. Subjects up to and including high school and commercial topics will be taught.

Fire was discovered this morning in the building, 25 Green street, owned by Louis Markow, and occupied as a cobbler shop by Samuel Kaplan. The fire was located on the roof and as the building is decayed the roofing was smouldering rapidly for a brisk wind prevailed. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Chief Thomas Shipman and Nameaug engine company responded. The shingles were ripped away, which made a hole, but it was not necessary even to use chemicals to subdue the fire. It is believed that a careless smoker in the rooming house corner of Golden and Green streets, threw a lighted cigar or cigarette to the roof with the result that the dried and decayed shingles finally ignited.

Lucia T. Chapman was arrested today by Traffic Officer John Courtney, charged with violation of the city's parking ordinances in parking her automobile in restricted area on Golden street.

A Norwich man was arrested here tonight charged with intoxication and he is scheduled for presentation in the police court tomorrow. The man was on Mohegan avenue, near Connecticut College for Women and his actions in prowling about the college dormitories caused annoyance to the occupants. The police were notified of the man's acts and Motorcycle Officer Elwood Bailey and Patrolman William Riordan went to the college grounds and took charge of the man. He is well known in Norwich.

Charles G. Young, 85, Civil war veteran, died last night at his residence, 142 Shaw street, a lodging house conducted by Mrs. Sarah J. Harrington and where Mr. Young had resided for several years. He had been feeble for three years and had been confined to his bed for several months. His only survivor is a step-son, who is a resident of Norwich. Mr. Young was born in New York. He enlisted in the war with the early New York volunteers. At the end of the war he came to Connecticut and for a long time was employed in New London on concrete construction, following that business until advanced years compelled him to abandon labor.

Edward Harper, Norwich, was presented in the Waterford town court last night charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Harper pleaded not guilty, but with the introduction of testimony Judge Fred Dimmock found Harper guilty and imposed a fine of $100 and costs. Harper, through counsel, gave notice of an appeal. The case will now be tried at the next session of the court of common pleas. Harper was arrested during the early morning hours of Sept. 4th by State Police Officer George Sisson after Harper's automobile had sideswiped an auto of John Conway that was parked in Waterford, then went off the highway and through a hedge of Jordah cemetery, only to come to a stop when it knocked down a tombstone. He was arrested by Officer Sisson and locked up in this city. Patrolman William Graham, of New London police department, testified that he was at police headquarters when Harper was locked up and that Harper staggered as he walked through the squad room to go to the cell room. Conway testified that after the accident he went alongside Harper's auto and that Harper's condition indicated that the latter was intoxicated. Conway also stated that Harper's condition "was not bad" and that he did not detect the odor of liquor on Harper.

Breed Theater

One Increasing Purpose, the film version of one of the greatest English novels of the age, comes to the Breed theater for a two days' run beginning today, with Edmund Lowe in the featured role. This is the story of a man and his search for an ideal and for the underlying purpose in life, well told and powerfully enacted.

It is considered by many to be the most powerful novel from the pen of the author, whose, If Winter Comes, created such a sensation both as a book and a picture. Harry Beaumont directed the production.

May Allison, Lila Lee, Holmes Herbert, Huntley Gordon, Lawford Davidson, Emily Fitzroy and Jane Novak are also included in the big all-star cast. Harry Beaumont directed the production for Fox Films.

Wauregan Well Child Conference

Every child should make as rapid and thorough progress in his school work as possible. If he is handicapped at the beginning of his school life by some physical defect, he can hardly be blamed if he fails to pass his grade from year to year. A child who cannot see the blackboard clearly; cannot hear distinctly; who has abscessed teeth or diseased tonsils is not in a position to learn even though he be well taught. A child who suffers from frequent colds and sore throats loses many days of school, which are difficult to make up. Have your children any of these handicaps? Be sure of this by bringing them to the Well Child Conference at Wauregan to be held on Tuesday, afternoon, October 4, in Company hall, from 2 to 4 o'clock, is the advice given by the state department of health.

Dodge Brothers

A beautiful cabriolet roadster is the third body type in Dodge Brothers new line of fours. It is being formally introduced by The Jordan Auto company, local Dodge Brothers dealer, as a companion car to the sedan and coupe which have already attained such widespread popularity since their recent advent.

This cabriolet is typical of the new spirit which has characterized every car introduced this year by Dodge Brothers and is suggestive of the pep and enthusiasm of youth. Its armory green body, low-hung and with the implication of great speed, is attractively designed and makes it fully as striking as anything on the road.

Performance is entirely in keeping with the smart appearance of the car. Few cars can match it in acceleration—0 to 25 miles per hour, through gears, in less than seven seconds—and no American four can pass it no the road.

The top is clamped to the windshield pillars and can be easily and quickly folded down. It is covered with heavy khaki top material which makes a striking color combination with the armory green of the body and the black fenders and shields. The seats are upholstered with green leather to harmonize with the predominent body color.

The rumble seat is wide and the leg room is more than ample for comfort. The cushions are thick and soft and are tilted at an angle which insures tireless riding.

Every convenience is embraced in its equipment which includes rear view mirror, stop light, motor meter, adjustable instrument board lamp, adjustable drum-type headlamps, carburetor control adjustment; ignition switch with theft lock, crank-type window regulators, automatic windshield wiper, cowl ventilator and nickeled bumpers front and rear. The car is equipped wiht five wire wheels.

The windows are of fine plate glass in the new French style and all hardware is of select quality, heavily nickeled.

Palace Theatre

For the last times today, the sure fire show hit that all Norwich is talking about, will be shown. Five exceptionally good acts of vaudeville are presented and each one a real big time hit. The feature act Revue of 1927, a bevy of young folks, six of them, in a fast moving song, dance and comedy bits revue. Four other big acts make this show one of the important topics of conversation. The feature attraction Douglas MacLean in "Soft Cushions" is one of those light farce comedies with plenty of laughs and action all through. The main theme of the story is that Doug falls in love with the sultan's favorite in a harem, and right here we say that we can hardly blame him, for the girl Sue Carol, a new comer in the movie field is one of the most beautiful girls seen on the screen in many a day. You will enjoy this entire performance from start to finish, so don't miss it, and say you were sorry later.

Commencing Thursday for three days another banner vaudeville show has been booked, in connection with the feature screen attraction starring William Haines of Tell It To The Marines fame, in "Spring Fever". This is one of those different kind of film and a story that will thrill you to the core.

Broadway Theatre

Three more times today and the "Rough Riders" will leave Norwich to be shown to other enthusiastic picture fans. Our honest advice is to see it, if you haven't yet done so. What a picture, spontaneously, humorously human. The thrilling days of '98 live once again. The blowing up of "The Maine". The embarkation for Cuba. A beautiful love idyll—two boys and a Texan belle. They're all here!

"Hula" announced for showing at the Broadway tomorrow brings Clara Bow back again. This time, as may be imagined, the star is a girl of the islands who—but you can guess what happens when—oh, what's the use? Clara Bow is starred! Clive Brook is featured! Victor Fleming directed! Paramount produced it and the picture's name is "Hula!" We dare you to stay away!

THE WIDEAWAKE CIRCLE

The following letters were omitted from Tuesday's edition of The Bulletin by error:

A New Suit for a Song

Uncle Jed: Above the door of a big tailoring establishment was a notice to the effect that goods were going "for a mere song." Seeing this, a ragged little lad entered the shop and began to sing, hoping in this way to get a coat to shield him from the cold, for it was winter. Many of the clerks gathered about the child with mocking encouragement. They thought it a joke. At last the head man heard the little urchin and told him to sing in the store.

"But," said the poor youngster, "your notice, sir, says you give clothes for a song. I have sung you a song, now I want the clothes, please, sir."

The tradesman was not only tickled but he was touched for he had a kind heart. He gave orders for the boy to be neatly and warmly clothed and within a few minutes he was attired in a new suit and a warm overcoat. So he really did obtain a suit for a song.

MARY ADELINE WHITELEY, Groton.

Likes Dogs

Dear Uncle Jed: I like dogs way better than cats. You can't have a cat for a pet because they don't like you better than any one else; they have no feeling of love and friendship for you. While a dog, once he becomes attached to you, will never give you up.

EMILE JONES, Age 8.

A Little Girl

Dear Uncle Jed: Once there was a little girl who loved to have someone tell her stories. Her father was a hunter and trapper and he often told his little girl stories of his adventures in the forest. One night he took her on his knee and told her a story something like this:

One night when the snow was falling fast and thick, father set out to look after his traps. It was so dark he could not see anything in front of him, and finally he realized he was lost.

He sank down in the wet earth and fell asleep. Suddenly he awoke and felt something cuddle up close to his side in the darkness. He touched it. It was furry and shaggy.

Soon he fell asleep again and did not awake until he felt the warm body move. He opened his eyes and saw a great wolf get up from his side and move slowly away.

"That was a nice story," said the little girl, as she kissed him good night and went to bed.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks irregular; Chesapeake and Ohio touches new high record.
Bonds quiet; high grade liens firm.
Foreign exchanges mixed.
Cotton firm; unfavorable weather southwest.
Sugar lower; easier spot market.
Coffee higher; firm Brazilian advices.

Chicago

Wheat steady; better cash situation.
Corn weak; absence predicted frost.
Cattle steady to strong.
Hogs lower.

STOCK PRICES FLUCTUATED

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—The stock market alternately blew hot and cold today, with final quotations irregularly higher. An irregular opening was followed by a wave of selling, which carried many leaders down 1 to 2 points, but around midday prices headed upward again under the leadership of General Motors and U. S. Steel. Another sinking spell took place in the early afternoon, but a sharp rally set in during the last four when spirited bidding for Mack Trucks common carried that stock up more than 4 points.

Call money was in plentiful supply all day at the renewal figure of 4 per cent in reflection of the slackening speculative demand and the absence of any further calling of bank loans in preparation for month-end settlements. The brokers' loans figures, due Thursday, continued, however, to provide a subject of wide discussion, because of their probable effect on speculative sentiment.

Steel shares displayed a slightly firmer undertone on reports of a slight increase in mill operations during the past week. Directors of the United States Steel corporation met after the close of the market but failed to elect a successor to the late Elbert H. Gary, as chairman of the board. President James A. Farrell, who presided, reported an improved demand for steel at slightly higher prices. Steel common closed unchanged at 149, after having touched a new low on the current down-swing at 148.

Public utilities again presented several points of strength with buying stimulated by merger rumors and reports of expanding earnings. New high prices in that group were registered by American & Foreign Power, American Water Works, Commonwealth Power, Electric Power & Light and North American company. American Power & Light was heavily bought in the last hour, one block of 8500 shares changing hands at 70 after which the stock mounted to a new peak at 70 1-2.

Although many traders were absent in observance of the Jewish holidays, pools marked up a number of specialties to new high records. Indian Motorcycle, Packard Motors, American Chicle, William Wrigley, Cushman's Bakery and U. S. Leather Class A and preferred all broke through to new peaks. Philip Morris and Remington-Rand sank to new low levels for the year.

Rails held up well in the face of the publication of relatively poor August earnings statements by Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central. Van Sweringen issues developed special strength, Chesapeake & Ohio common touching a new high for all time at 199.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Except for corn, which closed about 4 cents a bushel on the failure of expected to develop in corn crop territory, most of the principal commodity markets displayed a firm undertone.

Foreign exchanges were slightly reactionary. A drop of nearly 15 points in Spanish pesetas to around 17.45 cents was the only feature.

GREENEVILLE

A number of pastors of local churches are in receipt of the following letter from S. Parks Cadman, president of the Church and Drama association:

"Every thoughtful religious reader is aware of the great influence the drama is exerting on the attitude and ideals of his people, especially the youth of his congregation. The theater has a rightful and necessary place in our civilization; but it must be guided and controlled, if it is not to undermine the foundation of society. The Church and Drama association has been organized to secure concerted effort in the interest of wholesome drama on the stage and screen. The "King of Kings" is an outstanding example of what may be accomplished when the churches are prepared to deal directly and concertedly with the motion picture industry. We want more such plays and pictures that inspire and instruct while they entertain. We can get them if we all work together. It gives me great pleasure to write you to join with us in this important work

"We shall undertake to send you a weekly bulletin giving information about plays and pictures worth seeing and recommending to your congregation; to supply you information relative to religious plays and pageants suitable for use in your church and to place the facilities of the association at your service; to make your interest and effort in the cause of wholesome drama count in association with others. As the work expands there will be added membership privileges.

"The invitation is to everyone irrespective of creed or communion. Let us work together. Help us by suggesting persons for membership."

Rev. George Reid Andrews is executive director of the association; Hon. John W. Davis, honorary president, and Alvin Krech, treasurer. The above letter was used in conjunction with the Christian Endeavor topic being discussed in the local churches this month, "What's Wrong and What's Right with the Movies?"

Judgment for the plaintiff, Almeda Glynn of New London to recover $520 and costs from the Winthrop Trust Co., the defendant, as administrator of the estate of the late Phoebe Touchette, formerly of that city, was given in a decision made by Acting Judge S. Victor Prince in the court of common pleas here Monday.

The plaintiff sued for $1,000, basing the claim on alleged furnishing of board and lodging to Phoebe Touchette from August 15, 1923, to August 15, 1924, at the rate of $10 per week.

Judge Prince rendered judgment in favor of the defendants, William Suriski and his wife, Mary, both of East Lyme. The action was in a right of way dispute. Dennis Savitsky a neighbor, was the other party to the dispute. Judge Prince ordered that a temporary injunction, issued in favor of Savitsky by Judge Charles B. Waller, be vacated. The right of way under dispute is located on the highway which connects Chesterfield and Flanders.

FIELD SECRETARY ORR TO BE SPEAKER AT DINNER

Fred W. Orr, field secretary of the Connecticut chamber of commerce will address the Norwich chamber campaign organization forces at the opening dinner on Friday evening, Sept. 30, at 6:30, according to an announcement made by General Arthur M. Brown, commander-in-chief. This dinner will mark the opening of a campaign for $11,000, the amount of the chamber of commerce budget for the coming twelve months.

The total personnel of 55 workers, captains and division heads are to be present on this occasion as the prospect cards will be distributed and the final plans for the campaign explained.

The officers and directors of the chamber feel particularly gratified to have the acceptance of "Dave" Harvard to act as song leader in the coming chamber expansion campaign.

Mr. Harvard did a considerable amount of this work during the war in army camps and attained unusual success; later he became associated in Y. M. C. A. work as the boys' secretary in the Ithaca, N. Y., association, where his reputation gathered momentum. About five years ago he accepted an invitation to take charge of the "Activities" of the Baptist Temple in Rochester, as an assistant to the Rev. Clinton Wunder, the minister who attracted so much attention in promoting a ten story combined church and office building in the "Heart of Rochester."

Mr. Harvard is in great demand through New York state as a song leader in business men's luncheons, campaigns and community affairs.

For the last two years he has had charge of the singing in the Newark, N. J., and Rochester, N. Y., community chest campaigns, leading over 1100 workers in enthusiastic singing.

In Norwich Mr. Harvard will be supported at the piano by "Pete" Ethier, thus assuring excellent accompaniment.

He will arrive in Norwich in time for the opening dinner of the campaign workers, which occurs on Friday evening, and will be here until the campaign closes the following Wednesday evening.

STATE UNIVERSALIST BOARD WELCOMES NAT'L CONVENTION

In connection with the coming to Connecticut of the Universalist General Convention, the following has been issued by the Connecticut Universalist Convention of which Edwin A. Tracy of this city is president and Rev. A. Norwood Foster secretary and state superintendent, whose signatures are appended to the welcome:

"The executive board of the Connecticut Universalist Convention wishes to supplement and to emphasize the invitation of the Hartford church, in welcoming the approaching sessions of the Universalist General Convention in our Capitol city, October 14th to the 23rd inclusive.

"It is not often that the moving tent of our denominational leadership is pitched in the Land of Steady Habits.

"Yet, dwellers in Connecticut believe they share a distinctive and a goodly heritage. In the past, perhaps most persons have made mention of the state because of the exceptional skill of the people in mechanical invention. But that is only a part of our story!

"The founders of Connecticut—Hooker and Haynes and Davenport and Winthrop had a genius for state craft.

"Our educators and men of letters from Noah Webster and Timothy Dwight and Dudley Warner to Ichabod Crane and Mark Twain were men or renown and where shall education find more beautiful art for her habitation than the Harkness memorial at Yale!

"Connecticut preachers and theologians have ranked foremost—Jonathan Edwards and Lorenzo Dow and the Beecher family and Horace Bushnell and Theodore Munger. They were men of light and leading in their day and eloquent in their teachings. Perhaps it was the current theology which then attracted the fathers in our Zion to do battle with Calvinism in this state.

"Ethanan Winchester at Hartford; the Ballous at Stafford; Murray and the Whittemores at Norwich—all did heroic service and left names to be honored beyond their own generations. In later days, that enthusiastic layman P. T. Barnum and that gifted preacher J. Smith Dodge and that scholarly pastor J. Coleman Adams bore stalwart testimony to a holy cause.

"Within our day, ten Connecticut boys have entered the Universalist ministry.

"To day we have ten churches in the state—including the merger Unitarian Universalist church at New London.

"We all stand by and with Hartford in bidding the Universalists from near from far welcome to our state and our heritage; to our Zion with her treasures of faith and courage to our homes and our friendships. "Thrice welcome to the strangers within our gates!

PLAN LOCAL OBSERVANCE OF FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Following a custom which has become nation wide, the week from October 9th to 15th, 1927, will be observed throughout the country as Fire Prevention Week. As a part of the programme of local observance the committee on fire prevention recently appointed by President James L. Case of the Norwich chamber of commerce, composed of Walter F. Lester, chairman, Charles S. Twist, Chief Howard L. Stanton, Ebenezer Learned and Frank A. Aubrey, announces the acceptance of Major J. H. Howland, engineer of the national board of fire underwriters to speak here at a dinner in the Wauregan hotel Friday evening, October 14, at 6.15 p. m.

The object of national fire prevention week is to indicate to the public the extent of our national fire loss to life and property, point out the social and economic significance of this waste and indicate sound methods for reducing it. Although hundreds of communities have recognized the desirability of undertaking continuous fire prevention programms as evidenced by the enrollment of 550 commercial organizations in the inter chamber fire waste contest, fire prevention week is the one period in the year when the attention of the entire American people is concentrated on this important problem. In the cities conducting continuous programs the week is the starting point of the year's activities. Numerous projects which cannot be consummated in a single week are begun and later carried through to completinon because of the impetus they have received as a result of the favorable public opinion aroused during the week.

With each passing year there is a more widespread observance of fire prevention week throughout the nation. During the past few years the local programs have become more diversified and, as a consequence, more people have been reached. That these efforts have had results is indicated from the fact that last year 30 cities of more than 20,000 population did not suffer a single fire loss during the week, exclusive of automobiles on the streets. Numerous others reported losses considerably below their wekly average for the year. These splendid results more than justify the time and effort which were expended in preparing and carrying out the local programs. They show conclusively that fire losses can be reduced if proper methods are adopted. What can be done in a single week may well be accomplished throughout the year and it is because of this that the National Fire Waste council and the insurance department of the chamber of commerce of the United States are promoting the Inter-Chamber Fire Waste Contest which is on a continuous year-round basis.

The chamber of commerce has an opportunity to render a beneficial service to its membership and the public at large by assuming the leadership in the local fire prevention week programme.

Other items on the programm of the committee include:

Schools — Co-operation with the schools in distributing 2,500 home inspection blanks to the pupils and a special fire drill demonstration on Friday, Oct. 14, the day Major Howland visits Norwich.

Churches—To request the clergy to make special mention of campaign in their sermons.

Publicity — Co-operation with the newspapers in publishing news articles and general items of interest bearing on fire prevention week.

Mayor—Respectfully requesting the mayor to issue a special proclamation, thereby rendering official sanction to the program.

Luncheon Clubs—Co-operation with the luncheon clubs in devoting a part of their program to this subject during fire prevention week.

Court Heard Case in Chambers

A West Side young woman who has some reputation as a radio singer had a young man, a neighbor, summoned to court Monday night as she charged he had called her an uncomplimentary name and struck her. The case was heard in chambers and the court decided that both were equally to blame and the accused was discharged. It is said the trouble started when the radio singer passed unpleasant remarks about a girl with whom the young man is keeping company.

The minister at the First Baptist church, Rev. E. C. Dunbar has received a gift of $5.00 to start a fund to purchase an out-door bulletin board.

TROOPERS AND DETECTIVES ARE HUNTING FOR BEACH

Wanted on a Charge of Aiding and Abetting in the Slaying of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl at Hammonton, N. J.—Prosecutor Said That Beach Would Be Arrested on Sight—Refused to Make Any "Deal" With Beach's Counsel For the Man's Return—Mrs. Lilliendahl Voices Every Confidence in the Missing Man.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 28—(AP)—Willis Beach, South Vineland poultry raiser, wanted on a charge of aiding and abetting in the slaying of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl on September 15, remained in hiding today while his attorney and the county prosecutor's office issued statements defending their stands.

The warrant for Beach's arrest was issued yesterday when officers were unable to find him at his home. He was free on $5,000 bail as material witness.

"Beach has not fled the jurisdiction of the court, and will be present whenever the courts want him," said Edison Hedges, of Atlantic City, his counsel. "His bond as a material witness does not say that he shall be produced before the state police or county authorities at any time."

Prosecutor Louis Repetto of Atlantic county, on the other hand, said Beach would be arrested on sight and that he would not make any "deal" with Beach's counsel for the man's return.

While Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, widow of the slain physician, who is under $25,000 bail as a material witness, received friends at the little cottage in South Vineland where she lived with her husband and their eight year old son, Mrs. Beach told newspapermen today that she had every confidence in the missing man.

Detectives searching for the missing poultry man, visited two islands in Lenape Lake, four miles north of Mays Landing, today. One of the islands was the site of a little, old hunting shack in which Beach lived the life of a hermit for two years. The shack was destroyed by fire some time ago. The detectives, who traveled to the island by motor boat, found the mark of the keel of a canoe and footprints in the sand at the edge of the water. They said the marks had been made within 24 hours.

Twenty state troopers and county detectives continued the hunt.

CLAIM GIRL BANDIT HAD NO SENSE OF RIGHT OR WRONG

GEORGETOWN, Tex., Sept. 28—(AP)—Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers, 22-year-old former co-ed, who is alleged to have robbed a bank and planned the robbery of another while she was working for a master of arts degree at the University of Texas, had no sense of right or wrong, alienists testified here today in her trial on a charge of arson.

The testimony of the experts was corroborated by Otis Rogers, young lawyer and former Texas university student, whose marriage to the defendant was repealed after her arrest last December.

Testimony was concluded today and the fate of the young woman will be placed in the hands of the jury tomorrow.

"Delusions of grandeur," "grandoise gestures" and "an enlarged egoism" were some of the terms used by defense witnesses today in describing the defendant's mental condition. Several experts testified she suffered from dementia praecox.

"She simply isn't there," was the way Dr. Max Handman, Texas university professor and criminologist, summed it up for the jury.

CROSS-EXAMINATION OF REED ON MURDER CHARGE

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 28—(AP)—Herman A. Reed of Waterbury, Conn., was subjected to an afternoon of searching cross-examination by Attorney William J. McDonald for Leo Nolin who is on trial here with Reed for the murder of William H. Griffin in his Haverhill store last March. Miss Mary Cwiklie, Suffield, Conn., self-professed sweetheart of Nolin, is charged as an accessory.

McDonald attempted to break down the story Reed told under direct examination that he had driven Nolin to South Groveland to visit the latter's parents and that he had thought Nolin had gone into the store to make a purchase until he ran out and said he had shot a man. Reed evaded so many questions with the statement "I don't remember" that McDonald asked him if his memory was faulty. "I am bothered sometimes by headaches," replied the defendant. Attorney McDonald indicated that he would have further questions to ask Reed when the trial resumes tomorrow.

REPORT ON CONN. RIVER POWER DEVELOPMENT

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 28—(AP)—Connecticut river hydroelectric development has reached a point where a recent survey of power development has led engineers in the employ of electric companies interested to report on the possibilities of a dam and storage reservoir at Dalton, N. H., or possibly elsewhere which would impound 54,000,000,000 gallons of water and cost about $35,000,000. Such a dam would give a power head of nearly 80 feet, according to the wholly tentative plans outlined today by an official of one of the companies interested. How the project would be carried out, if at all, or by whom, the future would have to decide.

An official of the Western Massachusetts companies, holding concern for numerous companies in this vicinity, said that his company is not initiating the proposed impounding project, though if the plan were carried out his company would naturally assume its share of the cost and participate in the profits.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 28—(AP)—Maybe, Swedish entry in the Scandinavian Gold Cup six-meter yacht races, today won the fourth race of the series and now leads the two other survivors out of a field of eight competing nations, two races to one each by the Noreg of Norway and the Merenneito of Finland.

Maybe covered the 12-mile course in 52 seconds better time than the Noreg, which finished second. The Merenneito was hopelessly out of the running, being two minutes, 50 seconds astern of the Maybe.

The boats sailed in a moderate northeast breeze and Maybe covered the choppy course in two hours, seven minutes, 16 seconds.

PROTEST SEIZURE OF RUM SHIP ON BRITISH WATERS

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 28—(AP)—The British colonial secretary at Nassau, Bahamas, has been informed that seizure of a rum boat off Gun Key a few days ago by a United States Coast Guard cutter occurred within the limits of British territorial waters, belated radio advices said today.

The dispatches also related that C. H. Nesle, an American, arrested in connection with the seizure, had been taken from Bimini to Nassau under escort for trial on charges of larceny from a ship and receiving stolen goods. He was given a preliminary hearing by a magistrate who committed him for trial at the seat of government.

Testimony at the hearing was that the seizure occurred about one mile off Gun Key light, it was said. Ensign E. E. Hahn, commanding the coast guard base at Fort Lauderdale, has admitted that Nesle was aboard the cutter which made the capture, but guardsmen declared the seizure was made twelve miles off Gun Key, well within the terms the treaty with Great Britain relative to such seizures.

Hahn has declared that Nesle was acting as pilot aboard the cutter. The Nassau advices stated that the colonial secretary had ben informed that "the man said to have been in command of the cutter at the time of the attack was an American named Nesle."

It was further related that Nesle had attempted to escape from the jail at Bimini, but had returned after breaking out because he feared violence.

TILSON HOPES COOLIDGE WILL BE THE REP. CHOICE

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—Hope that the Republican National convention will draft President Coolidge as its candidate to succeed himself expressed today by Senator John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, in an address before the School of Politics at the Women's Republican club.

"It was with real regret that I read the president's statement that he did not choose to run," Senator Tilson said, "but I know that he means exactly what he said. It would be gratifying, however, to see the next Republican National convention issue such a mandate that Calvin Coolidge, the republican patriot, could not disregard it."

The senator praised the president's "sound common sense and political courage" and recalled in some detail the accomplishments of his party during the years since the administration of President Harding began. The party, he declared, may pin its hopes on that record in the election next year.

Summing up this season's apparent production and returns, the department said "it can probably be called an average for the south; for the wheat belt, a good year in the north and a fair year in the south; for the corn belt, a fair year in the west but a poor year in the east; for the far west, a good year in the range states and Pacific northwest."

AWAIT TARIFF DECISION BY FRENCH GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Delay until next week at the request of the French government of publication of the Franco-American tariff correspondence announced today at the state department, created an impression in Washington that a definite decision by the Paris government was to be expected probably by Saturday on its policy as to commercial duty negotiations with the United States.

There was no advance intimation as to what reply is to be expected on the reiterated American proposal for a treaty based on most favored nation treatment with which the French suggestion for a reciprocity tariff agreement was countered.

34 Catholics Killed In Jalisco, Mexico

A Priest Was Captured, Summarily Courtmartialed and Executed.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. [illegible] ty-four rebellious "[illegible]anatics" were killed and [illegible] priest, Father Sedano [illegible]ured and summarily co[illegible]alled and executed after two [illegible] combats with federal troops in the state of Jalisco, according to a bulletin issued by the presidential bureau tonight.

One corporal and two soldiers were killed and one officer and nine soldiers wounded.

The report of the affrays was received from Military Commandant Ferreira.

The first fight took place at Los Meequites, where 38 rebels, headed by Sadano and another chieftain named Placencia, were entrenched. This fight lasted four hours, and 14 rebels were killed and two captured and executed. The others fled, Sadano being taken by the troops and later shot.

The second engagement lasted three hours, after 250 rebels, commanded by Alberto Parajas, Francisco Losa, Florencio Zaragoza and Jesus Nunes, attacked federal troops under Colonel Ortis Sevila at Portezuelo. The rebels were dispersed and fled to the mountains, abandoning 18 dead and many wounded.

NO BEAUTIFUL WOMEN THREE CENTURIES HENCE?

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—It will be a sad world indeed in two or three centuries, for present indications are that there will be practically no beautiful or brilliant women, wrote Ellsworth Huntington of Yale university and Leon F. Whitney, executive secretary of the Eugenics Society of America, in a book, "The Builders of America," published today.

This is but an aspect, they said, of the alarming decline in birthrate among the grainworker or builder class. In five generations 200 fathers of the brainworker type will leave but 28 descendants, while an equal number of unskilled workers will leave 472. Unless something is done, their statistical studies revealed, to check this present trend, through which the creative, artistic and imaginative faculties of the race are said to be dying out.

The follies girl and the college girl have been equally remiss in failing to have children, the authors found, of 800 follies girls they have found but 300 married and only 25 were known to have children. The average child per graduate of 2,204 Vassar graduates was but one and one-tenth.

Mr. Huntington and Mrs. Whitney reached a conclusion directly opposite from the common argument that the upper class is being constantly built up from the lower classes. A study of "who's who" indicated that those who rise from the lower classes are usually childless or have very small families, they said.

They found kitchenette apartments and difficult economic conditions for professional workers among primary causes for the decline of the biological vigor of the creative class.

Employers will find it profitable to train workers, in capacitated by injury for their job, for other work, he continued, and pointed out that a truck driver who had lost a leg was trained in telegraphy; a foreign speaking laborer who lost an arm was trained to become an interpreter and a girl punch press operator who lost two fingers and became a file clerk.

German Aviatrix in Crash at Quincy, Mass

Miss Rasche Was Reported Uninjured, But Propeller of Plane Was Smashed.

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 28—(AP)—Thea Rasche, daring young German aviatrix, escaped unhurt today when her plane tipped on its nose in making a forced landing in a field near the Dennison Airport here. A broken propeller and a bent wing were the extent of the damages to the machine.

Flying 2,000 feet above Neponset the motor in her Flamingo bi-plane went dead. In an effort to start it she went into a nose dive but the engine failed to pick up and she banked over the field, missing the hangars by a few feet. A crowd gathered on the airport grounds left no space for a landing without danger of injury to some of the spectators and she headed for a swampy field nearby.

The wheels of the plane stuck in the soft ground and the machine tipped up on its nose. Miss Rasche was unhurt and climbed from the plane unaided.

CHARGED WITH POISONING DAUGHTER OF RECTOR

ENID, Okla., Sept. 28—(AP)—Evidence to show affectionate relations existed between the Rev. Charles Bailey, Episcopal minister, and Miss Mary Atkinson, 26 year old nurse, was introduced today at the preliminary hearing of the young woman on a charge of poisoning the rector's 18 year old daughter, Mary Jane.

Stewart Bailey, brother of the dead girl, testified that on more than one occasion he saw the nurse kiss the father, this was soon after the death of the minister's wife, which preceded that of Mary Jane by less than two weeks.

Three doctors, testifying for the state, asserted that Mary Jane Bailey showed symptoms of having been administered an overdose of mixed drugs. The girl died early this month after being attended by Miss Atkinson.

The state alleges Miss Atkinson killed Mary Jane because the 18 year old girl objected to the nurse's attentions to Dr. Bailey.

Young Bailey who is 16 years old, answering reluctantly questions asked by Dan Mitchell, Garfield county attorney, said that he first saw the nurse kiss his father the night after his mother's funeral. The three sat on the edge of a bed and discussed plans for the future, Stewart Bailey said.

Later, the youth said, he was forced to go to his work, leaving the two alone.

The youth was asked by the state if he recalled a conversation with Miss Atkinson about deaths in his family.

"What did Mis Atkinson do after your mother died?" the boy was asked.

"She was in the home several days after she died. She tried to get meals and to take charge of the house."

Mis Atkinson sat calmly through the hearing. She frequently laughed and talked with her brother, Harry Atkinson.

AMERICAN LEGIONNAIRES WELCOMED IN ROME

ROME, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Rome extended open arms today to the 260 members of the American legion headed by National Commander Howard P. Savage, who made the pilgrimage to the Eternal city. The celebration of the legionnaires visit took on various forms, in which the friendship of Italy for America was warmly demonstrated.

First came a solemn ceremony at the tomb of the unknown soldier, to which the legionnaires marched through streets where the stars and stripes and the Italian tri-color were lavishly entwined. Detachments of infantry, cavalry, artillery, the aviation corps and naval men, with the lines of fascist militia in their black shirts, flanked the Piazza Venezia where the tomb stands.

The most picturesque reception of the day was at St. Peter's, where Pope Pius greeted the legionnaires, addressed them in his paternal manner and gave them his blessing.

C., Assistant Secretary Lowman of the treasury department today ordered suspended the order recently issued transferring the office force and official records of the office for issuance of permissive orders for use of industrial alcohol and medicinal whiskey from Hartford to Boston.

Captain Parker, the regional administrator at Boston, was notified to that effect and advised that the Hartford office will remain status quo until an arrangement can be effected that is satisfactory to the legitimate users of alcohol and whiskey in Connecticut.

When the treasury department recently ordered Connecticut separated from jurisdiction of the New York office and placed under control of the Boston headquarters, the Connecticut concerns doing business with the Hartford office protested. They renewed their protest when orders were later issued for transfer of the organization at Hartford to Boston.

Last Monday representatives of several Connecticut manufacturers who are large users of permissive spirits went to Washington and made a personal protest to the prohibition authorities.

The aid of Senator Hiram Bingham was solicited. Senator Bingham had a long conversation with Assistant Secretary Lowman by telephone from Connecticut this morning, during which he protested against the re-organization move. A little later, Assistant Secretary Lowman issued the order suspending the previous order until a plan can be worked out that is satisfactory to the people of Connecticut.

BATTLE FLAG RETURNED TO STATE OF FLORIDA

MARIANNA, Fla., Sept. 28—(AP)—Another epic in the swiftly closing annals of the blue and the gray was witnessed tonight when federal veterans from Ohio returned to survivors of a Florida Confederate brigade a tattered flag wrested at the battle of Franklin, Tenn., November 30, 1864.

The flag, torn by shot and shell and stained with the blood of soldiers of both North and South, was formally presented by Colonel W. W Alcorn, Toledo, Ohio, who with two comrades, Eli Bourdo and Judge E. D. Potter, are three of the six survivors of the old Fourteenth Ohio Infantry which fought at Franklin and followed Sherman on his historic march through Georgia.

Presenting the torn flag, the aged federal veteran reverently said: "This flag has been bathed in the blood of both the North and the South. Because it was taken within our lines, behind our own breastworks, we have prized its possession highly. Tonight, however, our pleasure in returning it to the men whose courage we had cause to admire, and incidentally, were forced to respect, is greater than our pride in its possession."

The presentation exercises climaxed the annual reunion of confederate veterans.

ZODIAC TELLS HIM OF NO HAPPINESS IN MARRIAGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—Although the stars guided Captain Victor Rogers safely at sea, they stranded his matrimonial venture on the rocks of a separation suit here today.

A study of astrology convinced the sea captain he could never be happy in matrimony, it was declared at the hearing of the suit brought by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy B. Rogers. When awarded a decree, the wife advised girls to marry men who do not know the difference between Venus and Mars.

"The stars are against us and we can never be happy," an affidavit introduced at the hearing quoted the captain as saying. "I'm through with married life. I have read the message of the stars. I was born September 4 and Dorothy was born October 11. The Zodiac is dead against me and there can be no love between Dorothy and myself."

FAIRFIELD, Me., Sept. 28—(AP)—President Coolidge was praised for "the impetus given to prohibition enforcement legislation" in his message at the beginning of the second half of the 69th congress by Mrs. Althea G. Quimby of North Turner in her address as president at the opening of the Maine Women's Christian Temperance union annual convention today.

Tribute was paid to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who was honored by kings and countries, she said, not wholly because he spanned the Atlantic alone by air, but because he is "an outstanding example of American manhood." His reply "I do not drink," she thought brought him respect and honor, and did much to inspire the young men of the world with the value of total abstinence.

DEATH OF JOHN FORD, BROTHER OF HENRY FORD

DETROIT, Sept. 28—(AP)—A victim of heart failure that had troubled him for weeks, John Ford, wealthy real estate operator and brother of Henry Ford, died alone in an unoccupied cottage in Fordson last night. The body, lying on a bed left in the cottage by its last tenant, was found shortly before six o'clock this morning by Fordson police and Robert W. Ford, a son, who began search when Mr. Ford failed to return to his home from a meeting of the Fordson city council, of which he was president.

The cottage, recently purchased by Mr. Ford is but a few squares from the Ford homestead, and it is believed Mr. Ford went to the place to inspect it when he was stricken.

Pending the formality of a post mortem examination, the body was held today in an undertaking establishment in Dearborn. It later will be removed to the Ford home where funeral services are to be held Friday, with burial in Grand Law cemetery, not far from the spot where William and Mary Litegot Ford settled when they came to the United States from Ireland, and where Henry and William Ford were born.

Charles T. Earl, deputy coroner, who inspected the body, and Mr. Ford's physician, Dr. A. L. Sherwood joined in the opinion that death was due solely to heart disease. There were no marks of violence on the body.

Besides his brothers, Henry and William Ford, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Ruddiman, he is survived by his widow and three children.

BREAK IN PRICES ON N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Advancing prices on the New York stock exchange were abruptly arrested today when a wave of selling was launched, presumably by "bear" traders in the last hour. Losses of $2 to more than $5 a share were sustained by a number of stocks which had recorded gains of $1 upward.

As on numerous occasions in the past, the old stock of General Motors corporation was the storm-center, being carried up to $266.75 a share in the morning, breaking suddenly to $258.75, and closing only a little above that figure. These shares will be stricken from the list on Oct. 8. The new stock, which closely follows the movement of the old, also had an up and down experience. U. S. Steel common sold as high as 150 1-2, and as low as 146 5-8.

Because of the current uncertainty of prices in the stock market many investors transferred their activities to the bond trade, and the market for mortgages displayed hte greatest activity in several days.

While labor union troubles wage merrily on on the contsruction job of the state training school on Valley street, automobile traffic continues to be barred off that section of Valley street between High and Windham streets. It is now over seven weeks ago that Valley street was dug up to allow the laying of large steam pipes fro mthe Normal school boiler rooms to the site of the new building. The digging got by the board O. K., but when the workmen started to lay the steam pipes the labor union representative called a halt. The actual cause of the difficulty has not been ferreted out because it does not concern the average citizen. What does concern all is the fact that Valley street remains closed and there are no immediate prospects of relief. It is understood that the main contract has been let to a non-union contractor, this fact forbidding union workers from installing the steam system.

Said Elmer Wood to Frank Stone while on a hunting trip in the Canadian Rockies.

Martin Johnson,
Famous African Explorer,
writes:

"While trailing big game in Africa, I have never been without my Lucky Strike Cigarette. Once on the Abyssinian border my shipment of them from America missed us, and I was miserable until the natives followed our tracks across the Kaisout desert to Nairobi with my precious cargo of Luckies. After 4 years of smoking Luckies in wildest Africa, I find my voice in perfect condition for my lecture tour in America."

Martin Johnson

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON SEEMS SATISFIED WITH OVERLAND MAIL SERVICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 28—It was not indicated today that Danielson will be largely represented at the conference to be held in Norwich Thursday between rwepresentatives of eastern Connecticut towns and cities relative to what may be done about restoring train service, curtailed by the removal of two trains on the New Haven road this week. However, the local chamber of commerce likely will have someone at the gathering to represent Danielson's interests, which now are largely concerned with obtaining a more adequate express service.

The new overland mail service is now running smoothly, getting here southbound daily on schedule time and returning from New London on the north-bound trip to Worcester about 4 p. m. This gives Danielson approximately the same mail service as it obtained before the removal of the two trains of which mention has been made.

The first day of the open season for hunting protected game birds this year is expected to bring a great exodus of gunners, something less than a division of troops in eastern Connecticut, because the first day will be on a Saturday—October 8—and because it is a half or full holiday for hundreds of workers.

Advance reports would tend to indicate that there is a plentiful supply of pheasants and many woodcock and partridge about. This does not mean that the latter are as plentiful as in days of yore, but that there will be some good hunting while the flocks are intact. Probably foliage will bother the gunners during the early days of the hunting season, at least that is the prospect as September draws to a close.

Checkers of the trend of things political assert that there will be plenty of split tickets to be counted next Monday evening after the day's balloting for selectmen is completed. One hears of about every possible combination for voting for selectmen. Of course, there will be plenty of straight tickets, but the interest centers in the effect of the splitting that is being planned for. As the republican nominees for selectmen John A. Gilbert and Napoleon P. Gingras, Dayville, are certain of a strong and straight support from their party. This also applies to A. D. Sayles, East Killingly and John Ryan, Dayville, the democratic nominees. However, here are some of the split combinations one hears about: Gilbert and Sayles, Gilbert and Ryan; Gingras and Ryan, Gingras and Sayles. Then there are those, it is forecasted, who will vote for but one candidate for selectman. If reports are accurate a great deal of splitting will be done by voters in the second district, which has two candidates in the field, one of these on each ticket. Regularly in the past, having the nominal party majority, the republican candidates for selectmen have survived all the splitting bees and have been elected. There is nothing to indicate at this time that this will not be the case this year. But three of he four candidaes can be elected, however, and that's what makes the splitting such an interesting matter.

There appears today a growing in-clination among citizens to favor the plan of naming at the annual town meeting next Monday afteroon a committee to represent Killingly in a conference with State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald relative to route for the Providence-Hartford trunk line out of Danielson in preference to widening Reynolds street, as the highway department has planned to do.

The proposal this committee would be enabled to present to the commissioner is feasible as to the new route and would do away with the cutting down of trees, tearing up of sidewalks and cutting back of lawns in the process of widening Reynolds street.

If the commissioner should accept the plan, the carrying out of it would be wholly at the expense of the state and th town would benefit by the opening up of a new prospective residential section, the relief of the Reynolds street traffic problem and in other ways.

Rev. Charles A. Downs, who had been ill for a few days preceding, conducted the service at the Goodyear church Sunday morning and preached on the text Psa 34:3 "O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt His name together." Church attendance as a benefit to one's self was the theme developed. It was brought out that the church attendance at Goodyear was one-third greater last year than during the year before, and it is hoped to be increased still more this year.

This morning Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department made a test of the water pressure at the fire hydrant in Main street, near the Danielson Trust company building. A few days ago the Crystal Water company turned the water through its new line of main running from Killingly Center down to Elmville, and it was to determine the effect of this change on the water pressure that Chief Woodward made today's test. He found the test reading at approximately the same figure as with the old line of mains—55 pounds at the particular point mentioned.

For the first time since July an alarm came in at 7:25 last evening and called out the fire department. The call was from box 212, and for a dump fire in the vicinity of Judd avenue. The fire caused no damage and the department members were back in quarters at 7.40.

PUTNAM

WATER BOARDS ASKS FOR SPECIAL CITY MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 28.— The water commissioners at a special meeting of the city council held last evening asked that a city meeting be called to see if the voters would authorize the building at once of the two steel reservoir tanks provided for in the plans adopted for the following reasons:

First, economy; that one tank would cost $60,000 and the two $90,000 under the bids they had secured.

Second, that it meet the insurance exchange's requirements of not less than 1,600,000 gallons, as each tank would hold but 1,000,000 gallons.

Third, that the second tank could be completed this fall or winter, but that the one on the east side of the Little River, could not be because the streets could not be torn up during that season.

Fourth, that the council committee and the commissioners had agreed to carry out the recommendations of the arbitration committee and that they had recommended the building of two tanks.

The request of the water commissioners was refused by the council by a vote of four to three, two of the city Alderman not being present.

The four members voting against the meeting based their action on the ground that one tank would provide as much water as is necessary at present for the needs of the city and that the additional $30,000 would probably mean that the water rentals, already high, would have to be increased.

The committee's reply was that the recommendation of the arbitrators was for two tanks, providing the council felt justified in granting it. C. D Sharpe, who was one of the committee said, that the committee's conclusion was for two tanks to be built at once and that the proviso, "if the council saw fit to grant it" was for the other suggested improvements of additional mains, hydrants, etc., and that the council's committee so understood it.

Aldermen Richard and Rogers insisted that they were complying with the report as drawn, that they felt the city could not afford the additional expense and that they did not feel justified in taking any action that might raise the water rates. Ralph E. Thurston, who was one of the members of the committee, agreed with Mr. Sharpe that there had been an understanding between the council's committee and the arbitration committee that two tanks should be built, and that the last clause of the proviso referred only to additional improvements. Samuel Reynolds, the third member of the arbitration committee, was not present at the meeting last night, but he agreed to the statements of Mr. Sharpe and Mr. Thurston, that the understanding had been that two tanks were to be erected.

Between the calling of the city council to order and the taking of the vote there was more than two hours of spirited discussion in which both sides at times were rather acrimonious, as when Commissioner Gilman charged the special water committee of the council with breaking faith. That they had agreed to abide by the decision of the arbitration committee which had recommended two tanks and then gone back on their word. It is a matter of regret that the members of these two important bodies cannot agree on this vital question. As the matter now stands it makes an unfortunate situation.

JEWETT CITY

JOHN BARNETT TO MANAGE THE FINN THEATRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 28—Beginning Monday the Finn theater will be conducted by a new management. John Barnett, one of the legal heirs of the Finn estate, which included this theater, has leased and taken over from the several other owners the exclusive rights of manager. Mr. Barnett in the outlining of his plans for future productions which will be given under newly arranged attractive conditions, has had the benefit derived from several months of theater experience as manager of one of the popular motion picture houses in Boston. Mr. Barnett's plans first included a new back rail on the main floor, which will effectually shut off any draft from the central entrance in front of the box office. Contracts have been closed for a part of the new fall season's pictures, which include a long list of top-liners. Such leaders as Rookies and Twelve Miles Out, will be shown at popular prices. From time to time Mr. Barnett has plans to introduce a number of the best road entertainments, and bookings already include several leading companies. In no town twice the size of Jewett City will there be found a better and cleaner place of amusement.

Dr. George H. Jennings, health officer of Griswold has prepared his report for the year, which includes the items:

Communicable diseases—There were reported one case lobar pneumonia, 5 cases scarlet fever, 18 cases whooping cough, one case pulmonary tuberculosis, 4 cases measles and one case syphilis.

Finance—For control of communicable diseases, $40.50; school inspection, $15; all other sources (unclassified), $32.70; total $88.20.

Antitoxin — Diphtheria antitoxin, diphtheria toxin-antitoxin, tetanus antitoxin and solution silver nitrate is furnished by the state board of health and is kept on ice ready for use by all physicians.

Water—Inspector of the watershed is favorable. Samples of water sent to the state laboratory were found safe for domestic use.

Milk—A strong effort is being made by the state board of health and the dairy commissioner to improve the milk supply of Connecticut. This state has been the dumping ground of other states of tuberculous cattle. Of the cattle tested 40 per cent, nearly one half, had tuberculosis. Children may acquire tuberculosis, and often do, by using milk from infected cattle. To reach this condition of better milk, three things have ben proposed, to have all milk dealers licensed, to have all herds tested for tuberculosis, or to have the milk pasteurized. Two public meetings were held to consider this question. About 1,100 quarts of milk is sold daily, of this about 30 per cent is from credited herds or pasteurized.

Schools—New toilets have been put in some of the districts. All but two of the schools have to procure the drinking water from some private well. The lighting of the rooms is poor. The toilets in the Twelfth school have been in use for many years and are out of date. A new system should be installed.

Hygiene and Public Health Nursing—No clinics in town. Cases of suspected tuberculosis are taken to the clinics in Norwich. No school nurse or school physician in town. Three nurses for the larger mill corporation are employed. Their work, with one exception, is confined to the mills. One nurse attends the sick of all employes; this supplements the work of the distrct nurse. The expense for this work is met by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The district nurse works under the supervision of a committee appointed by the town, financed largely by the insurance companies, but with the financial backing of the town and Red Cross chapter. The nurse is doing a great work.

Expense—Miscellaneous, $68.91; for town nurse, $1,668.05; for repairs, storage and new car, $624.63; total expense, $2,361.59. Balance Aug. 31, 1927, $50.40.

Vaccination is not compulsory. The number vaccinated in town is slightly more than the preceding year. There is also a small increase in the number of children receiving the toxin-antitoxin treatment to prevent diphtheria.

ALBERT LACHAPELLE GETS TO MONTREAL WITH CHUM

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 28—A Boston paper Wednesday had the following:

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 27—Accepting a lift, for which they had asked, two American boys travelled from Woonsocket, R. I., to Montreal with an obliging driver, and are now stranded in Montreal, with the police requisitioned to give them shelter. The man who brought them here is nowhere to be found.

The boys gave the names of Albert Lachapelle, 15, School street, Jewett City, Conn., 15 years of age, and Ernest Turgeon, 55 Dickenson street, Fall River, Mass., 13. They informed Constable Larocque that they met a man at Woonsocket, while they were visiting relatives. They did not know the driver of the car, which bore a Connecticut license. They asked him for a ride and were accommodated on the morning of Sept. 23. Both boys informed the constable that the chauffeur gave them money for their meals while on the road.

This morning while the car was parked on McGill college avenue the two youngsters were given some change to get their breakfast and when they returned to the parking place the man and the automobile had gone. They were left alone, lost in the big city, when the constable came across them. Pending investigation of the story of their migration to Montreal with a strange man, the boys have been turned over to the juvenile court for protection. They were unable to give the names of any of the hotels that they put up at on the way to this city.

According to the elder boy, the man who gave them the long ride was very kind to them and said that he would bring them back to Woonsocket, when he had finished his business in Quebec. Both youngsters were anxious to have their parents notified of their safety as they had left their homes without asking permission to go beyond Woonsocket.

The LaChapelle boy's father is Wilfred LaChapelle, who keeps a pool room and bowling alleys in Jewett City. The boy Albert is attending Mt. St. Charles college, in Woonsocket.

UNREDEEMED BONDS

Few may know but many should care how many bonds called for redemption remain unpaid. It is hardly believable that so many persons are so negligent of their funds that they make no effort to present their bonds for payment when due, or failing to get interest from the date they are called make no attempt to learn what the trouble is.

Millions remain in the United States treasury because the ones to whom they are due have made no claim for them. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are lost by holders of securities in corporations because they fail to exercise their rights, either by selling such rights or using them to acquire additional stock.

There are those instances where securities have been lost in one way or another, or been destroyed by fire, but it can hardly be believed that that is the reason why so many fail to cash their bonds when they are called or to exercise their rights. Rather does it appear to be a case of negligence in too many instances.

Many persons are in position to have financial matters taken care of by relatives or friends and they are not obliged to assume any responsibility. Possibly dependence upon such assistance has made them so dependent that they are not aware of their position after such assistance has ceased to be available. Age and infirmities may account for certain instances where securities get no attention. Theft and destruction may explain others, but why others who are normal will permit their funds to remain unclaimed and drawing no interest for any length of time is hard to imagine.

Nevertheless, according to the government figures, there were bonds to the value of more than $11,000,000 outstanding which had matured and on which interest had ceased. These represent various bond issues and over $3,000,000 of the amount represented unclaimed victory bonds which matured four years ago. From time to time certain of these bonds are presented for payment, and all will of course be honored whenever they are produced, but the carelessness which seems to be responsible for this economic loss appears to be high, especially when it involves such a matter. Are you the holder of any such bonds?

MISTAKE NOT TO ACCEPT

It may not have been the thought of Admiral Magruder to enter into an effort to aid the navy department in overcoming what he regards as extravagances when he wrote his magazine article in regard to naval expenditures, but he has been shown that there is an opportunity to put his ideas into constructive operation and to actually give the navy department something more than adverses criticism.

He has said in response to the request of Secretary Wilbur for a prompt forwarding of his plans that he has none. But he has been giving some thought to the problems about which he wrote. It is to be inferred that he hasn't gone off the handle in a tirade against the navy department's expenditures just because it might seem the popular and perhaps political thing to do. He must have some basis for the claims when he has made, even if they are put forth only in general terms.

If he can put his finger on these various outlays which he regards as excessive, or if he can show that the navy is overofficered, it will be a great mistake if he doesn't do it. If he can point out what congress ought to do in the way of new ships, ships which can be obtained through the practice of economies in the administration of the navy department and without increasing the annual outlay, it will at least be an interesting statement even though he may not be able to convince others that his methods should be adopted.

It isn't sufficient for Admiral Magruder to say, after the criticism he has indulged in, that he has no program. If he continues to take that attitude it must be considered that the secretary of the navy through his call for a plan has called the admiral's bluff, for dealing in generalities without producing something better is hardly constructive criticism.

It would seem as though Admiral Magruder had been given the very opportunity which one in his position would welcome and that he would proceed to take full advantage of it. Certainly the navy department indicates that it is ready and willing to listen, and if red tape and greater efficiency can be promoted everybody will be happier.

IN CONTROL THOUGH FIRED

It is possible to see in the case of the mayor of Indianapolis a similarity to that of former Governor Ferguson of Texas. This is limited, however, to the efforts which each made for keeping their hands upon the control of the particular government in which they were concerned. The methods employed are different.

When the former governor of Texas was impeached and put out of office there was no way for him to retain control except through a recourse to the ballot box. He had no chance himself but he decided to accomplish the same results and regain control of the political reins by having his wife stand as a candidate for election. This she did, was elected and permitted the former governor to establish himself as the power behind the throne until the people of the state brought it to end by electing another.

The return of Ferguson in Texas was a matter which rested entirely with the voters of that state. They could have prevented it had they desired. When they elected Mrs. Ferguson they made it apparent that they wanted just what they subsequently got, or at least made it possible.

At Indianapolis the voters have had nothing to say about it. The mayor having been convicted and sentenced, which included exclusion from political office for four years, has proceeded to juggle offices so that there was a vacancy created in the controllership and to that office he has named his wife. The purpose of this is to have Mrs. Duvall serve as the acting mayor since that is the duty imposed upon the controller in case the mayor dies or is forced out of office. This means of course that even though he serves his 30 day sentence for violation of the corrupt practice act, pays his $1,000 fine and abides by the debarment from office for four years, he will nevertheless be in a position to pull the wires in a manner quite as effective as if he were aministering the mayoralty himself.

It is not a pleasing prospect for the people of Indianapolis who expected to get rid of the undesirable influence, but it shows how conditions can be twisted to the purpose of the manipulaters when they get a chance.

HANDLING NEW CRIMINALS

Fourth offenders are the ones which the Baumes law in New York state is especially intended to affect. It is expected that all others will be influenced by the penalization imposed upon those committing a felony for a fourth time and so mend their ways as to avoid being included. The operation of the law is intended not only to punish the guilty but to warn those who are headed in the wrong direction.

This law has not put an end to felonies but it has caused criminals to sit up and take notice. They are anxious to avoid being caught for acts which would mean prosecution under its provisions. That in itself is something, but the author of the law labors under the belief that there should be new legislation in regard to the first offenders, that provisions should be made for giving such individuals a chance to mend their ways, and with that idea in mind he is now engaged in drawing up a measure for presentation at the next session of the New York legislature.

It is the plan of Mr. Baumes to have some provision made for the first offender in prison so that he will not be thrown in with the old timers, so that he will be kept under different influences and so encouraged that he will see the folly of his course and turn back into the ways of right living. The purpose would be to prevent him from becoming a hardened criminal through the influences he would encounter while behind prison walls.

There is no question but what there is much sympathy in behalf of giving the first offender every possible opportunity to reform. There are times when it seems deserved, others when it is apparent that the criminal act has been deliberate with utter disregard for the law. Whether a change can be made in the criminal code that will accomplish the desired purpose without doing more harm than good remains to be seen. It is quite evident that while leniency may well be discarded in regard to fourth offenders it can be expected to accomplish the best results, if at all, with those who have gone wrong for the first time. That is where the biggest claim may exist for another chance.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: There are dry laws but there are wet and dry appetites.

There has been no prediction that this is to be a year without an Indian summer.

Now that we are getting less of it, we can further appreciate the daylight we saved throughout the summer.

Eleven above zero in North Dakota and snow in Maine make the longing for Indian summer stronger than ever.

There's something new every day; trace of a lost race has been found in the arctic and glaciers have been discovered at the equator.

When Russia asks one and two thirds times as much credit as it agrees to pay on the French debt it can be better understood what the French authorities mean when they say no debt agreement has been concluded with Russia.

TOM BURKE OF TRIPLE X

Miss Dunning, for 10 years a government employe in Washington and dismissed without an hour's notice, went to her boarding house with calm face and steady eyes, for that was her way.

When she reached her room she went straight to her desk and took three letters from one of its pigeon holes. These she spread out in the order of their receipt, placing the one of the morning below the others. Then she read:

"North Dakota, Jan. 1, 1915—Dear Edith: I got here two months ago and expended four of my five hundred dollars in 45 good cows, which I believe I got at a bargain. I believe I understand cattle pretty well, dear, even if I did make a failure of my farm back there. The other hundred I put into a dugout and some blankets and provisions. It is a hard, but bracing country out here, and this morning the thermometer is 34 degrees below zero. I am glad you have the government position. It will be better than keeping house for that uncle of yours. But this is enough now, because you said I must make good by actions and not by words. TOM BURKE."

"North Dakota, April 1, 1917—Dear Edith: Two years later. Have 45 cows now, 35 yearlings and 30 calves. Had my fingers and toes frozen several times, and can ride a wild mustang as will as most of the cowboys. Shot five bears and traded three of the pelts for my mustang. This is about all the real action so far." TOM.

"Triple X Ranch, N. D., April 1, 1919—Dear Edith: You notice I have my ranch named now, with my brand, though it is government land and I still live in a dugout. But I have 260 cows, 150 yearlings and 250 calves. I have hired a Swede to help me. In four more years, at the rate of increase so far, I shall have over 1,000 head of cattle. Then I shall sell and return home and buy my old farm. That is my great ambition now—and you."

She read the tree letters with as much indifference as though the writer was a stranger; but then she knew them all by heart, and five years of silence was in her mind. With the same indifference she opened the letter of the morning and began to read. But as her gaze went over the sprawling letters her eyes widened, her face went white, and through blinding tears she threw herself upon the bed and sobbed bitterly.

"Oh, Tom, Tom!" she moaned. "I was hard, so hard! But I was only trying to make a man of you and you were a man all the time inside. I ought to have known. Oh, Tommy, Tommy! It was all my fault."

Five minutes later she rose, bathed her face and took up the letter for a hecond reading:

"No Ranch, No Cattle, N. D., April 1, 1924.—My Dear Miss Dunning: I have failed to make good and am merely writing this because you may hear of my returning to the old neighborhood. I hope to find some sort of job there, perhaps as driver of a milk wagon. You will find this letter almost unreadable, for I am writing with my left hand, and it comes awkward. My right was amputated after the great blizzard.

"The year after I wrote you before I took my herd farther up into the northwest for better grazing and built another dugout. For a year or more all went well, and the herd increased to over 800. Then came the great blizzard. I struggled with it for three weeks, but in the end being driven over 100 miles, with four-fifths of my herd dead and myself frozen to uselessness for the time being. When I got out, half of the few cattle left were gone.

"But there seemed no reason why a one-armed man shouldn't make good, so I started in again and had built the herd up to half its former size, when the big snow of last winter came and buried great bunches of the cattle. I am now being cared for by a good friend of mine named Scott. He has purchased the 30 head of cattle I had left, and, as soon as my broken leg mends enough for travel, which the doctor says will be before the end of the month, I shall start home. The cattle money will pay the doctor and my fare.

"I hope your government work is proving congenial, and that you have or will have some one to bring into your life the happiness that my incompetency has denied me. Sincerely yours,

THOMAS BURKE."

"Poor boy!" murmured Miss Dunning as she kissed the letter. "He has has much more than made good and I shall be so proud of him."

She went to her desk and removed the contents of a small drawer, which represented her worldly wealth, a few hundred dollars saved from her salary and the deed of a lot far uptown 14th street. She had purchased it through the persuasiveness of a land agent during her first year in the department and paid for it in installments. The agent had taken her out swiftly in an automobile, and it had not seemed so very far. Later, when she went out to the end of a car line and then walked across stony and muddy fields to the lot she felt differently. She had gone back to the agent and offered the lot for cost, half cost, and then quarter. But the agent only laughed. The lot had cost her $1,200. Maybe she could sell it for something.

An hour later she was at the land office. The man she had bought it of was away, but his partner was in. He advised her to hold on.

"I have been holding on nearly 10 years," said Miss Dunning. "Now I mean to sell. I want the money."

"Well, in that case—let me see. I recently sold the adjoining lot to a man who is going to erect a nice house. That will enhance your score of course. But you never got nice place your price too high. Why, one old woman is asking 20 thousand for a lot not far from yours. She won't get it, though—not for some years to come at any rate. Now if you would consider, say, 10 thousand—"

"Ten thousand, cash?" Miss Dunning was surprised at the calmness with which she was able to pronounce the words.

"Yes, cash, of course. And it may be I can get you a little more," as she remained silent, trying to calm herself inside. "Of course, the bigger the price the bigger my commission. But I can promise 10 thousand clear."

"Very well, get all you can," forcing herself to speak calmly. "There's I'm ready to sign papers for 10 thousand. When shall I know?"

"I will have the money and papers ready tomorrow afternoon. And now," as she rose, "may I ask if you intend investing? I have some very attractive things this week."

"No, thank you. I am going to buy a farm just out of the city—the Glen Echo Dairy farm."

"Why? What?" in surprise. "I've got that very farm on my list. Owner wants to go to Florida, and will sell for $8,000. Odd thing, I received a letter from Dakota this very morning wanting to rent or share, work and half the crop, for rent, he to furnish everything. Pretty good offer in a roughish way, but, of course, sale is the most important and the only thing just now. But you'll need a manager on the place, of course, and I wouldn't wonder if this would be just the man. Anyhow, when he comes I'll send him out for a talk."

The next day the transfer was made and Miss Dunning moved out in the afternoon. There were repairs and improvements she wanted to make and they must be done quickly. Several weeks passed and the changes were all completed and the workmen gone away. With the last one gone, Miss Dunning brought a rocking chair to that corner of the veranda that commanded a view toward the end of the nearest car line.

But two more days passed before a man was seen coming down the lane. He walked very slowly, with a cane in one hand and limping.

As he tapped at the door, Miss Dunning stepped from her corner behind the vines.

"Edith," he whispered hoarsely. "I didn't think to meet you. I'm—not strong enough for that yet. And here, too! Are you the wife of the owner?"

"Not yet, Tom. I have been waiting for you. Don't you remember how you asked me to marry you—not once, but 40 times, I think. And I told you to go away first and make a man of yourself. You have done that and come back. Now we will be married."

"Come back a man! Why, Edith, I am a failure, the very worst kind. I even had $500 when I went away and I have nothing now."

"But you are a man, Tom," Miss Dunning declared, her happiness making her eyes luminous. "That is worth a thousand time more than money. And, as to failures, I am one, for I worked 10 years in the government printing office indispensable, but they dropped me without explanation. But come, dear, a minister lives but two houses away, and I have spoken to him. Then we will come back and look over your farm—ours, I mean."—Detroit News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dwight W. Morrow, the New York banker who has been selected by President Coolidge to be ambassador to Mexico, has experienced in his 54 years most of what law, business and finance have to offer. This is not the first time that he has been called into the service of the government, as he formerly was assistant secretary of the federal trade commission, secretary of the national coal commission during the war, and more recently chairman of a special board appointed by the president to inquire into the aircraft situation. Mr. Morrow is a native of Huntington, W. Va., and a graduate of Amherst college. After a successful career as a lawyer in New York he became a member of the great banking house of J. P. Morgan and company, in 1914. Mr. Morrow has been credited with having more influence, political and otherwise, with President Coolidge than any other man.

YOUR HEALTH

EVERY HOME NEEDS MEDICINE CABINET

By T. L. Deaver, M. D., Syracuse, N. Y.
Member Gorgas Memorial

In every household, large or small, there should be a special place set apart for drugs and remedies of various kinds to be used in those more common conditions for which a doctor is not usually needed. The medicine cabinet should be in some place easy of access, as the bathroom, for instance, where water is always at hand. Each preparation should be plainly marked, so that there can be no mistake in its application, day and night.

There are certain emergencies in which immediate help is required until the physician arrives. Among these are faint spells, hemorrhage, nosebleed, threatened heart failure and minor accidents. If a bandage, the right drug, or the proper antiseptic is at hand, one or all of them may be safely used. If there is any doubt as to the seriousness of the trouble, a doctor should always be called.

The medicine chest should only contain safe remedies. This point cannot be emphasized too strongly. Many tragedies occur through careless handling of drugs in the home. Strychnine pills, bichloride, and carbolic acid are dangerous drugs. Never keep bichloride of mercury, carbolic acid, or arsenic in the house. Anything these drugs are good for can always be accomplished as well by something else. Be watchful of iodine. It is very popular just now, but also unsafe, unless properly used. Goiter is so prevalent everywhere that a word of caution is needed, because some persons do not need iodine. Iodine is a good first aid application for cuts and bruises, and is often painted over infected areas of the skin. Large doses of this drug, or its long continued use, are not advisable. Paris green and the various other exterminators should be used as soon as purchased, and the portion left over immediately discarded.

It is a good thing to go through the house frequently and gather up all the bottles of medicine that are old or poorly marked, and destroy them.

Aromatic spirits of ammonia should have a glass-stoppered bottle. Powders belong in a box. They deteriorate in envelopes. Well corked bottles are best for all kinds of pills or tablets. Part of a prescription left from one illness may not be suitable for another attack some weeks later.

Just what should be in the medicine cabinet varies widely as to individual taste and actual requirements. Every one should have in it a teaspoon, a medicine dropper, a small medicine glass, adhesive plaster, absorbent cotton, two or three sterile bandages, mustard, one of the salines, corn plasters, cold cream, and an atomiser.

In addition to these, there should be some sweet spirits of niter, castor oil, syrup of ipecac, bicarbonate of soda, aromatic spirits of ammonia, laxative tablets, quinine in two-grain capsules, five-grain tablets of salicylate of soda, a small bottle of tincture of iodine and a rubber ear syringe.

These drugs and other articles and preparations are so well known to everyone that it seems unnecessary to say much about their use, and the amount required for a dose. Incidentally, aromatic spirits of ammonia—a half teaspoonful in water every half hour till better—is a very safe stimulant for a weak heart. Irritable bladder is sometimes greatly relieved by sweet spirits of niter, one teaspoonful in a glass of water every four hours. Coming down with a cold, one may take two to three five-grain tablets of sodium salicylate, with hot drinks, three or four times a day. Quinine, two to five grains every four hours, answers the same purpose. Syrup of ipecac is a well-known emetic for infants and children. The dose is half a teaspoonful or more, according to age.

Many other things could be mentioned to make the medicine cabinet more complete but these will suffice. No two persons will need exactly the same preparations.

Keep the medicine cabinet clean and well supplied for every occasion. It is not a physician but a friend in need. Call the doctor for all serious conditions and call him early.

DR. FORDYCE BARKER

(From Norwich Bulletin, June 2, 1891.)

Dr. Fordyce Barker died at his home in New York on Saturday of apoplexy, at the age of 73 years. He was of English descent, and was born at Wilton, Me., May 2, 1818. He was graduated at Bowdoin in 1837, and after studying in this country, at Edinburgh and in Paris, he began the practice of medicine at Norwich in 1841.

In 1845, at the age of 27, he was made professor of midwifery in Bowdoin Medical college and three years later became professor of midwifery and the diseases of women in the New York Medical college. Two years later he was made obstetrical physician to Baltimore hospital, a post which he held until 1874. In 1860 he became professor of chinical midwifery and the diseases of women in Bellevue Hospital Medical college.

(From Norwich Bulletin, June 6, 1891.)

Dr. Fordyce Barker, whose funeral services were held at Christ church on Wednesday, came to Norwich 50 years ago.

After he had completed his medical studies in this country, his father, Dr. John Barker of Wilton, Maine, told him to take one of his horses and ride through New England, to visit the various large towns, and decide where he would begin practice of his profession. On coming to Norwich he strolled into the drug store of Dr. R. W. Mathewson to buy a cigar. The beauty of the town had attracted him, and the doctor's wit and quaintness amused and interested him. He asked the doctor many questions and finally decided from the information that he received, that there was an opening for a young physician here. He then examined the health statistics and found that there had been fewer deaths from consumption in Norwich than in any other town of its size in New England. That settled the matter, and he took up his residence here.

He boarded at the old Franklin house, which since has been cut up into several houses and is now known as the Strand building. Mr. Frank Johnson, Mr. John F. Slater, Mr. David Young and many other of our well known citizens boarded there at the same time.

Dr. Barker was always a man of fine presence, handsome, genial musician, his many attractive qualities of head and heart drew about him a large circle of warm and appreciative friends.

In 1843 he married at Harrisburgh, Penn., Miss Elizabeth Lee Dwight, daughter of the late James Sanford Dwight of Springfield, Mass. Mr. Dwight married Miss Elizabeth Lee of Norwich, daughter of Capt. Benjamin Lee. His widow, Mrs. Benjamin Lee, resided for nearly 60 years in the square, old-fashioned house in Washington street now occupied by Mr. Charles Sturtevant. Mrs. James S. Dwight married for her second husband Mr. John T. Adams, who must be well remembered by many of our fellow townsmen. Dr. Barker thus became connected by marriage with two of the old and influential families of the place, people who were warmly interested in the prosperity of Norwich, and prominent in its social and religious life.

Between 60 and 70 years ago, the Lee and Adams families owned nearly all the land from the house of Miss Brewer on Washington street, to that of Mr. Henry Norton, on one side of the road, and from Greene avenue to the residence of Col. Converse on the other.

The town poorhouse stood on a corner of the street on part of the land now owned by Mr. E. N. Gibbs, Captain Lee and Mrs. Adams did not like their neighbor and paid a good price for the land in order to get rid of it. The poorhouse that was burned some years ago was then built on the west bank of the Yantic, familiarly called "the cove."

Death, removal and the whirl of time, have swept away these families, generation after generation. There are but three of their members now living here, Mrs. David A. Wells, Mr. David Dwight Wells and Mrs. Charles C. Adams.

Cubby Makes Up His Mind
Who selfishly gives way to greed
To others pay but little heed.
—Old Mother Nature.

Cubby was having a good time. He was having a wonderful time. Those blueberries certainly did taste good. It was so long since he had had any that he had forgotten how good they were. Like all little Bears, he was greedy. Greedy folk can seldom think of anything but their stomachs when they have food. So Cubby just didn't pay any attention to anything else but the gobbling up of as many of those blueberries as he could get. When he had stripped one branch he would pull down another. You see, these were high-bush blueberries. Presently he found a place where low-bush blueberries grew. He didn't have to stand up to eat those; he just walked along, gobbling them up like a pig.

At last Cubby paused to rest. It was then he looked around for Farmer Brown's Boy and didn't see him. He stood up on his hind feet and looked in all directions. He peered behind the bushes. There was no Farmer Brown's Boy. He didn't know what to make of it. No, sir, he didn't know what to make of it. Could it be that Farmer Brown's Boy had left him all alone?

Now, perhaps it sounds queer to you, but that little Bear suddenly became frightened. He didn't want to be left alone. Farmer Brown's Boy wasn't anywhere around and Mother Bear was'nt around and he was lonesome and afraid.

Old Jed Thumper, the gray old Rabbit who lives up in the Old Pasture, thumped the ground very hard in a bramble-tangle just back of the bear. Cubby jumped and actually took to his heels. It was the first time he had ever heard a rabbit thump and he didn't know what it was. Mrs. Grouse suddenly whirred up from almost under his nose and frightened him so that he fell over backward. It was his first experience with Mrs. Grouse He didn't like that place. No, sir, he didn't like that place.

"I want to go home," whimpered Cubby. "I want to go home." And the funny part of it is that when he said that he didn't mean his home in the Green Forest; he meant Farmer Brown's. He began to hunt around with his nose to the ground. Presently he caught of something that sent a little tingle all over him. Once it would have been a little tingle of fear, but now it was a little tingle of joy. It was the man-smell. It was the smell of Farmer Brown's Boy.

Cubby jumped and actually took to his heels

Now, bears have very wonderful noses. They probably learn more with their noses than with their eyes and their ears together. Cubby's nose served him quite as well as the nose of Bowser the Hound served him. He used it just as Bowser uses his. He straightaway began to follow that man-smell along the old cowpaths, down through the Old Pasture. Sometimes he would lose it and then impatiently would hunt about until once more he picked it up. All the time he was whimpering and whining. You see, he was quite upset at having been left that way. He didn't like it at all. He felt that he had been treated badly.

Meanwhile, as you know, Farmer Brown's Boy had reached home, and he and Mother Brown and Farmer Brown were sure that Cubby was only a memory. And all three wondered if he made his mother as much trouble as he had made them.

STATE DOES NOT PAY FOR ROBES FOR JUDGES

The three judges of the Fairfield county court of common pleas may wear robes when on the bench if they wish, but the state will not pay for them, it was decided Tuesday. At a meeting of the judges last week, Judge Frederick L. Hunford suggested that the Fairfield common pleas judges follow the example of other common pleas judges and wear robes when presiding in court. Judges Samuel C. Shaw and E. Earle Garlick agreed it would be a good thing and the court clerk, Sidney N. Lockwood, was instructed to write to the state comptroller and ask if the 1927 law providing the state shall pay for "apparatus and supplies deemed necessary or advisable for the expeditious conduct of the business of the court," except office supplies, furniture and typewriters, covered the judicial robes of office.

Deputy Comptroller E. H. Wilkins, after conferring with Deputy Attorney General Ernest L. Averill, made inquiries and found that all common pleas judges who wear robes, as well as the judges of the supreme court of errors and the superior court, pay for their garments out of their own funds.

Judge Shaw said over the telephone from his home in Redding Tuesday night that the Fairfield county judges would pay for their robes if that was the custom. The 1927 legislature increased the salaries of all the judges of the state courts, those in the Fairfield county common pleas court each receiving $7,500.

BOAT TRAIN DELAYED BY TENDER GETTING OFF TRACK AT PLAINFIELD

The combination passenger and freight train, known as the Boat train, was held up for a number of hours Wednesday night at Plainfield when the tender of the train left the iron at the siding near the station.

Following the usual custom of switching freight cars and allowing the passengers to await another making up of the train, the engine and tender were placing a freight car off the main tracks at Plainfield about 8:40 o'clock in the evening when suddenly the tender left the tracks.

Word was immediately dispatched to Midway and a wrecker was sent to Plainfield to get the tender back onto the tracks, this being accomplished late in the night.

Meanwhile the passengers were held in the coaches until motor transportation could be secured to convey them to points south and take through passengers to New London where they could catch the New York boat. This delay was of about one hour and mail for Norwich as well as New London were held up, the mail for this city arriving too late for sorting at night.

The accident did not block the main line tracks and freight trains going either way were able to keep on their schedule throughout the evening.

HOME BROKEN UP BY WIFE'S DRINKING HABITS

The utter break-up of a home through drink was disclosed in superior court at Hartford Wednesday where Judge Jennings granted a divorce to Roger W. Champion of Old Lyme on ground of habitual intemperance of his wife, Champion, a draftsman, married Henrietta Collins in Suffield, November 23, 1912. They lived on Hamilton street, Hartford, for about two years, then in Waterford, and in 1916 moved to New London. During the year they lived there Mrs. Champion showed evidences of the use of intoxicants and in the following eight years that they lived in Bridgeport she became an habitue of saloon back rooms and in October, 1922, was sentenced to the state farm for women. The sentence was suspended and she was placed on probation in the care of her step-father in Hartford. The records show she was arrested there for drunkenness about two years ago, and the evidence was she had been a patient in all the hospitals in Hartford, the Hartford Retreat, the Granby sanitarium and New Britain hospitals.

She came out of Granby sanitarium in October, 1926, and was afterward found intoxicated at the home of a relative in Berlin. Hartford probation officers sent her to Gray lodge; from there she ran away and her present whereabouts are unknown. Mr. Champion who was granted the decree on a cross complaint, Mrs. Champion having sued him in September of last year, alleging desertion. Champion testified he lived with her until October, 1922.

Protect Silage Corn Seed

Connecticut's silage corn crop worth about $3,000,000 annually, is likely to be a partial failure next year unless growers take especial precautions to protect their seed sources this fall, according to J. S. Owens, agronomist of the extension service of Connecticut Agricultural college.

Corn now has a high moisture content and freezing weather would render it unfit for seed. Mr. Owens recommends that local growers select seed corn from their own fields before the freezing weather sets in and dry out under artificial heat. Corn just past the milk stage of development can be saved for seed by special care.

GIVES INSTRUCTIVE TALK ON CRIMINAL LAW ADMINISTRATION

"The Public Defender, and the Administration of the Criminal Law" was the topic of a very interesting and instructive talk given by Attorney Charles L. Stewart, public defender in the superior court of this county, at the meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Mr. Stewart went on record as opposed to capital punishment and advocated less delay in execution of sentence and also recommended greater speed in bringing to trial reformatory cases. Attorney Stewart, who was introduced by Dr. Fred Richards, spoke as follows:

Daniel Webster once observed that the greatest interest of human beings is in human justice. It is for this reason that the trial of cases whether civil or criminal, but more especially criminal cases, attracts and holds public interest and attention.

The public defender statute in Connecticut became operative on July 1, 1917. Under the former practice, indigent persons accused of crime in our superior court were given assigned counsel. Just before the opening of a criminal term a considerable number of the younger members of the bar were always present, eager for experience and for the opportunity to earn a few dollars of income. As they entered the court room they anxiously caught the eye of the clerk who in turn wrote down their names, and upon the opening of court handed the list of attorneys present to the trial judge. Not infrequently the trial judge was unacquainted with the personal of the bar and assigned at random some particular attorney to represent the person accused. The attorney would hold a hurried conference with his client, and in a few minutes, after another hurried conference with the state attorney, would have his client plead guilty to some offense embodied in the information, the case would be speedily disposed of and nothing further heard of the prisoner until the expiration of the term of his sentence. The only merit in the old system was that it conformed to the constitutional requirement regarding counsel. It was hap-hazard, and a system that occasionally resulted in injustice to the state, but more frequently in injustice to the accused.

The evils of the former system have largely been remedied under the public defender system as it exists in Connecticut. The public defender is a lawyer of at least five years' experience, appointed annually by the judges of our superior court. In brief, his duties are to interview all prisoners confined in jail and awaiting trial in the superior court. If he finds that these persons have no counsel and no means to engage counsel, it becomes his business to inquire fully into the nature of the crime alleged, whether or not the accused is guilty of the offense as alleged, or of a lesser offense, or of no offense at all. In any event, it is of the utmost importance to know the past history of the accused, whether perchance he is of the profession, a criminal type, or one of the accidental type, or is merely a young man or woman developing recognizable criminal tendencies. All of this information is invaluable in coming to an understanding with the state attorney as to the disposition of the case, and in placing before the court not only the nature of the particular offense but the past history of the accused.

The public defender statute is a marked advance in a much needed reform in criminal procedure.

Chief Justice Taft some time ago observed that the administration of the criminal law in American states is a national disgrace. Reforms are necessarily slow. Our law and our procedure are built upon precedent. The fact must be recognized, however, that the legal profession in the last 30 years has advanced much more slowly than any other of the so-called "learned professions." There are many things about our practice in criminal procedure which demand attention and study of those best qualified to remedy existing evils.

Probably the reform most needed is one which will eliminate the inexcusable delay between the commission of an offense, the subsequent conviction of the accused, and the execution of his sentence. Any system which permits seven years to intervene between the commission of the crime of murder and the execution of the sentence upon conviction is intolerable, alike unjust to the state and to the accused.

Our legislature should stop creating new crimes and offenses until the public have had time to catch up with some knowledge of the multifarious, petty misdemeanors which are to be found in our statute books. The form of indictment in criminal cases should be lightened of its weight of verbiage.

My own opinion is that capital punishment should be abolished. It is one of the stumbling blocks to reform in criminal procedure. It is a barbaric survival and has no place in the modern state. The punishment for wilful and deliberate murder should be nothing less than life imprisonment.

Boys and girls accused of crime for which they may be sent to reformatory institutions should not be permitted to remain in jail over a period of months until their cases are disposed of.

The attitude of the state as defined in its statutes toward perverted sexual crimes is as ignorant as it is cruel. How little we realize that this type of offender is most usually a hospital case rather than a subject for the state prison or jail.

These are but a few practical suggestions, entirely my own, looking toward a remedy for existing evils.

The ultimate object of society is to develop the normal type of individual, one possessed of a sound body and a sound mind; one who recognizes and discharges his obligatoins to society; whose love for his fellowmen is genuine and sincere and whose faith in God is absolute and unshaken. If that happy day can ever be realized, many of our problems in the administration of our criminal law will disappear.

At the conclusion of his talk the members of the Rotary club gave Mr. Stewart a hearty vote of appreciation.

The business session of the meeting was conducted by President Clarence A. Spear and Alex McNicol was the song leader. Secretary Ed Jewett made a final announcement regarding the fall conclave at the Hotel Aspinwall at Lennox, Mass., Oct. 6-8. About seven members of the club will attend.

Charles L. Taylor who is in charge of the programs for the October meetings announced his schedule for the month as follows:

Oct. 5 — Three-minute speakers, Herbert C. Adams, Hugh B. Campbell, Lucius Briggs, Herbert B. Cary and Herbert A. Ferguson; song leader, Dave Harwood of the Rochester Rotary club.

Oct. 12—Fire Prevention Week, speaker, Chief Howard L. Stanton; song leader, Ben Palmer.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell brought to the attention of the club the budget drive of the Chamber of Commerce which starts Friday and appealed to the club members to help the drive in every way.

The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

SLIPPER CONCERN IS OPENING NORWICH FACTORY

A new industry for Norwich, the Wear Well Slipper company, is to begin operations this (Thursday) morning into the Gordon building at the corner of Chestnut and Willow streets, where the installation of machinery has been going on for several weeks. There will be a force of 75 employes.

The parent company is in Jersey City and is two years old. In that time it has outgrown its factory there so that expansion was necessary to take care of the large amount of orders on hand, about 7,000 cases.

The Norwich location was selected by the officials of the company, J. Altheim and S. B. DeMarco after a careful survey of a number of sites. Provided that the production here meets expectations, it is planned to move the Jersey City factory here before the first of January, which would mean doubling the first working force. At first the industry will occupy the third floor of the building, but provision has been made so that the entire building can be secured if it is needed.

C. E. UNIONS TO FORM NORTHEASTERN DISTRICT

Five hundred young people from about 40 Christian Endeavor societies in the churches in Willimantic, Rockville and Danielson are expected to attend a meeting Saturday afternoon at the Baptist church in Willimantic, which will be an organization meeting of the Northeastern District Christian Endeavor union.

The programme will start at three o'clock with a song service conducted by one of the young people of the Willimantic union. Following the song service Rev. Blake Smith, pastor of the Rockville Baptist church, will conduct the devotional exercises. The constitution of the proposed district will be read and acted upon and officers of the new district elected.

A missionary playlet, "A Missionary Tea," will be presented by the Misses Audrey Browne, Florence Mathewson, Fanny Mathewson and Ellinor Dunn of the Rockville Baptist society, which will show in part how the C. E. Missionary meetings can be made more attractive.

Russell J. Belair, field secretary of the Massachusetts Christian Endeavor union, will conduct a general conference at four o'clock, speaking first on plans nad methods andthe answering any questions that the Endeavorers may care to ask.

Arthur H. Kean, of Bridgeport president of the Connecticut Christian Endeavor union, will follow with a short talk and then the Endeavorers will hold a "Cleveland Convention Echo Meeting," and ten of those who attended the recent international convention held at Cleveland will give three minute talks relating different features of the great convention which was held in July with about 18,000 registered delegates. Delegates from Rockville, Willimantic and Danielson unions will speak and at least 50 of those who attended the convention from Connecticut will be present and in costume.

The supper will be served by the young women of the Baptist church in the church dining rooms It is expected that 300 will be accomodated. During the supper hour the convention delegates will occupy one table and the others will be accomodated by the unions. Rev. David Winslow Lovett, pastor of the Willimantic Baptist church, will be toastmaster and greetings will be brought by the entertaining church, the different unions and state officers. During the supper hour, which has been characterized under the heading "Food, Fun and Fellowship," there will be union songs and cheers.

That gives small and large societies a chance to win a shield.

Russell J. Blair, field secretary of the Massachusetts Christian Endeavor union, will give the address of the evening. Mr. Blair has been in field work for nearly ten years and is a speaker of rare ability.

The meetings are open to the public and it is expected that many former Endeavorers will attend the sessions. A similar meeting was held at the Willimantic Baptist church in the spring with an attendance of over 400 at the evening session.

The committee in charge of the meeting is Stephen J. Von Euw, Rockville, chairman; Mrs. Lucy Birdsall of South Willington, secretary; Mrs. Merton Andrews of Willimantic, Rev. Geo. B. HUGGINS' LONG DISTANCE SLUGGERS MAY DECIDE SERIES FOR YANKEES

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—Long distance clouting, one of the prime factors in the runaway race of the Yankees in the American league race, may decide the world's series in their favor, in the opinion of Manager Miller Huggins.

"As a team, the Pirates may be batting a point or two higher," Huggins declared today in a discussion of pennant possibilities, based on the prospect of Pittsburgh being the National league entry, "but the Yankees have a big edge in total bases, long distance hitting.

"I don't think there's much difference between the targets offered at Forbes field and the Yankee stadium in right field for our two big guns, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. Both are around 300 feet but on the left field side the stands are easier to reach at the Yankee stadium than in the Pirate stronghold."

The comparison of extra base hitting bears Huggins out. The latest unofficial averages show the Yankees have gathered 31 more doubles, 24 more triples and 160 more home runs than the Pirates. Here are the figures:

	G	AB	R	H	2B	3B	HR	Pct.
Yankees	149	5067	958	1561	283	93	193	.307
Pirates	157	5310	799	1572	252	74	33	.296

Baseball men argue back and forth on the advantages or disadvantages of coasting down the stretch, as the Yankees have, they recall how the old Chicago Cubs, walking away with the National league race in 1906 with a record total of victories, fell before the "Hitless Wonders", the White Sox, in the world's series.

"There has been no sign of a letdown on our outfit since we clinched the pennant two weeks ago," Huggins declared. "The team is in good condition and my main task is to give the pitchers sufficient work to keep them on edge. The club has had enough seasoning. The rest from any strain of a close pennant race might prove to be a big advantage.

"But it's always a gamble in a world's series. Anyway you look at it, whether we meet the Pirates or Cardinals, it would figure to be a tough battle. They say we have one of the best clubs ever put together in baseball but that doesn't make us invincible by a long shot. In a short series of seven games anything can happen. If we get going right and the pitchers hold up, the club will be hard to stop. I wouldn't want to make any predictions.

If the Pirates clinch the National league flag, the Yankees will hop to Pittsburgh Sunday night. They anticipate workouts on foreign playing ground Monday and Tuesday to put the finishing touches on their preparations.

POLITICAL MOGULS GET LAUGH OUT OF TUNNEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—Jack Dempsey may not see anything funny in the long-count controversy, but Gene Tunney demonstrated today that he at least can get a laugh out of it.

The champion was seated at the speakers' table at a welcome luncheon tendered Mayor Walker after his European trip sojourn by the Advertising club and allusion to long counts was made in the opening address by Joseph V. McKee, who was acting mayor in Mr. Walker's absence.

"You left me a housing bill to take care of,' McKee told the mayor, "and we had a debate on it. It was a 10-round bout and it developed into a fierce encounter between Mr. Heckscher and Mr. Browne, and after about an hour I had to give Mr. Heckscher a long count or he would have gone out for sure."

As McKee spoke these words 4,000 eyes were turned on Tunney, who Dempsey asserts was saved from a knockout in the seventh round of their battle by slow counting, to see how he would take the allusion. Tunney blinked for a moment as he realized the remark referred to him and then burst into a hearty laugh, leaning forward and nodding his head appreciatively at McKee.

Another reference was made to the champion in Mayor Walker's own address. The Mayor said that he had been sure New York would get along during his absence, especially as "I knew Greenwich Village was to be well represented even in Chicago, as it was."

Applause was so hearty at this that Tunney rose and took several bows before the mayor could continue his speech.

LITTLE CHANGE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE STANDING WEDNESDAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—Rain and open date caused a pause in the National league pennant scramble today. The league leading Pirates had a recess while the second place Cardinals were rained out at Cincinnati, leaving a margin of two games separating the two front contenders. The Giants defeated the Phillies to gain half a game. The standing:—

	W.	L.	Av.	G.T.P.
Pittsburgh	93	58	.616	3
St. Louis	91	60	.603	3
New York	90	61	.596	3

The Giants can only tie for first place in the event the Pirates lose all three games left to play and the Cards take but two of three. The New Yorkers would have to sweep their three contests. To clinch the bunting, Pittsburgh has to come out in front in two contests providing the Cards capture all three. The standing then would be:

	Won	Lost	Av.
Pittsburgh	95	59	.617
St. Louis	94	60	.610

DEMPSEY TO GO BACK TO MOUNTAINS FOR REST

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—Lack of fighting spirit—the flaming urge to crash and batter through every obstacle in the way of regaining the heavyweight championship—is all Jack Dempsey believes can keep him from punching his way back to the title.

The former ruler of the static sphere still bearing the scars of Tuney's victory, in the form of two thin lines above the eyebrow, made it plain that he was "no squawker, never had been a squawker," and would end his fighting career "giving full credit every time to any man who can lick me." Jack also spiked reports that trouble had risen between him and Leo P. Flynn, his manager, over vociferous protests of Tunney's victory that have come from the Dempsey camp since the $2,658,660 battle on Soldier field last Thursday.

Dempsey was eager to tell plans for the future and his desire to determine whether the vital "fighting spirit' is still a part of the splendid ring equipment he has rebuilt in seven months of strenuous training.

"A few weeks of rest and recreation,' he said, "and then back to the Colorado mountains, to hike, and rough, and wait for the urge to climb back into the ring. Right there I'll find out whether I want to fight again. That's all I need now for I'm in great shape.

"If I do come back—and I believe I will—I want to fight at least four times to prove my fitness for another shot at Tunney. I'll take on anyone for anyone—Phil Scott, the Englishman, Paulino, the Spaniard, this fellow Heeney, or Sharkey again. I want these fights through the winter season and into spring. Then bring on Tunney again and you can count fifty, it won't matter.

Jack took special delight in telling of his homecoming after the fight to the hotel apartment of his wife, Estelle Taylor.

"Mrs. Dempsey was listening in on the radio," Jack said, "and when the knockdown occurred, she heard the count of nine and then thought the announcer said 'out' instead of 'up'. Then she turned off the set.

"When I came in, Estelle said 'wasn't it wonderful and you won by a knockout, too'. Then I had to tell her I lost the decision."

CARDS AND PIRATES FACE CRUCIAL SERIES

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 28—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds were perched between two hostile fires tonight.

In one camp the world champion Cardinals plotted a scalping tomorrow that would net them three straight in a series with the Reds.

About a block away the Pittsburgh Pirates listening intently to the flapping of the world series flag, were ready to make the Reds their victims Friday, Saturday and Sunday. They will watch the Cardinal-Red battle from the grandstand.

The third game of the Red-Cardinal series today was decisively rained out after the Cardinals had taken two straight. The precipitation started before the sun got a chance to come up and continued steadily all day. The field will not be pleasant for tomorrow's game unless Old Sol does some mighty good work tomorrow morning.

There was no visiting between the members of the Pirate and Cardinal camps. The Pirates are confident but not boasting. The Cardinals also have plenty of confidence and are stimulating it with a prayer for a break that might let them squeeze in ahead of the Pitsburghers.

While the flag contenders mussed over the next few days the Red management had "Red" Lucas cornered in the headquarters. It was understood that as a result the pitcher accepted a bonus for his meritorious work this season, won himself a sizeable increase in salary for next season and promised to come back tomorow to sign on the dotted line.

RAIN CAUSES POSTPONEMENT OF "LITTLE WORLD'S SERIES"

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 28—(AP)—Rain forced postponement today of the inaugural game of the "Little World's Series" between the Toledo, champions of the American association and the Buffalo pennant winers of the International league.

The dark low hanging clouds gave way to steady downpour by game time. With all reserved seats sold, and hundreds packed around the box office windows for standing room, the commissioners in charge of the series waited until after one o'clock before deciding there was no chance of playing.

The commission is composed of Mike Sexton of Rock Island, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs; John Conway Toole, president of the International league, and Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American association.

An open date for Friday in the schedule arranged for the series may permit the teams to play the first two games of the series here as planned. The Saturday and Sunday games will be moved to Buffalo, regardless of the postponements here, and the teams then will return to Toledo to finish the series, with the winner needing five victories out of nine.

Pitching selections for tomorrow's battle, Jess Barnes for Toledo and Leo Mangum for Buffalo, will remain the same, the managers said.

CLOSEST RACE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE SINCE 1908

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—Close as is the finish of this year's National league pennant race, with the winter undecided four days from the end of the season, it isn't likely to surpass the famous 1908 race in which the Chicago Cubs were victorious after a play-off game with the Giants.

That year, as this, three clubs fought it out to the finish with the result in doubt until the final day. The final standing found the trio, Cubs, Pirates and Giants, separated only by a single game.

At the end of the regular playing schedule, the Giants and Cubs were tied at the top and the Pirates only a half game behind. But the Cubs decided the issue by beating the Giants in a play-off of the famous game in which Merkle, Giant first sacker, failed to touch second base, on the play that would have given a victory to the Giants. The disputed game played Sept. 23, was declared a tie after a big controversy. It was played off October 8, the day after the regular season closed, and the Cubs won, defeating Christy Mathewson. This left the Giants tied with the Pirates for second place in the final standing.

TAFTVILLE WILL PLAY SERIES WITH MOOSUP CLUB

After the completion of the Riverview-Taftville series, the third and fourth games of which will be played on Saturday and Sunday, the Taftville team will take on the Moosup Town team for a series. Riverview played the Moosup club a series of six games, won three, lost two and tied one.

Manager Troland of the Taftville club expects to clean up the series on Saturday and if not on that date claims he will do it on Sunday. He says his ambition is to win four straight from the Riverview club and if Riverview plays the same brand of ball as in the first two games he is likely to do it. Troland has strengthened his club for Saturday with the addition of Mack Hills, second baseman of the New Haven Eastern league club. Chet Nichols will pitch against Riverview on Saturday and Pat Loftus of the Hartford club will take the mound on Sunday. Johnny Tillman will probably do the pitching for Riverview' and may pitch again Sunday the same as he did last season when he won two straight for Riverview.

GIANTS PICK UP HALF GAME BEATING PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28—(AP)—The Giants helped the Phillies close out their home season by wrestling a 5 to 4 decision from the tailenders in ten innings. The triumph allowed the New Yorkers to continue in the pennant chase with the flimsy possibility of tying the leaders.

Cy Williams gained an edge on Hack Wilson of the Cubs in the National league home run fracas by clouting number 30 with one on base in the sixth to lead the Chicago player by one. Leach of the Phillies belted for the circuit in the fifth.

New York got over the winning run in the tenth when Hornsby beat out a bunt, went to second on a sacrifice and scored on Devormer's single. Benton left the slab after the sixth inning in favor of Barnes who in turn was succeeded in the last frame by Henry with two out and two on base. Ferguson pitched the distance. The score.

SENATORS CONCLUDE BOSTON SERIES WITH TWIN VICTORY

BOSTON, Sept. 28—(AP)—Washington concluded its season series with the Red Sox by winning both games of a double header today, 2 to 1 and 6 to 4. The Senators won 13 out of the 22 games played with the Red Sox. Hadley's pitching was the deciding factor in the first game. The Red Sox scored all the runs in the second game by bunching five hits off Fred Marberry in the fourth inning. Braxton went to the box for the Senators in the fifth and pitched brilliantly, holding Boston to two hits. The scores:

INDICATIONS POINT TO ANOTHER LEAN YEAR FOR YALE FOOTBALL TEAM

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 28—(AP)—Indications that Yale football is in for another lean season are disturbing followers of the Blue, as a squad with all to few veterans prepares to open its season Saturday against Bowdoin, playing here for the first time in 26 years.

"Tad" Jones, coaching his last Yale eleven, looks for no great difficulty with the Maine team. The showing of the tentative varsity against the scrubs to date, however, has not disclosed any indications of great strength to be drawn on when the team meets up with its stronger rivals later in the season.

In three scrimmages during the fortnight's pre-season practice, the varsity combination each time put over three touchdowns while holding the scrub eleven scoreless, but in this play bits of excellent work have been sandwiched between periods of discouragingly poor showing.

Five or six veterans apear likely candidates for starting positions in the opening contest. Scott and Fishwick, last year's regular ends, will probably be seen on the flanks Saturday, with Quarrier, 1926 letter man, paired at the tackle positions with Max Eddy, star of the 1925 freshman eleven. Captain 'Bill" Webster seems certain of one of the guard positions, but for the other there is little indication whether Kell, who was on the varsity squad last year, or Norman Hall, a freshman end last fall, will start.

Barry Ryan, who earned his letter at tackle last year, has been showing well at center and will probably get the call. Paul Switz, first sub quarterback of the 1926 combination, is expected to start the Bowdoin game, with Bob Hall, brother of Norman and quarterback of the 1930 team, in line for an opportunity to demonstrate his wares.

In the backfield Hoben, Goodwine, Cox, Foote, Caldwell and Harvey, all letter men, are available, besides Saunders, Garvey and Decker of last year's scrubs and McEwen of the 1930 freshman team.

The judge also ordered the return of the purse and their release.

$2,500 OF BRIBE MONEY IS STILL UNACCOUNTED FOR

HARTFORD, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Who got $2,500 unaccounted for in the bribe money which was paid on behalf of Lawrence Ferrone to aid him in an attempt to escape from the state prison a year ago?

State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn injected this question in the history of Ferrone's case today when Ferrone and his wife, Catherine, appeared on the 11th anniversary of their marriage to be sentenced with others for their part in Ferrone's plot to escape from the prison.

With all the conspirators in the fold plot rounded up, the process of elimination clearly foreshadows that the investigation announced by Mr. Alcorn as yet to be undertaken will be directed toward discovering whether some one not of Ferrone's world, but someone on a different plane, received the money to aid in the escape.

Neither Mr. Alcorn nor his office would throw any light on the mystery which the question raises.

The four prisoners at the bar, mixed up in the plot hatched by Ferrone to escape and have drugs while there, all pleaded guilty to the charges and were sentenced by Judge R. Booth, of Danbury. Ferrone, already serving a sentence of from one to 30 years, was sentenced to serve from one to three years more. His wife, Catherine, and the former prison guards, Davis, and Byron O. Richards, 54, Wethersfield, were sentenced to the county jail for a year.

On a roof exposed to the mercies of the weather for a year, Devoe Mirrolac Enamel proved its resistance to the effects of water, cold and heat

BUT please don't get the idea that Mirrolac Enamel is merely durable and waterproof. It's the most beautiful enamel we've ever seen—made in 22 lovely, glossy colors. We recommend it especially for outside use on porch furniture, automobiles, bicycles, canoes, toys, etc. And it's just as good inside on walls, woodwork and furniture.

that the foods you serve are safe

Frigidaire prevents the unseen mold that imperils health

NOT for a minute would you think of risking the health of yourself and family by serving food on which mold appears. But do you realize that mold is often present from ten to twelve hours before it is visible to the naked eye? The microscope reveals that this is true.

The only protection against this unseen danger is to keep perishable foods in a dry atmosphere and in a refrigerating temperature of less than 50°. Frigidaire electric refrigeration meets both these requirements.

With all its advantages, Frigidaire is low in price. It can now be bought for as small a sum as $180 f. o. b. Dayton. And terms are so convenient that it is easily within your family budget. See a demonstration now.

NOANK

When his brother lodgemen received the good news from the 34th annual convention held in the Rose of New England by the Connecticut branch, Junior Order of American Mechanics, it was learned that Walter Wolverton holds the office of conductor being elected at the convention. The Mechanics of the fishing village are well pleased at Wolverton's new honors.

Duncan McDonald was sent by the Sea Sled company from West Mystic to Greenwich, Conn., to take back a sea sled to the plant. Mr. McDonald is boss carpenter and his fellow workmen said that he could not run the sea sled back, putting up a box of cigars that he could. His fellow workmen put up a suit of overalls that he could not make it. But at midnight Tuesday night the boat and the new captain arrived at the plant and the night watchman can prove that McDonald did the stunt.

Dr. P. T. Grove of Johnstown, Penn., has returned home after being the guest of Miss Betty Zuccardy for a few days.

Mrs. Lewis Main has returned from a short visit with friends in Saybrook.

At Springfield, Mass., a son born to Mr. and Mrs. James Rollins has been named Edwin Wiles, after his father, and his grandfather, Mr. Rollins was a former Noank boy, leaving the village at a early age.

James Dobb has closed his summer home at Groton Long Point and returned to New Jersey.

James Steele is confined to his home by illness. His place is taken by Everett Pray at the East Main street railway crossing.

D. Clark of Willimantic, Conn., is having a new cottage built at Groton Long Point.

Earl Bogue is visiting relatives in Essex.

Mike Swan went over to the railroad bridge for smelt fishing, spending about five hours on Tuesday afternoon. He got only one smelt. The day was cool and the smelts ought to bite but have gone to some other place. One local man made a catch of 80 smelts at the fish works about 2 1-2 miles from the north cove.

The fishing fleet has tied up for a few days on account of the Jewish holiday. No markets were opened from sunset on Monday to sundown Wednesday. The Hebrew people do not eat fish during that time; it is their New Year. The fishermen think after these few days' rest, the fish will be plenty, and prices high in Fulton market.

A sea wall being built in front of Raymond Dobb's cottage on the Lagoon at Groton Long Point is 110 feet long.

H. H. Park was in North Stonington Tuesday.

Siney Bertron is spending a week in Boston with relatives.

Ira Lamb has secured a job with the section gang of the New Haven railroad.

John Cunney is in Norwalk for a few days with his cousin, Primo Bussio.

The craft Frederick Lee, after getting new zinc plates, scraping and repainting at the shipyard was launched Tuesday from the south ways. She is soon to leave for her home port, Greenport, L. I.

Capt. John Jensen is home on a short furlong from New York, to visit his family.

George Main Jr., has gone to New York, for a brief visit.

Mason Island closed its season this week. The people have gone back to New York and New Jersey. It is the best season that the island has had in ten years. The roads were put in first class shape and a new iron bridge built over the railroad tracks. The water supply was good. Three new cottages were built.

Noank Crushers football team held a meeting in the club room where Coach John Bracci gave them a short talk about the opening game. His new plays were pointed out on the black board. A captain and manager were elected. George Deveau will be their leader for field captain, while Big Mike Passi will book the games as manager. A social hour was spent with refreshments. The Crushers are going to try and make this season their best. New suits will be ordered from Boston, the measure to be taken by Daniel Cassidy.

Charles D. Welch Jr., went for a walk to Groton Long Point Monday carrying a hatchet. Going along the beach he saw a fish come ashore with the waves and with a quick swing he hit Mr. Fish and killed it. It was a 9-lb. blackfish. It is some thing new for a fish to come in so close to shore. Welch says "What is the use to go after them with a hook and line when you can land one with a hatchet?" In his home town in Maine he claims when the smelt season is at its height you could almost catch smelts with your hands, they were so thick. It was nothing to take a scoop net and get enough for several meals, but now you will have to chase them all day in the cold sitting on a bank holding a pole and line and after 4 or 5 hours you will bring home enough for the cat to eat. But he says smelts will be plenty this season and many record catches will be made.

When Muriel Carpenter came home from school Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock she was surprised to see her schoolmates sitting in the parlor, having come to help make her 10th birthday a happy one. The room was decorated in different colors. Games were played and in "school," Marion Tinkerson was the teacher. The pupil doing his history lesson the quickest received a prize. Walter Carpenter won first honor; with Pauline Whelun second, James Ashly Jr. gave a violin solo, while Inez Cox played a piano selection. For the birthday supper they marched into the big dining room where in the center of the talbe was a large cake decorated with 10 colored candles. R. Oles with one breath blew them all out. The little girl received many pretty presents from her playmates.

At Brook street there is a little red waiting room large enough to shelter six people while waiting for the trolley car. If that little building was not there they would have to walk about a half mile to the village to get a car. In the last two weeks the building has been overturned twice, so the section gang of the road came down from Mystic to place it back. The trolley officials say it makes about 25 times in a year that they have to turn back that building and if it is upset many more times they will take it away for good. So such a stunt is no joke.

Robert Tooker is bricklaying with the Fuccio Mason company.

Miss Maude Celeland of New London is visiting friends in the village.

Walter Maxsin has returned from a brief visit in Greenport with relatives.

Charles Ellis was a recent caller in Norwich.

Boat Ethel E., with Capt. Elmer Hewitt and Mate William Banks, as the crew, was fishing around Turner reef and saw a two-master fishing schooner fast on the reef and leaking badly. The Ethel E. went to her assistance and got a line to her and with a steady pull with the aid of a larger boat helped pull off the craft. Billie Moran, from Nantucket. It was towed to port where it will be hauled out on the drydock for caulking, also have some carpenter work done.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—The stock market displayed a complete reversal of form today, an early advance under the leadership of the rails and public utilities being followed by a sharp selling movement, which was directed chiefly against the pivotal industrials. Final quotations disclosed a curious mixture of gains and losses ranging from 1 to nearly 6 points.

There were no outward developments to explain the sudden change in speculative sentiment. The early buying movement was associated by market observers with reports of improvement in the steel industry; prospects of better railroad earnings, particularly in the northwest; and a lowering of the call money rate to 2 1-2 per cent. In the absence of any wide public following, the rally was not particularly impressive and apparently failed to dispel the feeling of uneasiness which has arisen over the expected increase in the volume of brokers' loans this week.

General Motors (old stock) broke from a high of 266 3-4 to 258 3-4, closing at 259 1-2 for a net loss of 5 1-2 points, despite widespread predictions of record-breaking third quarter earnings. The old stock will be stricken from the list on Oct. 8. The new stock closed at 129 1-2 for a net loss of 3 points. U. S. Steel common dropped from 150 1-2 to 146 5-8, a new low on the current down-swing, and closed at 146 5-7, off 3 1-8 net.

Outside the stock market, chief speculative interest again centered in cotton, which advanced $1.50 to nearly $2 a bale on reports of continued rain and cold weather in the southwest. Wheat prices advanced slightly but coffee lost part of yesterday's gain.

Railroad shares again came to the fore in the stock market, despite the disappointing character of some of the August earnings statements now being published. Chesapeake & Ohio common was the leader, climbing nearly six points to a record price of 204 1-2 and closing within a fraction of the top, good buying also was noted in the Erie issues, New Haven, Southern Pacific, Western Maryland common, Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, and Norfolk & Western, all of which showed substantial gains on the day.

Public utilities also resumed their advance, with Abitibi Power, American Water Works (new), American & Foreign Power, Peoples Gas and a few others mounting to a new high ground. Both mail order shares touched new peak prices on expectations of higher earnings through the increased purchasing power of the agricultural district.

An impaired technical position was disclosed in several of the specialties which recently enjoyed sharp advances. Warren Bros, which had been bid up to a record high in anticipation of a substantial profit from its Cuban and other road building contracts, broke nearly 7 points to 127. Losses of three points or more were sustained by American Radiator, Commercial Solvents (new), International Harvester, International Silver, Laclede Gas, and Montana Power.

Call money renewed at 4 and dropped to 3 1-2. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Except for a moderate recovery in French francs and a firming up of sterling rates, there was little of interest in the foreign exchange market.

JOHN BUMP DRANK NEW LONDON CIDER WHICH MAY HAVE CAUSED HIS DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 28—John Bump, 55, of Waterford, died at Home Memorial hospital last night following a surgical operation. He was a farm laborer and is survived by three brothers, Edward, Elisha and Richard Bump and by two sisters, Mrs. James Ridder, Old Lyme and Mrs. Katherine Champion, of Glastonbury. Today Edward Bump, R. F. D., No. 2, Waterford, and brother of the dead man went to police headquarters and said that he had obtained information that led him to believe that his brother had died from drinking poisonous cider. He was accompanied by John Dolan, 765 Ocean avenue, the dead man's employer, who said that Sunday, the day Bump was taken to the hospital the latter had remarked that he had drank a quantity of cider in New London Saturday night and that it was after he returned to Waterford that Bump was taken ill. Bump was operated upon by Dr. Thomas Solya, who has signed a certificate of death showing that Bump died from natural causes, so no autopsy will be held.

DEATH OF PINKY BURNS DUE TO TUBERCULOSIS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 28—Philip Halpern, 26, familiarly known as Pinky Burns, welterweight pugilist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Halpern, died this morning at 10 o'clock at the Mitchell ward of Lawrence-Memorial hospital from acute tuberculosis. Besides his parents, Halpern is survived by several brothers and sisters. Halpern had been ill but about ten days and was stricken at a time when apparently he was in excellent health. Neither Halpern, nor his friends were aware that his lungs were affected until the day before the fighter went to the hospital. The night before he was examined by a physician and it then developed that the lungs were badly affected. He entered the hospital and a day or two later he was compelled to take to his bed. The condition of the fighter rapidly became worse and for the past two days he had been delirious. Burns, had gained considerable prominence through his ring activities of a half dozen years. He had fought many welter-weights in Connecticut, most of them in this city, besides having fought in New York state and Rhode Island. He never was a first-rater, but he was a good semi-finalist when he wanted to exert himself and put forth his best efforts.

STOLEN NIANTIC CAR FOUND WITH REVOLVERS IN IT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 28—The police of Newburgh, N. Y., today notified the New London police that they had recovered an Overland roadster owned by Francis D. Tice, York avenue, Niantic, which was stolen in this city last Sunday night. The Newburg police said that the automobile had been abandoned and in it were two revolvers which the thieves had evidently overlooked when they left the car where it was found. The automobile was driven to New London last Sunday and while Tice attended a motion picture performance it was stolen from Bank street. Tice was notified of the recovery of the auto and left this afternoon for Newburgh to claim his property.

DR. JOHN G. STANTON DIED IN AMHERST WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 28—John G. Stanton, 78, former well known New London physician, died this morning at Amherst, Mass., from heart disease. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Alice Sheldon, wife of Harrison Sheldon, of New Haven. Mrs. Stanton died about 10 years ago. Dr. Stanton for several years was a member of the New London board of school visitors and was a member of the Thames club at the time of his death. The flag on that building, also on the municipal building have been set at half-mast in tribute to the dead physician. Dr. Stanton came to New London about a half century ago and started the practice of medicine, continuing in practice until about 10 years ago, in the residence formerly owned by Francis Allen, Huntington street, which is now closed and has been untenanted about three years. Dr. Stanton, who was on the staff of the former Memorial hospital and later on the staff of Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, was a graduate of Amherst college and received a liberal education. He studied medicine abroad, in Heidelberg, Germany, at Vienna and in England. He had suffered long from sciatica and angina pectoris and when he went to New Haven to reside with his daughter about three years ago, he suffered from the heart affection from time to time. While in New Haven, Dr. Stanton suffered an attack of sciatica, which confined him to the bed several weeks. Last spring when he recovered from the attack he went to Amherst and had since remained there. Recently he suffered a weakened condition of the heart and was again comprised to take to the bed. A few days ago his condition became serious and the end came this morning.

Councilor Lucius E. Whiton, who defeated Mayor William C. Fox at the polls last Monday by four votes, today caused two of his employes to make a check-up of the voting lists used in the fifth ward. The action of Councilor Whiton was taken because of the intimation by Mayor Fox that an error had been made in the count in that ward, when one machine showed that Whiton received but five more votes than Fox, while another machine gave Whiton credit for 105 more votes than Fox. Mayor Fox had not taken any steps today to contest the election.

The check-up, as determined by Whiton's counters, demonstrates that the check list shows that eight more voters voted than is showed by the count on the adding machines. What further action, if any, will be made by Whiton, remains to be determined.

Benjamin A. Armstrong has sold a building lot on Warren street to William Edwin Cruise.

In the police court this morning, a Norwich man, well known in that city, was charged with intoxication. He was fined $5, but execution of the sentence was suspended. SEVEN OFFENDERS ARRESTED IN AFTERNOON RAIDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 28—A series of raids was conducted here late this afternoon by prohibition, state and local officers and as a result seven men and women are under arrest charged with violation of the liquor law. In connection with the raids a man and women are also under arrest charged with fornication. All will be given hearings in the police court tomorrow morning.

Two weeks ago the state police caused a stool pigeon to be assigned to the task of securing evidence against places that were reputed to be places where liquor was being dispensed. After evidence had been obtained it was decided to proceed with the raids this afternoon and search warrants being procured, Prohibition Officer Joseph F. Fitzpatrick, Lieut. Stremlau and Officers Bernard Kennerson, George Sisson, Donald Brown and Edward Gavitt, state police and Sergeants Nelson Smith, John Cavanaugh and Samuel Hick and Patrolmen Clarence Wells, Dennis Murphy, John Sullivan and Station House Keeper Frank Corcoran participated in the raids. These resulted in the arrest of the accused, together with the seizure of a quantity of liquor of the "hootch" variety. The places raided were the residence of George Bates, colored, 12 Hill street; Mrs. Emily Severino, 42 Bayonet street; Mrs. Rose Manning, 65, of 93 Smith street; Stanley Roberts, colored, of 119 North Bank street; Peter Mros, 111 North Bank street; Larney Brewer, 195 Main street and Aroldo Secchiaroli, 58 Goshen street, charged with violation of the liquor law. The officers claim that they have evidence of actual sales on all those arrested and in some places a small quantity of liquor was seized as further evidence. In the instances where liquor was found a second charge will be levied. Mros has been arrested several times, having been fined and served terms in jail on the same charge. After the raids officers went to the house, 195 Main street, heretofore conducted by Thomas Mahoney and wife, now serving a term in jail because they were unable to pay their respective fines of $50 Monday when convicted of keeping a disorderly house. There they found Minnie Kerson, black, and Claude Stewart, white, occupying the same bed. They were arrested on a charge of fornication. The Kerson woman has a long political record. Stewart is a new comer into the clutches of the law.

Thomas Severina, son of Mrs. Severina, whose Bayonet street house was raided, resulting in her arrest, reported to the police later that when he returned home, he discovered that his trunk had been forced open and ransacked and that $200 was missing.

Henry R. Eshenfelder, 267 Montauk avenue, while driving an automobile at the corner of Franklin and Hempstead streets this evening struck and knocked over George Mallach, 7, of 25 Garfield avenue. The boy was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital where his injuries were found to be bruises and scratches.

The state police this evening requested the New London police to be on the lookout for the driver of an automobile carrying Connecticut registration, L-4292, who is wanted for evasion of responsibility. It is understood that the auto is owned by a resident of the town of East Lyme.

Mary Saderaky, residing in the Soltz block, North Bank street, made complaint to the police tonight that a Polish man had smashed two windows of her home. Patrolman William Riordan was assigned to investigate the complaint and arrested the alleged offender. He was locked up and will be in the police court tomorrow.

An excited person caused a still alarm to be sent to fire headquarters tonight, which resulted in Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and the Ockford Hose company responding for a supposed fire on Dell avenue. When the firemen arrived there it was found that a resident was destroying a quantity of rubbish by burning it and there was no need for the services of the firemen.

The Connecticut League of Women Voters was in session in this city this afternoon. The principal business transacted was the submission of a tentative budget for the ensuing year. The estimate of the necessary expenses for the conduct of affairs of the league is $16,000. Mrs. Mary Buckley, of Hartford was the presiding officer. Reports from the several districts of the state were received and were of a favorable nature.

Broadway Theatre

"Hula" brings that lovable madcap of the screen, Clara Bow, back to Norwich. It will head the program at the Broadway theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

As "Hula" pet of the Calhoun plantation, Clara is said to have her best role since "It". She appears as a carefree miss who, on the eve of her sixteenth birthday, falls madly in love with a handsome young English engineer, Clive Brook. Although he doesn't say so at first, he too, is attracted toward the magnetic girl. Finally, the inevitable happens, Clara forces him to admit his love but at the same time, she also learns that Brook is the victim of an unhappy marriage. His wife, an unscrupulous fortune hunter, refuses to grant him a divorce. In addition to this, Clara finds another woman attempting to win Brook away. How she emerges from her predicament provides Paramount's scintillating star with plenty of opportunities for showing off her own peculiar talents.

Albert Gran is her dissolute father and Agostino Borgato, her uncle. Victor Fleming, maker of "Manntrap," "The Rough Riders" and "The Way of All Flesh" directed.

Prices within reach of all.

Frigidaire

How quickly the great American public becomes interested in any sort of device intended for its pleasure, comfort and convenience, has been well illustrated during the fair by the unusual crowds that have gathered at the exhibit of electric refrigerators displayed by Carl W. Brown, Inc., local Frigidaire dealer.

"Home comforts still remain uppermost in the minds of most people," Mr. Brown said in commenting upon the unusual interest created by his display. "Anything which makes life more enjoyable and pleasant is sure to arouse interest of the householder. All types of people have stopped at the Frigidaire exhibit, and by their conversation plainly indicated that interest in this better means of protecting the family food has become almost universal."

A feature of this exhibit, and one indicating the general trend of the industry was a display of the latest household model Frigidaire, selling at the lowest price in the history of the business, and particularly adapted to the needs of the family. This particular model was developed as the result of many years of research by Frigidaire engineers, assisted by members of the General Motors research staff, of which corporation Frigidaire is a subsidiary.

"Electric refrigeration has gained its great hold upon public interest by striking at the heart of the home's most difficult problem—that of food preservation," Mr. Brown said. "Family health is dependent upon the condition of the food served, and electric refrigeration is the most efficient means of maintaining the food supply in a healthful condition."

Mr. Brown said that recent introduction of the Frigidaire low price model had completely wiped out class distinction so far as possibility of securing electric refrigeration facilities was concerned.

"There is a Frigidaire for every purse and family," he said. "People stopping at the exhibit were in many cases surprised at the ease with which it is possible to install a frigidaire in their homes."

Breed Theater

Romance, thrills, comedy and mystery—all these are incorporated into Black Paradise, the Fox Films production featuring Edmund Lowe, Madge Bellamy and Leslie Fenton, which comes to the Breed theater Friday and Saturday.

It is something new in the way of a story, something that is not purely a detective yarn, nor yet the story of a crook, but into which each element is blended in a way that will hold the attention of the audience from start to finish.

The plot centers around a beautiful young girl who discovers her fiance has broken his word to her and gone back to his profession as a burglar on the morning of their wedding. He comes to her apartment, while escaping from the police, and she becomes implicated in the affair through shielding him.

They escape to a sailing vessel, one of a fleet of rum runners, followed closely by the detective. One aboard the boat the captain proves friendly to the young couple, and the owner of the boat, and the contraband liquor enterprise turns out to be an old enemy of the detective.

From that moment on the action becomes more and more intense working up to a totally unexpected and unusual climax and ending.

Edward Piel, noted for his ability to portray sinister characters, is cast in the heavy role with Paul Panzer aiding him in his villainies. Harvey Clark, Doris Lloyd and Sam Blum complete the cast.

R. William Neill, co-author of the original story from which the picture was adapted directed the production.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Building operations in Norwich and vicinity progressed with favorable speed during the past week which was an ideal week for construction work. A number of projects that were well along reached the completion stage while others were brought well along. Contractors in the city reported that plenty of work was in sight, especially small jobs that were held up during the summer by the rainy weather.

During the past week the two houses on West Thames between Newcombe street and Nelson place were completed and are ready for occupancy. On Dunham street two houses were practically completed during the past week.

Work was started this week on the remodeling of the lower floor of the Shannon building for Liggett's drug store which has leased additional space on the ground floor.

At the Central Baptist church work on the two brick additions to the church progressed rapidly and the contractors are at work on the interior the brick walls having been completed and the window casings set in place.

Other buildings have made like progress and with cold weather not many weeks away an effort is being made by contractors to complete all exterior and cement work before the cold sets in. The concrete foundation work on the Silberman building is progressing rapidly and will be ready for the brick and steel work with a short time.

At the office of Fire Marshal Stanton during the past week several applications for building were filed and the permits will be granted this week. The majority of the permits are for smaller buildings and alterations. The month of September will run about the same as the normal average according to indications so far this month. The number of permits will be fairly large but the total valuation will be rather smaller than during the same period last year.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were six sales of real estate, one less than during the same week in 1926. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were [illegible] and $35,510.

There were 19 sales of real estate in New London during the past week, an increase of four sales over the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $91,300 and $114,125.

Building Survey

A survey of the building industry made on a nation-wide scale has recently been completed by S. W. Straus and company in which it was revealed that wage bonuses have been completely eliminated. That the building wage scale is well stabilized at present levels and that there has been a considerable let-up in employment are other important conclusions arrived at as a result of the survey. Although the problem of wage bonuses has not been felt in this state for some time, it was not until recently that the practice of employers bidding against one another for skilled workers had entirely disappeared in the country's biggest building centers. The current Straus announcement is of interest in-as-much as it emphasizes the fact that the country as a whole, in-so-far as building labor is concerned, has returned to an approximately normal condition. "Since the mid-summer of 1926," says the report, "building permit records throughout the country have indicated a definite and consistent downward trend in the nation's building activities. This down-grade is not a desperate decline, but it is down-grade, nevertheless."

Up to last Sunday night the contest flock had produced a grand total of 242,288 eggs.

Clarence E. Lee's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Farmingdale, Long Island, led the field of high scorers during the forty-seventh week with a score of 55 eggs. Another entry of the same breed owned by F. E. Freeman from Middletown, Ohio, placed second with a count of 52 eggs. The Hollywood Poultry Farm, White Leghorns from Woodinville, Wash., and George B. Treadwell's Rhode Island Reds from Spencer, Mass., tied for third place with a tally of 51 eggs each. Four entries laid 48 eggs apiece to tie for fourth position. They include the Rhode Island Reds owned by Hall Brothers from Wallingford, Conn., and three pens of White Leghorns entered by F. M. Johnson from Waldoboro, Maine, the North Poultry farm from McAlisterville, Pa., and the Broadview farm from Winsted, Conn.

The Hollywood White Leghorns, which have been leading the entire contest since the twenty-fourth week, almost hit the 2,500 egg mark last week. Their score of 2,497 eggs fell three short of that figure, however, though these ten pullets will go well over 2,500 eggs during the forty-eighth week. The second high pen in the contest, White Leghorns owned by George B. Ferris from Grand Rapids, Mich., has a total of 2,366 eggs up to last Sunday night. This is 5 eggs better than the winning score for last year's contest. The Mayhill Poultry Farm White Leghorns from Marion, Ind., came within 7 eggs of equalling last year's high mark. The No. 9 pullet in the Hollywood pen laid 292 eggs to Sunday night, while No. 8 in Ferris' pen had a total of 286 eggs to her credit in the same length of time.

When Dennis Comes Home to His Tay

They may talk of their horses an' houses,
The pictures that hang on the wall,
The fine sparkin' rings on their fingers,
The servants that come at their call,
The swish of their silks an' their satins,
Roast beef and plum puddin' each day—
But I envy no woman her riches
When Dennis comes home to his tay!

To be sure, when he goes in the morain',
With the children to clean an' to comb,
An' the three little rooms to make decent
In the bit of a place here at home,
With mendin' an' washin' an' makin',
An' dinner to get, by the way,
There isn't much time to be idle
Until he comes home to his tay.

But then we're as nice and as tidy
As if we had money galore!
The stove like a cat's eye is shinin',
You could eat your three meals on the floor,
The bit of a plant in the window
Is as fresh as a morain' in May,
An' the children go wild with their nonsense
When Dennis comes home to his tay;

The kettle is singin' its welcome,
There's a good bit of beef in the pot,
The tablecloth's clane—for I washed it—
The dish of potatoes is hot;
We're healthy, an' happy, an' hearty,
So thank God for His blessin', I say!
For 'tis we that have cause to be thankful
When Dennis comes home to his tay.

For then, with his pipe in the corner,
He can sit down as well as the best,
With his bit of man's gossip to give me,
An' I have my minute to rest
An' to tell him the news of the neighbors,
While the children go on with their play—
Oh! I envy no woman her riches
When Dennis comes home to his tay!

Mary Elizabeth Blake

Fortitude

It is not life that counts for much;
With thwarted hope and futile power,
We snatch the cup from fortune's clutch,
And drain its lees in one wild hour.

Nor death itself can count for more;
The years must end, our loved depart,
And leave within us, stricken sore,
The bleeding tendrils of our heart.

'Tis only courage matters here;
The wounds be many, faint the breath,
It is our role to master fear,
To mount life's ramparts, vanquish death.

Mrs. Spendix—No, dear, I think not. Any payments due on the house, the radio, the furniture, the rugs, or the books?
No.
Then I have $10 we don't need.—Tit-Bits, London.

This seems a new contribution to an old form of international pleasantry:

In England everything is permitted that is not forbidden.
In Austria everything is permitted that is forbidden.—Outlook.

TRUMBULL SAYS NORWICH IS IN PATH OF PROGRESS

Henry Trumbull, vice president of the Connecticut chamber of commerce and treasurer of the Trumbull Electric Manufacturing Co., in a letter addressed to James L. Case, president of the Norwich chamber of commerce, says he believes Norwich is on the threshold of taking a step forward by virtue of the expansion of its chamber of commerce. Mr. Trumbull's letter follows:

Mr. James L. Case, President,
Norwich Chamber of Commerce,
Norwich, Connecticut.

Dear Mr. Case: As vice president of the state chamber and as one who is strongly intereated in the development of our Connecticut communities, it gives me great pleasure to express to you the conviction that Norwich is on the threshold of taking a step forward by virtue of the expansion of its chamber of commerce.

A chamber of commerce with a practical and helpful program for the development and welfare of the community is an organization that is a distinct asset to any community. I feel sure that the Norwich chamber will prove to be of this type.

You have the sincere wishes of the state chamber for your success. It has been a pleasure for us to work with you on various matters in connection with your new policy of expansion.

Yours very truly,
HENRY TRUMBULL,
Vice-President.

Sept. 26, 1927

Arthur M. Brown, general chairman of the chamber expansion campaign, which is to open Friday night at 6.15 in the Wauregan hotel has today addressed a letter to the citizens of Norwich, calling attention to the chamber of commerce and to its present program, which is summarized on the leaflet enclosed with the letter, entitled, "Program of Progress Adopted By The Norwich Chamber of Commerce."

Mr. Brown's letter reads as follows:

Fellow Citizens: The Norwich chamber of commerce is a going institution. Its record of accomplishment is an open book. Its present program includes activities which deserve the whole-hearted support of every patriotic and loyal citizen.

I am writing this letter believing that only in rare instances has an honest-to-goodness, real, public-spirited citizen a good reason or excuse for staying out of this most useful of all community movements.

The man, who lends his brains, his energy and some of his money to the efforts of his fellow citizens in directing the constructive forces of his community along the course that is best for the town, is a useful citizen.

In unity there is strength, sound reasoning and intelligent action.

We have a live chamber of commerce in this fine community of ours. Why should we not all do our share in keeping up the good work?

Cordially yours,
ARTHUR M. BROWN,
General Chairman.

NORWICH TOWN

FOURTEEN BABY SNAKES ARE TO BE GIVEN AWAY

One of the many copper-head snakes, captured on his annual snake hunt during May by James F. Turnbull of Wauwecus Hill, when in company with George VanBuren, of Stonington, gave birth recently to fourteen young ones. These specimens are just as dangerous and snappy from birth, being also as vicious and poisonous as the mother snake, which soon deserts them, and fails to care for them. Because of this peculiar feature the cluster of small snakes will have to be disposed by feeding them to some other reptiles, in Mr. Turnbull's collection.

The mother snake was captured at Meshomesick National Forest, Portland, Conn. Mr. Van Buren, who visits Mr. Turnbull's home each year, is state commissioner of the Reptile Study society of America. He and Mr. Turnbull are reptile enthusiasts, each having a large collection of the crawlers.

Miss Margaret Connolly has returned from the Eastern States exposition at Camp Vail, Springfield, where she spent the week of September 18-24. She and Miss Dorothy Stokes, of Old Saybrook, were delegates from the 4-H clubs of Connecticut, having won the state championship in clothing demonstration at the Charter Oak fair, Hartford, in August, 1926. This entitled them to scholarships at the 1927 junior short course at Connecticut Agricultural college, as well as to a trip to Camp Vail. This camp was attended by 4-H boys and girls from the eastern states. Their participation was a notable feature of the exposition this year.

The judges in the garden contest are prepared to render their decision and a meeting of the Rural association is to be held accordingly in the chapel on the Norwich Town Green, at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

At the First Congregational church, Sunday is to be "Family day," when it is expected that parishioners and friends will be represented by entire families, at the morning worship.

At the Sacred Heart church Wednesday morning at 7:30, the pastor Rev. Edward J. Quinn, celebrated a month's mind requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of John F. Burns, late of Peck's Corner. The musical part of the mass was under the direction of Mrs. William A. Murphy, organist. At the offertory, Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis and at the conclusion of the mass, she sang Abide, With Me.

AT LEAST 55 PERSONS WERE KILLED BY TORNADO IN ST. LOUIS AND VICINITY

Hundreds of Persons Were Injured—The Property Loss is Estimated at $75,000,000—Six Square Miles Were Razed—Block After Block of Houses Were Completely Demolished—Wind Reached a Velocity of 90 Miles an Hour.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29—(AP)—Striking in all its fury a tornado which came out of the south western skies shortly after noon today, had left in its wake tonight a list of 55 known dead, hundreds of injured and a property loss estimated at $75,000,000. Six square miles were razed and torn and block after block of homes were completely demolished.

The twister had reached a velocity of 90 miles an hour a few seconds after striking but subsided as many minutes later to be followed by a brilliant sun which crept through wind-torn clouds.

Rescuers working through the night believed that the death list may run well over sixty, while the estimate of the injured was placed at 300 or more.

The West Side, section of boulevards, trees and houses of moderately wealthy St. Louisans, lay covered with a blanket of uprooted trees, torn timber and bricks out of which crawled injured men, women and children, black and grimy as though emerging from the bowels of the earth.

An estimate of 2,500 homes were either wrecked or damaged while the streets and boulevards were clogged with fallen telephone poles, hundreds of trees and debris. Trolley wires torn from their supports spat blue flame as they met the car tracks and the shouts of policemen kept terrified people from injury or death from the charged wires.

With telephone service demoralized, took the city several minutes this afternoon to learn what had happened. News of the great twister was flashed over the city by radio and others in parts of the city unvisited by the storm were in terror as they awaited word from the schools in the tornado district.

The tornado was accompanied by a terrific rain which added to the desolation. In many parts of the city houses and factories were crumpled like toys.

With the first flash reaching fire and police headquarters a general mobilization of every available policeman and fireman was set up and the storm area quickly blocked to pedestrians by a hastily formed cordon. Behind the cordon were hastily organized units of relief and men began digging into heaps of stone and brick in search of the buried.

Beside wrecked structures stood groups of individuals some dazed, others crying for help. Willing workers were provided and here and there elderly women and men were helped from their homes.

The pupils had fled from the lately remodelled Central high school when parts of the exterior structure fell and there was fear that the roof would cave in. Sixteen children were injured but none are known to have died.

Then came the wailing of fire and police sirens as they sped to the scene where three unidentified women were killed, two of whom were burned to death in one of the many fires that followed the catastrophe.

Detective Sergeant Edward Schaaf, and an unidentified patrolman, hastily rushing into the storm district were killed by a falling wall.

A score of expectant mothers or mothers with babes in their arms were carried to safety from the Mullanphy hospital, many of them becoming hysterical, when the wind sideswiped the building sending the roof and upper section to the ground.

Every available policeman was brought to the area and Police Chief Gerk immediately issued an order to "Shoot all looters," ending with the grim admonition to "make coroner's cases of them."

As the agencies of rescue and succor were getting into motion, the city was again enveloped by weird greenish light which sent terror to the hearts of the storm sufferers. This shortly turned pinkish hue and torrents of rain fell into a darkness unrelieved by the thousands of broken and useless street lamps.

So swiftly came the storm that varying descriptions were given by the frightened onlookers. A tense heavy silence preceded the wind. There were dull drumming sounds and shortly the twisting black clouds, characteristic of tornadoes, bore down from the southwest, and the work of the twister was begun.

Everywhere the sound of crashing glass could be heard. The air was filled with huge missles which tore off chimneys, penetrated roofs and zoomed through the weaving trees.

Governor Sam Baker, anticipating the possibility of disorders in the stricken zone tonight directed Colonel Stephen E. Lowe to order out as many companies of guardsmen in St. Louis as was necessary to assist in tornado relief and patrol work.

Every city department turned toward relief work while army kitchens from Jefferson barracks and two department stores were sent to two general relief headquarters established in the district.

The Red Cross sprang into action and tonight 100 automobiles were patrolling the streets to pick up stray sufferers. The organization established a first aid station where the less seriously injured were being taken.

The lists of dead and injured grew as police, firemen, physicians, nurses, welfare workers and volunteers began restoring order.

The storm revived memories of the worst storm catastrophe in the city, that of May 27, 1896, which killed a total of 140 persons.

HOUSES BLOWN DOWN IN VILLAGE OF RUDY, ARK.

RUDY, Ark., Sept. 29—(AP)—Half of the village of Rudy, prosperous fruit shipping center nestling in a pocket surrounded by the Boston Mountains lay twisted and torn tonight, attesting to the fury of a tornado that dipped down upon it today, injuring 10 persons, one probably fatally and smashing everything in its path.

Of the 35 homes and business houses that sheltered Rudy's 150 residents, only the Frisco Railway depot, five stores and half a dozen dwellings remained intact. Among structures demolished was the Missionary Baptist church. Fourteen homes were leveled, while a barn and blacksmith shop were scattered over a wide area.

Mrs. Garvin Graham and her baby were injured when their home was toppled, and it was feared the infant was hurt fatally. The other injured were expected to recover.

L. D. Pitts, Frisco station agent, said he saw dark gray and black clouds merge into a dark funnel shaped cloud west of town about 9 o'clock this morning. The funnel dipped down over a ridge west of the village and struck the north side and cut diagonally to and directly over Frog Bayou. It then swept south, rising as it struck the hills east of town. The school was on the north side in the rim of the storm's path.

A Frisco southbound passenger train pulled out of the station two car lengths ahead of the storm, and escaped undamaged.

Rudy has no resident physician, and hurried calls were sent to Alma.

SHOOTING IN MERIDEN WITHOUT PROVOCATION

MERIDEN, Sept. 29—(AP)—The victim of an attack for which the police could find no provocation, John Kwikala, 40, of Ann street extension, suffered gunshot wounds of the right forearm and left leg and a severe scalp wound inflicted by the butt of a gun late today.

Albert Rooke, 64, of Ann street extension, in whose home the shooting occurred, is being held on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon in connection with the shooting. Several years ago, the police have learned, Rooke was an inmate of the Connecticut state hospital for the insane at Middletown.

Kwikala told the police that he had gone to Rooke's house to get a hat which he had left there earlier in the day, and Rooke is said to have peremptorily ordered him off his land. Before Kwikala had a chance to leave the house, two shots had been fired at him and as he sank to the floor he was struck over the head with the butt of the gun.

A few hours earlier the two had eaten their lunch together at Kwikala's home.

Kwikala walked to his home unassisted after the attack and a doctor and the police were summoned.

Rooke offered no resistance when confronted by three members of the detective bureau.

MODERN GIRL KNOWS MORE THAN HER GRANDMOTHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(AP)—The modern ten-year-old girl knows more than her grandmother learned in all her life, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the Secretary of commerce, said today at the 13th annual convention of the Girl Scouts of America.

"The development of the whole American girl is too big a subject to be disposed of in a sentence," she said, "but I don't think the girl of today is a bit different from the girl of her mother's or her grandmother's day. Modern girls have to know more than formerly because there is so much more to know. Frequently the girl of today at 10 years knows more than her grandmother knew before she died."

Mrs. Hoover was re-elected first vice president of the Girl Scouts of America. Miss Sarah Louise Arnold, Dean Emerita of Simmons college, was re-elected president.

Four Men Held For $79,000 Bond Fraud

Operated Near Wilkesbarre, Pa., With Stolen Bonds of City of Bridgeport.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 29—(AP)—Four men, alleged to have aided in the flotating in this vicinity of the bonds of the city of Bridgeport, Conn., stolen from the Garfield National bank of New York last June [illegible] arrested today.

One of those ta[illegible] to custody, B. H. McKeehan [illegible]ment insurance man of Wi[illegible], Pa., was sent to the Luzerne [illegible] jail in default of $20,000 b[illegible] the others, John J. Walsh, me[illegible] of Plains township; D. F. Mi[illegible]an, justice of the peace of Wilkesbarre township, and A. M. Bernstein, merchant of Wilkesbarre City, were released in $5,000 bail each as material witnesses.

Approximately $50,000 of the stolen bonds were located in banks in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties by County Detective Dempsey, who handled the investigation, and bonds to the value of $29,000 were found in Chicago.

Sensational stories are in circulation regarding the flotating of the bonds in this region and it was indicated in the testimony given before Judges Fuller and McLean that at least a portion of the money realized was used in furthering the campaign of one of the candidates for sheriff at the recent primary.

In addition to the Bridgeport bonds, stolen bonds of Portland Oregon, and the Republic of Poland were also put up as collateral in local banks. The amount of these bonds is not definitely known, but it was testified that McKeehan had obtained a $2,500 loan from an Ashley bank on bonds of the city of Bridgeport, Conn. On July 5 the bank loaned Mr. McKeehan $2,500 on $3,000 of Bridgeport sewer bonds.

E. W. Innes, assistant cashier of the First National bank of this city, said the bank loaned Walsh $4,500 on a note on August 24, taking as security $5,000 of the Bridgeport sewer bonds, that Harry Sperling endorsed the Walsh note, which was paid by check to Mr. Walsh, the check being endorsed by the Goodyear Rubber company of this city of which Bernstein is owner.

Walsh testified that he received $5,000 of Bridgeport bonds from McKeehan and that he later gave them to Bernstein. Bernstein, the witness said, gave the money to Sperling and he asserted it was used in the campaign for sheriff. Talked Only on State Issues at the New York State Democratic Convention.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 29—(AP)—Hailed enthusiastically by the 1,200 delegates of the democratic state convention as the next president of the United States, Governor Alfred E. Smith in a lengthy address today did not make the slightest reference to the nomination nor to national issues.

"I am here to talk on state issues," he said, almost as his opening statement. "This is a state convention and questions of state interests are all we are now interested in."

His "lead" was followed by U. S. Senator Robert Wagner and other party orators who succeeded to the rostrum. All confined themselves to discussion of state finances, water power policy and similar subjects which have been or are expected to become principal platforms in the state campaign.

The threat of Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, of New York, wet leader of the lower house of the legislature, to introduce a resolution placing the convention on record as requesting congress to take steps for the repeal of the prohibition amendment, did not materialize. Assemblyman Cuvillier took no part in the proceedings, and the subject of prohibition was not mentioned during the convention.

The official party moves on tonight to Switzerland and Belgium while other parties, just arriving, are descending on Rome from the north to bask in the Italian sunshine before going home.

BEACH'S COUNSEL INDICTED FOR OBSTRUCTING JUSTICE

The Indictments Charge Edison Hedges, Youthful Attorney, With "Spiriting Away a Material Witness" in the Murder Case of Dr. Lilliendahl—Mrs. Lilliendahl Remains in Her Cottage, But Refuses to Admit Interviewers.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 29—(AP)—Edison Hedges, youthful attorney for Willis Beach, South Vineland, poultry raiser, who is wanted on a charge of aiding and abetting in the slaying of Dr. William Lilliendahl, was indicted today on two counts by the May term of the Atlantic county grand jury for obstructing justice.

The indictments were returned after the grand jury had heard twelve witnesses, nine of them newspaper men, relate conversations they had with Hedges after Beach disappeared Tuesday. The grand jury sat in the court house at Mays Landing and the result of their action was made public by Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle, who notified Chief of County Detectives Frank J. Harrold at Hammonton.

Hedges was alleged to have made several varied statements. At one time he was quoted as having said that he had advised his client to leave the state and again that he had not advised him to leave, but that he would not turn him over to county authorities and state police.

The indicments charged Hedges with "spiriting away a material witness," and "spiriting away a man wanted for a crime." Bench warrants for Hedges' arrest were issued.

Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, who says she knew Beach only as a "man who helped Dr. Lilliendahl with the chickens" locked herself about the little cottage on the main road South Vineland today, but refused to admit interviewers.

Dr. Lilliendahl was shot to death September 15 as he sat in his automobile. His widow told detectives that he was slain by two negroes who robbed her. Authorities said her statements were incomplete and soon gave up the hunt for the negroes.

Police said Leone was running away after slashing Tony Julius, 30, also of East Boston, with a razor. Leone told police Julius ran away from East Boston about nine months ago with Mrs. Leone and the three Leone children.

Julius disappeared and police failed in their efforts to locate the Leone family. The wounded man was charged with felonious assault and violating the Sullivan anti-gun law.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29—(AP)—A fight for may or of Philadelphia, behind which is the real prize, the control of the republican organization of Philadelphia now headed by Senator-elect W. S. Vare, was forecast today when J. Hampton Moore agreed to stand as an independent candidate for the mayoralty.

Mr. Moore, who is a former mayor and a former congressman, gave his word to run to a committee which had urged him to stand after he had been defeated for the republican nomination in the primary last week by Harry A. Mackey, who was supported by the regular organization.

The former mayor was defeated by approximately 30,000 plurality, but his supporters said they regarded the heavy vote polled by him as an indication of general dissatisfaction among republicans with the present leadership and that the opportunity to overthrow the reigning regime should not be thrown away.

SAYS PLANE COLUMBIA IS UNFIT FOR OCEAN FLIGHT

Rome, Sept. 29—(AP)—The monoplane Columbia which successfully carried Charles A. Levine and Clarence Chamberin across the Atlantic, would never be able to fly the Atlantic with its present propeller, Captain Walter Hinchcliffe, Levine's present pilot said here today.

Captain Hinchcliffe said the plane had engine and propellor trouble from the time it left England on its projected non-stop flight to India and hence was forced down at Vienna. He said the plane was only doing 75 miles and hour instead of 125 and that was why he figured that an Atlantic crossing could not be accomplished.

Hinchcliffe came here with Levine on their way to the Balkans. They hoped to leave tomorrow for Belgrade or Constantinople if Levine should succeed in getting an interview with Premier Mussolini in time.

WHITE HAIRED MAN TOLD OF MURDER OF RIVAL

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Sept. 29—(AP)—Charles Price, white haired truck driver of Lambertville, today told a jury of nine men and three women how he cut across fields last April, intercepted his young wife buggy riding with another man, and slew the rival.

Following the lines of his attorney's argument when the defense was opened earlier in the day, Price swore the other man, Ed. Masterson, a bachelor about 30 years his junior, urged the horse forward and ran him down when he seized the bridle.

Three shots were fired. The first accidental, and the next two were aimed high, Price said, in an effort to frighten Masterson into halting. One bullet struck the bachelor between the shoulder blades.

A sworn agreement executed before a notary by which Price permitted his wife Laura to go riding with Masterson provided she cooked meals and kept house for her husband, was not brought into court records.

Masterson was shot after dusk on April 25. Price surrendered.

The state is asking a penalty of death.

Cassell tried to bring the plane back to the landing field but it went into a tail spin and crashed in a meadow, not far from the fair grounds.

Smith was dead when spectators reached the scene. Martin and Cassell were taken to the Newcastle hospital, the former suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries. Cassell was not seriously hurt.

The plane was wrecked.

NEW SCHOOL ADDITION TO BE COMPLETED THANKSGIVING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 29—Unless there is an upset in weather conditions, the major part of Willimantic's new educational structure—the large addition to the Windham street school—will be completed by Thanksgiving. The school is under state supervision and is conducted in conjunction with the State Normal school. The contractors stated today that the progress was notable in view of the fact that there had been a series of delays in shipment of tiling and other material. At present the foundation walls are complete, the concrete floor of the first story has been laid and the tile wall of the second floor has been started. The large plot of land purchased for the school site and for recreation grounds is now clear of the several residential houses which were on it. Some were torn down and others were moved to other locations. The last of these buildings owned by Herbert I. Sanderson, Jr., is now on the rollers being moved to a new site on Tingley street.

Superintendent B. C. Howard of the construction of the school, stated today that the labor union difficulty which had held up the laying of the steam pipes from the main boiler room of the normal school to the new structure, had been overcome. The trench for the pipe line had been dug across Valley street and because of union troubles has remained unfilled, closing traffic on the street for over seven weeks. It was said that while the main contract had been awarded to an open shop firm, the contract for ventilation, heating and plumbing was given to a Norwich union contractor. When workmen started to lay the steam pipes in the trench, union representatives halted the work with an affidavit that union men were not to work on the job. Superintendent Howard said that the Norwich concern had turned the work over to another contractor not a member of the union constituency. The installation of the steam pipes has now gotten underway and in a short time the trench will be filled, allowing travel over that section of Valley street between Windham and High streets.

Father Bartlewski read a committal prayer. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

The tenth annual Mansfield fair held at Storrs today attracted hundreds from various sections of eastern Connecticut. Although the fair is conducted along conservative lines there were many attractions to be found especially by those interested in agriculture. Hawley armory was teeming with activity. Stands along the walls and in double rows through the center of the spacious drill shed were heavily stocks with exhibits of flowers, vegetables, fancy work, quilts, wearing apparel and various merchandise. On the grounds were the various booths and try-your-luck stands which attend all fairs, and a ferris wheel. A large section of the lawn was reserved for an automobile display by Willimantic dealers. At the rear of the armory the various contests were carried out, including quoit throwing and pulling matches between husky teams of oxen. There was a generous display of live stock, featuring poultry and cattle.

The criminal side of the September term of the Windham county superior court which adjourned two weeks ago, is to be resumed in this city, Tuesday, October 4 with Judge L. P. The meeting was held in the chapel at Hampton Wednesday with Mrs. Alice Burchnall in charge. School Supervisor Levi T. Garrison recommended that the widely separated five schools of the town be consolidated and gave evidence to show that similar consolidations in other towns had worked to advantage. Egbert A. Case, superintendent of the school of Windham was another speaker. He reviewed the Benefits of cooperation between the home and the community on educational matters. After today store clerks must return to duty on Thursday afternoons until the half-holiday again becomes the rule next summer. Stores have been closed here on Thursday afternoons for the past five months. An effort on the part of the Willimantic Clerks' Protective association to secure half holidays throughout the year was recently defeated by a vote of the Business Men's association.

The exodus of the tenants of the Card block on Main street is now on. The ancient structure is to be razed to make way for a modern commercial building to be known as the Hall block and which will contain two stores. A butter and egg store, a fruit store, a barber shop, a sign painting shop and flat occupant make up the list of those vacating.

Because of the delay in laying the steam pipes to the model school, it has been found necessary to transfer all of the grades of that school with the exception of the kindergarten, to the Normal school building. Necessarily, sessions are being held on part time. Now that union difficulties have been overcome and the pipes are being installed, it is expected that the grades will return to the model school in about two weeks. The first grade of that school, which has been holding sessions in a room at the town building for the past few years due to overcrowded conditions, has the benefit of full time.

In compliance with a request made by owners of moving trucks the common council has caused signs to be installed on a section of North street prohibiting the parking of any vehicle but a truck in the reserved space. The police found cause today to tag three automobiles which had been parked in the space. The request for a restricted territory by the truckmen came when a return to parallel parking was made on Main street and trucks were prohibited from parking on the main thoroughfare except to load or unload. The truckmen, pointing to the fact that taxies were allowed to remain on Main street, said that inasmuch as they were taxpayers and represented a public commodity they should be given some restricted area to park. The restriction against pleasure cars is effective from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m.

NOANK

The mystery power search light is again in action in the village. Several persons saw the heavy set man flashing it in different windows. Night Cop Elmer Baker was on his beat along Railroad avenue when the telephone bell rang in front of the town hall. He came on a hard run to answer the request to go down to West View avenue where a power light was flashing around. Some of the people cannot sleep. Night Cop Baker stayed around but could not find the man with the light, so after putting in four hours of watching he gave it up. Another resident on East Main street reports going to bed Monday night and he saw the light playing around the sky. That time it came from Pearl street and it was about 11.30 p. m. An auto party was coming from a dance in Essex and near the driver's home the light was right in his eyes. He could not see so the car hit a wall and spoiled a tire that cost him $22.

DANIELSON

CHESTNUT TREES AGAIN PRODUCING THEIR BURRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 29—Boys! Here's some news for you: It will not be long now before you're all out picking chestnuts again. This morning Selectman Hugh Gorman, Jr., of Brooklyn brought over to Danielson a small branch from one of the new chestnut growths. He presented it to Chief John McFarland of the borough police, with the information that it came from the farm of his father, Hugh Gorman, Sr., a resident of the Allen Hill section of the town of Brooklyn. The branch carried four fully developed burrs, and one, thinking of days long since past, sort of itched to pull these burrs part to disclose the meaty nuts that they undoubtedly contained.

In the day and age four chestnut burrs on a tiny branch is a really, truly sensation. They appear to constitute a promise of the re-birth of the vast chestnut growths that were the joy and pride of all the territory hereabouts for generations. The chestnut tree was a New England institution for ages, probably. Great groves of those stately trees were common to this area of the country. The trees themselves were a prolific source of revenue to the owners of them—for lumber of various sorts for poles and for fence posts, fire wood and what not. Picking up the nuts that grew upon them and came tumbling down into the deep bed of leaves beneath them soon after the season of hard frosts arrived was an early fall delight that lingers in the memory of all of those who have lived and gloried in outdoor life prior to the advent of the jazz period.

Sentimentally, the return of the chestnut is, to older people, akin to some reviving sensation. Commercially it is vastly more important. The chestnuts are coming back. Out of the dead and decayed stumps of giant chestnut trees that were killed by the blight that practically obliterated these arboreal growths in this section of southern New England have sprung thrifty, luxuriantly growing sprouts that have, within the past four years, developed into sturdy young trees that are beginning to put forth the burrs that contain the nuts that made an alluring something for roamers of the woods to hunt each fall. Here is good news.

A decade, or more has passed, since one could step up to a vendor and give an order for a dime's worth of the famous chestnuts of old New England, as luscious a nut as the countryside produced. Delving in the dangerous realm of prophecy, one may venture the opinion that the opportunity to do that will have returned within five years. Thousand upon thousand of the young chestnut trees are thriving within a dozen miles of Danielson.

To the owner of lands where these chestnuts are growing, their prospective production of nuts is merely incidental. The owners think, logically, of the increased value of their property through the return of trees that are of very special value as revenue producers, for lumber, for firewood, for one thing and another.

Today in a justice's court presided over at Oneco by C. B. Montgomery of the town of Sterling William St. John of that town was found not guilty of assault a few hours prior to the holding of funeral services for his wife, Mrs. Lillian St. John, at the undertaking rooms of A. F. Wood in Danielson.

The funeral services this afternoon for Mrs. St. John were conducted at Wood's undertaking rooms by Rev. E. C. Drake, pastor of the United Protestant church in Sterling. The bearers were Irving Frink, Paul Credit, John Winter, George C. Spooner, William Barber and Raymond Knox. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery at Central Village.

Crooks, it appears, laugh at the ways of mice and men. In this morning's grist of the happenings of the night before there was included an account of how Fred Saverese, resident on the Waureegan road, below Fall Brook, in a section that is being newly developed, parked a Ford car close up to the house of which he is an inmate, that it might be protected from molestation during the night. The car was left outside because the garage it usually occupies was being moved back to a new location on the premises and was not ready for occupancy by the machine for the time being. A watch dog and other persons in addition to Saverese were in the house, close to which the Ford nestled last night. This morning there was a jack under one of the wheels of the car and from that particular wheel a tire and rim had been removed and taken away. The crooks who stole the tire and rim left only a cheap jack in exchange for what they took away, and who they were or when during the night they came remains a very great secret.

The death occurred today at the home of his son, Winfield A. Colwell, on Maple street, of William A. Colwell, who was born at Charles City, Iowa, March 14, 1864, a son of William and Harriet Chellar Colwell. For years Mr. Colwell was a resident of Brooklyn and later lived in Goodyear. In still later years he was a resident of Taunton. Mr. Colwell was a carpenter by trade during his active years. In addition to his son, resident here and at whose home he died, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Billings, of Oaklawn, R. I.

Another death today was that of Robert Turner, 83, at the home of his niece, Mrs. Oscar Jenckes, in Foster, where he has been making his home since his health failed nearly two years ago. Mr. Turner was a native of Crarae, Scotland, and he was a son of John and Margaret McNab Turner. He had lived the greater part of his life in this country and by trade was a stonecutter. In addition to the niece at whose home he died, he leaves two brothers, James, of Foster, and John, of Boston.

Motorists who insist on driving their cars through the center of Danielson business section are in for what the man in the street calls a licking. This thoroughfare, part of a double trunk line highway—the New London-Worcester and the Providence-Hartford routes—is usually so burdened with traffic that high speed is no more and no less than an invitation to accident. Officials here are inclined to be very reasonable with motor vehicle operators, expecting that they will do only what is reasonable. Failure of drivers to avoid making a speedway of a route where an accident is likely to occur an minute is apt to land them in court is about certain from now on to land them in court. This should be due warning to all who like to step on the gas in the wrong place.

There is special interest here in the annual Norwich district convention of the Epworth league to be held at Willimantic on October 8. Danielson will have a very considerable representation at this meeting. There are to be afternoon and evening sessions.

George Bartholomew, a resident of Day street, became ill today while in town with his automobile, and an operator for the car was found to take him to his home. Mr. Bartholomew is a retired police officer who has been a resident here for a number of years.

All of the voting in next Monday's town election will be at the town hall in Danielson, voting by districts being arranged only for state or national elections.

And speaking of elections, a bit of irritation is being shown by some candidates over the high pressure methods being exercised on the unsuspecting populace to gain votes, this by some other candidates. Not a laudable thing, but as the fair game of politics is worked.

Thomas J. Aylward, who has been a resident here for many years, today removed to Putnam, where he will occupy a home he has owned for years on Pleasant street.

William A. Watrous of Jersey City is visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

Motorists riding east of here, near South Killingly, at night tell of seeing the flashing beacon that is a guide to aviators on the Boston-Hartford airmail route. The beacon is at least a score of miles away, and is believed here to be the one located on Dudley hill, near Webster

PUTNAM

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO SELECT POSTOFFICE SITE

PUTNAM, Sept. 29—At a meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce, a committee was appointed to inquire into available sites for a postoffice building, the approximate cost and what they considered the most desirable. The committee is composed of Thomas deCoudres, representing the chamber of commerce, Samuel Reynolds, representing the Putnam Rotary club and Charles A. Richard representing the city council. This committee will welcome any advice and information that will aid them in any was to arrive at a conclusion.

The Union block, which has been mentioned as a possible site, seems to present two serious objections. One was the purchase price and the other that the city and town would lose $1,000 more a year in taxes than any other site that has been under consideration. It was stated that the Union block site would mean that the city would be paying $1,000 a year more for all time than it would be for any other site named except at the corner of Front and Livery street. It seemed to be the general opinion that these two sites should be eliminated from further consideration.

E. C. Rogers explained at length the advantages as he saw them of the property south of the Putnam Inn, which would include the central fire station, the Gorman building and the Joy property. He added that a satisfactory exchange could be arranged by the city to take the government lot on Grove and South Main streets in exchange for the fire station which would soon have to be replaced because it was out of date and in bad condition. The government lot, he thought, could probably be sold to the state for an armory, as Putnam was one of the few important cities in the state that did not have a home for a military company, and that this would be an admirable place to put it. Then the city could secure a more central location for a fire station. If such a plan was carried out, he thought that the cost of the land would be as low as any other plan mentioned.

Several sites are under consideration, the other site being the Vito property, the Kaminsky plot adjoining and the Muir property on the opposite side of Main street.

The exceptional development of the last few years in the electrical field brings to mind the electrical training for young men in this phase of our industrial development. Consistent with the ever increasing scope of the electrical trade, the State Trade school at Putnam has a training in electrical works which strives to keep abreast by the addition of new equipment from time to time and by incorporating to the course of study the latest methods employed. The course of study is laid down on the basis of a thorough understanding of theory through definite application and practice and also by giving a sufficient amount of drill or application in the various phases of the work to thoroughly stabilize the students' ideas through theory study.

The aim of the course in general in character covering a range of subjects such as house wiring, power plant operation, motor winding, battery work and miscellaneous types of electrical installation.

Considerable house wiring has been done by the school in the past year and has included some farm installation outfits.

Motor winding is looked upon as a separate calling by electric specialists and the trade school feels that an electrical graduate should have training in this work to be able to meet an emergency that might arise in a plant where he is working.

SAFELY AND CARELESSNESS

Out in Chicago the National Safety council is in session for the purpose of trying to devise means of preventing the 30,000 accidental deaths which occur annually. It is a worthwhile endeavor from a life saving standpoint, but from the persistency with which individuals rush into these needless deaths there is a question whether it is really appreciated. Those for whom the greatest benefit is intended seem to ignore it, or at least they seem disposed to neglect the part which they should play for their own protection and which this and other organizations are constantly trying to keep before the public eye.

One of the great cries these days is caused by the accidents at railroad crossings. There are instances where it is fully justified, but when it is shown that more than 1,000 automobiles, many of them ignoring stop lights, gates and watchmen, crashed into railroad trains last year it discloses how great is the carelessness of the highway users. That number does not include those which were struck by locomotives, where in many if not most, instances there was the same refusal to pay any attention to warnings against the very thing that happened.

Efforts to bring about the prevention of fatal accidents is highly commendable, but it cannot be overlooked that carelessness on the part of the individual is too frequently the underlying cause of them, and that until it is realized and the right attention given to it we can expect such deplorable death lists. The many fatalities would seem to be sufficient to arouse the careless to proper personal protection but they haven't accomplished it yet.

TOWN ELECTIONS

Next Monday in nearly all of the towns in Connecticut there will be choice of town officials. This means the selection of those who are to give their attention to the handling of town affairs, solve town problems and give the towns a successful town government. This doesn't always happen, whether intentional or otherwise, but there is an opportunity for the voters of the respective towns to determine who will be entrusted with such responsibilities for the next year or two.

Town elections naturally revolve about town conditions. There is the home government which is at stake and which should be sufficient to awaken enough interest on the part of the townspeople to get out to the polls and indicate by as large a majority of the voters as possible what officials are wanted.

Too often it is the case that the voters in the towns fail to appreciate the importance of getting to the polls, or to the town meetings which are held on election day. If they have reason to criticize it is their place to show enough interest by voicing their likes and dislikes at the polls and at the meeting. Election and town meeting day afford the voters the chance for a voice in affairs which are of direct importance to them and they cannot fail to have found out by experience that it doesn't pay to leave such matters to other hands, or to the whims and fancies of a few.

Through a display of a representative and healthy interest in town affairs any town has the chance to insist upon the best possible government. That cannot be accomplished through a stay-at-home spirit.

A LONG WAY FROM HOME

Three months ago, or the 25th of June, to be exact, considerable interest was displayed in the departure of Hugo Hoahna from Providence for the Canary islands. He wasn't an international figure but his leave taking was out of the ordinary because he set out alone in a 40 foot schooner, 30 years old, which he had purchased for $75 and refitted himself to cover a distance of 4000 miles across the Atlantic.

Hoahna's object was a reunion with his family. He had saved about $500 in this country, and was ready to go home. He was a capable seaman and was conscious of the peril of his trip to the extent of not informing his family of his intention because it would be a cause for worry. He was confident of his ability to successfully meet the dangers of the trip and it is gratifying to note that he has reached his destination safely.

But this man has spent three and a half months on the high seas, in addition to the time that was required to get his schooner into shape for sailing and the cost of the supplies he carried, to say nothing of the peril involved, to cover a distance which might have been accomplished by sailing on some of the steamship lines, with virtually no chances being taken and most of the time that he has utilized in sailing under his own captaincy might have been devoted to profitable employment either before he started or after he arrived.

As a test of his skill as a navigator with no one to help him sail an old boat it must be acknowledged that his demonstration is highly creditable, but considering the time, money and danger involved there is nothing in it to commend itself to others. In these days it is about the last way most people would think of employing.

THE LOADED GUN

New York has been much exercised this week over the supposed murder of a small girl who was shot to death while she was asleep in bed. It was believed that she was killed in revenge for a grudge following an elopement by an older person until the questioning of an 11 year old boy revealed that he had done it by accident.

It was one of those cases where a loaded shotgun and the person who left it standing in the girl's bedroom, all cocked and ready to fire were probably more to blame than the boy. He had been sent to awaken the girl for school. According to his story he had tripped over a chair causing the shotgun to fall and as he succeeded in catching it the discharge of the gun resulted and the sleeping girl got the full charge and was instantly killed.

This reveals once more than grave peril attached to leaving firearms about where children can play with them or where they can be disturbed in such a manner as to cause their discharge. It is a mistake to leave firearms about even if they are unloaded. It is gross negligence to leave them about where they can be gotten for any purpose when they are loaded, but the height of folly would seem to be reached when such a weapon is left loaded and cocked against a wall when even the falling of it might be sufficient to cause it to explode with all sorts of possible results.

Whatever may be the result of that killing, it cannot fail to be realized that it would not have occurred had the proper care been used in putting that gun in a safe place, or an even wiser precaution taken of keeping such a weapon out of the household.

PRINTING AND FRANKING

Senator Overman of North Carolina is being credited for his refusal to permit a speech which is intended for political purposes to be sent through the mails under his frank. It would be entirely within the law for him to do so but he draws the line. The other senator from that state, Senator Simmons, takes a different view and makes the franking possible.

This difference in the attitude of the two senators is interesting. There is no doubt a gross injustice is done through the forwarding of all kinds of material through the mail under a senator's frank, or that the practice has gone beyond all the bounds that were anticipated. Nevertheless it is not to be overlooked that there is an equally bad practice of permitting all kinds of speeches that are made throughout the country, at most any time and on all subjects to be printed in the Congressional Record.

Senator Overman would not permit the franking under his name of an address that was made before a bar meeting in Ohio, but it was Senator Overman who asked for the right to have it printed in the Congressional Record and it is the speech as thus printed that is now being circulated throughout the country under the frank of another United States senator. Senator Overman seems to have started the ball rolling. He refused to keep it going, but Senator Simmons has supplied the deficiency. Thus each has made a valuable contribution through government agencies to something which has nothing to do with the senate or congress. It is gratifying to see a senator fight the franking abuse, but the overdoing of the leave to print likewise needs attention.

LETTERS OF A CLIFF DWELLER

Dearest Mayme: Did you ever stop to think how surprised Columbus must have been when he discovered a whole new world instead of the shortest route to India? Well, when I dropped into Stuart's office this morning all I was looking for was the shortest route to a good luncheon; but what came right up and hit me was a vast continent of opportunity I did not know was on the map!

Now the obvious thing to do with an opportunity is to make the most of it. And when Stuart told me he had been invited to lunch with the president of the company, I realized that Stuart was undoubtedly the biggest opportunity of my life. The only difficulty was that he objected to my making the most of him in public, and seemed quite nervous, even, about introducing me to his host.

"You see, dear," he explained politely, "in an affair of this kind a woman would feel herself emphatically de trop. Mr. Holmquist has recommended me to the president as a possibility for chairman of the new sales subdepartment and he is taking me to lunch in order to put my business ability to the test."

"I suppose he will have you making diagrams with your knives and forks and trying sales talks on the waiter," I mocked.

I had the dollar he bribed me with in one hand and the doorknob in the other when in walked Mr. Holmquist and the president himself.

"Ah, what a pleasure!" beamed Mr. Holmquist, and he introduced me to A. K. B.—that's the president—with such dispatch it was all I could do to slip the dollar in my bag in time to offer the proper hand in greeting. Then the great A. K. B.—Mr. Andrew Kendall Brown it is—looked down at me with such a smile, Mayme, that in spite of Stuart's warning, I didn't feel myself at all de trop, and he said immediately:

"Mrs. Hodges, you will surely consent to bring back youth to an antediluvian by accepting his invitation to lunch?"

"But—" I began, subconsciously aware of Stuart shaking his head somewhere in the offing.

"Please save the 'buts' for young fellows who deserve them," broke in the president, "and accede to my superiority in years."

It suddenly dawned on me that my stakes were in this game as well as Stuart's, and I might as well play my hand, even if it turned out to be a dummy.

Feeling Stuart's disapproval scorching the edge of my composure, I managed, in the taxi, to place Mr. Brown between us, so that I could maintain a normal temperature. I did, until we drew up before an edifice which our host spoke of chummily as "the club," but which showed about as companionable a face as the liveried doorman who admitted us.

Business is not all business, said I to my feminine intuition. I'll bet this old club was built just for the purpose of providing an appropriate ordeal for young small-town upstarts like us. But once in sight of food I was past daunting. I leaned gayly toward A. K. B., and said:

"Do please order for us, Mr. Brown. You see Stuart and I are from Monona, and we're simply congealed with fear of anything more complicated than a table d'hote."

You should have seen Stuart jump. But Mr. Brown threw up his head and roared. From then on, anyway he talked straight out to Stuart instead of down from a lofty mountain peak; and Stuart only kicked me once when I orated about some of the big business deals he had put through in Monona during a game of pool on a rainy afternoon or over a tennis court on a sunny afternoon.

"Where have you been keeping all this natural initiative since you came to Chicago?" queried A. K. B.

"Under the lock and key of office discipline," answered Stuart with crisp assurance.

"From now on the cage is open," the president said, smiling.

In the taxi again, Mayme, Mr. Brown casually glanced down at a dust mark shaped suspiciously like the toe of a boot on the blond surface of my silk stocking. At the same moment Stuart reached across and brushed it off with his handkerchief—quite gently.

It's late, Mayme, and we should have been asleep long ago. But I don't suppose either of us will sleep much, thinking of that new job. Isn't it wonderful? Yours, Eulalie.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

BLOOD IN URINE IS DANGER SIGNAL
By C. J. Goeller, M. D., New York Member Gorgas Memorial

The slightest trace of blood in the urine should cause you to seek the advice of your doctor at once.

Many valuable lives have been lost by failing to do this. It is fatal to try to find the cause of blood in the urine. Blood in the urine must come from some part of the genito-urinary tract, either from within or from without. If from without it is from the external parts; if from within, it may come from the kidneys, bladder, or prostate. The chief common cause of blood in the urine are tumor, tuberculosis, and stone.

The tumors are of two kinds, malignant and non-malignant. The malignant tumor is what is commonly called cancer. In the bladder, a rather common place for tumors the growth may at first be a small innocent looking red mass about half the size of a pea. One of the earliest and often the only symptom of a tumor of this size is blood in the urine, which may be very small in amount and may suddenly stop and not appear again until after a long period—sometimes as long as a year. These small tumors are very easily removed or destroyed by application of radium and the electric current. If they are not removed they very often "turn into cancer," and we then have a very different problem to deal with. This small innocent looking tumor that has been entirely on the surface begins to grow into the deeper structures, growing deeper and deeper and at the same time growing in all directions until we have a very considerable portion of the bladder wall involved—a condition that is extremely difficult to treat with any degree of success. Very often in these neglected cases all that we can hope for is to make the patient easier by the use of morphine. This is appalling, especially so when we know positively that these cases are very easily and successfully treated when taken early.

In tuberculosis, "consumption" of the kidney, blood in the urine may be one of the first symptoms. Very often it is accompanied by the desire to pass water quite often and in large amounts. Early tuberculosis is quite easily arrested or cured under favorable conditions. When it is advanced we have another very difficult problem to deal with. Here again we have a problem that has been largely produced by ignorance or neglect.

A stone in the bladder or kidney may or may not cause blood to appear in the urine, and ignorance or neglect in such a case may also cause a fatal termination. Here the X-ray is of great help, often locating the exact site of the stone. A small kidney stone is quite often passed while under treatment. If untreated or not removed they often grow quite large and destroy large areas of the kidney tissue. They should be removed before the kidney tissue is damaged beyond recovery.

Stone in the bladder can often be removed through an instrument called a cystoscope which is introduced into the bladder without cutting.

CHILD TRAINING

TURNING THE OTHER CHEEK
Nola Nance

One of the most difficult problems in bringing up a child deals with the question of teaching him to grin and bear or to fight back.

I have had an opportunity to see two distinct kinds of training carried out and I must confess that neither was very successful. My brother was much younger than I and, upon the death of my mother, I became responsible for his upbringing. The hardest decision I had to make was when he came home with the tale of some childish insult and wanted to know if Mother had been right when she told him always to turn the other cheek. After thinking it over, I felt that I could not contradict the teaching of so lovable a person as my own mother and for this reason I kept telling him never to fight back with his fists, that the one who was right would win without it in the end. And so Charlie grew up with never a fight to his discredit—or credit! But one day, when he was nearly 16 years old, I found him hiding behind the hedge until the town bully had passed by. It always took him twice as long as it should to go anywhere for there were certain houses he would avoid by going around the block.

And he is still going around the block, so to speak. Even though he has an unusual talent for a singularly important line of work, he always has to be under somebody who is leader. By no feat of imagination could I picture Charles forging ahead to the position his ability entitles him to hold.

And so when my son was born I made up my mind to use a different method with him. Long before he started to school I told him always to fight back.

And he did! When he had a score that he couldn't settle on the spot, he would "lay" for his victim until he had an opportunity to attend to him properly. About three times a week he would come home with black eyes or a bloody nose, disguising the triumphant expression that told me he had another victory to his credit. He was expelled from school twice for fighting and was refused entrance into another for the same reason.

Dan is a grown man now and though he is often intolerant of the opinions of others, he is fighting his way to the top—a more forceful personality than Charles, though even I know that he has not so brilliant a mind.

In neither case did I find a happy medium. But to mothers who have the same problem confronting them, I would suggest that they be guided by the individual temperament of the child. If he is naturally of a timid disposition, he must be encouraged to stand up for his rights until he can boast some measure of courage. If too aggressive, he should be taught that the greatest victories are won with wits and not with fists. Above all things children should be taught never to "pick" a fight.

However, these things usually work themselves out better without our blundering attempts at guiding. Teach your boy to reason clearly and to deal fairly, to be habitually good-natured and considerate of others, and then when trouble comes—and it will—let him work out his own problem.

Ready to drop by noontime

SHE seemed to stay tired—her lightest task too heavy. . . . What was the matter? Why, she used to be full of life and energy! What had stolen her health—had sapped her strength?

Constipation takes awful toll from thousands of men and women. It thieves vitality. It wrecks energy. It destroys beauty and health itself, and often leads to serious disease. Yet it can be so easily relieved! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—safely and promptly.

ALL-BRAN vs. part-bran

ALL-BRAN has "bulk." This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the intestines, gently distending them — purifying, removing poisonous wastes. How different from part-bran products—in which the quantity of bulk is so small that there is seldom enough to be effective. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran.

Beware of drugs!

Contrast healthful ALL-BRAN with habit-forming pills and drugs, which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased! ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Let it soak for a few moments to bring out all its rich flavor. Serve it with other cereals. In soups. Try the recipes on every package.

Don't risk a part-bran substitute. Insist on genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants—on dining-cars. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Little Talks on Thrift

INSURANCE AGAINST FAILURE

It can not be denied that the practices of thrift mean personal inconvenience at times. They mean that the truly thrifty man or woman must sometimes surrender the soft comforts and alluring pastimes which mean so much to many.

But it is much better to give up a few of these things during the years when we are strong and in good health than to face poverty and distress when our old years are upon us.

Thrift is an investment in happiness that pays large dividends.

Present pastimes last for a day are forgotten but the joys of thrift abide with us as long as we live.

Thrift is an insurance policy against failure.

Those who practice it consistently and truly may not gain the great heights of success but they will always hold an honored, respected place in the affairs of men.

One of life's greatest tragedies is to become a dependent in the autumn of life. Life's most poignant source of worry to many is the fear that when they shall have reached old age they shall be dependent on the bounty of others.

Conversely, there is constant happiness and contentment of mind to those who practice thrift because they know that the serene days of old age will be lived in financial independence.

There is a world of difference between the outlook of those who are making no provision for the future and those who are slowly, steadily building up their personal resources. The difference is so great that one wonders how it is possible for any sensible person to drift along to certain failure when a comparatively small effort and sacrifice will place them on the roadway to independence. —American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

The Next Best Delight

A small boy whose parents had repeatedly instructed him not to eat candy was visiting an aunt. A dish of the forbidden sweets was sitting on the table and edging near, the lad said:

"Please, auntie, just let me smell of the candy."

Selecting Birthday Gifts

Mary and Helen went to the store to select birthday presents for their father. Before they left home, Helen, age eight, had decided to buy a bottle of perfume—much coveted by herself. Mary, age six, although undecided, had thought a handkerchief more practical. After their arrival at the store the joy of being permitted to select the gifts without the accompanying presence of a third person proved too much. They decided to look around before making their purchases.

After considerable deliberation Helen discarded the original idea of perfume in favor of a beautiful red pocket comb, which was enclosed in an attractive case. Mary not wishing to take home an inferior gift could find nothing she thought would equal the present selected by her older sister. Finally she concluded that combs were always of use, and they were easily broken or lost; therefore she parted with her treasured dime for a yellow comb, which was in other respects like the one selected by her sister.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Counting the Ballots

Mr. Editor: Your editorial today on Political Corruption was very good. Any monkeying with the will of the people as it is expressed at the polls should be fought by all right thinking people. Humanity has paid too big a price for the right to say who shall make our laws and administer them, to tolerate any dirty work at elections, or after elections.

If I read our state election laws properly, (and in accordance with fair dealing,) it says that all counting of ballots shall be done in the open, and in a place accessible to the voters, and that no person who is a candidate for office shall have anything to do with the counting of the ballots cast, or other legal words to that effect. But how about this from Moosup Journal, Sept. 15. Looks like an "inside job" of counting to me.

"The town election on October 3 will be done, as previously noted, through the use of three voting places, one of which will be the fire department rooms in Moosup.

"In this district six booths will be used for voting and the ballot counting will be done upstairs away from the voting."

I consider that I have just as much right to see the votes counted, if I wish to do so, as I have a right to vote. Am I right? But how can I do it according to this plan. And besides, is it legal? Cannot some citizen raise the claim of fraud in the count, prove that no one could see the count except certain ones, and throw the election into the courts and so spend a lot more tax money?

I WANT TO KNOW.

Moosup, Sept. 27, 1927.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED TO CONFER WITH OFFICIALS OF RAILROAD

Appointment of a committee to confer with New Haven railroad officials was the result of a meeting held Thursday morning at the chamber of commerce rooms to make protest over the removal of two trains, one north bound and the other south bound, from the Norwich and Worcester branch of the New Haven railroad. These trains were taken off last Sunday when a new schedule went into effect with the return to standard time. The southbound train formerly reached Norwich at 11:35 a. m. and the northbound train at 1:44 p. m.

In attendance at the meeting were 22 men from various communities along the Norwich and Worcester branch, which were formerly served by the two trains that have been removed. All represented that their communities would suffer by being deprived of these trains. Mr. Van Norman who represented the Southbridge (Mass.) Manufacturers and Merchants association stressed the particular way in which that city would be affected, stating that the withdrawal of these trains was vital to the business interests of Southbridge inasmuch that it meant that all express matter which is now transferred to Webster, about a 25-minute haul from Southbridge, would have to lay over in Webster until the day following its arrival in that city, thus causing a delay of 24 hours. While the passenger service out of Webster, a city of about 16,000 population, has not been what might be called a paying proposition, Mr. Van Norman said that between one-half and one million dollars worth of freight was handled out of Southbridge annually by the New Haven road.

Allen Shaw Bush presented a petition signed by 54 residents of Gales Ferry for the restoration of the trains. He said that mail is now deposited at the village without guard for several years and all express matter is landed in New London and residents of Gales Ferry are notified of its arrival in an official way.

Mr. Coffee of Plainfield stated that within the past six months over three-quarters of a million dollars worth of silk had come into that village from New York through these trains and their removal would be a serious loss to Plainfield.

Officials representing Norwich factories and stores told of the handicap the withdrawal of these trains meant to Norwich and spoke of the difficulty of Norwich progressing under these circumstances.

Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber of commerce stated that the chamber was naturally interested in anything that would hinder or hurt the mail or transportation facilities of Norwich, although it was not trying to tell the railroad when it should run or remove trains. He said that both sides of the question should be considered and that a railroad official had told him that between $12,000 and $16,000 had been lost by the road in the operation of these two trains during the year, and that it was such lines as this which prevented the stockholders of the company from getting good returns.

The committee selected by the meeting consists of Charles R. Butts of this city, Mr. Van Norman of Southbridge, Mr. Coffey of Plainfield, W. Moon, Secretary Pilcher, and one representative each from the United States Finishing Co. and the Ponemah mills.

The committee will take up the matter immediately. Before conferring with the railroad officials the committee will make a trip over the entire distance between here and Worcester to confer with the officials of the various industries and organizations affected by the withdrawal of the trains.

FANNING'S GRANDDAUGHTER ON YACHT NEW YORK BOUND

Residents of Griswold and Ledyard, as well as those concerned for Connecticut college, New London, which recently received $165,000 from the estate of David Hale Fanning, Worcester corset millionaire, will read with interest the following concerning his only grand-daughter, who was Rosamund Lancaster:

PORTLAND, Me., Sept 28 (AP)—Wm. K. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Vanderbilt, the former Mrs. Rosamund L. Warburton of Philadelphia, put foot on United States soil here today for the first time since their marriage in Paris a month ago. They arrived aboard their yacht Ara. Their last clearing port in Europe was Santander, Spain. The Ara also entered Halifax and Bar Harbor, but being unable to enter customs at the latter place, continued to Portland. Mr. Vanderbilt who, as the possessor of a master's certificate, does the business for his yacht, was forced to stand in line in the customs house for some time this afternoon.

The Ara left New York Jan. 27 last and in eight months touched at seventy-nine European and African ports. The yacht leaves for New York tomorrow.

Thursday's New York papers stated that Mr. Vanderbilt's former wife, who was Virginia Fair and who was compelled to give her husband his freedom that he might marry Mrs. Warburton, is selling her elegant cooperative apartment house, 660 Park avenue, one reason being that her husband owns and will occupy an apartment at 651 Park avenue, nearly opposite her home. She will reside at her Long Island estate.

BLESSING OF BABIES TODAY AT ST. PATRICK'S NOVENA

Today (Friday) the feast of St. Therese, the missionary preacher, Rev. Fidelis Cummings, from Pittsburgh who is giving a novena at St. Patrick's church, Norwich, will hold an interesting service. This is children's day of the mission, and at 4 o'clock this afternoon they will assemble in the church. At that time the mission preacher will bless all the babies of the parish, as they are presented by their mothers.

Because of the feast, there will be a special mass this morning at 5:30, as well as the regular mission masses at 7 and 8. The novena, or nine days' devotion will be brought to a solemn close this evening, when there will be recitation of the rosary, sermon, benediction of the blessed sacrament, as well as the bestowal of the papal benediction.

Also there will be the blessing of the relic of St. Therese for those who go to the sanctury railing for that purpose. For theconsolation of those who have been revering the "Little Flower of Jesus" all the week there is to be the exposition of the relic through the entire day, today.

Thursday evening Rev. Father Fidelis expressed himself as most encouraged by the zeal, interest and devotion manifested by the parishioners all the week. The number of confessions which he has heard almost established a new high record even in this parish, the communions at the morning masses being very numerous. Father Fidelis has proved an eloquent, earnest and scholarly preacher and his words have brought many of the careless and indifferent and erring back to the practice of their religion, since his arrival last week from the Pittsburgh monastery of the Order of Passionists, to labor in the local parish.

GLASTONBURY HERMIT IS TAKEN TO POOR FARM

The devil painted on the front of Jock the hermit's shack in Glastonbury on the Hartford turnpike, abides alone today, for Jock has been taken to the Glastonbury town farm.

Jock for 40 years lived in that town and for many years resided in utter solitude in the tumbled down, wooden barred windowed shack which bears the terrible colored face, visible to all motorists over the turnpike. Eating raw meat and living amid most squalid surroundings the strange character would occasionally sit out in the sun with his head bound up in a polka-dotted bandanna.

The authorities finally took Jock away for they claimed the place was too filthy for his own good.

Neighbors say his name is John Mitchell and that he was expert at hewing railroad ties but that so great was the care that he took in turning them out that his services were finally dispensed with. They say that the ties he furnished were works of art.

His closest neighbors say that Jock is heir to an estate of $40,000 left him by his father 40 years ago but in order to get his this money he must be a resident of France. This Jock will not agree to and so the estate is held up and cannot be settled until John Mitchell dies. The folks have seen the documents.

They say Jock was disappointed in love when a young man in France and something happened, since which time he has kept strictly away from the female of the specie. However, Jock is where he is being taken care of now and where he can entertain others with his famous clarinet which he could so masterly play.

MAN ARRESTED HERE SENTENCED IN PROVIDENCE

Hercules M. Levesque, 18, of Anthony, R. I., was sentenced Wednesday in the superior court at Providence to serve two years in prison on a charge of driving away a motor vehicle. Imposing sentence, Judge Hahn said that, except for his youth, Levesque would receive a more severe penalty.

Levesque according to the Providence police, drove away an automobile valued at $400 from Green street, Providence on April 29, 1925 to the vicinity of Anthony, the car being the property of Arthur R. McDonald.

Waiving examination on a charge of driving an automobile without consent of the owner, Levesque was held in $4,000 surety for the grand jury by Judge Howard B. Gorham in Sixth District court shortly before being taken to superior court.

Levesque taken to Providence after serving a fine of $15 and costs in the jail in this city, is alleged by police to have taken the car of Joseph DeMeo, 18 Talbot street, Edgewood, on July 19. The machine was recovered when Levesque was apprehended in Norwich, where he was fined for passing a standing electric car. That was four days after the reported loss of DeMeo's car.

ACADEMY OPENS SEASON SATURDAY AGAINST CHAPMAN TECH ELEVEN

When the shrill whistle of a white clad referee sends the Academy's football team crashing against Chapman Tech here tomorrow afternoon it will at the same time formally signal the opening of what is expected to be the local school's biggest and best year in the sport world in a good long time.

For the next nine months or so the schedules, material and all other factors seem to bring out but the one fact that N. F. A. will reign supreme in the scholastic sport world and in so doing have an even larger following than in many years.

This is the last year for such favorite athletes of old N. F. A. as Lloyd Jarvis, Johnny Greene, Mace Goldblatt, Jim Kelly, Billy Tirrell, Les Pingree, Buck LaCroix, among others and they will go into their games even harder and with more determination to win (if that be possible) than they have ever done before.

This coming first affair of the new sport year should be one of the most interesting of the season. First, it brings two bitter rivals together on the gridiron for the first time since that basketball "affair" last winter, then it follows in the wake of the most successful 1926 season at the local school and lastly it gives local sport followers a first chance to get a line on Coach Court Whitney's presentation for state title honors this season.

"Whit" returns to the local school this year after coaching here in 1925 when he did a fine job with much inexperienced material. Again this year he is greeted with a scarcity of veterans but somehow, or other, there is that optimistic feeling pervading at the campus that the Red and White is in for a big year.

Everyone seems to have much confidence in "Whit's" ability to turn out a winner and possibly a state champion at the local institution.

The has but three men who saw regular service last year, Capt. Jack Marks, Johnny Greene and Kahn, but promising material in the forms of Billy Tirrell, Jim Kelly, Harry McGlone, Murphy, Buck LaCroix, Gilman, Mish, brother of Al of last year's eleven, Shea, Fox, Pitt and Fagan among others has been working out for slightly over two weeks and reports from these sessions are quite promising.

In the squad at present there are close to thirty-five. There have been no cuts and ther are no indication of any, at least, for a few days, anyway.

For Saturday's game it apears that followers of this popular fall sport will have to be content with the bleachers on hand, namely seating capacity for about 1,000. All but the Pasnik bleachers have been placed on the east or third base side of the grid.

It will be a slightly different layout that local fans will look upon this year at the campus. The south goal posts have been moved back twenty yards until they are now close to the fence.

The team this year is what might be termed a nicely balanced outfit. The line will average around 170 pounds while the backfield will tip the beam for an average of 155 pounds. The heavy line is expected to hold on the defense and to be able to open holes in the opposition for the fleet backfield. The backfield is the fastest running quartet that the Academy has seen in a number of years.

They have sold quite a few season tickets this year up at N. F. A. according to the reports. Captain Jack Marks, Mgr. Jim Mullins and Asst. Mgr. Shields made the rounds this week. Six game are offered on these tickets. Every game seems to be a real headliner, with such clubs as Warren Harding of Bridgeport, Westerly, Windham and Torrington coming here besides Tech and the Alumni. The three trips are to Wilby at Waterbury, Bulkeley at New London and Stonington.

Other Schlastic Sports

State scholastic football, which started last week with the Weaver-Bulkeley, Chapman Tech-Plainfield and Meriden-Southington games will get going at top speed this week end. A few of the feature clashes bring together Weaver and Bulkeley in an intracity contest at Hartford, Windham-Putnam at Willimantic and out of the state Westerly-Central Falls at the former Rhode Island city today. Westerly, it is reported, did not look so good against Colt Memorial last week when the two teams battled through four scoreless periods. Westerly, which plays here Oct. 14, could make only four first downs against this team, from one of the smallest high schools in Little Rhody. Colt made ten.

Tomorrow's Academy-Tech game, which bringing together two members of the Eastern Conn.-Western Rhode Island athletic council, nevertheless will have no bearing on the standing in this league as the locals withdrew their football membership a year or so ago. To be eligible for grid membership two games with each of the other three teams in the loop must be played. These six games leave but three dates for outsiders so that both this and last year the Academy plays nine different opponents. The Riverview-Taftville baseball game is expected to cut in on the attendance at the first grid game hereabouts tomorrow. It is kind of early to expect the national game to relinquish its hld, yet.

No definite starting lineup for the Academy has been announced for Saturday's clash but from practice sessions it would seem that the following will take the field: Green and LaCroix, ends; Kahn and Pitt or Shea, tackles; Gilman or Mish and Fox, guards; Murphy, center, Tirrell, quarter; Vitliano, Kelley and McGlone, halves; and Capt. Jack Marks, fullback.

Conn. Aggie officials are slated to officiate tomorrow and the starting time, although not officially announced as yet will probably be about 2:30.

NEW FACES APPEAR IN YALE LINEUP

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Two new faces were seen in the line-up of the Yale varsity football team which practiced in the Yale bowl this afternoon for the first time this year. Louis Ladd went in at tackle and Bruce Caldwell was in the backfield. Johnny Hoben, who has played back for two years was tried out at quarter against the varsity team. He went through the signals in a manner that left some doubt as to whether he will be used at quarter or in his old position if he plays in Saturday's game.

"Pipp" Greene, captain of last year's freshmen team was in the second team line-up today. He suffered an injury to his ankle during the summer months which kept him out of practice until today.

The varsity lined up as follows: Scott and Fishwick, ends; Quarrier and Ladd, tackles; Webster and Kell, guards; Ryan, center; Switz, quarterback; and Caldwell, Decker and Cox, backs.

WINDHAM HIGH READY FOR OPENING GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 29.—Now that the pre-season scrimmaging and practice has brought the Windham high school gridiron squad down to hard pan and physically ready for its opening tilt with Putnam high at Recreation Park Saturday afternoon, the business of rousing enthusiasm is getting underway. Realizing that a team without a cheering squad is in a sad way, especially when meeting with reversed, the "hip-hip" leaders have ordered a big rally which will be held Friday. Up on the "Hill" football is one of the incessant topics of buzzing and note-writing among the student body. Manager Alfred Saba found no difficulty in distribing admission tickets. Windham is looking forward to a real event Saturday afternoon.

Coach Thomas A. Callaghan was busy handing out the equipment today and talking to his 30 odd candidates. He went into detail explaining the important new rules effective this season. Players who will appear in the lineup Saturday include: Captain Max Heller, Usher, Monast, G. Ahern, Nelson, Sumner, Whitford, Wright, Williams, Tinker, Saba, Wilkinson, Coutu, Woodward, Warren and Kelleher. Captain Hellar, Saba and Wilkinson are veteran backfields and of the best material. Saba is a punter of no mean ability and as a pigskin carrier the "Shiek" gives Cal the belle and "chooses to run." Usher lives up to his name at end. G. Ahern, son of David Ahern, has made the boys tingle with inspiration. Although a first year man it is predicted that there will be lots of Ahern smoke in the line fights. Nelson will be midman.

SPEEDBOYS CLASH WITH WESTERLY IN SEASON'S OPENER

Sunday at Ashland Park, Jewett City, the crack Speedboy eleven will open the present season with the George C. Moore team of Westerly as opponents. The prospects for a successful season for the Speedboys seem especially bright, for all of last year's championship aggregation are back and and a few more real stars have been added to the team.

The Westerly team is quite light, averaging but 145 pounds but their manager claims it to be the fastest team available in the Rhode Island city. The squad is composed almost entirely of ex-prep school and college stars and is expected to give the Speedboys a hard tussle. The heavier Jewett City team will rely mostly on straight plays to win the game but if the opposition proves too strong Capt. Smith will open up with a bunch of passes and lateral passes that should prove scoring plays. For three years the Speedboys' greatest threat has been their clever passing game which has never been entirely broken up regardless of the strength of opposing teams.

The Speedboys have 26 men on this year's squad and in order to test their ability it is likely that all will see action Sunday but the most probable starting line-up is as follows: Bakanowski and Moore, ends; Capt. Smith and Kid Cobb, tackles; Christy and Maggia, guards; and Skaradowski, centre Hoss Gallup, Pop French, Speed Green and Packhurst, backs.

EIGHT VETERANS FACE WESLEYAN SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Sept. 29.—When the Connecticut Aggies meet Wesleyan in football at Middletown next Saturday, eight of the State college players who took part in the 13-0 victory over the Red and Black last year will still be available to the Aggies.

Captain Eddy at left halfback; "Pop" Williams, who has been shifted from full to halfback; and Bill Knaut at quarter are three backfield stars who have already played against Wesleyan. Eddy, in fact, played on the Aggie elevens that won 7-3 in 1925, and also a year ago.

In the line, John Callahan and Howard Kennedy are the same two ends who played most of the games against the Red and Black last fall. Callahan, it will be remembered, is the man who took a long forward pass from Eddy and after eluding Wesleyan's safety man dashed thirty yards for the initial score of hte game.

Ken Wilson and Andy Sayers, both of whom played tackle against Wesleyan last fall, will start the game this year, though Wilson will probably play at either center or guard. Ed Colacurcie, another veterna of the 1926 game, will probably start at one of the guards.

PIRATES ALMOST CERTAIN OF NATIONAL PENNANT

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(AP)—The Pirates were practically shoved into the National league championship today with out a struggle as the Cardinals were cut down by the Reds to diminish the St. Louis' flag possibility to the event of a tie. The idle Corsairs assumed the lead of two and one-half games on first place while the Cards defended the second rung by half a notch against the Giants who were also without schedule. The standing:

	W.	L.	Av.	G.T.P.
Pittsburgh	92	58	.616	3
St. Louis	91	61	.599	2
New York	90	61	.596	2

The Corsairs stand a chance of definitely capturing the bunting tomorrow by a victory of the Reds. All Pittsburgh needs to take the banner is one triumph in three remaining starts. However, if the Buccaneers drop the three remaining games and the Cards and Giants sweep all their encounters, the clubs will be tangled in a triple tie with the standing as follows:

	Won	Lost	Ave.
Pittsburgh	93	61	.604
St. Louis	93	61	.604
New York	93	61	.604

Courtney Wins on Foul

BOSTON, Sept. 29—(AP)—George Courtney, New York, middleweight, won on a foul from George Manolian of Boston in the first round of their scheduled ten round bout at Braves field tonight. Sid Barbarian of Detroit defeated Johnny Ciccoli, Scranton, Pa., in 10 rounds, and Billy Alger, Phoenix, Ariz., won a ten round decision from Clyde Hull, Dallas, Tex.

REDS SHAVE CARDS CHANCES TO A TIE

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 29—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds almost sank the Cardinals' pennant hopes when they won the third game of the series from St. Louis today to win a mud and water fracas amid the cheers of the Pittsburgh players, who formed a large part of the crowd.

The Reds bunced four of their five hits in the fourth inning off Frankhouse, who tasted his first defeat in the Cardinal uniform and with the helping hand of one error scored the three runs that meant victory.

Snyder and Maranville singled and Snyder scored on an infield out in the fifth inning for the Cardinals' first score, which Frisch hit a home run in the sixth inning for the second St. Louis score.

Jakie May allowed St. Louis eight hits but kept them well scattered. The infield was mud while the outfielders navigated around small lakes created by the day and a half of almost incessant rain. Under normal season circumstances, the game would have been postponed.

Pipp led off with a double in the fourth inning for the Reds. Bressier sacrificed and when Frankhouse threw the ball overV Bottomley's head, Pipp scored and Bressler went to second.

Allen traced a single down the center line and went to second when Douthit threw to the plate. Bressler held third. Ford's single to left scored Bressler and Allen scampered home under the protection of Fritz's liner to Blades.

Picinich hit for two bases and Grover Alexander was being warmed up, but May struck out and Dressen then bounced out. Frankhouse finished the game. The score:

YANKEES HAMMER OUT EASY WIN OVER SENATORS

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Yankees won a hard slugging affair from the Senators today battering out 19 hits including two home runs and a triple by Babe Ruth for a 15 to 4 decision.

Ruth's second circuit swat came in the fifth inning with the bases full off pitcher Paul Hopkins, Washington Rookie, and tied the Bambino's own mark of 59 homers achieved in 1921.

Ruth made his first homer off Lisenbee in the first inning with none on base. He hit a triple with one on base in the second inning. Score:

WHO WILL BE THE OUTSTANDING HERO OF THE 1927 WORLD'S SERIES?

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(AP)—It wouldn't be a world's series without its heroes and so, with the baseball classic's start less than a week off, the experts are already speculating on where the laurel wreaths may go this season.

If the Yankees clash with the Pirates, as now apears probable, unusual galaxies of stars will be out there trying to outshine each other.

Babe Ruth has been a hero as well as "bue" in the championship fray. Herb Pennock has had the "hero" medal attached to him for brilliant pitching in two world's series. Lou Gehrig might snap out of his home run slump and outbam the Bambino.

The Pirates have the Waner brothers, Pie Traynor and Ray Kremer, also that hardy old campaigner, Joe (Moon) Harris, ready to step out and distinguish themselves. Hazel Cuyler, hero of the 1925 Pirate triumph over Washington, has been on the bench and may not get a chance to repeat.

If St. Louis should do the unexpected and break through to the National league top, Grover Cleveland Alexander would have a chance to duplicate the pitching feats that made him the outstanding figure of the 1926 world's series.

It may be recalled how old Alex, ill-fitting cap, slouching gait and all, trudged to the box, struck out Tony Lazzeri on three pitched balls and clinched the game for the Cardinals.

It was only a matter of inches, however, that separated Alex from being a "goat", and Lazzeri from being the hero. The second pitched ball was hit on a line by the Yankee infielder but it was foul by something less than a foot as it struck the stands.

It is such "breaks", that often turn the tide one way or another. Sometimes they lift a player from comparative obscurity to world's series fame, as was the case in 1921 when Johnny Rawling, a substitute, jumped in to play a star game at second base for the Giants. Four years later Rawlings helped Pittsburgh win the pennant but was kept out of the world's series with a broken ankle. In the 1924 series, Freddy Lindstrom, an 18 year old schoolboy recruit, took the place of the injured Heinie Groh at third base for the Giants and played a spectacular game.

1905—Christy Mathewson, pitcher, Giants.

1906—George Rohe, third baseman, White Sox.

1907—Harry Steinfeld, third baseman, Cubs.

1908—Frank Chance, first baseman, Cubs.

1909—Babe Adams, pitcher, Pittsburgh.

1910—Jack Coombs, pitcher, Athletics.

1911—Frank Baker, third baseman, Athletics.

1912—Hugh Bedient, pitcher, Red Sox.

1913—Eddie Collins, second baseman, Athletics.

1924—Hank Gowdy, catcher, Braves.

1915—Duffy Lewis, outfielder, Red Sox.

1916—Harry Hooper, outfielder, Red Sox.

1917—Urban Faber, pitcher, White Sox.

1918—George Whiteman, outfielder, Red Sox.

1919—Dick Kerr, pitcher, White Sox.

1920—Stanley Coveleskie, pitcher, Cleveland.

1921—Johnny Rawlings, second baseman, Giants.

1922—Heinie Groh, third baseman, Giants.

1923—Casey Stengle, outfielder, Giants and Herb Pennock, pitcher, Yankees.

1924—Stanley Harris, second baseman, Senators.

1925—Hazen Cuyler, outfielder, Pirates.

1926—Grover Cleveland Alexander, pitcher, Cardinals.

DEMPSEY MAKES SWEEPING DENIAL OF HAYES' CHARGES

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, with the scars of his recent engagement in Chicago still in evidence, went through a preliminary skirmish in the legal ring today, when he was examined in the matter of $26,500 which Theodore (Teddy) P. Hayes says the ex-champion owes him in unpaid salary.

Jack, more at ease than his attorneys, quietly denied that he had ever employed Hayes as either trainer or secretary, as claimed, asserting that Hayes, lacking education, would not have been capable of serving him in either capacity.

In reply to Hayes' attorney Jack stated that he never wrote a line of the syndicated articles which appear over his signature in several newspapers. He said he rarely saw the articles, perhaps not more than once a year.

He described Hayes as a mere "camp hanger-on" to whom he had taken a liking and whom he had paid various odd sums from time to time in reward for various services. He had never employed Hayes regularly save as a chauffeur, he said, for a time after he picked him up when he was working as a $12 a week property man on a lot in Hollywood.

He said he could not recall sending Hayes to Salt Lake City during the investigation of the fighter's so-called evasion of the draft during the war, nor accompanying him at that time to the San Pedro naval base, San Francisco, nor other places referred to by Hayes attorney.

Jack denied that he had broken Hayes' nose during a training exhibition, and while he granted that Hayes was with him while he trained for Miske, Brennan and Carpentier, he asserted that neither Hayes nor anyone else had taken charge of his conditioning, as he took charge of himself and trusted no one else.

Shown telegrams purporting to have been sent by him to Hayes directing Hayes to transact loans of $150,000 and $100,000, Jack said he could not remember sending them, but thought they might have been sent by Jack Kearns, his former manager.

Dempsey's attorney characterized the suit as an aftermath of the litigation brought by Kearns. "After Kearns began his litigation without getting anywhere, they brought this suit in Teddy Hayes name," said Arthur S. Driscoll.

Driscoll and Richard J. Mackay, the ex-champion's lawyers, threatened to terminate the examination upon several occasions when the questions of Arthur M. Sager, representing Hayes, assumed a personal nature.

The examination concluded with no date set for trial.

MARTINEZ HANDS TERRIS A TERRIFIC LACING

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Hilario Martinez, hard-punching Spanish lightweight, scored a sensational ten round victory over Sid Terris, crack New York title contender, in the feature match at the Queensboro stadium tonight. Terris was knocked down for three counts of nine in the second round and barely kept his feet under Martinez' merciless attack in several others.

As in his past three battles, Terris ran into a storm of right hand punches early in the battle but this time he could not come back to win. The fiery little Spaniard, scaling 139 1-2 pounds, for a six pound advantage, stormed all over Terris in the first six rounds to pile up an advantage Sid's hurricane finish could not overcome.

Early in the second session, Martinez nailed Terris with a solid right smash to the chin. Badly hurt, Terris went down, and came up to run into a series of solid punches to the chin that floored him again. Vainly, Terris tried to speed out of danger when he arose for the second time, but another solid smash on the "button" dumped the New Yorker in a heap again. The bell rang before Martinez could finish the job when Sid gamely made his feet for the third time.

The splendid showing of the Spaniard, a comparatively unknown except 16 the rings of the smaller clubs, was marred by low punching that brought three warnings from the referee in the early rounds with a final declaration from the arbiter that one more offense would mean disqualification.

Martinez, victory, in addition to placing him in the front ranks of the lightweights, probably will cost Terris a match with Phil McGraw at Ebbets field, October sixth. The Spaniard, it was said, probably would replace Terris on the card.

Davy Abad, Panama bantamweight, lost to Milton Cohen of New York on a foul in the first round of a 10-round semi-final put on after the main go Cohen went down from a low left hook after two and one half minutes of fighting in the round. Examination by a doctor revealed that he had been fouled. The weights were: Abad, 123 1-2; Cohen, 122.

In the first 10-rounder, George Mack of Jersey City was outpointed by Johnny Erickson of New York in a rousing battle. Erickson weighed 115 and Mack 123.

Pete Herman and Joe Jacoby fought four rounds to a draw. In another four-rounder Al Koskowitz won the decision from Eddie Roberts.

Pretzeleers are pantry pirates

Bong! Bong! And ten more bongs. The witching hour, by gum. Whisht!

Here we see an eating likeness of a couple of bold pretzeleers out for a little pantry piracy before they go to bed. This gives Father a chance to take a little more nourishment, and also to bite out his next morning's breakfast order:

Which, as any good pretzeleer knows, stands for ham and eggs.

Night biting isn't at all unusual in the homes of those who pretzel. O-So-Guds are so tasty and so easy to digest that they are a favorite midnight lunch.

No wonder. These pretzels, baked by Uneeda Bakers, are brittle, and crispy, and crunchy, and salty. They're just as good between meals as they are with soup, or salad, or sardines, or cheese, or with iced drinks.

Children love them, and rightly too. They are good for children.

O-SO-GUD REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. PRETZELS

Buy them by the pound. There's a lot of goodness tied up in each and every one.

SLIM JIM REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Straight as a string, but much more interesting. Good and salty. In handy packages at your grocers'.

THE INCONSISTENCIES OF LEGISLATION

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

About a fortnight ago I discovered that 'coons were beginning to work at one end of my small corn patch. It is a very small patch, for when planting the old man recognized the sorry fact that he wasn't going to be able to take care of a big one. So he was careful not to bite off more than he would be able to chew.

Having been planted early and fertilized wisely and cared for sedulously, it has done exceedingly well. Despite the complaints of my neighbors that it was a poor year for corn, being both too wet and too cool, my little patch did quite as well as the average. In fact, it eared more generously and with bigger and better shaped ears than usual. It was almost ready to cut and stook when I first noticed the 'coon work.

Of course, if a man has 20 or 30 acres, the destruction of a few hills by 'coons doesn't amount to much. But where a fellow has only two or three hundred hills the loss of 15 or 20 is a serious percentage. Not only were the 'coons raiding at one end, a woodchuck was beginning to pull down ears near the middle of the piece. I can take care of Mr. Woodchuck with traps, bisulphide, etc., and promptly did so. But Mr. 'Coon is a different proposition. He can only be hunted with a dog to chase him up a tree and a set of young legs to follow till he is treed. I haven't a dog, and my legs and lungs are both showing wear. They are neither calculated to stand the strain of a 'coon hunt. So I looked up a 'coon-hunting neighbor and asked him to come down with his trained 'coon dog and save my corn crop.

He looked at me with sympathy but without encouragement. "Law an't off 'coons till Nov. 16," he said. "Big fine for killing or even hunting 'em before that."

So I came back home and went right out and cut that corn. It turned out that I had enough for 20 stooks of 12 hills each and 21 hills over, which I put into one because the 'coons hadn't left half a dozen ears on the 21 hills. They—the 'coons—will doubtless resume their raids, sooner or later, despite the cutting and stooking. But the complete change which the work makes in the appearance of the lot and the "man-smell" which is left from handling combined to deter them for a while, anyway. They've got to consider and gingerly try out to see if those stooks are as safe to attack as the individual hills were. In the meantime the corn kernels are drying and hardening and the 'coons may prefer some field where the ears are softer and juicier.

I don't know much about the game laws of Connecticut, because I happen to live in the state of New York. The eminently wise people of that so-called Empire state put on airs about the state's population and wealth and wide range of productiveness. And then they send to their legislature to make their laws a gang of mental and moral cripples, who would be fitter bolstered in some asylum for feeble-minded or some reformatory for incorrigibles than in the stately chambers of the capitol at Albany. The results of their law-making are sometimes fearful and always wonderful to behold.

You've all heard the wise old saying that "It's the wheel which squeaks which gets the grease." All you've got to do to put something through or over at Albany is to collect a dozen or two kindred spirits, camp down before the legislative doors and continue to squeak and squeal and squawk, till you get what you want. It makes little difference whether the thing you're after is a charter giving you unfair privileges, or an amendment repealing some troublesome law, or a change in the game laws for the behoof of the hundred or two fur-dealers who live by exploiting the 12 million other residents of the state.

This 'coon law is just one example. The 'coon does most of his damage to crops in September and October. But his pelt isn't so desirable in the fur trade during those months as after cooler weather has thickened and fined it. So the million or more farmers of the Empire state are required to feed up all the 'coons of the countryside till their fur gets into stape to suit the tastes of a few hundred fur-dealers.

You see, the fur-dealers squealed. They also squawled. They also squawked. And they kept it up till the accommodating legislators gave them the grease they wanted to improve their business. The farmers were too busy farming to go into the squeak-squawk-squeal performance at Albany. Therefore we find ourselves compelled to let the 'coons eat our corn before we can harvest it to feed our chickens or to make ourselves johnny-cakes withal.

Of course, in their drive for improved 'coon skins furriers called in every aid they could get from all possible sources. They got some from pot-hunters and city nimrods who naturally would rather hunt when it is cool enough to prevent their exertions from over-heating them. They got still more from the army of sentimentalists, "old maids" of both sexes, who seem to be actuated by the idea that the killing of crop-destroying rodents is a more heinous offense than the pauperization of the farm lands. They got help, also, from a lot of what Roosevelt contemptuously called "nature-fakers," a set of men and women who are not satisfied with the distinctions which God left between beasts and human beings, but are all the time trying to make us believe that wild animals have all the sensibilities which go with a soul, and undergo the reactions which belong only to reason.

There are today several writers, whose gushy and sentimental maunderings about "Peter Rabbit" and "Johnny Woodchuck" and "Moses 'Coon" and "Paddy Beaver," etc., are widely printed in the daily newspapers. In them all these wild animals are credited with the possession of human, sometimes super-human attributes. Of course, they are "fables" and even the small boys and girls who read them know it. But the inevitable result of their daily perusal is insidiously to instill into the reader's mind a subconscious feeling that to hurt a rabbit or woodchuck or 'coon is just about as bad as to kill a baby.

Now, cruelty to animals is itself animalistic. It is a subhuman trait. It shows inhumanity. This, whether it is practiced in beating and starving a horse, or maltreating a cat, or shooting game, not for protection or food, but solely for the "sport" of killing.

But there are animals and animals. Some we are rather glad to associate with. Some are our inveterate enemies. Some help us. Some damage and despoil us. Wordsworth once said that he wouldn't want to count among his list of friends the man who would, needlessly, crush a worm. But how about a copperhead? The man who would shoot a nesting oriole and call it "sport" we'll all admit to be a cruel chap. But how about the crow pulling up and eating your corn seed as soon as you've planted it? We're all rather proud of the cat who catches mice and rats we haven't the patience and gumption to get ourselves. But how about the mice and the rats?

If this earth is to be made and kept a suitable habitation for human beings, certain wild animals must be kept down or eradicated. You can't keep sheep and foxes on the same pasture. One must go. The question is, which? You can't raise clover on a field infested by woodchucks. One or the other must be given up. The question is, which? You can't raise berries when the rabbits, every winter, eat the young vines back to the ground. You can't raise corn if the crows pull up part of the seed before it sprouts and the 'coons eat the ears of what may be left. You can't raise potatoes if you let the potato bugs eat the tops, half grown. Either you must give up trying to raise berries and corn and potatoes, or kill off the crows and the rabbits and the potato bugs. The question is, which?

Something may undoubtedly be said for the protection of the deer and the bisons and the worm-eating birds, and various other forms of wild life. Something may be said even for "Jimmy Skunk," who doesn't raid chicken-pens except as a last resort, but who helps amazingly in keeping the fields free from slugs and worms which he noses out where no one else would suspect them.

But such things as woodchucks and 'coons and rabbits and copperhead snakes and house-flies and mosquitoes and potato bugs are just plain pests and nuisances. So far as the welfare of the country is concerned, there is no more sense in protecting rabbits and 'coons than there would be in protecting potato bugs.

I do not see why farmers, who are at least producers of something useful should be required to feed rabbits during 10 months of the year in order that a small and limited class of amateur butchers should be provided with "sport" in killing the bunnies during two "open" months. Nor why farmers should be required to let the 'coons eat their ripening corn in September and October in order that a numerically unimportant class of tanners should get fancier pelts in November.

As they stand, most of our game laws are special legislation for the pleasure or profit of the few at the expense of the many. There are only two ways which seem to me to promise any improvement in them. The first would be to elect sensible men to the legislature. This violation of all existing custom you will naturally poohpooh as the mere idle dream of a visionary. Very well, then: the only other way I see open is for a big-mouthed, big-footed, big-handed delegation of farmers to attend every legislative session, with old-fashioned two-tined pitchforks, prepared to punch holes enough in legislative hides to admit a little common-sense.

It sometimes happens that critters who are impervious to reason are capable of being scared into acting as if they had it.

"Howdy-do!"

We had some offish neighbors once, that moved in, down the road.
We reckoned they was 'bout the proudest folks we'd ever knowed;
An' when we passed 'em now an' then we held our heads up high,
To make dead sure they couldn't snub us if they was to try.
It made me really nervous, so I jes' braced up one day
An' thought I'd go ahead an' show my manners, anyway.
One Sunday, 'stid o' turnin' round an' gazin' at the view,
I looked at them an' says: "Hello!" an' they says: "Howdy-do!"

It wasn't the cold and formal greetin' that you've sometimes heard;
They smiled and said it heartily, like they meant it, every word.
It's solemn to reflect on what we miss along life's way
By not jes' bein' natural an' good-humored day by day.
There's lots o' folks who fling the simple joys of life aside
Because they dread the shadow of their own unconscious pride.
And nine times out of ten you'll find the rule works right and true.
Jes' tell the world: "Hello!" and it'll answer: "Howdy-do!"

SPICER FAMILY'S TOUR OF UNUSUAL INTEREST

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 29—Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Spicer, and son, Harold, have been on an automobile trip through the south, and last week were registered at the Hotel Atkin, Knoxville, Tenn. An interesting letter from Mrs. Spicer to the folks back home, tells of their pleasurable experiences, as follows:

We arrived in Newport, Ky., last night; we are having a wonderful time and the best of luck, covering 1500 miles; beautiful scenery, excellent roads, although some in Tennessee were pretty rocky.

Our first point of interest was Bear Mountain bridge in New York, a cable bridge, considered a wonderful piece of engineering. We stayed the first night at Delaware Water Gap, then went on to Gettysburg, Pa., taking a side trip to Valley Forge, where I had the privilege of hearing the chimes that have been recently placed there. Our own D. A. R. chapter at Jewett City gave towards the Connecticut bell. It was beautiful. The woman played "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "Abide with Me". She plays every hour. Then we looked over the battle grounds, chapel and relics of George Washington.

At Gettysburg a guide took us all over the Civil war battle ground, which is 25 square miles. It was wonderful. It was explained form the first Confederate battle on July 1st, to the final Union battle, July 3rd, which was a victory for us. Hundreds of both Confederate and Union monuments rise to commemorate the exact resting places of fallen heroes.

The National cemetery where they are buried was a wonderful sight. I had a drink from the spring where both sides used to come to get water for their wounded; friends while at the spring, but foes after. We stayed there two nights, then on to Maryland, just crossing the narrow part of the state, to reach West Virginia. We went over the toll bridge of the Potomac, into Virginia, where we visited the Shenandoah caves. It was something I never expected to do, go down 2300 feet into the bowels of the earth. (I only thought my share would be six feet). Of the two tunnels we went through, the "Endless" was much the larger, taking two hours and a half to complete it. We went down 79 steps, then walked 2 1-2 miles, and believe me I did my daily dozen that day! The formations of stalachite and stalagmite made by the centuries of dripping were wonderful to see. And there was a great lake down there, too. The illumination was by many different colored electric lights, but for me I'll take the high spots!

The ride through Virginia valleys, with the Blue Ridge mountains towering above, was garnd. But the best was crossing the Cumberland mountains from Knoxville. The Mohawk Trail with its "Hairpin" curve is not in it! There are dozens of these, some going right straight back before turning another angle. It is quite a dangerous ride if you do not use extreme caution, as there is no protection of any kind, and if you make a mistake it is good bye for you. There are two big tunnels for trains in these mountains, the larger at Cumberland Gap. That is the place I have heard father Spicer mention so many times, in regard to his Civil war experiences. Kentucky is quite mountainous too, but its farms are one lovely bit of scenery. We are entering Ohio today, working our way up toward Buffalo.

GAREAUX IS BOUND OVER—BONDS OF $2000 SECURED

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 29—Judge John T. Barry in the Griswold town court this morning, bound over Jerome Gareaux of Providence to the January term of the superior court, on a charge of manslaughter.

Bonds of $2000 were secured by his attorney, Thomas M. Shields, of Norwich. On the evening of Sept. 4, Gareaux was operating a machine in North Main street, which struck the Campbell brothers, Fred S., of Bayonne, N. J., was killed and Emery was severely injured and is still a patient in Backus hospital, Norwich.

AGENT F. D. BALLOU GIVEN FAREWELL GIFTS BY EMPLOYES

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 27—F. D. Ballou, agent of the Ninigret division of the Fisk Tire Co., in retiring with the closing month.

A long term of faithful service, with many objectives attained and successes achieved, stands in his creditable record. Today, a long list of the operatives of the company, accompanied a good will and a good luck gift, a handsome white-gold Hamilton watch of the new Octagon design, together with a bag of the improved model golf sticks.

Postmaster W. T. Crumb gives the information that the new overland mail, which is likened to a star route truck service, took all the mail, with nearly on time departure. As far as this service is concerned. Jewett City is independent of the sawed-off train schedule.

Asters, cosmos and salvia are at their height of beauty and every mile or two one passes the great dahlia gardens of nearby growers. Last year before this date an early freeze had killed out of doors plants.

It looks as though the voters of the town of Lisbon desire to retain Harry Hull in office as first selectman. Mr. Hull has a service record of 7 years and having been placed on both tickets two years ago, at the coming town meeting his election is again to be uncontested.

In cooperation with Chairman E. F. Burleson of the finance committee the sinking fund investments were made to realize 6 per cent in place of 4. Mr. Hull's administration shows among other outstanding successes the bonded debt as self-sustaining, so that its retiring may be accomplished in 1936 without levying a sinking fund tax. In five years Mr. Hull has reduced the indebtedness of Lisbon, so that today a $16,000 is off the slate, and there is a credit balance of $8,000. An appropriation has been secured from the town and upon land deeded by Newent Congregational church, Lisbon is to erect a four-room school house and assembly hall. The land given by the church consists of about two acres, adjoining the Pilgrim Dahlia Gardens. The building is to be equipped with all latest conveniences, and the hall is to seat 400. Steam heat, electric light, water system and other modern school-room requirements will be provided.

Mrs. E. M. Gray has a Dorothy Perkins rose bush which is putting forth a second lot of lovely blossoms.

The beauty and originality of the Ashland Cotton Co. float, built by Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Chase, to compete in the industrial float parade at the county fair in Norwich, is still receiving complimentary mention both in Jewett City and Norwich. It showed a representation of a waterfall, with a mermaid lying in the white foam on the rocks. The waterfall was made of cotton roving, with cliffs of gray rayon at either side. The mermaid was Miss Agnes Corby, who was draped in changeable iridescent rayon, the tail being three feet long. Miss Corby's feet were bound so that the tail was moveable. She has long hair which she combed with a large shell. White rayon and large, prettily shaped stones which were shellaced so that they seemed to be wet, and quantities of green moss completed the charming effect. As the float moved around the track it was one blaze of glittering beauty—wonderful to behold according to the statement of Charles A. Dowsett, one of the committee.

Mrs. G. H. Prior left Thursday for Utica, N. Y., to address the New York branch of the King's Daughters.

At the meeting of the Stonington Union Women's Missionary association held in Moosup on Wednesday. Those from Jewett City society who attended were the president, Mrs. G. H. Prior, state secretary director, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mrs. Nellie Swift, Mrs. Lydia Church, Miss Ida Tripp, Mrs. E. E. Scates, Mrs. N. J. Babcock, Mrs. E. M. Gray, Mrs. Phebe Gray and Mrs. Emma Raney.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(AP)—Prices fluctuated rather erratically in today's stock market until just before the close, when a series of bullish demonstrations in some of the high priced industrial specialties induced sufficient buying elsewhere to give closing quotations the appearance of strength. Marking up of the call money rate to 4 per cent, followed by the calling of about $15,000,000 in loans, tended to put a damper on bullish enthusiasm earlier in the session.

Fears of a sharp increase in brokers' loans this week, variously estimated for $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 proved to be unfounded as the figures, published after the close of the market, showed a gain of only $21,175,000, bringing the total, however, to a new high record of $3,305,623,000, as against $2,812,971,000 a year ago. Wall street had looked for a larger increase because of the completion of settlements in General Motors (new stock) trading in which recently was changed from a "when issued" to a regular basis.

Admission of the Fisher interests to the directorate of the Baldwin Locomotive board was followed by a jump of nearly 10 points in Baldwin common to 237 7-8. Houston Oil, which was widely "tipped" in special wires from Baltimore, also soared nearly 10 points to 158 1-2. Abitibi Power, which has been mentioned in recent public utility merger rumors, soared nearly 15 points to a new peak 127 and then eased to 125. International Paper advanced more than 4 points to a new top at 61, and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and National Tea advanced 4 and 6 points, respectively.

Weakness again cropped out in the commodity market. Cotton broke about $3 a bale as a result of the bearish interpretation placed upon the bureau of agricultural economic's estimate of the indicated carry-over of cotton. Wheat dropped about a cent a bushel on reports of more favorable weather. Sugar was unchanged and coffee ruled slightly higher.

General Motors issues improved slightly, but some selling developed in the other motors as a result of the bearish interpretations placed upon certain portions of an address delivered to automobile editors by President Sloane of General Motors. Dodge Bros. common and preferred, Pierce Arrow common and Willys Overland common sold at their lowest prices of the year or longer and Chrysler showed an extreme loss of 2 points, part of which was later recovered.

Foods were again active in a number of specialties. New peaks for the year, or longer, were established by American Sumatra Tobacco, American Chicle, G. W. Helme, Liggett & Myers B, Frank G. Shattuck, Indian Motorcycle and International Match preferred. Savage Arms and American Beet Sugar sold at their lowest prices of the year.

Van Sweringen issues again featured the rail group with Chesapeake & Ohio common, Chesapeake corporation and "Nickel Plate" all reaching new high ground.

Except for a drop of 10 points in Japanese yen to 46.48 cents, there were no changes of importance in the foreign exchange market.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. The New York Federal reserve bank also announced a continuation of the 3 1-2 per cent. rediscount rate.

The Racket in the Henyard

The scamps in life, it would appear,
Are missed the most and held most dear.

—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy and Farmer Brown were eating supper. Farmer Brown's Boy had told of how he had left Cubby, the little Bear, up in the Old Pasture near the place where he had been found.

"That was the best place to leave him," said Farmer Brown. "To have left him in the Green Forest would have been most uncertain. But we know that Mother Bear goes to the Old Pasture often to feed on berries and she is pretty sure to find him there. He certainly was a cute little scamp, but I guess your mother is relieved to be rid of him."

"I certainly am," declared Mother Brown. "I couldn't have stood him much longer. It has taken me all this blessed day to clean up after him and I don't feel that the house is clean yet. But he was cute."

"I guess Bowser will miss him," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "He and Bowser had become very good friends."

"And I guess Black Pussy will miss him," said Mother Brown, "but it will be a happy miss on her part. She certainly was a scared cat while that bear was about. I do hope the little fellow has found his mother. I shouldn't like to think of him as wandering about, crying for his mother and not being able to find her. Do you suppose he can take care of himself if he doesn't find her?"

"Well," replied Farmer Brown's Boy, "at the rate he was putting blueberries down when I left him, I think he can. Certainly, he won't go hungry. Listen!"

All stopped eating and listened. There was something wrong out in the henhouse. The hens were squawking and making a terrible racket. Farmer Brown's Boy jumped to his feet and started for the door. "Something is after those hens!" he exclaimed. "It must be a fox or a weasel."

He darted out the door and straight for the henyard. As he ran he wondered if it could be that he had left the henyard gate open. He more than half expected to find it open and to see Reddy or Old Man Coyote dart out. But when he reached it he found the gate closed and hooked.

"It must be a weasel," he muttered. "Nothing else could get in there."

It was not yet really dark outside, but the hens had retired for the night even before supper. Now some of the hens were out in the yard. You see, the little doorway through which they go in and out the henhouse had not been closed. Plainly, they were very much excited. Others in the house were cackling and making a great racket and it sounded very much as if they were badly frightened. Farmer Brown's Boy picked up a stick. If it were a weasel, he meant to kill him if he had a chance. He hurried over to the henhouse door and threw it open.

Now, as I have said, it was not yet dark outside, but inside that henhouse it was too dark to see clearly. When the door was thrown open some of the hens ran out and the excited squawking and cackling stopped. Farmer Brown's Boy peered into the henhouse, vainly looking for Shadow the Weasel in there. He didn't see him. He did see a lot of feathers on the floor, but there were no dead hens as he expected. Farmer Brown's Boy listened. There was no sound save the noise made by the hens.

"I ought to have brought my flashlight," muttered Farmer Brown's Boy as he stepped inside.

Stewart was given a suspension of judgment, after he had been reprimanded for his conduct and the Kerson woman was fined $50. She could not pay and went to jail. The pair were arrested following the raids at 195 Main street and when the police entered the house they found Stewart and the woman in bed.

William P. Carty, of this city, is in New York, a guest at the Hotel Albert.

Edward Comstock, of 58 Riverview avenue; Barbara Bathgate, Montauk avenue and Virginia Borden, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

An automobile owned by Henry W. Bailey, Great Neck road, Waterford, employed at the Y. M. C. A. was stolen in this city last night. The car, a Ford carrying Connecticut registration, L-3533, was driven to Mountain avenue about 7 o'clock and an hour afterwards it was discovered stolen. Bailey made a report of the theft to the police and the state police and the police of Norwich, Westerly, Middletown, New Haven and Hartford were requested to be on the lookout for the car.

An automobile driven by Francis J. Sullivan, 24 Fraser street and a car owned by the Maytag company, Willimantic and driven by Kingsley Lue, that city, collided last night at the approach to the Thames River highway bridge. Both automobiles were damaged.

Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray sustained a painful injury this morning when he was thrown from the cycle after it had crashed against an automobile truck. He sustained a laceration of the leg and will be confined to his home for several days. Ray was driving through Montauk avenue and when near the corner of Willetts avenue the truck, driven by Thomas J. Birmingham, 111 Vauxhall street, a truckman, started to leave its position beside the curb and was headed toward the tracks of the Connecticut company to go into traffic. Before Ray had an opportunity to reduce the speed of the cycle or attempt to drive around the truck, the cycle crashed against the heavy vehicle. Ray was thrown and was caught in the wrecked cycle, a piece of which inflicted the injury to his leg, a deep cut about two inches in length. A telephone message was sent to police headquarters and the speed auto in charge of Sergeant John Cavanaugh was sent out but a passing autoist took charge of Ray, bringing him to headquarters where the injury was dressed by a physician, after which Ray went to his home on Norwood avenue. Ray would not prefer a charge of violating traffic law against Birmingham.

Annie Kennedy Erickson, 45, of Bank street, with a long police record was arrested this afternoon on Bank street by Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman Carl Selesnitsky charged with lascivious carriage. She will be in the police court tomorrow. The woman was conducting herself in such a manner as to attract attention from a throng of pedestrians. The Erickson woman's arrest today is her 18th, most of the times for intoxication and lascivious carriage.

Kusma Seveda, Federal street, was in the police court today charged with breach of the peace. The case was continued a week. Seveda went to the home of Mrs. Mary Sadusky, North Bank street last night and he amused himself by smashing windows. Complaint was made to the police and Patrolman William Riordan arrested him.

PATROLMAN SELESNITSKY IS GIVEN TWO HEARINGS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept., 29—Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky was given two hearings on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer before City Manager William A. Holt today. One of the charges was made by Jack Whiteside, concession proprietor at Ocean Beach and the other by Constable Chester H. Brigham of Waterford. The first hearing was at 10 o'clock and occupied two hours and a half, Whiteside being the accuser. The other hearing and the one in which Brigham was the accuser started at 2 o'clock and was concluded at 2.30 o'clock. At the end of the Brigham hearing, City Manager Holt announced that he would reserve decision. It is expected, however, that a decision will be made either Friday or Saturday. Selesnitsky was represented by counsel in Morris Lubchansky and Henry L. McGuire was counsel for Whiteside.

Last August Selesnitsky was on duty at Ocean Beach and is accused by Whiteside of using discriminating tactics in handling automobiles that parked on Stuart avenue, which is a violation of the law. Whiteside contended that the officer was unfair to the complainant because Whiteside's business was interfered with, while the officer overlooked other violators who patronized other stores. The situation became serious when Selesnitsky ordered an auto driver who had stopped to make a purchase at the Whiteside store, to move from his place of parking. Whiteside left the store and remonstrated with Selesnitsky whereupon, according to testimony today Selesnitsky told Whiteside that he (Selesnitsky) would break Whiteside's —— neck if Whiteside interfered with the performance by the officer of his duties. Whiteside declared that he would seek a warrant for the officer's arrest the next day. Selesnitsky then followed Whiteside to the latter's store and informed Whiteside that the latter was under arrest, on charges of breach of the peace and resisting an officer. Selesnitsky accompanied Whiteside to police headquarters, but the next day in the police court Whiteside was acquitted. Whiteside also testified that when Selesnitsky arrested him the officer was brandishing his club and was using abusive and profane language.

A. J. Coughlin, ice dealer at the beach, testified that when the altercation between Selesnitsky and Whiteside occurred that the witness was but a few feet away, he corroborated Whiteside in every particular.

Sergeant Samuel Hick was not at the beach the night that the trouble between Selesnitsky and Whiteside occurred, but testified that he had had trouble with Whiteside over parking regulations on Stuart avenue.

Patrolman Dennis Murphy, also on duty at the beach, testified that there were four factions at the shore resort, Clifford, Whiteside, Izzy and Everyone and that whoever the officer may be on duty there in the summer, he will encounter trouble if he enforces parking and traffic regulations.

Selesnitsky gave testimony that he had had trouble with Clifford and Whiteside over parking. He said he remembered the incident that brought about the charges against him and he also remembered the automobile driving up in front of Whiteside's place. He told of Whiteside remonstrating with him, also told of informing him to take his complaint, if he had one, up town, meaning to police headquarters. The officer further testified that when Whiteside continued to remonstrate with him, Whiteside was informed that if he didn't go to his place of business Selesnitsky would break his neck. Whiteside then went to his store, but on his way he reiterately called out "He's going to break my neck." A crowd collected and Selesnitsky then arrested Whiteside. In cross-examination by Attorney McGuire, Selesnitsky would not admit that he said he would break Whiteside's —— —— neck. Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney was at the hearing, but gave no testimony.

The hearing this afternoon was brief and brought out but little testimony. Brigham declared that he was held up at the corner of Bank and Howard street by Selesnitsky, who was doing traffic duty and because Brigham did not stop his auto where the officer contended he should, Selesnitsky applied harsh words to Brigham. Brigham said that Selesnitsky repeated the tirade when the constable tried to explain to Selesnitsky why the former had brought the auto to a stop where he did and that Selesnitsky again abused him. Selesnitsky claims that he did not see Brigham the day in question, nor has he ever had any conversation with him.

The funeral of Philip Halpern, better known as Pinky Burns was held this morning at 10 o'clock at a local undertaking establishment and burial was in the Hebrew cemetery, Jordan. A large number of mourners, including many of the sporting fraternity accompanied the body to its final resting place.

Jack Silver of Flanders road, East Lyme, was arrested at his home last night by State Police Officer Donald Brown charged with reckless driving and evasion of responsibility. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $200 and will be in the Waterford town court tomorrow afternoon. Silver was arrested following an automobile accident at the Golden Spur in which Miss Genevieve Pauline, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Pauline, Golden Spur, was injured. She is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Miss Pauline and Carl O. Beckwith, East Lyme, were riding in a coupe and at the spur the Beckwith auto was struck by another automobile, causing the former auto to be overturned. Miss Pauline was cut about the legs and was removed to the hospital where she is still a patient. Beckwith obtained the registration of the colliding auto before it speeded away and gave this information to the state police. Officer Brown learned that the auto is registered in the name of Silver and after looking for him several hours, Brown finally found Silver at his home and arrested him. He was brought to the police headquarters and here and later was released. Silver denies that his auto was in a collision, but the left side shows plainly that the machine has been in a collision recently.

Mrs. Thomas Wojeski and infant daughter of 16 Clover court; Samuel Lebedevich, 208 North Bank street; Mrs. Carl Carlson, 169 Willetts avenue; James Bliven of Norwich and Frank Freeman, 372 Williams street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Herbert Rich Opens Violin Studio

The many friends of Herbert Rich will be pleased with his announcement of the opening of a studio at 317 Main street for instruction in violin. Mr. Rich has just returned from Baltimore where for five years he was violinist with Baltimore symphony orchestra and musical director of the Hippodrome theatre. Before going to Baltimore he was well known as a violinist of high rank in this part of the state, having been instructor of violin at Connecticut college from 1915 to 1918 and musical director at the Capitol and Lyceum theatres in New London. He studied violin with Frances Porte, who was a pupil of Ysaye at the Belgian conservatory in Brussels and was also a pupil of Henry Schradreck, the famous violin virtuoso.

Broadway Theater

"Hula——and Clara Bow!

The book was good but wait until you see the motion picture. : It's a ten strike!

It's new. It's sparkling. It's crammed full of unusual situations. It provides a great vehicle for vivacious Clara Bow and, after all, it's the same Clara only even more so.

"Hula" opened at the Broadway theater yesterday for a three day run. This same run is likely to be a long one because you and everyone else won't want to miss Paramount's latest production. It's a "natural"—from start to finish.

In the picture, Miss Bow wins the nickname "Hula" because of her proficiency in the native Hawaiian dance. This is even more striking when it develops that she is not Hawaiian. She was born in the islands, the daughter of American parents, and has successfully sidestepped the "fast living" environment which surrounds the Calhoun plantation. "Old Bill" her father, a lovable but dissolute man, is not responsible for this. Uncle Edwin, "Hula's" companion since the death of her mother has really brough her up to be the sweet, dashing out-of-doors girl she is.

"The Big Parade," which comes to the Broadway theater on Sunday is unquestionably the greatest success New York has even known in the realm of big pictures. Speculators fought with the public to get blocks of seats at the box office, and this is the only picture for which tickets are in as big demand at the New York ticket agencies as they customarily are for the most successful flesh-and-blood dramas. The production is in its second year at the Astor theater, New York, and is now also in view in the principal capitals of the world. The presentation here will be an exact duplicate in picture and music of the one in New York, an orchestra of 20 pieces being carried on tour.

Breed Theater

"Black Paradise," a thrilling story of adventure with Edmund Lowe, Madge Bellamy and Leslie Fenton in the leading roles, comes to the Breed theater for a two day run, beginning today.

This picture, adapted from an original story by L. C. Rigby and R. William Neill, the director, tells the story of the love affair between a lovely young girl and a crook who trys to go straight. He falls in this effort, however, and walks into a trap while stealing a gorgeous diamond necklace. But the girl, Sylvia, stands by him and tries to help him to escape, when detectives follow him to her apartment.

After an exciting chase down back streets and alleys, they arrive at the docks, where they steal a speed boat and make for a three masted whaler heading out of the bay. The detective follows closely after, and they have barely boarded the ship when he speeds up alongside.

From then on the story is made up of one tensely unexpected situation after another leading up to a thrilling climax.

Edmund Lowe plays the part of the detective, Leslie Fenton that of the boy, and Madge Bellamy is the girl in the case. They are supported by an all-star cast, which includes Paul Panzer, Edward Piel, Harvey Clarke, Doris Lloyd, and Sam Blum.

GREENEVILLE

GIFTS TO JOHN MCKINLEY FROM FELLOW EMPLOYES

John McKinley left town Thursday morning for Providence to begin his duties as chief master mechanic at the Silverspring branch of the United States Finishing company. Mr. McKinley before receiving this promotion was master mechanic at the Greeneville branch of the company.

A committee of four men, representing the overseers, their assistants and mechanics, pleasantly surprised Mr. McKinley, Wednesday evening at his home on Prospect street, when they presented him a beautiful, sparkling platinum diamond studded shriners emblem pin on behalf of the mechanics, and a balance set of golf clubs in behalf of the overseers and their assistants. John McDougal gave the presentation speech in behalf of the overseers while Louis Geer, of Prospect street, representing the mechanics, made the presentation speech in their behalf, with Mr. McKinley responding in a very feeling manner, dwelling upon the co-operation that had always seemed to exist between the overseers, the various department heads and himself.

Mr. McKinley started in the employ of this company 28 years ago, entering as a draftsman under John Dawber, who at that time was master mechanic and to whose place Mr. McKinley was successor. He held that position for the past 12 years, making many friends in connection with his work and elsewhere.

Mr. McKinley also received a beautiful mahogany clock from the vestrymen of St. Andrews church of which he was a member. He also received an engraved humidor from the Men's club of St. Andrews church.

Mr. McKinley was the organizer of the Men's club of which he was a very active member, especially in the amusement end of the club. He often wrote plays and gave his personal attention to the directing of the casts for the plays, spending many hours working for the success of the members by giving them good clean entertainment. He always kept the name of his club before the public. As a parishioner Mr. McKinley was a very active member, always untiring in his efforts to make his church one of the leading churches in the community. For the present time Mrs. McKinley and her two daughters, the Misses Ruth and Mabel, will remain here. They plan to move in the near future to Providence.

Miss Helen Stephenson of Hartford is spending a week's vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stephenson of 425 Boswell avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John McIntyre of New York city were visitors recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Keenan of Fifth street. Mr. McIntyre is the well known officer of the New York police force.

Miss Catherine Bergon of Waterbury has returned to resume teaching at the Lisbon school. She will make her home with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Keenan of Fifth street.

Miss Constance McLearn, who has been spending a two weeks' vacation at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Richard Stephenson of 425 Boswell avenue, has resumed her training at the Hartford City hospital.

The night school, conducted under the town school board, will begin next Monday evening in the Greeneville school to run for 75 nights, four nights a week. Miss Isabelle Leonard will be the teacher in charge of the beginners class.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams were among the number of people of Norwich who attended the Eastern States exposition at Springfield.

Edward Benjamin of Preston City was a business caller in the village Thursday.

Motor Accidents in Franklin Street

ORGANIZATION IS COMPLETED FOR CHAMBER'S EXTENSION CAMPAIGN

General Arthur M. Brown, commander-in-chief of the Chamber of Commerce campaign expeditionary forces, announces that the organization of teams is now completed.

A prospect list of 840 names has been prepared for the teams working on memberships and in addition, about 150 names have been selected for the committee on a special activities fund. This allows approximately 20 names for each worker, eight of whom have been requesitioned for the opening dinner by most of the workers. However, there are a few who have not made their requisitions and the officers are particularly urging them to visit the campaign headquarters today. This is important.

David Harvard of Rochester, N. Y., who is to lead the campaign songs, will arrive in Norwich this (Friday) morning. Frederick S. Orr, field secretary of the State Chamber of Commerce, will speak on "Organization Valuation."

It is extremely important, the officials feel, that every division head, captain and worker be present at this first organization meeting. The plans for the campaign will be explained. The meeting opens promptly at 6:15 and will close at 8 o'clock. A special menu has been prepared by the Wauregan hotel, with roast spring chicken as the piece de restance.

The names of the completed organization follow:

HEARD SAYBROOK HISTORY WHILE VISITING ENGLAND

William E. Coulter of Berwin, Pa., formerly of Saybrook, who served in the aviation corps in the World war and recently returned home from France, with other members of the American Legion in the ship Scythia, wrote his mother in Old Saybrook of an interesting experience he had while visiting Warwick castle in England, with Mrs. Coulter and members of the Legion.

The attendant who was taking them through the castle asked the party if there was anyone who ever had heard of a small village in the state of Connecticut, U. S. A., by the name of Saybrook.

"You can imagine my feelings!" writes Coulter.

"'The reason I ask,' said the attendant, 'is that in the room where we now stand is much armor which belonged to Lord Brooke to whom with Lord Sayle and Sele was granted the tract of land which is now Saybrook and for whom the town was named.'

"I spoke right up and told him I was born in Saybrook, as were my parents, and lived there until the war.

"When he ceased speaking, a woman not of our party, came to me and asked if I knew the Lords, Denisons and Chapmans of Saybrook. She was touring Europe during the present summer. The world is small after all, and to think we should have met in old Warwick castle, I having lived in Saybrook and she often visiting there."

Given Miscellaneous Shower

Monday evening at the home of Miss Rosa Rogler, at East Great Plain, Miss Bertrice R. Green was tendered a miscellaneous shower, in honor of her approaching marriage to William Mitchell. Miss Green was the recipient of many lovely gifts, including china, glassware and linen. Prizes at bridge were taken by Mrs. Milton Green and Miss Hattie R. Clark. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Those present were the Misses Hattie Clark, Crystal Whitney, Eunice Taft, Catherine Wagner, Laura Baer, Dorothy Holden and Bertrice Green and Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Frederick Freeman, Mrs. Samuel Hussey, Mrs. F. D. Coles and Mrs. Milton Green.

TAFTVILLE

Saturday evening a surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Jane E. Rennard and Herbert Rennard on Bushnell road in observance of the eighth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Rennard's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Oddie of Blissville. About twenty were present, and the evening was pleasantly spent in games and music. In serving refreshments, Mrs. Rennard had the assistance of her daughter, Mrs. Samuel L. Armitage of Providence, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Meyer, George W. Meyer and Miss Flossie M. Meyer of Blissville who are enjoying a two weeks automobile tour of the province of Quebec, Canada, were at Quebec on September 27th.

William A. Roy of New London, formerly of Taftville, was a business caller in the village Wednesday.

The numbers of grey squirrels about the town are attracting a great deal of attention, as this is the first year that they have made their appearance in the village streets seemingly without fear. Squirrels may be seen in the maple and elm trees on North B streets at almost any time, and they frequently leave the trees and run across the roads. On North Third avenue several are always in view, and they appear to amuse themselves by running up and down the long stretch of iron fence which tops the high stone wall on that street. Those who frequent the woods report that squirrels appear to be very numerous this year, especially the grey squirrels, although there are numbers of reds also.

A letter addressed to Samuel Coeter is being held at the local post office, the addressee being unknown to the postmaster.

Several of the canoes belonging to members of the Taftville Boat and Canoe club have already been removed from their usual places on the banks of the Shetucket river, indicating that their owners believe that the season for this sport is now at an end.

Miss Mary Bergeron of Bristol, a former Taftville resident, has been a recent visitor in town, being a guest at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Lebreque of Blissville road. She has also been visiting friends in Attawaugan.

BROGNO VS. CHINIGO TRIAL IS POSTPONED

The session of the superior court, with Judge Allyn L. Brown presiding, which had been transferred from New London to this city for Thursday morning, for the trial of the suit of Joseph Brogno of this city against Demetrio and Salvatore Chinigo, did not have the expected trial. When court came in, the counsel for the plaintiff, Shields & Shields, made a motion for postponement in order that they might summon in other parties to the action. Judge Brown granted the motion, and made the order that actual costs incurred because of the delay, amounting to $12, be paid over to Judge John H. Barnes, counsel for the defendants, which was done.

Brogno, owner of a house on Oak street, is suing for damages of $2,000 from the defendants who are contractors. The complaint sets out that on Sept. 26, 1926, a written agreement was entered into between the parties, whereby the defendants were to erect and construct an addition to the dwelling house, owned by Brogno, located on Oak street and other work was to be done also.

The plaintiff sets out that the addition was to be ready for occupancy by Thanksgiving day, 1926, but as a matter of fact, it was not ready until Feb. 14, 1927. Other claims are made by the plaintiff also.

The contractors through their counsel have filed a counter-claim to the action, also seeking $2,000 damages, claiming that there is due them the sum of $1300 on the contract price of $2900 and the sum of $616.07 for extra work.

HEALTH FILMS NOW AVAILABLE IN STATE

Winter health plans are developing rapidly throughout the state and requests are being received daily for the use of the state department of health films.

There are now forty-three health films available for use, covering almost every phase of health. These include science films all of which are valuable for use in the upper grades and in high schools, there are many popular films suitable for showing in public moving picture houses, some of which can compete easily with the best in the "movies."

There are films for adult health examinations, for child health and infant care, for prenatal care, for the control of such diseases as diphtheria, smallpox, and venereal diseases, for fly mosquito and rat control, and care of the eyes. All of these films are not only instructive, but interesting. One series of four films on "How Life Begins" is a most artistic presentation of the subject and tells the story so well that it is suitable for any mixed audience.

Under the present law it is now possible for halls, schools and churches to show moving pictures of cellulose acetate stock (non-inflammable) with approved projectors without the use of a fireproof booth, after such hall has been inspected by the state police.

The usual fee of five dollars for this service carries over, under the new law from the date of inspection to September next following.

ST. JOHN IS DISCHARGED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STERLING, Sept. 29—Evidence introduced this morning in the case of William St. John of this place, charged with assault, following the death of his wife early this week at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, failed to satisfy the court of his guilt of the charge and Justice of the Peace C. B. Montgomery discharged St. John.

The case came before Justice Montgomery at 10 o'clock this morning. Frank W. Hazard prosecuted and Bradford W. Danielson of Moosup represented the accused. Testimony was given by a daughter, of St. John, Mrs. Evelyn Matthew and her husband, Theodore Matthew, but it was not sufficient to convict and the accused was discharged.

It is stated that Mr. Matthew was in the field and heard the argument and upon coming to the house saw Mrs. St. John on the ground, suffering with a cut on the ankle and elbow Matthew's wife failed to mention this in her testimony. St. John in his own defense claimed that when he entered the house he believed his wife was going to strike him and he seized her wrist. It is also alleged that had he let go of her wrist she would have pitched down the cellar stairs and would have been injured, probably seriously.

It is also alleged that the man and his wife had not been getting along well for some time and that just before her death she requested that her body not be sent back to her home for burial.

On good authority it is also stated that the charge of assault had nothing to do with the death of Mrs. St. John, which occurred due to a ruptured appendix and not through any injury she may have sustained as the result of the alleged assault. Any investigation into the death of Mrs. St. John, it is understood, has now come to an end with the discharge of St. John on the minor charge of assault.

Funeral services for Mrs. St. John were held at 2 p. m. today from Danielson undertaking parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Learned of East Town street are taking a ten days' trip in their car through Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine, visiting their cousins in Williston, Maine.

In conformity with custom, Mr. and Mrs. Julian L. Williams of Julian street, entertained the entire force of the plant of Mr. Williams on Town street, at their summer home at Shelter Harbor, near Quonochontaug beach, recently. The company numbering twenty-three, included salesmen, office force, garage foreman and his assistants, supply clerk, apprentices, etc., each being privileged to have members of their families accompany them. A sumptuous chicken dinner, also clam chowder were provided at noon with dessert of apple pie and ice cream. During the day sea bathing was enjoyed and various games were played. Before leaving for home, the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Williams was again shown, when a tempting supper of salad, chicken sandwiches, cakes, etc., was served.

Miss Louise Williams has returned to her home in Pasadena, Cal., after spending the summer among Norwich relatives at their shore places, Mr. and Mrs. Julian L. Williams at Shelter Harbor, and with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. C. Morgan Williams, at Black Point.

87 DEAD, MORE THAN 500 INJURED, AND 5,000 BUILDINGS RAZED IN ST. LOUIS

It is Believed the Damage Will Amount to $100,000,000—Region Devastated by the Tornado Still Remains a Scene of Horror and Intense Activity—The Tornado Traveled in Crescent Shape Through the Exclusive Residential Section, Humble Houses and Business Section—Legionnaires, Boy Scouts and Civilians Are Aiding the Police and State Militiamen in the Devastated Region.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30—(AP)—Work of relief and rehabilitation was well under way tonight when darkness settled over the six square mile area devastated yesterday when a four minute tornado killed 87 persons, injured more than 500, and damaged or destroyed 5,000 homes and business buildings.

The property loss, according to the best estimates of experts who spent the day in the stricken area, was expected to exceed the $100,000,000 record of the tornado of 1896, when 140 persons were killed in an area of ten square miles.

After a careful tour of the path of devastation, Building Commissioner Christopher tonight placed the minimum of damage done to property of all kinds at $50,000,000, and declared he believed it might reach $100,000,000. It would take more than $100,000,000 he said, for rehabilitation. The first of thirty insurance adjusters brought here from other cities estimated the loss at between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000.

Only one body, that of a woman, remained unidentified tonight. Twenty persons had been reported missing, however.

A single inquest to cover the deaths of all St. Louis victims was set for tomorrow morning, with the corner's jury expected to hold a perfunctory hearing and return a verdict of deaths by a fillip of the elements.

No plans had been made tonight for joint funerals and, since the death list was made up of men, women and children in comparative widely separated areas with no intimate contacts, it was believed each bereaved family would take care of its dead in individual ceremonies, with tomorrow and Sunday a day of funerals and burials.

Except for the constant conversations everywhere about the slowly mounting death list, downtown St. Louis today virtually was without a remainder of the death and desolation within three miles of the business district. Employes ranks in many concerns were thinned as men remained at home to dig in the debris for possessions or make hasty repairs to roofs, doors and windows against the forecast of rain. Otherwise business went along virtually as usual.

But the devastated region, still was a scene of horror and of intense activity. Traffic into many quarters was blocked off while rescue parties dug in the ruins—a maze of fallen bricks and tangled power wires and uprooted trees.

The tornado, cut a crescent shaped swath embracing the exclusive residential section, humbler homes and business streets.

Of all the damage done by far the greater seemed to have occurred not by the unmeasured twisting and lifting power of the tornado itself, but by the explosions of air inside buildings themselves as the twister passed and created an outside vacuum into which the inner air rushed.

In the relatively poorer communities, with their more fragile structure, however, the full power of the twisting and lifting ability of the tornado was vented. Flimsy structures existed no more excepting as broken and twisted piles of debris.

There were pitiful scenes as housewives, bent as the gleaners, fumbled in the remains of their little homes, or, a full day's labor of tidying up done, sat disconsolate on front door steps in pictures of utter dejection amidst the wreckage.

Boards, tar paper, sheets of tin and every other manner of covering was used in a crazy-quilt patchwork pending time for more thorough rehabilitation.

Possibly the saddest story of the wrath of the elements was revealed today when rescuers delving in the debris of the huge central high school on Grand avenue, just about opposite Vandeventer place, found the bodies of five little girls. Some of them were pinned down by steel beams and, after hours of digging, acetylene torches had to be used before the bodies could be released. When the school was struck hundreds of children were endangered, but only these five lives were lost and 18 children injured. Seven school buildings with 6,500 pupils, were in the tornado's path.

Throughout the vast area of desolation sightseers thronged today viewing the damage and watching the victims work to restore order. Streets already narrowed by fallen walls, uprooted trees, poles and twisted wires were clogged by the visitor's automobiles. Finally they were denounced by Chief of Police Gerk as "sightseeing maniacs" and ordered to remain out of the district.

Hundreds of homeless again tonight were cared for in National Guard armories and fed from field kitchens placed in service by the Red Cross disaster force. Downtown hotels were filled to capacity, in some instances. No demand was made for tents and apparently all the homeless had found temporary roofs.

St. Louis' police force of 1,500 men were fatigued by 24 and 36 hours of constant duty. Relief for them came tonight into the district from Jefferson barracks. Major Gen. W. N. Lassiter, commander of the Sixth Corps area, came from Chicago to direct the army's relief work.

American Legionnaires, Boy Scouts and civilian volunteers directed traffic and mounted guard in the devastated area today along with the St. Louis members of the state militia.

24-YEAR-OLD ART STUDENT COMMITTED SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—An unfinished essay, "What is death," was found today in a cheap furnished room on Lexington avenue beside the body of Franklin Chattin, 24 year old art student, who had committed suicide by inhaling gas. A novel "The Death of a Young Man" was also found on the bed.

Extracts from the essay clearly indicated his pre-occupation with the ultimate mystery. "Life seems to be a short story of light and moment," he had written. "Before and after is eternal silence, space and nothingness. Some day we won't be able to turn away at the approach of death. A curious thought to one in the full swing of living, to whom such things seem to concern other people alone."

The manager of the rooming house, who called the police after the odor of gas had poured through the building, said little was known of Chattin there. He had registered two months ago as "John Franklin" but papers found in the room established his real identity.

ERIE COMMON AT THE HIGHEST PRICE IN 30 YEARS

ROOSEVELT WARNS OF SHADOW OF TAMMANY

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 30—(AP)—For the first time in history "the shadow of Tammany lies athwart the white house" in the candidacy of Gov. Alfred E. Smith for the presidency, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt declared today in his keynote address to the republican state convention.

He urged New York republicans to take the lead in a campaign to "dispel" that shadow, asserting that there was no such thing as "the new Tammany."

With more than inference, Colonel Roosevelt cited Gov. Smith—"The leader of the democratic party in this state (who) aspires to be the nominee of that party fo rthe presidency"—as the ally of the "same old" Tammany.

"A man must be judged by the company he keeps," declared the temporary chairman "and though we do not question the personal integrity of Gov. Smith, he is sponsored and backed by Tammany hall. Next to being corrupt yourself is tolerating it in your supporters. Tammany x x x has lived too long by corruption to reform."

A Mobilization Test of the State Police

Wonder Created as All State Police Officers Dashed To Waterbury.

WATERBURY, Sept. 30—(AP)—Every town of the state watched in wonder as state police officers dashed toward Waterbury today in answer to mobilization orders issued by Commissioner Robert T. Hurley, at the wish of Governor John H. Trumbull. Seventy troopers answered the call, the first of its kind in the history of the department.

"I am more than gratified with the results," Governor Trumbull stated after the review held in the local armory tonight. His opinion was also that of Commissioner Hurley and Colonel Charles H. Allen, of the governor's staff.

Commissioner Hurley was summoned to the executive offices today at 1:30 p. m., and at 1:53 saluted his excellency as usual. Told to enter Governor Trumbull's motor, he was informed that mobilization of the state police was to be held at Waterbury. Upon reaching this city orders were issued by the commissioner from the armory at 2:45 p. m.

Harry Tucker, of Ridgefield barracks was the first to report, arriving at 3:30 and coming directly from Oxford where he received his orders. C. C. Chamberlin of Westport barracks, followed him down Field street to the armory and reported directly after Officer Tucker. Like Tucker he came from duty at Oxford.

During the entire afternoon the staccato report of motorcycle exhausts was heard about the armory where troopers leaped from machines, rushed to report to the officers.

After dinner, served in the armory, the troopers were inspected by the official party. Inspection over, Governor Trumbull congratulated the men on their response to mobilization order as did the commissioner. The officers then returned to their posts.

RAPID GROWTH IN THE AREA OF STATE FORESTS

HARTFORD, Sept. 30—(AP)—Since July 1, 1925, the area of State forests has more than trebled. On that date the State commission on forests and wild life which is a combination of the State board of fisheries and game and the State park and forest commission, began to function. State owned forests had a total acreage at that time of 11,603. Today that figure has increased to over 36,718 acres.

Of these 36,000 acres, 11,587 1-2 are in entirely new forests, six in all, which include the following: The American Legion forest in Barkhamsted, 322 acres, given to the State by the Legion and dedicated at a formal opening a few weeks ago; Cockaponset State forest, 6,675 acres in the towns of Haddam, Chester, Saybrook and Killingworth; the Nepaug and Burlington purchase, 675 1-2 acres; Pototuck State forest in New Fairfield, 2200 acres; the Naugatuck forest, 2,260 acres, in Watertown, Thomaston, Plymouth and Waterbury, and the Nehantic forest, 280 acres in Lyme. The other additions to the State forest area were chaefly enlargements of existing parks. Most of the new forest land was purchased by the state, although the commission is indebted to some organizations such as the legion.

RECORD TEMPERATURE FOR DATE IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 30—(AP)—A temperature of 83 degrees, the high mark for the date in the records of the Boston weather bureau, was reached at 3 o'clock this afternoon. From many parts of New England temperatures of 80 and above were reported. Balmy southwest breezes accompanied the belated return of summre.

On two occasions since 1872 when the bureau records were started, the thermometer has marked 82 degrees on September 30. In 1879 and again in 1898 this temperature was reached. In 1922 the September 30 maximum was 80. The average temperature for the date is 59 and the coldest September 30 on record was that of 1888 when Boston shivered with the thermometer at 36.

The bureau predicted a continuance of the warm wave through tomorrow and Sunday.

Business Conditions In New England Fair

General Employment Conditions in August Were Better Than in July.

BOSTON, Sept. 30—(AP)—Business conditions as a whole have remained virtually stationary in New England in recent weeks, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston says in its monthly review. The business activity index for August was at the same level as that for July, which was higher than for the corresponding two months a year ago but much lower than for July and August 1925.

"The New England cotton mills," the review says, "consumed more bales of cotton during August than in July, but since there were two and one-half more working days in August the average daily consumption was less than in July. In fact, the average daily consumption during August was less than in any other month this year, but was materially larger than during August a year ago.

"General employment conditions in New England industry during August were somewhat improved as compared with July. The number employed in identical factories in Massachusetts during August increased 2.8 per cent from July. Some industries, however, including the textiles, machinery and foundry products, were operating with smaller working forces than in July.

"New England department stores sales in August were substantially greater than during any previous August, and preliminary reports indicated that September sales might be ahead of the corresponding month of either of the past two years."

COUNSEL FOR BEACH DEMANDS SPEEDY TRIAL

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 30—(AP)—Denying that he advised Willis Beach, South Vineland poultry raiser, wanted on a charge of aiding in the slaying of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl, to leave the jurisdiction of the court or that he knew Beach's whereabouts, Edison Hedges, Atlantic City attorney, today demanded a speedy trial on two indictments accusing him of obstructing justice.

Hedges, who was retained by Beach when the latter was arrested as a material witness last week, was released in $2,000 bail by Judge William H. Smathers, at the Atlantic county courthouse in Mays' Landing. While addressing the court Hedges turned over a letter which he received today containing a purported confession from a drug addict that he killed Dr. Lilliendahl, a similar letter was received by Justice of the Peace George E. Strouse, of Hammonton.

The warrant charging Beach with aiding in the slaying was issued Tuesday when he could not be found for further questioning by authorities.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—Accompanied by loud cheers, Jimmie Walker embraced and kissed Maggie Cline, famous Irish character actress of an early day, when the mayor encountered her today at the cornerstone laying of the new Hammerstein theatre.

Maggie Cline was a star on Broadway when Oscar Hammerstein, for whom the new theatre is named, was in his heyday. The theatre is being built by Arthur Hammerstein, son of the impressario.

N. Y. BROKER CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT OF $150,000

Herman W. Booth, Who Disappeared Following His Expulsion From the New York Stock Exchange—Detectives Assert That More Than Forty of Booth's Former Clients Have Charged Him With Failure to Return Securities and Stocks Valued at More Than $2,000,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—Herman W. Booth, bankrupt broker, who disappeared Sunday following appointment of a receiver in bankruptcy and his expulsion from the New York stock exchange, was arrested this afternoon charged with embezzlement of $150,000 in stocks and securities from Mrs. Jennie C. H. Denton.

Booth had returned only half an hour before from Atlantic City and reported to Burgess Osterhout, counsel for Edward H. Childs, the receiver.

Mrs. Denton herself made the arrest at Booth's office, where she was accompanied by a detective, who took the prisoner to a cell at police headquarters.

Mrs. Denton charged she gave the securities in 1924 and that he failed to return them on demand. According to detectives who have been investigating the case, more than 40 of Booth's former clients charged him with failure to return securities and stocks valued at more than two million dollars.

The broker was arrested a few moments after he had opened his safe deposit boxes in the presence of Mrs. Denton and showed there that they contained nothing of value. He insisted that he was the victim of a mistake and that he could settle all his obligations if given time.

BERLIN TO CELEBRATE 80TH BIRTHDAY OF HINDENBURG

BERLIN, Sept. 30—(AP)—No birthday table, that great traditional feature of German homelife on which birthday gifts are displayed, was ever made big enough to hold all the tokens of nation wide affection which have been showered on President von Hindenburg for his 80th birthday Sunday. Despite his request to halt such offerings thousands have insisted on making personal presents to him.

One is a hand embroidered silk baby's cap with long satin ribbons from an old country woman who wrote the president that she simply must send him a present and that this was the best she could think of and perhaps his excellency would accept it for his grandchildren.

The entire and city of Luebeck sent the president a giant birthday cake and for baking Luebeck is famous. The cake, which is surrounded by eighty candles modeled by a prominnet artist, showed a view of the cty in relief. The artistic box in which it is packed bears a congratulatory dedication by the senate.

DETECTIVES SEEKING MEN WHO STOLE SECURITIES

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 30—(AP)—With all the local men who are alleged to have flooded Wyoming valley with stolen bonds either in jail or under heavy bail, the authorities today devoted their efforts to locating the men who stole the securities in New York and other cities and the "fence" who brought the bonds to this region.

In addition to the $70,000 in bonds of the city of Bridgeport, Conn., posted as collateral for loans in Wilkesbarre, Pittston and Scranton banks, B. H. McKeehan, a Wyoming, Pa., business man, is alleged by the authorities to have obtained loans on other stolen securities.

McKeehan, who is in the county prison in default of $20,000 bail, was said by officials to have ben only a figurehead in the "stolen bond," syndicate. Some of the loans obtained on the bonds were alleged to have been used to finance the unsuccessful primary campaign of Dr. Frank D. Thomas, of Kingston, for sheriff.

ATLANTIC COAST NAVY YARDS A NECESSITY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—(AP)—Secretary Wilbur today opposed Rear Admiral T. P. Magruder's suggestion advocated in his magazine article, that some of the Atlantic coast navy yards be abolished with the declaration that he regarded them as much a military adjunct as a battleship.

"Maintaining the navy yards is an essential part of the national defense," the secretary said with emphasis, "the de-commissioning of any navy yards on the Atlantic coast might jeopardize the national defense. We are seeking appropriations for the continuance of all navy yards in their present status. Some of them were started hundred years ago and should be continued.

"The few private yards capable of building naval vessels are not engaged in such construction and in case of a war emergency the navy yards would be just as important as the battleship. I feel that we are justified in the expenditures although they may not be economic from an industrial standpoint," he said.

HOW N. Y. POLICE FRUSTRATED AN ATTEMPTED PAYROLL THEFT

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—Four blundering thugs attempted a daylight payroll robbery in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn today but were put to rout by the blazing gun of a lone patrolman and a chase by a funeral escort of police in a tableau comparable to a movie thriller.

The only one of the four who was caught turned out to be the scapegrace son of a former New York assemblyman whose downward path had already led him through a sentence in Sing Sing.

A clergyman was reading the funeral service over the body of a dead patrolman while six others stood, heads bared beside the coffin, when a volley of shots was heard. Startled, they dashed from the house where the services were being held to observe a blue sedan getting under way a block distant while a fellow patrolman blazed away at it with his revolver.

The patrolman was William Rhode and he stood in the doorway of a bank protecting William A. Shookoff, president of the Grand Marble works who held in his hand a portfolio containing $11,000 in cash.

Then the six patrolmen whose thoughts had been turned suddenly from sorrow of a dead comrade to protection of a living one appeared on the scene. They drew revolvers and popped away at the car fast gathering speed. Following as they fired, Rhode remained guarding Shookoff and the money while he added a few shots also.

But the bandits, in their hurry to escape, overlooked an approaching ice-wagon, too late, the driver sought to steer out of its path but he hit it square-on and the four frantic thugs were spilled out in several directions.

They all headed for a nearby subway entrance but again they miscalculated the fleetness of foot of Patrolman Frank Fiedman. Wiedman, far in advance of his fellow officers, made a flying tackle and brought the slowest runner of the four to the sidewalk. The others escaped.

AGED JURIST SHOT BY WOMAN IN SALT LAKE CITY

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 30—(AP)—Screamig "I'll show you how to get justice," Mrs. Eliza Simmons, 46, a widow, fired four shots into the body of Judge Tillman D. Johnson of the United States district court here today.

The woman opened fire as the 70-year-old jurist was mounting the bench. Her first shot, aimed as she arose from a seat in the front part of the courtroom, missed its mark, striking the bench and lodging in the wall.

When the judge turned he fell down the steps of the rostrum and rushing to the side of the bench the woman stood over him and fire four shots all of which took effect.

Mrs. Simmons was overpowered and taken to the county jail, where she is being held without charge pending the outcome of Judge Johnson's injuries. She refused to talk but a statement found at her home by department of justice agents disclosed that she believed she had been gravely wronged in 1924 when Judge Johnson dismissed her suit for $25,000 damages as the result of the death of her husband in a mining accident at Bingham, Utah, in 1910.

In her written statement, apparently prepared several days ago, which covered eight long typewritten pages, the woman also blamed United States Senator William H. King, of Utah, for her fancied wrong, and referred to Judge Johnson as "hard-boiled" and too old to properly preside over the court.

DOVER, N. J., Sept. 30—(AP)—Three prisoners escaped from the county jail here today through a hole they made in a brick wall of the recreation room. The men had worked on the hole for some time and had concealed their progress by putting bread dough in place of the mortar.

The men are Arthur Sweet of Sanford, Maine; Fred Bragon of Somersworth, N. H., and Albert Hall of Dover. They were serving sentences of one year each.

Prison officials and police of Dover, Somerworth and Rochester combined in a search for the trial tonight but were unable to trace them.

ON WAY TO DOCTORS, MAN IS FREED OF SPEEDING CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 30—Making haste to reach a physician's office in an emergency is justifiable cause for breaking a speed aw, according to an opinion of the local police court officials made today in entering a nolle in the case of Roger Despres, 20, of Box 71, R. F. D., No. 1 Hampton. Despres was arrested while traveling at a rate of about 34 miles an hour on lower Main street and he was charged with reckless driving. He explained that he was on his way to a physician's office in this city with a sick brother who was a passenger in the car. He produced a doctor's certificate attesting to the fact that his brother had received treatment. Despres refuted the officer's statement as to the speed at which he was driving. In view of his cause for hurrying Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher recommended that the case be nolled, which was done by Judge Frank H. Foss.

Recurrent cases of similar nature would give the local police credit of being in the business of apprehending and returning run-away boys. Three more youths were returned to their parents today. They were, William Snow, 16, of 1 Motley street; Duncan MacLaughlin, 16, of 193 Cabot street and Leo Kelley, 17, of 3 Terry street, all of Roxbury, Mass. Upon notifying the Roxbury authorities that the trio was being detained at police headquarters here, Chief of Police Thomas F. Mrs. Alice Burchnall, president of the Home and School club of the town of Hampton stated today that she wished to correct an impression gleaned from an article in this morning's issue of The Bulletin, that the club planned to take any part in the consolidation of the Hampton schools. Mrs. Burchnall said that she regarded school consolidation as a political movement and therefore not one in which the Home and School club would participate in any way.

JEWETT CITY

SUPERINTENDENT HINTS AT HIGH SCHOOL POSSIBILITY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 30—Superintendent F. H. P. Clement forecasts a coming possibility in one section of his annual report, touching local educational interests. The item reads:

We have seventy-four pupils at the Plainfield high school and at the Norwich Free Academy. Quite a number are attending private schools elsewhere. It would be wise at this time to locate a suitable site for a future high school. The available land in Jewett City is rapidly being built upon and we would do well to look ahead.

Ever since its establishment, Jewett City pupils have gained yearly benefits from Putnam Trade school, several local young men holding good positions, who received their first actual trade experiences in that school. Relative to this matter, the following item is of interest:

DANIELSON

DEMOCRATS MAKING STRONG DRIVE FOR FIRST SELECTMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 30—Republicans in this, the first district, of the town of Killingly, came to a realization today that a real drive is on to land a democrat in the first selectman's birth, and immediately started to take steps to overcome this possibility. The drive, naturally, centers against John A. Gilbert, present republican first selectman, a place he has filled for many years and is the party's candidate to fill again.

Party leaders now sense the fact that a quiet drive has been under way for weeks, to win the first selectman's place for a democratic candidate, and it appears now that the drive has been more or less effective, enough so as to startle republican party workers into action. Today the rank and file of the republicans were being urged to make certain of being at the polls on Monday, and to do their bit toward Mr. Gilbert's reelection.

Once again the matter of having an athletic field for Killingly High school is getting considerable. The subject is one that has been discussed and planned for through several years without a field being obtained. Now, the prospects, that the Alumni association, the Athletic association of the school, the student body in general and friends of the school will launch an effort that likely will result in a field being obtained. A field could be developed, without prohibitive expense, it is claimed where the baseball and football games of the school could be played and where a track for running events could be built.

Because Thomas B. Payne has announced himself as an independent candidate for election as selectman in the town of Brooklyn, a fact that has been given widespread publicity, interest in the outcome of his campaign at the polls next Monday has keyed up interest in towns in all the territory hereabouts. Mr. Payne is in the field on an economy platform, particularly as to the expense of road upkeep and charges extravagance in this department during the past year. Mr. Payne's entry of the campaign has stirred other candidates to special activity as well as party workers generally. Brooklyn likely will turn in an unusually large vote on Monday.

The fall and winter program of the Killingly Woman's club has been made public, and promises a series of literary and intellectual treats. The first meeting comes on Wednesday of next week, when Robert W. McLaughlin, author and lecturer will address the club on A Quest for a Pair of Slippers. The next October meeting will be on the 27th, when there is to be a luncheon at which Miss Emily Louise Plumley, president of the Connecticut Federation of Women's clubs, and Mrs. Elmore A. Evans, general federation director, will be guests. Two musical programs are included in the list of events announced.

After an illness since December 8 of last year Henry Edward Burton, 85, died at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson. Mr. Burton had been in business here for 30 years, before his illness forced his retirement and had lived here even a longer period. He was the son of William Henry and Josephine LaRonde Burton and was born in Elsinburg, N. Y., May 13, 1864.

The family lived in Jewett City and Wauregan before coming to Danielson. Mr. Burton was a member of Orient lodge, K. of P., of the Uniform Rank, K. of P., and Quinebaug lodge of Odd Fellows, Danielson. For years he was secretary and treasurer of the Sunday schoolof Danielson Baptist church.

For many years he was a member of the Connecticut National Guard and for several years was captain of the Danielson company of the old Third Conn. Inf. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Zoe Wilson and Miss Mildred Burton and a son Roscoe, two sisters, John W. Gallup of Danielson and Mrs. William Cook of Burke, N. Y., and a brother Hiram of Danielson. There are five grandchildren, children of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson.

One hears now and then of giving someone "a buggy ride," but it was not until this morning that the fact became generally known that one group of Danielson Rotarians took another group of the members out for a bus ride last evening.

It appears that the club inaugurated an attendance contest early in the summer, the Bankers and the Depositors being assigned as names for the contending groups. The agreement was that the losing side should buy a dinner for the winners some regular meeting night in the early fall. The bankers, it so happened, lost out.

During yesterday the winning Depositors were told that they were to have their banquet in the evening and to be at the corner of Broad and Reynolds street at 6.30 to board a motor coach that would be there waiting to convey the members to the inn where the dinner was to be served.

They came, brought their overcoats, for the night was chilly, gathered about the waiting bus until all were assembled and then climbed in. Where away? a happy winner inquired, as is the way with Rotarians. The average guess was Providence, but not the correct one.

Given the signal to get underway, the bus driver swung the big machine into Reynolds street, drove about 100 feet to the Park Inn, and gave the boys the "All out" sign. It may be hardly necessary to record that the Depositors were flabbergasted, but the Bankers would have their little joke.

At the inn the banquet got away with the diners in the merriest of moods. A splendid chicken dinner was served while there was music by Ellison's orchestra and Rotary songs were sung. There were numerous favors for the club members, having one of the most delightful times in the history of Rotary here.

The discussion as to Killingly investing in voting machines, waxes warm. The matter will be up again at the annual town meeting Monday afternoon. Of all the raguments one hears about the machines, pro and con, the most impressive one, in favor of them, is that they cannot be tampered with and that they prevent the possibilities that exist under the present system of balloting of arranging to vote a voter as one wants him to vote, and to establish a certain check on him to see that he, or she, does it. And, it is contended by the pros, that's worth, alone, all the machines will cost.

STATE POLICE GET HURRY CALL FROM WATERBURY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 30—Responding to what was described here as an emergency test call, Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart and the squad of state officers stationed at the North Main street barracks flashed out of Danielson like a shot from a gun this afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock, en route to Waterbury, where state officers from barracks all over the state were hurriedly mobilized. Only State Officer George Gardner remained at the local barracks while the other troopers were away.

The fact that the officers carried riot guns strapped to their machines and that their exit was so hurried and en masse caused all kinds of rumors to start flying about town. Vivid imaginations conjured up a chase after bank robbers, the quelling of a riot or some other serious disturbance somewhere in the state. It is understood that the officers here had no warning of the call, but nevertheless they were assembled and on their way in jig time, with one or two of the officers who were out on assignments following on immediately upon their return to the barracks.

This afternoon the legislative outing committee that had charge of the outing for Windham county legislators and their friends at Rocky Point last August held their final meeting at the office of E. L. Darbie here, went over the accounts and closed their books. Following the meeting Postmaster W. Franklin Sheldon of Moosup, a member of the committee, said that after paying all bills the committee has on hand a balance of $55.15.

Windham county people undoubtedly will applaud the thoughtfulness of the committee in voting to turn this balance over as part of a fund to provide a joyous Christmas tree party for the inmates of the Temporary Home for Children at Putnam. This gracious act means a brighter holiday for scores of children at the home and makes the average citizen appreciative of having officials who think of such things.

The room was crowded and after Referee John Ashby had told the men the rules, the battle began. MONDAY'S ELECTION

Are you bearing in mind the fact that Monday is the day for the election of those town officials who will serve Norwich for the next two years? If you are that should mean that you are planning to get to the polls and use your vote in behalf of a sound and efficient town administration.

Norwich has in office men who are fully aquainted with the duties and responsibilities connected with town management. They have been tried and found to be faithful and conscientious public servants, constantly alert to the best interests of the citizens and insistent upon the conduct of town affairs in a manner which reflects credit upon their judgment and the judgment of the voters in putting them in office.

A good business administration is the proper demand of the townspeople. When that has been heeded and highly satisfactory results produced there is a duty resting with the voters, irrespective of party, to see that those who have given it are retained in office.

The republicans of Norwich have placed in nomination the candidates whose names are printed above. They have been tested by long experience and their record is such as to deserve a continuance in office by a rousing majority. Election day is the time for giving a hearty endorsement to their good administration and for insuring the continuance of equally satisfactory town government for the next two years.

That endorsement isn't manifested by staying at home. It calls for your presence at the polls and the vigorous support of worthy officials. Make up your mind to do your part.

EFFICIENCY AND PROTESTS

Quite as expected, the idea of applying economy and efficiency to the navy department by closing up some of the navy yards meets with resistance. Senator Hale of Maine is quoted as being in favor of the idea, but he would not want to see the Portsmouth navy yard sacrificed. The senators from Massachusetts might view with approval the general policy but they would oppose anything happening to the Charlestown navy yard. Rhode Island would fight any radical change at Newport. Connecticut would oppose any move to shut up the submarine base on the Thames. New York would balk at any curtailment at the Brooklyn navy yard and so on up and down both coasts it could be expected that the various states would seriously object to any move that would adversely affect their naval establishments, and the result would be that even though the navy department advocated the concentration of the navy yards at two or three points the chances of getting the favorable action in congress are doubtful.

Not only has Senator Hale voiced the sentiment that would come from any affected state, but a delegation has been doing virtually the same thing in carrying a protest to the secretary of the navy because of the plan to lay off 1000 men at the Philadelphia navy yard of which Admiral Magruder is in charge.

This curtailment in employment at Philadelphia is made necessary by the fact that the last session of congress failed to appropriate, through the deficiency appropriation, a sufficient amount to keep the yard going. Lacking funds, the alternative is to lay off the employes until funds can be obtained, and the protest from Philadelphia against such action is quite the same as could be expected if it was planned to shut up other yards. It always makes a difference whose ox is being gored.

CANADA'S ATTITUDE

From time to time various opinions have been expressed as to what the attitude is going to be of Canada toward the development of the St. Lawrence waterway in joint action with this country. Canada has been represented as opposing the idea because of the belief that it would internationalize the great river, because it would not be to the advantage of Canada and because it was strongly felt that it would have a detrimental effect upon the port of Montreal.

It cannot be said that all is harmony in this country in regard to the project, but there has been more delay and more apparent cold water being thrown by Canada than by this country. For that reason the statement which has been made by President Harding of the Great Lakes Tidewater association attracts much attention when he is quoted as saying that the liberal government of Canada is in favor of the project, despite reports to the contrary. Premier MacKenzie is ready to use his influence in educating Canada to the advantages of the development and steps in that direction have been delayed until the full report of the joint board of engineers is available, which it is expected will be this month.

It is quite evident that such a project cannot be put through unless both countries are in favor and come to an understanding concerning what is to be done and the manner in which it is to be carried out. If Canada balks that means nothing can be done. If favorable action is taken on both sides of the border there will be the basis for a beginning, and it remains to be seen now whether the Harding view of the Canadian government's attitude is the correct one. It is quite necessary in order to bring the matter to the proper focus in this country.

"COASTING MUST STOP"

There is much to commend in the last bulletin from the motor vehicle department where it points out the danger of down grade coasting by commercial motor vehicles and declares it to be reckless driving.

Conditions are bad enough on the highways under all conditions but when the danger is increased by disengaging the engine and sending a heavily loaded truck down a hill without any control except the brake it is evident that it is a menace to other highway users if not to those who are actually riding on the truck.

Drivers who are inclined to engage in such practice cannot fail to understand the temper of the motor vehicle department when it says: "A man who will do this is unfit to operate a truck and should be discharged by his employer. If he is not discharged and the authorities find him then, recognizing the fact that this offense is probably against the orders of his employer and, in any event, not sanctioned by him, the man himself will be severely dealt with. Coasting must stop."

That is a fair warning. It is one that should get the attention every truck driver and it should be obeyed. The idea of coasting with a pleasure car is one which good drivers do not resort to for there's no telling what may happen under such circumstances to put the driver out of control, and this is particularly true if the hill is a bad one. The situation is made much worse when heavily loaded vehicles are coasted and the motor vehicle department is taking a commendable stand when it insists that coasting must be stopped. There is no need of waiting for some bad accident to accentuate the need of it. Where serious trouble can be anticipated it is time to act for its prevention.

SHIPBUILDING ACTIVITY

When it is stated that the French line intends to construct six new vessels, half of which are to be placed in the Atlantic service, it becomes evident that its purpose is to not only develop new business but to get its proportion of that which exists. It is to be expected that these vessels will be modern in every respect, outdistancing in all probability in some instances the best to be had today.

This announcement will serve to direct attention anew to the pleas which have been made for the addition of new and fast vessels to the American merchant marine which is now being operated by this government. It becomes evident that the shipping board in asking for such construction has its eyes fixed upon the ship building activites in other countries and realizes that if we are to keep pace with the rest we must have as good, if not better equipment.

To go in for the building of new ships would be contrary to the desire of this country which wants to get out of the shipping business. That private capital should be contemplating competition with other countries would be welcome news, but it is to be remembered that there are restrictive laws which not only make that improbable but which stand in the way of private capital taking over the merchant marine and operating it.

In countries where steamship lines are operated with government assistance the situation is far different from that in this country. It places private capital in this country under a handicap which is severe enough in itself, but that is only one of the many encountered by American ship owners to cause them to display less interest in trying to compete with foreign shipping.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Welcome to October. May it be as considerate and delightful as September has been.

Remember there's a duty to be performed on election day which calls for your presence at the polls.

Prof. Huntington says there will be no beautiful girls 200 years from now. Well, that will bother other than the present generation.

Holdup men in New York have been given 40 to 80 years in Sing Sing. How long will it be before they are out on parole or pardoned?

The man on the corner says: If October is like the last day of September the shore resorts will have to open up for business again.

Out in Gary, Ind., the whites in one high school have refused to attend school because there are a few colored students. What would happen if the colored students struck because of the presence of white students?

THE MAN WHO TALKS

In one of our religious journals the writer shows that our emphasis put upon the validity of tradition tends to deaden the spirit of progress. "It makes one a custodian rather than a crusader. It embalms rather than explores." The idea that once on a time long ages ago the doors of revelation were swung open and a great chunk of religion was thrown out and then the doors were closed never again to be opened is the very height of absurdity. This idea of revelation reminds one of an express train sweeping by a station, throwing out a bundle of newspapers, and then sweeping on never to return. A religion that is nothing more than a tradition of a dead past "becomes dormant, non-progressive, unattractive, ineffective, inefficient." Unless revelation is progressive, being something given to man just in proportion as he is able to take it in and assimilate it it becomes a dead sea and not a living, flowing stream.

The press of the country will sorely miss material that the Dempsey-Tunney fight has furnished "without money and without price." Long before, during and after the minutest detail had been eagerly sought and published because from Maine to California the rank and file had been eager to devour anything that was to be said of the affair. Did not this great fight serve a wonderful humanitarian purpose? Not only the 150,000 persons whose refined instincts were greatly edified during the actual contest, but also the vastly greater number who were edified by listening over the radio were relieved for the time being from thinking about the ignorance and cruelty of the Spaniards who find pleasure in bull-fights. For the time being they did not think of the Romans who used to crowd the amphitheater to see will beast tear human beings into piecemeal!

One can easily see the power of anticipation, and the great delight that is derived therefrom. As an illustration take one of the latest predictions of the Cloud Digger in regard to probable October weather. Just how far the Cloud Digger speaks with scientific accuracy I am not competent to judge, but it is perfectly clear that his forecasts are not mere guess work. He has come out with the statement that this October—in this region at least—is to be one of the finest that we have yet experienced. Now we are finding delight in that anticipation. And is not this generally true? Now this is true all the way from the politician who is reasonably sure of his appointment as ambassador to some important country to the schoolboy who anticipates a goodly slice of juicy steak for dinner and the realization in the latter case will be more satisfactory than in the former. And thus it is all the way from youth to old age.

All sorts of periodicals are telling us that the great object of life today is to get a "thrill;" that we want to get a "kick" out of everything that we can lay our hands on, or fix our minds upon. If the object of these proposals was to stir up debate they certainly cannot be accused of failure. Of course all shades of opinion have been expressed. As a matter of fact there would be debate if the question was whether or not the earth is round like a globe, or whether or not God is love. The merits of the discussion must depend upon the character of the thrill we expect to get, or ought to get. I take it that the kick that a man gets from an overdose of bootleg whiskey differs in nature from that which a boy has when he takes a prize for excellence in arithemetic. A man gets a thrill when he saves somebody from drowning, and also when he shoots another for his money.

As a people do we Americans know how to economize to advantage? In trying to cut down expenses there is a line that must be drawn somewhere between niggardliness and wastefulness. In many lines of business the margin between profit and loss is so narrow that stopping all wasteful leaks are absolutely necessary to save the business. In common with others I receive a great many duplicate circulars from the secretaries of all kinds of enterprises, for the probable purpose of padding their annual reports of the amount of business transacted. Another illustration of wastefulness is giving away yardsticks to 9,000 people at a county fair. Why should a mother with three children and a baby in her arms all have yardsticks? Of course a yardstick in itself is a small affair but if you multiply it by 10,000 you have another proposition. If a whole nation gives out yardsticks it will not lower the price of valuable lumber.

Over against this bit of yardstick philosophy there is another side worth considering. It is stated thus in the Book of Proverbs: "There is that scattereth, and yet increaseth, and there is that withholdest more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty." The following is a good illustration of this doctrine. Last year in one of our public schools in a large city a teacher of unusual ability was about to retire after 50 years of experience. She had been at the head of mathematics during this long period. To show their appreciation as many of her former pupils as possible were asked to send her a word of tribute, and 3,000 responded. For all these 50 years she had been scattering abroad her knowledge of mathematics. Had she lost any knowledge by imparting it to others. If she had not used that knowledge for 50 years she would have lost all of it.

If anyone should ask me what was the one outstanding feature of our recent county fair, I might find some difficulty in putting that impression into language. I should not say, however, that it was the racing, the floats, the acrobatic performances, the poultry, hogs or cattle, although all of these were of high order and worth looking at. It was not the merchandise displayed in the exhibition hall. It was the social element on the part of the mass expecting to be pleased and not being disappointed. If this had been wanting the fair would have been a failure even though financially successful. It created a generally favorable impression. Aunt Maria from Voluntown was more pleased to meet Uncle Ben from Bozrah than she was to hear a prize rooster crow. She can hear a rooster crowing at home any day but not Uncle Ben at Bozrah. This goodly fellowship created a sort of social atmosphere that prolonged the festival spirit. And if this had been wanting it would have been more like a funeral than a wedding.

How true it is that "seed time and harvest, summer and winter, heat and cold shall not cease as long as the world endureth." At least it has been true up to the present time. We are told in tones of dismay that the potato crop is the poorest it has been in four years; in many sections beans are almost a total failiure. Garden produce generally in both quantity and quality has been conspicuously below the average. Still the people we meet on the street look about as well fed as ever. Of course some people always look as if they hadn't had a square meal for a month, while others look as though they had done nothing but gorge on roast beef for the same length of time. The man and woman who are willing to give to human society a fair equivalent for what they receive, do not stand in any danger of going hungry.

STOCK TAKING BY THE TOWN AND CITY.

How shall the town or city gain understanding of itself? At the recent meeting of the New England council, its committee on relations and community organization offered some valuable suggestions on the subject. In its report, made with the advice and approval of a co-operative committee appointed by the New England Association of Commercial Executives, it recommended that New England communities keep current data on the following subjects:

1.—Commercial failures per year per 100 firms, etc.
2.—Local government expenditure per capita.
3.—Per cent of homes owned.
4—Excess of annual birth rate over annual death rate.
5.—Local fire loss ratio
6—Car loadings.
7.—Bank deposits—savings and commercial.
8.—Cost of living (U. S. department of labor figures)
9.—Postal receipts.
10.—Power consumption (other than domestic and lighting.)
11.—Pay roll (in selected group of industries.)

As benefits which the committee believes will flow from such a collection of figures, it enumerated the following:

1.—The data will provide ammunition with which a community may defend itself against criticism or slander.
2.—It will show immediately if business is weak, and point the way to action leading to recovery.
3.—It will give the residents facts about their own community, instead of estimates based upon gossip.

To Interpret the Figures

That this kind of bookkeeping is desirable goes without the saying, but there are particulars in which it calls to mind the frequently given admonition of the federal census bureau that there is often danger in basing comparisons on figures alone. There are instances in which what, on the face of the figures, may seem to be evidence of a lack of prosperity really reveals only an incidental setback in a condition of increasing industrial health. There are cases, too, in which that which, taken by itself, might appear to be an indication of economic health is really a sign of decadence.

In these days of the "survey," the results are necessarily expressed largely in figures. Here is a proposition that figures be collected under 11 heads for the purpose of revealing the state of industrial health in a city or town. To what extent all those figures will really tell the story will depend upon the skill with which they are studied and conclusions are drawn from them. Statistics standing by themselves never made a complete picture of a community, and they never will. With the figures as the background, must go the application of colors to be found in factors in community life that are outside the range of addition, subtraction and percentages.

Failures as Evidence of Prosperity

Take an extreme case as showing how figures that denote may also, considered in connection with others, connote prosperity. It is admittedly a case so extreme that it may be called fanciful. Nevertheless it is not outside the range of possibility.

The New England council committee begins its list of topics for statistical presentation with "commercial failures per year per 100 firms, etc." Ordinarily an increase in such figures as compared with those of preceding years would indicate that business in a town or city was getting into bad shape. But assume that there was growing activity in some one line of commerce or industry. What more natural than that men poorly equipped with knowledge of the business or lacking sufficient capital should rush in where others were making money and seek to do likewise, with the result that failures in that town would show an increase while general business was good?

Somewhat similar would be the case in which enterprising merchants going into business in a town forced old-time storekeepers out through the bankruptcy door.

These possibilities do not, of course, detract from the value of such a record as that suggested by the council committee. Rather they suggest an added value, assuming that it is rightly interpreted. It is a question of the interpretation of the figures in the light of local conditions. It illustrates the danger that may lurk in statistics unexplained.

Home Ownership and Stagnation

Take another case. To many, the statement that a town or city includes an unusual percentage of home owners is taken for granted as indicating a high degree of prosperity. That in many cases, perhaps in the majority of cases, is true. But with a high percentage of home ownership may go business stagnation. Such is conceivably the case in many of the towns and smaller cities in New England regions where old-time industries have languished and died, and the young peole have moved away, leaving their elders in the homes bought with the returns of past prosperity.

Comparison of town with town, or of one year with another with references to home ownership, must be made in the light of other things. As between town and town, it is necessary to take into account the nature of the industries carried on in them. In one, these activities may call for a class of help eager and able to acquire ownership of their homes. In another equally prosperous when it comes to the volume of business the reverse may be the case. And when it comes to comparison of the percentage of home ownership year by year in a given community it must be remembered that a sudden increase in business activity, with a consequent sudden addition to the population, will necessarily pull down the percentage. It is another illustration of the fact that percentages are tricky when used as barometers.

The Cost of Government

Of the 11 subjects enumerated by the council committee as suitable for inclusion in this new bookkeeping, "local government expenditure per capita" is another that suggests the wisdom of complementary information. It is not enough to be told how much money per capita is spent in a town or city. With that knowledge should go some idea of what the people of the community get in return for the expenditure. This is knowledge that may make the higher per capita expenditure more attractive to industry than the lower. It is not true that the lower expenditure with the accompanying lower tax rate is always an inducement to business to stay in a community or to remove there from other places.

The modern industrial leader recognizes the fact that, within reason, liberal expenditure for certain purposes in his town and city may be an asset in his business. The city whose schools are good, whose parks and recreation grounds are ample, whose care of the public welfare in general is of a high standard, is a city in which workers are likely to be contented, if they are the sort of workers that the well-conducted enterprise would have in its employ. So along with the question, How much does it cost per capita to run the city? should go the companion question, How is the city run? To assume that the lower per capita cost when city is compared with city, is an advantage, may be to mistake a liability for an asset. And an increased cost per capita, when one year is compared with another in a given community, is not necessarily to be regarded as an evil. It all depends upon what the money was spent for and whether it was spent prudently in attaining the end in view.

Make the Survey Complete

What has been said here as suggested by the committee's subjects for statistical presentation does not, it may be repeated, mean that the collection of the figures is not worth while. It should be explained, perhaps, that they are not primarily intended for purposes of comparison between city and city and town and town, although such camparison is inevitable. The committee says: "Every New England community needs to knew more than the number of industries it gains or loses. Particularly it should known something of the status of its present industries." Further the committee believes that "there are certain fundamental facts about business in any community that should be obtained at regular intervals in order that the trend of commerce and industry may be plotted."

With that statement agreement is easy. But what this committee recommends, if it is to be done, should be regarded as a part of a much more comprehensive undertaking. It is referred to as community bookkeeping. But along with this bookkeeping the merchant takes account of stock and the community also has need of stock taking as well as bookkeeping. The committee's eleven subjects provide food for though in the construction of a supplementary list that should serve to give the picture further detail and make possible that "local conditions in any given community will, of course, suggest other data that should be kept in that particular community." But there are other data that might well be kept which are common to all communities.—F. G. Fassett in Boston Transcript.

Sunday Morning Talk

Thinking About God

There are two ways of thinking about God. One is for the purpose of proof. The other is for the purpose of comfort and nourishment of spirit. One can wonder if there is a God, he cannot receive the comfort and help that the one that can say from his inmost soul: "I know that my redeemer liveth." Each has its place and value, but the latter is the far sweeter way. It is like the manner in which a child away from home might think of its father. It is not necessary to dwell very long upon the fact the father is really in existence and that his love for his child is steadfast and tender, that is something about which the absent child can be sure enough, for he has found rich assurance of that love and care in the years that are past. It is so good to turn from any effort to prove and just rest back upon the fact and enjoy the luxury of certainty. And so the absent child simply throws his heart wide open to the blessed assurance of the thing he knows and thinks about home for the pure happiness of it.

That is the way to think about God. Just to rest back sweetly in the sense of His love while our spirits are nourished, is far wiser than to wrestle and reason for demonstration. Religion is reasonable, but there is also a place in it for the finest perceptions and feelings. The soul must be fed on God. There is a place for ecstacy as well as for argument in the life of the spirits. Blessed are the men and the women who do not see all clearly yet, but who feel their souls on God and wait to know Him better.

YOUR HEALTH

LITTLE ONES AND DIPHTHERIA

By J. M. Banister, M. D. Omaha, Neb.
Member Gorgas Memorial

Diphtheria may well rank as one of the most fatal and distressing maladies that can afflict the human race.

The records show that this highly destructive affection has existed since ancient times, but it was not until 1883 that its true nature became understood. In that year the specific causative agent, the germ of the disease, was discovered by Klebs. One year later the definite relationship of this micro-organism to the disease was thoroughly worked out by Loffler, and it is now known as the Klebs-Loffler bacillus.

Of all the ills that escaped from that fabled box of Pandora, when mankind was young, not one has been more murderous and cruel than this germ of diphtheria, the nature of which has been to attack and destroy the little ones of our race—our dearest possessions.

What a glory it is to our day that it has remained for scientific medicine in our generation to rob this special ill of its sting. Before the introduction of the use of antitoxin in the treatment of diphtheria, discovered by Behring in 1891, 40 per cent of the little ones affected died a horrible death of suffocation or paralysis of the heart.

Since Behring's discovery, and the use of antitoxin since then, this mortality has been reduced to between 5 and 10 per cent. What an inestimable boon to humanity. If a child seized with diphtheria is given the antitoxin treatment within 24-hours, recovery may almost certainly be counted upon, the percentage of mortality under such early administration being only 1.53 per cent. Each day of delay in such administration reduces the chances of recovery in an increasing and proportional degree. Truly it may be said that the life of a little diphtheritic patient depends upon the intelligence and scientific acumen of the first physician who sees him.

But why should it be necessary to give the life-saving antitoxin? Why permit the diphtheritic infection to occur in the first instance? Why not render our little ones immune, remembering that over 60 per cent of all cases occur in children from 1 to 5 years old, and that 80 per cent of all deaths occur between these ages?

Is such prevention possible? It certainly is and that, too, without the least detriment to the child.

What is this preventive treatment? In 1913 Behring recommended the use of toxin-antitoxin as such preventive, and this means of producting immunity so secured will last for many years, and many be permanent.

The incidence of diphtheria has been greatly reduced in communities where toxin antitoxin has been systematically used. In certain large infant asylums, where diphtheria was formerly rife, the disease has been practically eliminated by its systematic employment.

One might say without exaggeration that if every child under 10 years old should be systematically given the toxin-antitoxin as a means of preventing diphtheria our country would soon be a diphteria-free nation.

The susceptibility of a child to diphtheritic infection can easily be determined by means of the Schick test, which the family physician can administer.

1928 Features put Whippet still Further in the Lead

Engine—Develops more power for its size than any other light car engine.

Economy—The Whippet holds A. A. A. Coast-to-Coast economy record.

Big 4-Wheel Brakes—First light car to introduce this safety feature.

EVERY recent new car announcement serves to emphasize the Whippet's leadership in engineering design. Introduced 17 months ago, it changed all previous standards of light car performance. And constant improvement forecasts its continued success.

The Whippet carries the enthusiastic endorsement of more than 125,000 owners who have put this modern car to the acid test of more than 400,000,000 miles of service. Such proved superiority makes the Whippet the logical choice of anyone.

Other manufacturers must inevitably follow the Whippet's lead with greater gasoline mileage, higher speed, faster pick-up, the safety of BIG 4-wheel brakes, low center of gravity, more leg room, full-vision bodies and modern appearance.

You can buy the Whippet now, assured that a year from now it will still be the most modern car in its field—with resale value correspondingly high.

OTIS LIBRARY CIRCULATION WAS 107,590 BOOKS IN YEAR

In the annual report for the Otis library for the year ending Aug. 31, 1927, Mrs. Rosina S. Hamilton, the librarian, shows that the total circulation was 107,590 books. The daily average of issues is 357. The circulation is classified as follows:

Fiction 76,778; biography 1,970; travel 1,284; history 803; literature 2,796; fine arts 983; useful arts 740; science 487; philosophy 35; sociology 726; religion 409; philosophy 500; magazines 2,037; miscellany 19; juvenile fiction 10,879; juvenile class 6,393; foreign 751.

Books added during the year were classified as follows:

Fiction—Adult 874; biography 67; travel, geography, etc 40; history 50; literature 71; fine arts 24; useful arts 57; science 11; sociology 28; religion 16; philosophy 12; juvenile fiction 136; juvenile class 190; magazines and miscellany 46; total 1,622.

In her report Mrs. Hamilton says:

The past year has witnessed many changes throughout the library. A new lighting system has been installed which compares favorably with that of any other library in the state. Extra radiators have been added which will increase the comfort of both staff and public, and the appearance of the interior of the building has been made more attractive by painting, renovating and cleaning.

The charging desk which formerly occupied almost the entire width of the main room has been removed and a smaller one placed at the east side next to the new office of the librarian, leaving ample space for the display of new books and those of special interest. The west side of this room has been given over to the children's department, and a long reading desk, new shelves and many new books have been placed here, a step toward our much desired goal—a separate children's room. The work incident to this change necessitated closing this part of the library for some weeks, but since its completion it has become very popular with the children. That the main reading room is now a more quiet and attractive place for adult readers is manifested by the increasing number who use it.

It will be noted that the number of discarded books is materially larger than usual. This is due to the fact that as practically every volume in the library was handled and re-shelved during the course of alterations, a considerable number of badly torn and out-of-date copies were removed to make room for fresh material. At the present time the library is unusually free from books of the "padding" type, nearly all of the contents being of permanent value.

The need of more room continues to be a serious problem. The shelves are uncomfortably crowded, and the question of space for the constantly increasing number of books is one which must be met at some not distant date.

Our thanks are extended to the local press for their many courtesies during the year. Their kindness in printing book lists, items about new acquisitions, and other articles of interest to the public is much appreciated.

We wish to thank the board of trustees for their interest and kind consideration. Their co-operation and cordial support are gratefully acknowledged.

ABOUT 300 BABIES BLESSED BY MISSIONARY FATHER

Rev. Fidelis Cummings, from Pittsburgh, leaves Norwich today (Saturday) to give a two weeks' mission in Roxbury, Mass., having conducted a most successful novena in honor of St. Therese at St. Patrick's church since Thursday, Sept. 22nd. Friday afternoon between 800 and 900 adults and children gathered in the church and the mision father blessed over 300 babies, brought by their mothers.

Friday evening, the novena closed, when a congregation of 2,000 heard an appealing sermon on the reward of sanctity. The preacher pictured the satisfaction of a life in accord with the commands of God and the teachings of His church. The choir sang during the service, special solos being given by Organist Henry J. LaFontaine. The rector of the parish, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May and his assistants, Fathers Galvin and Reilly consider the week's special services most successful, and far-reaching in their influence for good.

MONTVILLE'S ELECTION PROMISES WARM CONTEST

Montville is anticipating a spirited elected contest on Monday due to the candidacy of Representative Fred R. Perkins for first selectman. He has always taken a deep interest in the affairs of that town, has been a member of the board of assessors for two years and during the last session of the legislature he was a member of the important committee on roads, rivers and bridges, where through his influence he was able to get the full allotment of $10,000 for the state aid road work in Montville and was instrumental in getting through the bill that gives all towns a chance to participate in the $1,000,000 for state air roads.

Montville is normally a republican town but for the past several years the office of first selectman has gone to the democrats. Mr. Perkins has been nominated in the belief that his candidacy as a republican will get the support of his townspeople, and as a part of his platform Mr. Perkins takes the position that there should not be a flat salary for the first selectman but that he should be paid a a fair day's pay for a full day's work actually rendered.

In a letter which he has sent to the voters of that town Mr. Perkins points to the fact that where there was a town indebtedness of $46,100 in 1924 there is now a debt of over $87,290, or almost a doubling of the debt in three years.

In view of the fact that Mr. Perkins is one of Montville's successful business men and takes a deep interest in town affairs it is reported that it is the purpose of the voters to rally to his support and get the benefit of his services.

CHAMBER'S EXPANSION CAMPAIGN STARTS WITH GREAT ENTHUSIASM

The Chamber of Commerce expansion campaign got off to an enthusiastic start Friday night with a dinner meeting at 6:30 at the Wauregan hotel where the expeditionary forces were seated at tables appropriately marked for each division. The military aspect was carried out further by the different style caps that were furnished for each division.

At the conclusion of the dinner Commander-in-chief Arthur M. Brown called on Dave Harvard of Rochester, N. Y., to do his stuff as song leader and Dave filled the bill to the queen's taste. He put pep into every song and had the entire company doing motion songs with him for the 15 minutes that were his part on the program. He will be back here Monday for the remainder of the campaign.

After Field Manager Walter H. Pilcher had described some details of the plan, announcing that headquarters would be at the hotel, the reports would be posted on the sign in Franklin square and daily luncheon meetings for reports would be held, Fred S. Orr of New Haven, field secretary of the state chamber of commerce, delivered the address of the evening, speaking upon Organization Valuation.

He opened his address by bringing words of appreciation from the state chamber to former Norwich men who had laid the foundation for the present work of the local chamber, to John J. O'Rourke, former secretary, to President James L. Case for his work with the state chamber and the local chamber, to Mayor Milo R. Waters and Commander-in-chief Brown, and expressing words of greeting to the new secretary, Walter H. Pilcher.

Mr. Orr went on to speek of the campaign which the chamber is proposing to carry out as being of inestimable value to the city and predicted that the work which the expeditionary forces would do would make it possible not only to keep the industries which we have but bring others into the city.

He declared that he believed it was easier for New England to secure manufacturing plants than it was for the south and west to do so, because New England is know as the land of skilled workmanship and skilled workers, and he affirmed his belief that if those who say "We can't do it" will say "We will do it" Norwich will be teeming with new industries in the near future.

For one thing he said he thought we were too lax in grasping the opportunities which lie around us to sell our advantages to the rest of the world, but if we will do it Norwich will have a place in the sun of progress and happiness.

The speaker was given enthusiastic applause and Commander-in-chief Brown expressed his confidence in the success of the campaign, telling the men of the organization that it was their job to re-create in Norwich a new state of mind that would mean succes for the campaign.

He then introduced the different campaign leaders for a "bigger and better Norwich", each of whom responded with words of confidence in the success of the campaign. These included Col. E. O. Rodier of the land regiment, Maj. E. A. Harris of the cavalry, Admiral Herbert B. Cary of the sea fleet, Brig. Gen. James L. Case of the advance marine corps, and Mayor Waters.

A verse of America concluded the meeting, Pete Ethier playing the accompaniment as he had for Song Leader Harvard.

SHUNOC SCHOOL CROWDED IN NORTH STONINGTON

The town school committee of North Stonington, of which Alice R. Gray is secretary, has made its annual report at follows:

"The town school committee herewith submit their report of the school department for the past year which we feel has been a year of improvement.

"The school buildings have been cleaned and repaired ready for the opening of schools. The largest amount spent on any building was at Northwest Corner which building was painted, one roof shingled, clapboards repaired, plaster patched in entry and paper put on the entry walls, besides several minor repairs. With the completion of work on this building all the schoolhouses in town are in good repair.

"The registration at Shunoc has increased to such an extent that there is very little space in the room which is not occupied by seats and desks making a very crowded condition. It was thought that this condition could be eliminated by the use of desk chairs such as were used in Hewitt school last year, which conserve greatly in seating capacity and which we hope soon to provide for that school.

"There were eighteen pupils who graduated from our schools in June. The annual exhibit of art which has usually been held at that time is to be given at the Grange fair this fall.

"Much thought and effort has been spent toward the advancement of reading in our schools. There have been three sets of readers purchased which were exchanged from one school to another, thus affording a greater variety of reading material. Some new books have also been added to the libraries through the state library grant.

"We wish to commend our teachers for the ambition and enthusiasm they have shown in their work and for their co-operation with the Supervisor and School Committee.

"While we very much appreciate the work of Mr. Leister our state supervisor the past year and regret his inability to remain with us for a longer time we feel that Mr. Connolly our new supervisor who has had much experience both in teaching and supervision, having been employed as supervisor by the state since 1914, will continue the progress of education in our schools the coming year."

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH ANTICIPATING SPECIAL SUNDAY

The Central Baptist church is looking forward to one of the finest services of the year on Sunday morning, when the Lord's supper will be observed. An effort is being made to have every member who has been received into the church during the past year present at the communion service. Dr. Pitt will take as his sermon subject "Elijah, Despondent."

At the church school special registration day will be held and everyone who desires to be enrolled as a member of the Sunday school during 1926-27 is to be on hand and fill out the special cards which will be distributed. Registration day is a new idea and was one of the suggestions made by Miss Priscilla Fowle of Newton Theological institution, when she made the survey of the Sunday school last winter.

In the evening the pastor, Dr. Pitt, will be absent, attending the rededication of the church in Stepney. Professor Walter J. Homan of Whittier college, California, who is taking special work at Yale this year, will be the speaker. He will take as his topic "Life's Greatest Reality."

PRIZES ANNOUNCED IN SECOND GARDEN CONTEST

A special meeting of the Norwich Rural association was held Friday evening in the Norwich Town Congregational chapel at which the judges in the second garden contest, under the auspices of this association, rendered their decision. The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by President Walter T. Camp, who made a few introductory remarks concerning the contest and commended the committee which sh kindly acted as judges for the second season. The judges were Miss Annie L. Coggswell, chairman, Mrs. Albert H. Chase and Miss Marion Bishop, who made various inspections of the gardens during the summer. There were 13 contestants and the entries were made in three classes, the first two having two divisions in both flowers and vegetables. In class C there was only one contestant.

When Miss Coggswell rendered her report in behalf of the judges she alluded to the unfortunate season, as having had so much rain, with little sun, and the pest of cut-worms.

Some of the gardens were obliged to be replanted. Following is the report:

Class A gardens carried on entirely by the contestant without outside help. Division 1, lawns, grounds and flower gardens, 1st prize, Miss Emily M. Wilcox, Scotland Road; division 2, vegetable gardens, 1st prize, John and George B. Dawson, New London turnpike; 2nd prize, J. B. Chapman, 12 Tanner avenue.

Class B, gardens maintained wholly or in part with assistance of hired help, division 1, lawns, grounds and flower gardens, 1st prize, Robert Boisson, 2nd prize, Miss Caroline Gilman; division 2, vegetable gardens, 1st prize, William Weaver, Huntington avenue; 2nd prize, Miss Mary Bachelor, East Town street.

Class C gardens maintained and cared for by children, 1st prize, William Wilcox, who was commended for being the only contestant.

Some very choice specimens from Miss Wilcox's flower garden were on display at the meeting.

At the close of the report, at the suggestion of President Camp, the judges were given a rising vote of thanks.

The awards are: First prize, one year's subscription to Horticulture, a bi-weekly magazine for gardens; 2nd prize, a box of tulip bulbs. In the children's class the prize went to Master Wilcox was a jackrife.

There was no charge for the entries, the contest being conducted purely for the purpose of stimulating interest in gardens, both vegetable and flowers, and in cultivating a spirit of civic pride in maintaining an attractive appearance on the property along the highways through Norwich Town proper.

BINGHAM FOR DIVISION AS PEACE MOVE IN CHINA

After a study of conditions in China which has led him to believe that the United States should support the division of the once great Chinese empire into numbers of smaller provincial governments, Senator Hiram Bingham, Connecticut's junior representative in the upper house of congress, has returned from a six months trip into the Orient. Most of the time he spent in China, traveling, talking with her men of power, studying the tangled situation which has troubled the country for so many years, and forming a plan by which he thinks the government of the United States can be brought into close contact with all the Chinese de facto governments, and with each of the dozen or more of the mighty war lords of that turbulent country.

When in the course of his trip across the continent from San Francisco, where he landed, Senator Bingham stopped at Rapid City to visit President Coolidge, he remarked on the possibility of an ultimate division of China into three republics, similar in outline to the Three Kingdoms which antedate the empire.

On this he elaborated—and spoke also of "my belief that Coolidge will be nominated and re-elected,"and of the difficulties in the way of independence for the Philippines—in an interview given in his summer camp in the hills of Salem, where he plans to pass the remainder of the month.

"My desire for the immediate future," Senator Bingham said, after outlining a number of his experiences in China, "is that the United States government may be brought into closer relation with the more important Chinese leaders, and kept more closely informed of their purposes, activities and relations with one another.

"We have at present some fifty army officers who can speak Chinese. I should like to see two or three sent to each of the war lords, to act in the capacities of military observers. I should also like to have Chinese-speaking consular officers attached to all of the several de facto governments which have risen to power in certain sections. It would serve to foster more friendly relations, as well as to give us a source of really reliable information.

"I do not wish this to be construed as meaning that I disapprove of the administration's policy in China during the recent outbreak. I feel that it was very wise to send marines and naval vessels into all the more important ports, and that it did a very great deal in preventing loss of life.

"China need not necessarily divide into three different republics, as I remarked before, with the old-time structure of the country in mind," Senator Bingham continued. "The point is, as others as well as myself have observed, China has more centrifugal force than centripetal. Its people are intensely self-reliant. They pay taxes to be left alone, and are accustomed to no paternalistic government, which is in sharp contrast to Japan.

"People will tell you that there should be no difficulty in the unification of the country, since it was all nominally under one government in the days of the empire. As a matter of fact, in those days communication was extremely slow, and it took sometimes the better part of a year for orders from Peking to reach the more distant provinces. Modern postal systems and the telegraph, far from serving to cement the country into a whole, as has been the case in Japan and the western countries, have tended in the opposite direction. In the old days, the government was interested only in the collection of taxes, and had no means of knowing immediately what consideration was given its edicts in far away provinces.

"Now, of course, with modern means of communication, a central government would not pull no with the very day obedience the people are accustomed to rendering, would insist an obedience of a kind they are not accustomed to giving.

"Ever since the fall of the empire, Canton and the very rich, densely populated province of Kwangtung, has taken no orders from Peking. It is very independent, and is going to continue to be.

"It is a very natural question why the north cannot conquer the south. The war lord of the north, Chang Tso Lin, has in Manchuria the richest partly developed territory in China.

"He has near Peking a monster arsenal, covering several hundred acres of ground including munitions factories and plants for the manufacture of any sort of military supplies. His armies are well disciplined and well drilled. They recently turned back the southerners below the Yellow river, in west central China, after the remarkable march into the north under Chiang Kai Shek.

"The problem of transportation is one that neither of the two large factions can overcome, however, no matter where may lie the balance of power. In the north military supplies are moved by donkey carts. In the south, since the roads in the country are simply single file paths through the rice ponds, coolies, numbering almost one for one with the soldiers, are necessary to move an army. The coolies are a rice eating people, and hence great difficulty would be encountered in taking them into the north where nothing but grain is grown. On the other hand there are no cart roads in the south. The two sections are thus mutually immune to military conquest.

"But, aside from the two divisions of north and south, there are in the province of Szechwan, in lower western China, some six military leaders governing more than 30,000,000 people and having nothing to do with any other governments, nor for that matter with each others. There are whole regions above the rapids of the Yangtze, with a population of probably 50,000,000, which do not intend to submit to any central government.

"I should like to see the several different provinces tackle their own problems, independently, as was done in Kwangtung and Shensi. In this latter province, by the way, a Confucian Governor Yen, has held sway for 12 years, since the fall of the empire, and here one finds more progress than perhaps anywhere else in China, especially in the field of education.

"Here some 85 per cent of the children are subject to compulsory attendance at schools. Only in the most extreme cases of poverty are they allowed to go to work at an early age. In Kwangtung, great progress was being made under the civil government before the recent march into the north. This, of course, was motivated by ambition to control Shanghai, the richest prize of all China's greatest port. Now the civil government in Kwangtung has disappeared, and a military regime came up in its place."

The Polish Citizens' club met Thursday evening in Pulaski hall with Joseph Romanowski presiding. Speakers at the meeting were First Selectman William S. Murray who spoke on the subject of citizenship and George M. Charbonneau, chairman of the republican town committee, who spoke on elections. Both were given a vote of thanks.

RIVERVIEW-TAFTVILLE SERIES CONTINUES WITH GAMES TODAY AND SUNDAY

Today's and Sunday's Lineups

Gley, rf.	Dugas, rf.

This afternoon at 2:30 at the Riverview diamond at the Norwich State hospital Riverview and the Martafts clash in the third game of the series between these two clubs.

Riverview goes into today's game with their backs against the wall and fighting for a chance to get some where near even with the Taftville team which has two games tucked away. A win for the Martafts means the series and gives them a valid claim to state championship honors and Manager Troland is out to take the game today. However if Taftville wins today a fourth game will positively be played on Sunday just the same with Troland using the above lineup with Loftus doing the pitching. In order to clinch the series today Manager Troland has strengthened by the addition of Mack Hillis, versatile ball player with the New Haven Eastern league club. Hillis can fill in at any position on a ball club and he ably demonstrated this just before the close of the Eastern league when h eplayed every position on the team, getting an assist or put in every position except in the outfield.

The Martafts will depend on Chet Nichols to tbring them through to a win as he did last Saturday. Nichols is a nice working pitcher besides being a dangerous hitter. Of course Tommy Comiskey and Harry Davis are exceptionally heavy hitters to which is added the hitting power of Hillis. These players will be used in today's game as well as the game Sunday at the J. B. Martin diamond.

Manager Hamel of thg Riverview club has signed up Johnny Tillman, former Eastern leaguer who had a big season with the York club this year, to do the hurling. Tillman, it will be remembered, pulled an Ironman stunt last season when he pitched two successive games against Taftville and won both of them. This as far as can be learned is the extent of the strengthening that Riverview will do although unconfirmed reports from the institution say that three players from the Philadelphia Athletics will be in the Riverview lineup. For Sunday ly won his game last Saturday will Jimmy Bishop who pitched and nearpitch the game at Taftville.

Bitter rivalry surrounds these two games and Riverview backers are strongly in support of their club while Taftville is equally as certain of victory. Both these games will be well worth seeing.

SPEEDBOYS VS. WESTERLY PROMISES A TOUGH STRUGGLE

The game at Ashland park Sunday between the Jewett City Speedboys and the George C. Moore team of Westerly promises to be a real hard battle. The management of the Westerly team pulled a fast one on the Speedboys for he has had his team out every night practicing under flood lights and as a result his team is in mid-season form at this early date while the Speedboys have had but two practice drills and a single scrimmage session. However, the Speedboys will have a lengthy session this afternoon followed by a short signal drill Sunday morning.

In accordance with the Speedboy custom which was inaugurated last season the officials will be from C. A. C. and will likely prove satisfactory to both teams. The Westerly team received their new uniforms last Thursday and as the Speedboys expect theirs this morning the game will have more of a real football aspect than has been the case in the past.

The Jewett City management, leery of the Westerly aggregation, signed up two crack players last evening from Willimantic and they should strengthen the team considerably. Big Boy Christy of Greeneville, who is expected to prove one of the outstanding linesmen of the year reported last week in perfect condition after a summer of hard outdoor work. Without an exception the Jewett City team have all spent the summer at hard work out of doors and as a result are in perfect condition and Westerly will find they have a hard, willing team to conquer.

Westerly positively refused to reveal their lineup which proves there must be an ebony colored gentleman in the fuel supply but the Speedboys are ready with the exception of two men with the same team that has represented them for the last two years.

The game will start promptly at 3 p. m., at Ashland park, Jewett City.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30—(AP)—Continuing the brilliant golf that has marked her play since she won the qualifying medal Monday with an 80, Miss Helen Payson, of Portland, Me., today overwhelmed Miss Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, Ohio, to win the Berthellyn cup tournament at the Huntingdon Valley Country club. Miss Payson won by the score of 7 up and 6 to play.

Playing the first nine holes of the final match in 41, the Portland girl was 5 up at the turn and brought the contest to a close on the twelfth green. Miss Fordyce apeared far off her usual form today with both wood and iron.

After winning the medal with a score that equalled the woman's record for the course, Miss Payson successively defeated Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former national champion; Miss Ruth Perry, Philadelphia; Miss Beatrice Gottlieb, of New York, and Miss Fordyce.

PASTIME A. C. PUTS ON FAIR AMATEUR SHOW

A fairly good card was presented under unfavorable conditions last night in Union hall by the Pastime A. C. Six boxing bouts and one of wrestling were handed out and most of these were filled with action. Because of the failure of a New London team to put in an appearance two boxing bouts and one of wrestling had to be snipped off the card.

As it was, fighting in a stuffy enclosure with a ring that did not look much over 15 feet the boys gave a pretty good demonstration to about 400.

There were four knockouts in the six bouts, but only one was of the genuine variety.

The show opened with Johnny Kopp, who had been unable to find an opponent to box, wrestling Young Roberts and pinning him to the mat after about three minutes work.

Kid Lazeros of Westerly and Young Hogan of Norwich followed and after four seething rounds the former took a well earned decision. He seemed to have the edge after three but the judges decided for the extra round. Hogan was game but his rival simply threw too many punches with too much force.

Young Tennant of Greeneville was given the award over Young Matthews of Jail Hill in the next encounter, it coming in the second round when Referee Frankie Busch stopped the bout with Matthews clinching entirely too much. The latter had the better of a hard punching first round but he claimed he injured his hand at the start of the second and from then on was of little use.

Young Swift of this city stopped Sammy Fairbanks of Westerly about midway in the third round. It was a fast go up to this team with both boys being on the floor previous to this time. Swift's reach helped quite a bit.

Young Anthony of Greenville got a clean cut decision over Young Fritz of Westerly in the next affair with a lot of slugging. Fritz was the only one to touch the floor going there for a one count in the second.

The comedy affair of the evening brought Mush Moriarity local favorite and Young Martin together. In the first Moriarity went down twice for counts of 1 and 3 and Martin for a count of 2 before Moriarity finally got the advantage and the towel came floating in from Martin's corner.

The final bout between Young Chappe of Westerly and Frankie Adams of this city stopped in the third, and awarded to Adams with Chappe having a cut under his left eye. It was a tame affair.

FLYNN LOST $40,000 BY BETTING ON DEMPSEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—Leo P. Flynn, manager for Jack Dempsey, said in court today that he lost $40,000 at the Chicago fight because he made two bets "on the right man but the wrong referee." He placed his money at $30,000 to $50,000 and $10,000 to $16,000.

Flynn gave this testimony at an examination in supplementary proceedings as to his ability to pay a judgement of $5,116 obtained against him last May by Samuel Wallace, known in the fistic world as Bobby Michaels.

Michaels, who was also a protege of Flynn's, obtained the judgment under a contract approved by the boxing commission which guaranteed him a certain annual amount regardless of bouts.

After a conference between principals and their attorneys Justice Walsh suggested a compromise which was approved by both sides. The amount was not made public.

During the examination Flynn was asked how much he had received from Dempsey after the Tunney fight.

"I got what I was perfectly satisfied with," he replied.

BOBBY JONES IS GIVEN BANQUET AT ATLANTA

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 30—(AP)—Having exhausted their vocabulary in praise of his golfing record, admirers of Bobby Jones called upon the American amateur and British titleholder to tell himself what the game has meant to him at the "annual dinner" in his honor here.

"Golf means fellowship", responded Bobby.

"It bridges the gap of generations. It is the only game I know where a father and his son may meet on exactly an equal basis; Where the good player and the duffer may compete on the keenest terms. I know that I can meet men a hundred times, on a business basis, or on a social footing and never know them. But once you go out on the golf course with a man and play the game with him, you know him. Golf to me has meant and always will mean a list of real friendships beside which all other successes of life are negligible. Of course it is a great thing in my life. But the greatest thing in golf is fellowship."

CARDS HAVE CHANCE TO TIE FOR PENNANT

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—Suspense over the definite settlement of the National league championship was prolonged again today as the Pirates Cincinnati series while the Cardinals were idle, returning Pittsburgh's lead to two games. The Giants were pushed out of the pennant picture mathamentically by a defeat from the Robins. The standing:—

	W.	L.	Av.	G.T.P.
St. Louis	91	61	.599	2

A victory for the Pirates or a defeat for the Cardinals in either of the club's two remaining games will clinch the flag for the Corsairs. The best the St. Louis club can expect would be to tie for first place by winning two while the Buccaneers dropped their contests. The standing then would be:

	Won	Lost	Ave.
Pittsburgh	93	61	.604
St. Louis	93	61	.604

AGGIES TO CLASH WITH WESLEYAN TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Sept. 30—After a week of strenuous practice sessions, Connecticut Aggies' 1927 eleven is in excellent condition and well prepared for the annual game with Wesleyan, which is scheduled for three o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Andrus field, Middletown.

Captain Willard Eddy, a star triple threat, is the only man on the squad who is handicapped by injuries on the eve of this important encounter. Eddy suffered a slight hip injury which has bothered somewhat, but not enough to prevent him from at least starting tomorrow's game.

WHITE SOX WIN BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLEHEADER

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—(AP)—Chicago took both games of a doubleheader from Detroit here today, by scores of 5 to 4, and 4 to 1, respectively. Bib Falk's batting was the winning factor for the White Sox. He broke up the first game with a single in the 13th inning, which enabled Tommy Thomas to register his 18th victory of the season. Falk's single in the third inning of the second game drove in two runs, putting the locals in front. The game was called in the sixth because of darkness. Hellmann's batting featured for the visitors. The score:

BABE RUTH SETS NEW HOME RUN RECORD

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—Babe Ruth's sixtieth homer of the season, creating a new major league record, carried the New York Yankees to a 4 to 2 win over the Washington Senators today.

With the score tied at 2-2 in the eighth, Koenig tripled with one out and came home as Ruth shattered his old mark of 59 homers with a full-mashie shot into the sun seats of the right field stand. Ruth also hit two singles and scored three of New York's runs. The Yankees got to Tom Zachary for single runs in the fourth and sixth innings to set the stage for Ruth's record-smashing climax. JOHNSON LAUNCHES ATTACK WHITE SOX AND LANDIS

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Ban Johnson of the American league Sox and Commissioner Landis today trained his guns on the Chicago White berating them for lack of cooperation and accusing them of deliberately attempting to embarrass the league.

The former "czar of baseball," who refused to say when his resignation as head of the league would become effective, praised the seven other members of the American league for "their common sense and business judgment in maintaining their ordinary relations with their presidential office."

"The childish spite and rebellion on the part of the Chicago club has been matched, even outdone, by petty action of the office of the commissioner of baseball."

"Nothing to say, nothing at all," said Landis, "I have a copy of his statement."

ACADEMY OPENS SEASON AT CAMPUS TODAY AGAINST CHAPMAN TECH

The Probable Lineup:

N. F. A.	CHAPMAN TECH
Murphy, c	c. Miner
Mish, g.	g. Brown
Fox, g.	g. Caron
Shea, t.	t. McGuire
Kahn, t.	t. Capt. Phillips
Greene, e.	e. Funk
LaCroix, e.	e. Zito
Turrell, qb.	qb. Kahl
Kelly, hb.	hb. Cupello
McGlone, hb.	hb. Seagraves
Marks, Capt., fb.	fb. Grippo

Game Starts at 2:30 p. m.

Today at the Academy campus a more experienced Chap Tech eleven from New London invades N. F. A. domain to open the Red and White's grid campaign. Tech not only is more experienced in the present campaign but also has an edge on the locals in the matter of veterans available from past season's play. The New London lineup is pretty much the same as last year whereas the Academy today will start but three regulars of the successful 1926 machine.

But, in all this apparent dismal outlook there appears the silver lining which many think will be the ruling passion before many games have passed in this present campaign. Although only three who might be termed regulars from last year are back, nevertheless much promising material from the scrubs and newcomers showed up to Coach Court Whitney at the opening practice two weeks ago and have been going at top speed ever since, he now seems to have a club well able to win, especially today's game.

On form alone, the Academy should win today by at least three touchdowns. That is, on a brief resume of the material on hand that's the way the score should read about 4:30 this p. m.

There is no overconfidence at the local campus although a strong feeling that the Red and White is in for a big year on the gridiron exists. Somehow or other this impression has gained ground rapidly in the last few days and right now Academy supporters are acting in Gene Tunney fashion—they can see no way to deprive them of victory in this game at least to start them off right on this new campaign.

With a line averaging close to 170 and a backfield the fastest that has adorned the N. F. A. colors, tipping close to 150, with the fine spirit and cooperation that is being shown daily, it seems that the local school will go quite a ways before Thanksgiving rolls around.

Tech will be outweighted today if not outspeeded. Their team, as a whole, is not much over 145. They won from Plainfield last week, winning 13 to 0 but according to reports this victory was not overly impressive. Whether that was just an off day or what we shall see this afternoon.

Grippo is the main threat of their outfit and he will probably be the one upon which the Academy will have to keep a wary eye.

With Johnny Greene and Buck LaCroix at the ends the Academy has pretty close to as good a pair of wingmen as is available in scholastic ball hereabouts. Both are fast, rugged, clever receivers and good tacklers and it really appears that here the Academy is better fixed in an allround way than at any other place on the forward wall. At tackles Kahn, a regular last year will team up with Shea, 200 pounder, who saw service at times at guard last year. Fox, a sub last year and Mish, Al's brother, are slated for the guards with "Spud" Murphy, a 150 pounder at center. Murphy has been on the squad for the past two years during which time he showed up well.

In the backfield the Academy is also equipped very handily: Capt. Jack Marks will go from fullback and his line plunging will be a big factor in the team's play. He will also do the punting this year, replacing Pete Labenski's dependable work in 1926. Jack has shown marked improvement in his booting this year, averaging about 40 or 45 yards with his spirals. Jim Kelly, dash man, will roam at a halfback position, teaming up with Harry McGlone. This is Kelly's first year of scholastic football but several years of amateur work together with much natural ability should help him a lot. McGlone was a sub on last year's eleven and his proficiency in tossing passes will help in no little way. Kelly and McGlone divide the drop-kicking with the former seeming to be more reliable. Billy Tirrell saw quite a bit of service as understudy to Jim Williams last year and then he showed himself as a clever field general. Besides directing the team from quarterback this year he will also chip in with some of his end runs while his passing and kicking is above the average.

All in all, the team looks pretty good and should improve steadily.

Other Scholastic Sports

Bulkeley, the Academy major rival, meets Meriden High at New London today. They were trampled by Weaver at Hartford last Saturday 24 to 0 but Coach Canty's boys intend to make a different showing today.

Windham, which comes here Nov. 5 for one of the local's biggest home games, opens its season today against Putnam at Willimantic. Putnam is minus its star quarter of late years, Gordon Winslow, but otherwise they seem to be pretty well stocked with experienced material.

West Hartford opens with South Manchester today.

Both Hartford and Bulkeley Highs get going in Hartford today, also in an intra-city contest.

A good sized opening day crowd is expected at the local field although the Riverview-Martaft series will hurt somewhat. Don't be surprised at the changes this year at the campus. It's the same old place with just some shifts to comply with the new rules.

MISS PARKER WINS JERSEY WOMAN'S GOLF TITLE

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Sept. 30—(AP)—The title of New Jersey women's golf champion, was taken today from Mrs. Courtland Smith of Glen Ridge by Miss Martha Parker, a New York girl who summers at Deal. Miss Parker, who represented the Spring Lake Golf and Country club, won from the defending champion in the thirty-six hole final at the Plainfield Country club, 6 and 5, completing five days of brilliant golf which started with the qualifying round when she won the medal.

The result was surprising, for Mrs. Smith was favored to retain the crown which she won at Canoe Brook last year.

BROWNS SPLIT HONORS WITH CLEVELAND INDIANS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30—(AP)—St. Louis and Cleveland divided a double header here today, the Indians winning the first 5 to 4 and the Browns taking the second 9 to 4.

The games were played before only 200 persons, largely as a result of the inclement weather and yesterday's disaster.

J. Sewell's homer in the sixth with two on was the feature of the first game. In the second game, Wright held the visitors to five hits while his teammates were garnering 13. The scores:

PIRATES HELD IN CHECK BY LUCAS AND CRITZ

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 30—(AP)—Checked in all but one inning by the brilliant twirling of Red Lucas and the sensational defensive work of Hughie Critz around second base, the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates lost to Cincinnati, 3 to 1 today, thereby prolonging the settlement of the super-heated National league pennant race with only two days to go.

Lucas, an ace of the Reds twirling staff, held the Buccaneers to six hits, two of which were bunched in an eighth inning rally that fell one run short of knotting the score after the Cincinnati ace had fallen on Vic Aldridge in the sixth and seventh frames for the tallies that turned out to be the deciding margin. ROBINS KNOCK GIANTS OUT OF PENNANT RACE

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 30—(AP)—The lowly Brooklyn Robins ruined what remained of the Giants' pennant chances here today by hitting hard in the two innings and beating New York, 10 to 5.

Vance, pitching his 16th victory of the season, held the Giants to five hits and all the New York runs were due to fielding errors. Henry started on the mound for the visitors but retired after six innings. Barnes and Fitzsimmons failed to stop the Brooklyn attack. Four runs were scored in the fifth and six more in the seventh.

Had the Giants won today they would have been within two games of the top with a slim chance of earning a tie at the finish, as the Pirates were beaten by the Reds. The score:

WESTERLY

FIRE STATION ARCHITECT INSPECTS GRANITE QUARRIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 30—Architect George Ernest Robinson of Boston remained in Westerly Friday, following the Thursday evening conference with the building committee for a central fire station, to accompany members to Westerly granite quarries. A trip was also made to North Stonington to view the construction work on the Wheeler school, a stone building. Tentative plans show a four-door station with tower and flagpole and and extra large door to the machine shop adjoining the storage room for the motor-driven firefighting apparatus. The outside measurements are 102 foot width and 67 foot depth. A signal housing feature is that although attached to the main building, in reality it is a structure by itself. An impression of massiveness is gained when the quick-acting large front doors are opened and a wide open room free from posts meets the eye, obtained by the use of 75 foot steel girders, which have a weight of some ten tons. The building consists of an upper story and basement and presents about the same shape from whichever side it is viewed, it being the desire of the architect to have the building give the appearance of a fire station at the first glance. On the second floor provision is made for the chief's office and quarters and at the rear, the room of the fire police and dormitory accommodations. In the center of the front of the building is the watch room for the man on duty, and in the center the large common room or hall with various supply rooms at the rear, while ample accommodation is made for a hose tower and the lengthwise stringing of hose. A drier room where wet firemen can go to take off wet clothing is incorporated in the plans.

Architect Robinson has instructions not to waste a cent of the district's $100,000 appropriation, yet to provide accommodations up-to-date and fitting for modern firefighting comfort of the firemen.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 30—Mrs. Mary B. Blanchard of Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, has written police chiefs of various New York state cities and towns, in an endeavor to locate relatives of George W. Pappin, who died September 18th at the Westerly hospital as the result of injuries sustained when struck by an automobile on Main street. Now a reply has been received from Albany, N. Y.

Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, who was directed by Attorney-General Charles Sisson to hold the personal property of the deceased iron moulder until the probate court named an executor, has a letter from Walter W. Mr. Pappin at the time of his death was in the employ of the printing press works of the C. B. Cottrell & Sons company and previously with the Miller foundry in Stonington and the Nichols and Langworthy Machine works of Hope Valley. The personal property of Mr. Pappin was inventoried at $4600 and if no next of kin can be located, it will be turned into the treasury of the town of Westerly.

Some were peeved Friday by the declaration of Chairman Everett A. Kingsley, of the Westerly Republican Town committee, that the committee had decided not to give out the names of the town's committee slate until it is presented to the republican caucus to be held in the Westerly Town hall Tuesday evening, Oct. 11 next. Westerly has a law which causes a caucus to be automotically adjourned two days, where more than one candidate is named for any office and when the balloting thereon is conducted by check list with polls open from 2 to 9 p. m., but the feeling exists in many quarters that if prospective candidates are known a more general opinion can be expressed as to their qualifications. The day after the date of the first caucus is Columbus day, a legal holiday in Rhode Island, consequently the second or voting caucus would have to be continued until Friday afternoon and evening.

That interest is felt in whom the Republican Town committee may choose to place upon its slate was manifested in the attendance of from 15 to 20 citizens and voters of the town, outside of the committee membership. Among those who "walked the plank" when Chairman Kingsley declared a recess to go into executive session were State Senator Howard E. Thorp, a Westerly tax assessor with unexpired term of office.

Since the adjournment of the Town's committee it has been reported that one of the committee members, Dr. John M. O'Connell, is a candidate for president of the council nomination on the committee slate, he being one of the last members to leave the meeting following a conference with Chairman Kingsley and Clerk Charles D. Maxson. Joseph T. Grills, whom some members of the Fair Play committee have previously discredited, stated Friday that he continued to be an active candidate for council nomination on the committee slate.

Both machines were badly smashed, the sedan striking the left front wheel of the Studebaker and turning over twice rested on its side near a fence. Miss Lillian Thomson of Roxbury, Mass., a passenger in the Pontiac, was uninjured. Patrolman Robert M. Kessel was called to investigate. A settlement of damages was reported reached agreeable to all partics concerned.

NORWICH BOY BOUND TO METROPOLIS GETS ONLY AS FAR AS NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—Frank Caldaroli, 14, of 232 Frankin street, Norwich, was arrested here early this morning when found at the rear of a Green street building, the boy apparently having gone there to hide, also to sleep, for he had run away from home and was trying to get to New York. The police here had not received any request to be on the lookout for the boy, but when Patrolman John Clifford was making his final round of his beat he went to the rear of the building and there discovered the boy. Upon questioning him, the officer was informed that Caldaroli had arrived here yesterday afternoon and it was his intention to go to New York, obtaining transportation as best he could. The officers interfered with the boy's plans, for the youth was taken to police headquarters. The Norwich police were requested to notify the boy's father and this action was taken with the result that at 6 o'clock the boy's parent came to New London and took charge of the wandering boy.

WIFE, WORKING, OBJECTS WHEN SPOUSE HAS WOMAN GUEST

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—Daniel DeLong, married and residing at 11 Moore court, was acquitted of a charge of breach of the peace this morning when given a hearing in the police court. Annie Kennedy Erickson, Shaw street, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of intoxication. DeLong was arrested today and the charge against him was adultery, but it was amended in court because there was no evidence at hand to establish a conviction. Neither was there of the charge of breach of the peace, so a nolle was ordered.

DeLong met the Erickson woman on Bank street yesterday afternoon and as his wife is employed at the Pequot, he invited the woman to his home. The invitation was accepted and the man and woman went to DeLong's home. They were seen to enter the house by women neighbors and when they did not emerge a half hour later a telephone message was sent to Mrs. DeLong, telling of the presence of the woman with DeLong in the house. Mrs. DeLong boarded a trolley car and went home. Entering the house she found the Erickson woman lying on a bed, but fully attired and DeLong, also dressed was at a sink washing a glass. Mrs. DeLong attacked the Erickson woman, disfiguring her and damaging her clothing. She then requested the arrest of both the Erickson woman and DeLong. The Erickson woman was arrested at the DeLong house on a charge of lascivious carriage, but when Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky arrived there DeLong had vanished. He was arrested by Sergeants Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith at his work at the Central Vermont railroad pier.

GROTON FERRY LEASE VOTE DEFERRED BY CITY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—A special meeting of the city council, the last that will be held before the incoming council takes over the conduct of affairs of the city next Monday night, was held tonight to consider the matter of leasing the New London-Groton ferry to Captains George H. Crandall and David Sheehan, the present contract expired tonight. The meeting did not get anywhere with the matter that the session was called before when the question of leasing the ferry contract to Messrs Crandall and Sheehan a tie vote existed because of the fact that there were but six members present, the seventh member, Councilor James A. May being absent.

The selectmen from Groton were present to address the meeting, but they were late in arriving, so another matter was taken up. The city manager recommended that a transfer of $2,000 be made from the appropriation for director of law to election expenses and city debt. A motion was made and passed that the money be transferred, but specified that of the amount of $400 would be for election expenses and $1600 for paying city debt.

A recess was then taken until the Groton selectmen arrived. When the visiting delegation made their appearance, Mayor Fox called upon First Selectman Clark B. Withey. Mr. Withey said that at the annual town meeting recently it was unanimously voted that Groton appropriate an amount of money to cover 25 per cent. of the cost of operating the ferry; 25 per cent. of the cost of new boilers in the event that the steamboat inspectors ordered such installation, the estimated cost of which would be $10,000. He said that New London was morally obligated to continue the operation of the ferry.

Council Scott moved that the city accept the bid of Captains Crandall and Sheehan of $6,000 for the fiscal year 1927-1928, but Councilor Streeter opposed the vote. He said that the ferry project was a "dying horse" and that the money of the tax payers was to be considered, declaring that further expenditure by the city in running the ferry was foolishness. He referred to an old lease which provided for the lessees to pay $1,000 for cost of certain repairs and inquired, if the lease were made to Captains Crandall and Sheehan, if this expenditure would be made by the lessees. They refused to assume the responsibility for such expenditure on the grounds that the receipts from the ferry would not permit them to do so.

Mayor Fox then put the motion and declared that the ayes prevailed. His ruling was disputed by Councilor Streeter, who asked for a roll call vote but, upon suggestion of Mayor Fox, accepted a vote by the raising of the hand. Mayor Fox, and Councilors Murray and Scott voted for the passage of the vote and Councilors Streeter, Chappell and Whiton voted against its passage.

The tie vote resulted in addition debate on the matter. Mayor Fox and Councilor Scott stated that the ferryboat was an old institution and that the boat accommodated many men and women doing business in New London and Groton. Selectman Withey said that the operation of the ferryboat was merited because of the large amount of business New London merchants derive from Groton residents also the many employes of the New London Ship & Engine company that reside in New London and use the ferryboat as a means of transportation.

Councilor Whiton said that the continued operation of the ferryboat was carried along lines of sentimentality. The former lessees of the ferryboat discontinued the lease when the boat became an unprofitable business. Since the operation of the Thames river highway bridge as a free bridge the patronage of the ferryboat had fallen away to almost nothing.

Councilor Murray called the attention of the council to the fact that the present lease of the boat to Messrs Sheehan and Crandall expired tonight and inasmuch as a tie vote existed that a vote be passed continuing the lease, as it exists at present ,to Messrs. Sheehan and Crandall for another month. Such a vote was passed.

Councilor Streeter then offered a vote that the matter of accepting the bid of Messrs. Crandall and Sheehan for the operation of the ferryboat, be laid upon the table until the next meeting of the council and this vote was passed.

Valentien Murach was in the police court today charged with breach of the peace in striking his son, Bolak, 17. He was fined $20 and costs. Murach had been drinking yesterday afternoon and when he went to his home he had a bottle containing liquor. When Bolak arrived and found his father intoxicated and his mother displaying signs of drink, he upbraided both parents. Bolak even went so far as to attempt to destroy the liquor and when he started to pour the contents of the flask into a sink the elder Murach attacked the son, as did the mother. A sister of Bolak ran to the street and riding Patrolman Lawrence Pardy, informed the officer of the trouble. The officer went to the house and arrested the elder Murach. In court the sister requested permission to go to the residence of her married sister and reside for she said that comfort would be provided for her there. The court turned over the matter to Probation Officer Richard W Mansfield for investigation.

William Prime, 18, residing at 34 Bristol street, was charged with breach of the peace. The case was continued to tomorrow. Price was arrested last night by Patrolman Henry Sylvia. The police have received numerous complaints from residents because of the conduct of youths who gather nightly at the corner. Last night several of the boys were there and when Officer Sylvia had passed one of them, whom Sylvia picked out as Prime, cast what was intended to be remarks belittling the officer. Sylvia arrested Prime, but the latter denied that it was he who made the disrespectful remarks.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

Neglected Mother

Mother by the window sits,
Waiting for the postman's rap;
Drops the thread and gaudy bits
Of her patchwork from her lap;
But no tiding joy impart
To her weary, waiting heart.

Sons, now busy in the west,
See naught but the dollar sign,
While the one who loves them best
Waits with patience for a line.
Not a word at morn or night
Comes to make a fond heart light.

Mother's mission now is gone;
Little feet no longer need
Loving hands to guide them on,
Healing kiss for wounds that blee.
Those who once clung to her side
Now are scattered far and wide.

With their need has love fled, too?
This they stoutly would deny;
Still an old heart, ever true,
Sees the postman hurry by,
Pausing at her neighbors' doors,
While her longing he ignores.

Time hangs heavy on her hands,
In the discard now she broods;
No one sees or understands
She has hurt and lonely moods.
No one needs her, no one cares,
Cheerlessly her lot she bears.

Are you honest, thrifty son?
Daughter, is your heart still true?
Pay your debts; your greatest one
Now is waiting overdue.
Send love's message on its way
To your truest friend today.

PRIVILEGE AND DUTY

Dear Social Corner Friends: I did not intend to write again so soon but I do want to say a few words about our civic duties and to remind you that elections are to be held soon. In the rush of home and business duties we have civic duties as well as privileges. We do not always keep in mind that very important truth that with privilege always goes duty. It is so easy to let other things fill up election day so that we do not get out to do our bit at the polling place. We owe it to those brave, tireless women who endured about everything but death to win the suffrage for us to make good use of it now it is ours. Let us never forget that,

"They cut a path through tangled underwood,
Old old traditions, out to broader ways,
They lived to hear their work called brave and good,
But oh! the thorns before the crown of bays,
The world gives lashes to its pioneers
Until the goal is reached—then deafening cheers."

I hope that as many of us as possible arrange our affairs so as to attend caucuses and take part in them. In a text book I had in school days there is an oration delivered at the commencement of Union college, June 27, 1877 by George William Curtis, on The Public Duty of Educated Men. I wish a copy of it were in every household for it is a wonderful address and is as applicable today as when it was delivered and applies to women now as well as men. I want to quote a line here and there from it. "Our system rests upon all the people and the citizen who evades his share of the burden betrays his fellows. Our safety lies not in our institutions but ourselves. Public duty in his country is not discharged by voting. When an American citizen is content with voting merely he consents to accept what is often a doubtful alternative. His first duty is to help shape the alternative. If ignorance and corruption and intrigue control the primary meeting, and manage the convention, and dictate the nomination, the fault is in the honest and intelligent workshop and office in the library and the parlor, in the church and the school."

It is no use to grieve or whine or criticise the day after election. But in the days beforehand, at the caucus and at the polls it is both our privilege and duty to be active just as we are about our domestic or business affairs. Since writing the above today's Bulletin has been handed me and this head line attracts my attention. "Two-thirds of people on list fail to be made new voters here." This isn't as it should be, is it?

Irva Lynn: That was a fine letter of yours about sterilization. I am keeping it for future reference. What entertaining letters some sisters are giving us about thir tripe. I have a splendid book now, This Believing World, by Lewis Browne. Gift of the state to village library here. It is a simple account of the great religions of mankind, very enlightening as well as interesting. Published this year I believe. Perhaps some of you have already read it.

This is a perfect day and my thoughts go to the sick and shutins. May health come back to them. With good wishes to you all.

HINTS TO MOTHERS

Dear Corner Friends: There is one thing I would like to carve as in a tablet of brass upon the heart of every mother, that she may keep it as a motto forever. That is the one little word "Don't." Not don't as applied to the children—goodness knows we nearly don't the joy of life out of them—but the many don't should apply to herself. For it is the mothers oftentimes, who need the training instead of the children.

The trouble is we train our children too much. A little good healthy letting alone would benefit them much more than the constant nagging to which many of them are subjected.

I read a letter sometime since which said, "Don't train your child too much." and I have pondered over those words. I once saw the old maxim line upon line so vigorously applied to a child that his spirit was quite broken. The poor little fellow could scarcely eat a meal in peace. It was train for this and that and the other thing constantly. It was, "now don't do this" and now "don't do that" times without number until the boy never knew whether he was doing right or wrong. One day he did some little thing for which his father thought he should ask pardon, and with sobs the poor child exclaimed, "Father, forgive me for my sins."

Don't let the children know you are watching them too closely. Don't see every little thing they do, don't nag and don't indulge in a silly fretfulness when they are disobedient. If you cannot control yourself, how can you expect self control in your children? Small children do many things which they will forget if not noticed. A tactful turning of the mind in another direction will accomplish much. Real wrongs, breaches of good manners, transgressions of the rights of others, cruelty to animals, or to other children, of course all such things, the mother should correct but spare the child too many don'ts.

And above all guard yourself. Don't do things which you will regret. One of the hardest things on earth to bear is something for which you cannot forgive yourself. Let love be combined in your training with a judicious watchfulness and faith in God.

I often think of this verse.
The artist sketches on canvas,
And the sculptors model in clay.
But the mother paints on immortal souls
And moulds for eternal days.

Parents and teachers often make a grave mistake scolding and whipping children for habits, before the true cause has been ascertained. In the majority of cases you will find it caused by some physical defect. Children who appear dull and inattentive in the school room may be suffering from deafness, defective vision or some nervous disease. When these habits or disfigurements first appear a physician should be consulted and the cause removed.

Then the seemingly dull listless child will rapidly advance and become as efficient as any of the pupils in his grade.

I believe the foundation of children is deeper than one thinks. We must first see if husband and wife are truly one, as they should be. See if they agree ,sympathize one with another and understand each other, in short see if love rules the home.

Another essential, is, if possible, good health, strong and well balanced nerves, a good temper and a kind and considerate understanding of child life, mixed with a good deal of common sense. We would be careful of the laws of health if we really realized how much it meant to our loved ones and to the atmosphere of our homes. We could do much toward keeping our nerves strong and well balanced, by taking things easy and looking on the better side of things.

Get out in the open as much as possible, do something for somebody else. It pays in keeping ourselves, straight, we go a long ways toward correcting our little ones.

HAIR AND BEAUTY TREATMENTS

Dear Social Corner: I am sending you a simple formula for harmlessly bleaching superfluous hair.

A solution of equal parts of hydrogen peroxide ammonia, and fresh lemon juice. Sponge this onto the skin with absorbent cotton (very lightly) once a day. Later on when the hairs are almost invisible with this bleaching the sponging can be less frequent.

Baldness Treatment for Men: This is called the three years treatment because it takes time to bring back the hair on a door knob. Don't get discouraged if you don't see hair covering your head the next morning. Lanolin, 1 pound, vaseline, 2 ounces, oil of tar, 1 ounce tincture of capsicum, 1 ounce, quinine sulphate, 1 ounce. Mix all together in a double boiler, by heating. Rub the scalp with the finger tips, using a very little of the ointment very night before retiring for 15 minutes. Rub the scalp gently but firmly to loosen the skin as much as possible; in the morning wipe the surplus grease off with the towel, but don't wash but once a week with a good shampoo made of soap tree bark. Continue this for at least six months as religiously as if your life depended upon it. And if at the end of six months no improvement whatever is noticed than the roots are dead. If you see improvement continue as long as necessary. Remember to rub to loosen the scalp, and bring the blood to it, that is all you have to do. This sells for $1 in 2 ounce jars so you see what you save by making it yourself.

Dry Shampoo: Boil 2 ounces of soap bark in one quart of water for about 30 minutes. Strain and let cool, then add eight ounces of cologne water. To make a foam on the hair and wipe with a dry towel.

Cocoanut Oil Shampoo: Cocoanut oil five pounds; water 4 quarts, caustic soda two ounces. Dissolve soda in water, add to the oil and boil for two hours, adding water from time to time if it gets too thick. Remove from fire and add 1 quart of glycerine and mix. Cool and put up in bottles.

Freckle Ointment: Melt five ounces of white petrolum, take off the fire and add two ounces of oxide of zinc and 4 ounces of strong bichloride solution and beat until cold.

Hair Bleach: This is nothing but common peroxide mixed with about 10 per cent ammonia water.

Hair Restorer: Progalic acid 1-2 oz., water 3 ounce; cologne water 1 pound. Mix and apply to the hair with a brush.

Hair Softener: Seasame oil, 1 lb., lanolin, 1 ounce, paraffin oil, 2 ounces. Melt all together and add 5 drops of sandal oil or oil of sandal.

Lip Stick: Paraffin wax, 1 pound, oil of almonds, 4 ounces; liquid carmel, 1 ounce. Melt, mix, pour into moulds.

Talcum powders are nothing but powdered talcum sold by different jobbers at three cents per pound.

You add 10 per cent boric acid to the talcum powder for its antiseptic qualities. The perfume is mixed with a little of the powder and this is mixed to the rest by sifting. For rose add 5 drops of rose water, for violet, add 10 drops of oil of orris root, for carnation add 5 drops of oil of cloves, etc. For coloring pink add a few drops of liquod carmine to a small portion of the powder, then add to the rest until the desired shade is found.

Eyebrow stick is made the same as lip stick except instead of using carmine use lamp black.

Curling Liquid: Dissolve three ounces of borax in 4 cups of water by heating, add one drachm of gum arabic and 3 ounces spirit of camphor. Mix well. This is to use on the hair before retiring.

Oct. 12—Club No. 1 meets in chamber of commerce hall, Willimantic.

READY FOR CLUB NO. 5'S MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I am wondering how you all are this beautiful morning. We surely are having some beautiful weather, a great change from what the summer gave us. We shall soon have the snow flakes floating through the air. I surely dread the thought of the cold weather. Hope all will have a very successful winter with no sickness to mar it.

I am very sorry I could not go and enjoy picnics this summer but am glad there were so many of the sisters who could enjoy them.

The foliage is beginning to turn and the trees will soon be lovely. We were in Hartford last Sunday and had a lovely day and trip. We brought a friend home with us to enjoy the beautiful flowers and foliage as well as for a change and rest. Hope to meet all the sisters at the October meeting and that each one brings something good to eat. Please remember we buy rolls, coffee and milk. If there is any one who has plenty of milk and would like to donate some we will be very glad of it. Very best wishes and success to all of the Social Corner sisters and editor.

GREETINGS FROM L. T. H.

Kind Editor and Social Corner Friends: As it has been a long time since I wrote a Corner letter I don't want to be called a slacker in all things so will write to the Corner page.

Pilgrim: Many thanks for your way of baking fish. Will try it next time I bake one.

Lindsey: Your poem was fine.

Where is Aram? Have not seen a letter in the Corner page from him since the six widows chased him off the piazza. Are you still running from them? Why don't you write?

Joan: Sorry you are ill. Hope you will be better soon.

Violet: The chowder was fine. Many thanks. Am waiting to see the poem you sent in, but suppose, each has to wait its turn in the Corner page.

Aries: The slip is growing fine, and has a nice blossom on it. I am so pleased, as it was my mother's favorite plant.

Shasta Daisy: How did you get home with bouquet and slips? I will recommend you as a sure cure for blues and sick ones. I was so glad to meet you. We all enjoyed our visit with you. Hope to see you again. Don't forget the apron. Be sure and write, won't you? I did enjoy seeing so many friends, if it was a surprise to me. I was so pleased to hear about the Springfield fair, but it was continued until next time as they had to go before chore time.

Calla Lily: I was glad to meet you. Had auto ride a week ago. Met Nurse Penny, Roxanna Winch, Red Wing and Violet, quite a happy surprise to me.

Just: I have not received your address yet, but many thanks for lovely card, and all the good wishes it conveyed to me.

Where is Doctor's wife. I hoped to see some interesting letters from you this summer. I hope that soda and ginger prescription I wrote about did not scare you so you cannot write. Cheer up, give us some good cheery letters of your visits with the Doctor and all the sunshine and cheer you carried to the sick ones. A kind word never dies, but is cherished and kept all through life, never to be forgotten. I hope all the sick ones are better. So many of our Corner members have passed on.

Cecil Bruner: Was so glad to meet you. Enjoyed your letter so much. Write again to Corner as we all can read them there. I would like to hear you and one of them debate on that question. Think one of them certainly did write a good letter. Was it he or she who wrote it?

What lovely weather we are having. It will soon be snowtime again, and long evenings to make rugs and pass away time. Hope we do not have a severe winter, but God Knows best. His will, not mine, be done. All we can do is toil on and do the best we can. How many there are shut in and cannot go out in God's blessed sunshine and nice fresh air! Yet they are so happy and always have a cheery word to all. Suffer yet are happy. What a lesson that should be to grumblers and fault finders with health, and who can go where they like and enjoy life as they choose.

Here is a poem I had given me by a friend, so will pass it on to you.

"If with pleasure you are viewing any work a man is doing,
If you like him or you love him, tell him now;
Don't withhold your approbation till the parson makes oration
And he lies with snowy lilies o'er his brow.
For no matter how you shout it, he won't really care about it;
He won't know how many tear drops
you have shed:
If you think some praise is due him
now's the time to slip it to him.
For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead."

More than fame and more than money is the comment kind and sunny
And the hearty, warm approval of a friend;
For it gives to life a savor, and it makes him stronger, braver,
And it gives him heart and spirit to the end;
If he earns your praise bestow it;
If you like him let him know it;
Let the words of true encouragement be said.
Do not wait till life is over and he's underneath the clover,
For he cannot read his tombstone
when he's dead.

How true that is! Don't shun a worthy friend until she is dead, then send expensive floral pieces. When one kind word when living would be worth more than gold. Give the flowers and sunshine while friends are living. Best wishes to all.

L. T. H., (Club 2.)

Dear Editor: I was more than surprised to receive the yellow slip. Many thanks.

I was asked the other day what jealousy was like. Well, I said, I cannot tell by my own experience but I can tell you what it did for me. Years ago we lived on a little farm, a pretty place and of course our neighbors weren't very near, but one family and mine were very fast friends. I went to school with their children and we were good friends. I had a sister that lived with her aunt but came home on her vacations. I was so glad every time she came.

Well one day she sent for me to get her some young wintergreen. I knew where the best grew so I went to get it. It was by this friend's house. Grandpa lived there so I stopped and told them. The boy said he would go with me and help me pick it so we went down by Bloody brook. It was a lovely spot and after we had picked a large bunch we sat by the little brook and watched the leaves float down. We took two leaves put them in together and they floated side by side out of sight. That is the way we will travel. Children style, while we sat there making plans, the little birds flew over our heads singing so sweetly. At length we went home. I sent the wintergreen and a note saying who helped me pick it and how we sat on the stone by the brook and how the little birds flew over our heads. Well it was like putting gasoline on the fire. The green eyed monster came out. She copied it, she was an expert at that, and then came over and I knew nothing of it until Sunday when I came from church. I stopped to see grandfather, father and mother were there. His mother and mine were out by the old fashioned flower garden. They called me out there. His dear sweet old mother gave me some stripped grass and spider lilies and some sweetmary. The scent of it to this day turns me sick and faint. Then she handed me sister's letter and said I did not think you would do a thing like that. I looked at it and I was paralyzed for a few minutes. She said how could you write it? All I could say was I never wrote that letter. He came up and said anyone who does a thing like that to my mother I am done with. I could say no more. I went home but I never got over that blow 36 years ago. My sister came to my house and stayed two weeks. I saw she had something on her mind, so one day she came up to me, put her arms around me and cried like a child. I spoiled your young life through jealousy. I wanted the boy myself, but I did not get him. O, sister, can you, after the hardships you have gone through and the hard times you have had, ever forgive me? she asked. That has gone, think no more about it. I fully and freely forgive you. The only thing I regret is I could not tell his dear sweet old mother before she passed on. He still holds that old thing against me. Well maybe he will know the truth some time at least I hope so. That was the price of a jealous sister. That is all I can say. I know what jealousy is.

Well Kochia how are you this fine weather? I suppose taking in all the fairs. Well I would like to if I was able.

Aries and Be True: Those slips are growing fine.

Skipper: Where are you?

Well, I hope the page will be full soon. Where is Rural Delivery?

Hope all the sick ones are better.

SOME GOOD RECIPES

Dear Cornerites: I am sending this week a variety of good recipes.

Coleslaw Salad: 1-4 cup vinegar heated with 1 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon sugar. Beat the eggs, and slowly stir them into the hot vinegar. Cook over water until it thickens the mixture. Add 2 tablespoons of cream and your dressing, while hot over 3 cups of cabbage. Serve when cold.

Italian Relish: 3 quarts green tomatoes, 3 sweet red peppers, 1 quart onions, chopped fine, 3-4 pound sugar, 1-2 cup salt, 3 tablespoons English mustard seed, 3 tablespoons ground ginger, 1-4 ounce tumeric powder, 1 quart vinegar. Boil 30 minutes.

Rose Petal Tea: 2 parts water, 1 red rose petals.

Boil in a covered vessel until the petals turn white, set aside to cool. Boil again and put in cloves.

Pan fry mushrooms in butter to a delicate brown, then cool and add peas. Measure and add twice combined bulk in sliced celery moisten with mayonnaise and served chilled. Garnish with peas and curled celery.

Make little balls and place around the edge.

GRAMMAR IN RHYME

Dear Social Corner Members: As this is the first time I have written to the Corner I do hope I can become a member. Will send in a small "poem" Grammar in Rhyme for the little folks. It is seldom that one can see so much valuable matter as the following lines contain in so brief a space. Every young grammarian and many older heads, will find it highly advantageous to commit the "poem" to memory for with these lines at the tongue's end none need ever mistake a part of speech.

1. Three little words you often see are articles, A, an, and the.

2. A noun's the name of anything, As school, or garden, hoop or swing.

3. Adjectives tell the kind of noun. As great, small, pretty, white or brown.

4. Instead of nouns the pronouns stand. Her head, his face, your arm, my hand.

5. Verbs tell of something to be done. To read, count, sing, laugh, jump or run.

6—How things are done, the adverbs tell. As slowly, quickly, ill, or well.

7. Conjunctions join thes words together, as men and women, wind or weather.

8. The preposition stands before a noun, as in, or through a door.

9. The interjection shows surprise Os oh! how pretty! ah! how wise.

The whole are called nine parts of speech.

Which reading, writing, speaking teach.

Will sign my name as

MOTHER PRESTON.

DO IT NOW

Dear Editor and Folks: In reading the splendid letters in our Social Corner page last week a though was suggested in Ethleyn's letters about which I had been thinking of writing, i. e., if you have a good impulse act upon it. Doctor Crane has written a short article on this subject advising all to do just that. When you feel a good impulse to do a kind act or say a kind word, just do it. Because if you do not do it you cheat yourself of spiritual growth. It is not the lack of ideals that ails the world, it is so many ideals that are not lived out. Everyone of these turns into poison. An unusual conviction not only is of no value, it does positive injury. It dulls the edge of your power of decision. It exhausts all the reserves of impulse in you, so that at last nothing can move you. Emerson says, "Thought is the seed of action." So now let us all get into action. Send your flowers, plants, cards or gifts to shut-ins, ill people or those who need a kind thought or word. Do it now. The past is silver, the present is golden.

"Act, act in the living present,
Heart within and God o'er head."

GREETINGS FROM SWEET LAVENDER

Dear Editor and Corner Members: It is a long time since I have written to the Corner, but read the interesting letters from week to week. There has been so many changes since I have written. I should love to attend Aunty No. 1's picnic. Know what a pleasant time all will have and all will enjoy seeing her lovely plants and flowers.

I have never been to Cape Cod, but mean to plan a vacation there in the near future. This year I spent two pleasant weeks at Ocean Park, Maine, with some kind friends. Think it very nice there. Went to Old Orchard for amusements, etc., also spent day in Portland and other places. Had some wonderful rides and read with interest the trip through New England much the same as I took with a party a few years ago. Glad you enjoyed it, Naomi.

Eveline Burr: Your letter on Going to the Fair was fine. Yes, I attended Brooklyn fair and came home tired. Had a bad cold, but was happy to think I went.

Primrose: Read you have moved.

No Name: Passed you last Monday as I was flying home from the dentist.

Lady Lou: Thanks for birthday card. You had me guessing. Did belong to same club as Aunty No. 1. But now am

A TRIP TO MAINE

Dear Sisters: One of many pleasant trips I have taken this year was while my son was here from Connecticut. Five of us started one lovely morning for East Baldwin to visit friends went through Gray, Windham, North Windham, by way of White's Bridge, a summer colony at the outlet to Sebago lake, then to Standish Neck, to Sebago lake village, thence to Standish Corner, and on over the Pequaket trail past Watchic lake, and many pretty summer places to Steep falls. We arrived at East Baldwin at 10:30 a. m. hungry as bears. Dinner was nearly ready which we all enjoyed. When two work was done we again filled two cars and drove to Hiram Falls, a wonderful place. A power station has been built at the falls since I was past there for the Maine Central railroad, mountains towering to the clouds, heal falls. The road is several hundred feet above the falls. A filling station also a wayside market give travelers who wish to tarry a while and enjoy the scenery a chance to do so.

Across from the resting place is a mountain towering to the clouds, heavily wooded. My friend gave us a bit of history of her past life. When she was a bride, she went with her husband to a wood's camp on the side of that mountain, said she quite often sat on one of the mammoth boulders and listened to the water sing as it fought its way over the huge rocks on its way to the sea. The river is the Saco that starts away up in the mountains. After we had rested and took pictures we again started homeward, stopped at West Baldwin and went into the cemetery where loved ones sleep. But we must cut our calls short for we still had many calls to make. It was 3 p. m. when we arrived at our friends home where she can sit on the piazza on three sides of her house and see mountains, lofty ones, pictures in themselves especially when the autumn leaves are in their glory. Well we were soon on our way home coming by way of Sebago, Double Glass Hill, Muddy River, Naples, Perryville, Casco, Webbs Mills, Tripp lake, Poland, East and West Poland also Poland Springs, Sabbath Day lake, New Gloucester and arrived home at 5:30 p. m. well paid for our trip. The whole time my relatives were here we went somewhere and everytime saw many and everytime saw many changes from a year ago. Our crops are fine. If you were to call now I could treat you on canteloupes. Some farmers say their potatoes are not fit to dig but ours while some are rotten. Will amount to 75 bushel allright. Green corn only three cents a dozen. I was pleased to learn the sisters enjoyed themselves at Kochia's for I know how good they are at entertaining. Trust this will find the Corner enjoying good health.

My son is at his brother's at Marshfield, Mass., enjoying very good health also the scenery. Many thanks for the great interest you have taken in him. I appreciate your kind thoughts and messages.

BUSY DAY COUNTING CARS

Dear Editor and Everybody: About two weeks ago I left the house by the side of the road just around the corner, and "hopped off" on the West Side, on the Brooklyn road, and find myself still here at this writing. The second, or middle day of the Brooklyn fair, I counted the cars that went the house. I found it was some job, for as many as 2,000 or more whizzed by and were marked down. It was a most beautiful afternoon for the work, but I hardly think I'll ever attempt it again. I am wondering how many of the members (who have a radio) enjoy listening in to "Cheerio" every morning except Sunday from 8:30 to 8:45 who sends cheer to those whose birthday happens to come on that day on which he is broadcasting. He always has a funny little story to tell. He said one Sunday morning he went to church and the minister said there was "a sermon in every blade of grass." The next day the minister was out mowing his lawn and one of the parishioners came along and said, "That's good, parson, I see you are cutting 'em short."

Moses' Wife: Thank you for calling me up and telling me all about the picnic, at you home. It was a terrible rainy day and my birthday, too. I was sorry I missed the good time.

Queen Marie: I certainly was surprised to see you last week. Will answer your letter soon.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Can any of the sisters tell me the best way to propagate black alder?

There is a pond near my house where two black alder bushes grow, and I should like to increase the number. Would a branch put in the ground and kept watered grow?

For the benefit of those who do not know black alder, I will say that in the fall, these alders are covered thick with bright red berries, very good for Christmas decorations.

It is best to gather the berries two or three weeks before Christmas, as severe storms coming and excessive cold may spoil them. One year I picked quite a lot of the berries about three weeks before Christmas, not because the cold might get them, but because I wanted to make sure I should have my share, as others had the same right to gather them that I had.

Then the day before Christmas I gathered all that were left, completely denuding the two bushes of their brilliant fruit.

The berries I picked first, that is, three weeks before Christmas, were in better condition than those I picked the day before Christmas.

I think that we can get a great deal more pleasure from the holidays by looking ahead and planning our decorations early as well as being forehanded with our preparations for a big dinner, and getting our gifts all wrapped and labeled in good season.

About two years ago I described in rather a lengthy letter the way to make a ball, large or small, of bayberries.

I still have hanging in my room, what remains of the large bayberry ball which hung in the center of the largest room in my home. This ball fell twice from its position high in the air to the floor. I patched it with two smaller balls which hung under it. And, in its somewhat delapidated condition, it still brings out favorable comments from beholders who are not familiar with bayberries.

So I am thinking of making another as a Christmas decoration this year. I had the large ball hanging in the middle, and on each side a small one about one-third the size of the larger one.

Hanging from the large ball was a white dove with wide spread wings, and a sprig of red berries in its mouth. This was quite life-like and effective. Made with a cloth body, stuffed, the wings and tail of stiff paper, the whole covered with cotton batting, it was not very difficult to make and was good enough to produce the effect desired.

In another letter I am going to tell in detail how to make this, as I feel sure that some of the ladies will be glad to know how to make one. About two hours of careful work are necessary in order to make the dove.

I am turning over a new leaf; for, in the past, I have not been noted for being forehanded. Indeed, a brother of mine, when he was graduated from high school, was written up in the class prophecy as being three handed, a left hand, a right hand and a little behind hand. The prophecy was that he would form an interesting exhibit in a circus.

In my high school days, I must confess that I also showed this peculiarity as far as being late in getting to school. With all sorts of good resolutions as to rising early and getting to school on time, still I would be hurrying over the mile to school, "like the wind" as a former teacher whom I often met, said.

"You go like the wind and your brother like the lightning," this teacher said.

So I am trying to improve on my brother, and myself in younger days, and develop so that it may be said with some truth that I am fore-handed, (four-handed).

A woman with a family has so many duties and cares that I suppose her principal thought in regard to Christmas is gladness that it is so far away. Being free from family cares, I can give thought to these things especially as my health at this time obliges me to be still and rest a good deal. I long for the time to come when I may roam the field and woods as formerly.

Aries: Your letter gave me much pleasure and I hope to reply directly before many weeks. Is there any chance for me to buy one of those turkeys for Thanksgiving? It is sometime since we had the regulation Thanksgiving dinner and turkey with stuffing, such as "mother used to make" would taste about right.

Kitty Lou and Hepatica: The letters I have been meaning to write to you have been delayed through illness, not from choice. I hope to write to you both soon.

Best wishes to all Cornerites from

WRITERS OF 14 YEARS AGO

Dear Social Corner: It has been a long time since I have written. I love to read the letters, but I seem to be slack about writing. I enjoy going to the meetings and picnics. Some one at the Trout Brook farm picnic made a mistake and got my dish. It is mottled light blue and white on the outside and white inside. It is a larger dish than the one left. I wish the one that has it would bring it to the next meeting so we could change as I like my own best.

I found a Bulletin that I had laid away published on Tuesday, April 29, 1913. It is getting yellow with age. Perhaps the names of the Social Corner writers in this paper will be interesting to some so I will write them: Well, Always In, Gladness, The Merry Farmer's Boy, Estella, Aunt Serena, Hepatica, Diana, Kochia, Etth Barber, Simon's Wife, Frozen, Rambler, Ready, Billy, Evelyn. Here are 16 members of 14 years ago. I hope they can all answer to their names now. There is also a poem entitled, The Family's, by Will Templer, sent in by Rural Delivery.

The frost will soon be nipping our beautiful flowers. I hate to see them go. I have enjoyed this summer very much. Have had a number nice auto rides. I hope others have enjoyed themselves as well as I have. Will say good bye.

ANOTHER AIRPLANE DISASTER

Dear Editor and Friends: These are wild, hard and dangerous times for airplanes, both artificial and natural. How many of you have ever seen a flying squirrel? A cat belonging to Art brought one into the house Sunday night, alive; only a young one, but alive, all alive. It got away from the cat and rummaged all over the room. Yours truly was lying on a couch and the squirrel jumped all over him and then landed on a shelf. So yours truly gave it a cracker to eat, for a reward. Yours truly tried to catch it but what chance has a man against a cat, human or feline? He just simply couldn't do it, so went to sleep, leaving the door open to give it a chance to make a getaway, but found it dead next morning. The flying squirrel is a rodent of the squirrel family, characterized by the possession of a touch membrane stretching from body well to toes, which assists in parachute-like flight from tree to tree. The flying man is a spectacular member of the human family, characterized by the possession of a touch membrane stretching from neck to toes, which assists in a most parachute-like flight from shore to shore and from coast to coast, sometimes.

BADLY WORN LINOLEUM

Dear Corner Sisters: Perhaps some of you are wondering what to do with a badly worn linoleum rug? Don't discard it. With little trouble it can be made to look like new. Besides there is a lot of fun in doing it.

Give the rug two coats of tan paint. Then paint a border of a darker shade around the edge of three or more inches in width, depending on the size of the rug. With some dark brown oil paint and a small brush, paint a five pointed star in each corner just inside the border, and another star in the middle of each side. Connect stars with a short straight line about 1-4 inch wide. When perfectly dry, apply a coat of good floor varnish.

The colors need not be the same as those mentioned. There are a number of pleasing combinations. The color scheme of the room in which the rug is to be used should govern the colors selected. Neither need the design be a star. Suitable designs are to be found in almost any pattern book. The same design could be repeated on the curtains or other furnishings in the room.

RECIPES BY TAFTS

Dear Editor and Members of the Social Corner: Some time ago I sent in a recipe for waffles. Guess I made a mistake in the quantity of flour used. I happened to make some Sunday night for supper when I discovered my mistake in it.

Waffles, (corrected recipe)—Beat yolks of three eggs, add 2 cups of sifted pastry flour, one heaping teaspoon baking powder, one heaping teaspoon sugar, little salt, one cup sweet, milk, 2 table spoons melted butter. Beat well and fold in stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Flavor with vanilla. I make mine in an iron waffle iron I have had for 25 years.

Mock Maple Syrup: Two cups granulated sugar, 1 cup boiling water. Stir in sugar, boil for two minutes, remove from fire. Add 1-2 teaspoon of maple extract, add pinch of cream tartar to prevent crystallization. This is fine on griddle cakes, or waffles.

Sour Cream Cake: One cup sugar, one and 1-2 cups of sour cream, two eggs, 2 cups flour, one teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons cream tartar, flavor. Bake in layer cake tins, frost with Swiss frosting. Wet with a little milk confectionery sugar to spread. Sprinkle thickly with shredded cocoanut so it looks like a snow ball.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—The stock market gave an impressive demonstration of strength today in response to the unexpectedly small decrease of less than $22,000,000 in brokers' loans. Heavy buying for both accounts took place in a wide variety of issues, with numerous gains of 2 to 10 points scattered throughout the list. Erie Railroad common, which has never paid a dividend, advanced nearly 5 points to 69 3-4, the highest price in more than 30 years' trading. Maintenance of the relatively firm call money rate of 4 per cent and the calling of about $10,000,000 in loans were regarded as incidental to month-end settlements and failed to check a resumption of speculation for the advance.

Demand for the industrial leaders assumed large proportions. General Motors (old) was run up to 267 and then eased to 265 1-4, up 5 1-4, and the new closed 2 3-4 points higher at 113. U. S. Steel common crossed 150 and then settled back to 149 5-8, up 2 5-8. Baldwin, which enjoyed a sensational advance yesterday on the announcement that the Fisher Brothers had obtained representation on the directorate, fell back more than 2 points on realizing. Substantial gains were recorded, however, by such issues as Allied Chemical, American Smelting, Colorado Fuel, General Asphalt, International Telephone, Paramount Famous Players, Pullman, Timken Roller Bearing and United Drug.

Case Threshing soared nearly 10 points to 268. DuPont and International Silver climbed about 7 points. More than a score issues mounted to new high records, the list including International Paper, International Nickel, Wright Aero, Stewart-Warner, Green Cananea Copper, Jewel Tea and Peoples Gas.

Canadian Pacific, with a jump of nearly 7 points, was one of the high spots in the railroad list. Van Sweringen issues again showed special strength. New York Central more than made up the $2 dividend which came off the stock today.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Commodity markets displayed a firm undertone. September wheat fell off on the usual evening-up of accounts, but the other contracts were practically unchanged. Cotton advanced 8 to 26 points and coffee rallied 28 to 36 points. Sugar was unchanged.

Renewed heaviness of the Japanese and Spanish currencies featured the irregular foreign exchange market.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The week in Norwich 50 years ago was an unusually quiet one. Little of note happened out of the ordinary. The principal question of the day was whether Norwich should vote license or no license at the town election, which was then near at hand. Interesting extracts taken from the file of The Bulletin of September, 1877, are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 24, 1877—The children's temperance meeting at Breed hall Saturday afternoon was very fully attended and the exercises were of a most interesting character. During the afternoon a march was made by the children in double file, adorned by blue badges. The men's meeting Saturday evening was addressed by Messrs. Anderson of New London, Montgomery, Blackford and Mr. B. W. Tompkins. The meeting like the one the week before was crowded.

The police department yesterday received a card from Warren Hewes of the state prison giving a description and bearing a portrait of Davis, the perfidious prison watchman. The large reward offered for his capture has created a sort of Charlie Ross veneration and he is heard from in all directions. The fastest stories state that he is in Hazardville.

It is expected that the Groton murder case will come before the superior court at New London, Tuesday, at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Kies begins his free organ recitals at Park church, next Saturday afternoon.

Tuesday, Sept. 25, 1877—Mr. G. M. Reynolds, the accommodating night operator at the Western Union telegraph office is taking his vacation now.

A city meeting for the purpose of laying a tax, appointing a collector and other business is called for Saturday afternoon at the town hall.

Terrace Encampment, O. D. Ones, hold a regular meeting this evening for the election of officers.

The temperance prayer meeting at the Broadway church last evening was fully attended.

Sweet cider is coming into market.

Light frosts have occurred on low grounds.

—Wednesday, Sept. 26, 1877—A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Greeneville Total Abstinence society was held at the usual place on Monday evening. In the absence of the president, Charles W. Carey, vice president, presided. The appointment for the next meeting is a temperance address by the Rev. R. P. Stanton on Monday evening, October 8th.

An imposter, calling himself Leonard, has been gathering subscriptions for a reading room, he says, under the auspices of the Reform club. He has the names of some of our most respected citizens, as subscribers, the names of some and doubtless all, being forged. He is an unmigated fraud.

Knots of men may be seen on the street corners and in the stores, at every hour of the day, now, earnestly discussing the question of license or no license.

The liquor dealers of the city held a meeting at Steiner's hall, yesterday afternoon, to take measures for protecting their interests at the town election.

Thursday, Sept. 27, 1877—Two of our popular clerks, William Bidwell and Willie Walker, returned yesterday from a 10 days trip to St. Louis and other cities of the west.

A children's meeting is to be held at Breed hall Saturday afternoon to be addressed by the various clergymen of the city. It will commence at half past seven.

Robert W. Parker declines the nomination of constable, his private business requiring all of his time and attention.

Friday, Sept. 28, 1877—Mr. W. A. Weeks of Jewett City who has been reading law in an office in town for a year or two past started for Ann Arbor, Mich., last night where is he to complete his studies for that profession.

Workmen commenced to lay the last course of stone on the foundation of the race rock lighthouse off Fisher's Island, Wednesday, and the work will be completed within two weeks.

At the election of the senior class day officers at Amherst college this week, J. H. Seldon of this city was chosen toastmaster of the occasion.

Saturday, Sept. 29, 1877—At the Park church this afternoon Mr. Kies gives the first of his series of organ recitals. The programme is short and will require barely an hour in its performance. The selections are happily chosen.

Messers. W. N. Andrew and A. H. Harris have arranged to take charge of entertainments which may be desirious of coming to this city. They are very reliable men and business entrusted to their care will be well done.

The Shetucket and its tributaries are again very low. The mills at Taftville are as much in need of water as before the freshet and are obliged to again run on half time.

Firemen Invade Capitol, Willimantic

Untold heads have been craning upward the past few days trying to figure out what a rubber-clad fireman was doing on a ladder which rests against the Capitol Theatre building. The fireman remains half-way down the ladder. Under one arm he holds a child—probably a rag one. A hose and nozzle rests against the ladder. But there is no smoke and no signs of excitement. Manager George A. Bartlett complacently explains that the building is not afire, but it is already to burn with the hot laughter that the great screen production Fireman Save My Child is evoking. He says that it would take more than a fireman to save the theatre patrons from the blaze of mirth that Wallace Beery and his partner Hatton create in their side splitting feature. The show is on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at popular prices.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

The Eyes in the Dark

Trouble has a way, alack,
Now and then of coming back.
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

All the hens were out of Farmer Brown's henhouse. They were still excited and were running about in the henyard. In the house all was still. Farmer Brown's Boy stood in the middle of the floor listening for some little sound in the dark—some little sound that would lead him to the intruder he felt sure was there. But there was no sound. So far as he could tell, he was the only living thing in the henhouse.

Finally he began to poke around with a stick in the hope of scaring Shadow the Weasel, for he felt sure that it was Shadow the Weasel who had frightened the hens. It was not wholly dark in there, but it was dark enough to make it difficult to see at all well. Presently Farmer Brown's Boy had a queer feeling. He had the feeling that he was being stared at. Yes, sir, that is the feeling he had. Perhaps you've had that feeling.

Once more he stood still. And then suddenly in the darkest corner he discovered two eyes. That was all he could see—two eyes. They were bigger eyes, very much bigger eyes, than the eyes of Shadow the Weasel. Farmer Brown's Boy stopped and stared. The eyes stared back at him. Farmer Brown's Boy backed up a little. You see, he was not at all sure about the owner of those eyes. He didn't recognize them. His first thought was that they might be the eyes of Yowler the Bobcat. Then as he looked at them he realized that they were not the eyes of a cat at all. Suddenly the silence was broken by a little whimper. Farmer Brown's Boy gave a start. That whimper sounded familiar. It sounded very familiar indeed.

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "It can't be, yet it must be!" He took a step forward and that whimper changed to a queer little sound of pleasure, gladness. Farmer Brown's Boy hesitated no more. He walked straight up to the very darkest corner of the henhouse, and there he found Cubby, that imp of a black Bear. Cubby was so black that in the darkness all that could be seen were those two eyes.

"Well, where under the sun did you come from?" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "However did you get in this henhouse? I thought I had seen the wire fence and drop down inside. last of you when I left you up in the Old Pasture. Now what am I going to do with you? I don't know what Mother will say when she sees you back. I suppose you must have followed my trail back, then climbed over the wire fence and come in through that little doorway that we have for the hens."

It was no trouble at all to climb that

Of course, Cubby couldn't tell him that this was so. But it was so. He had guessed exactly what Cubby had done. With that keen little nose of his he had followed Farmer Brown's Boy's tracks all the way home. Then when he had reached the barnyard he had hesitated. Finally he decided to go over and investigate that house where all those birds lived. He was tired and he wanted a place to rest in. That looked like a very good place. It was no trouble at all to climb that wire fence and drop down inside. He was still small enough to get through that little doorway that was made for the hens to go in and out. Once inside, it had been great fun to scare the hens. He hadn't killed any, for he wasn't hungry. You see, he had eaten so many blueberries that he was no longer hungry. So he had been satisfied just to scare the hens.

Breed Theatre.

The tragedy hidden behind the many "business" marriages of the rich is dramatically depicted in "The Tender Hour," the George Fitzmaurice production which comes as the feature attraction at the Breed theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

That the situation as it is shown in the plot of the picture is a real one is proven by at least half a dozen such marriages which have ended disastrously and with much sensational publicity in the past year.

Particularly does this apply to the marriages of American girls to European titles. It is this particular phase of "bargain marriage" on which the story of "The Tender Hour" is based. In the picture an American financier who regards his daughter merely as a possession to be sold to the highest bidder forces her into marriage with an expatriated nobleman in order to further business interests.

Billie Dove and Ben Lyon play featured roles in the picture, with Alec B. Francis, Montagu Love and others in prominent parts. The picture is based on an original screen story by Carey Wilson and was produced by John McCormick, general manager of West Coast production for First National.

Cinderella Inn

Two miles below Montville, a rustic road turns to the right, up a drive of about 100 yards and there, nestling on a knoll overlooking the Thames River and surrounded by natural beauty, tests the Cinderella Inn, recently acquired by two well known Norwich men, Ralph H. Patrick and John J. Herbert.

As you climb the stairs and cross the veranda which has been enlarged to accommodate six tables, you immediately become struck with the beauty of the place and the surroundings. The dining room with its rustic furniture, the spacious windows beautified by overdrapes and its large open fireplace, lend hominess to the place

Beyond the main dining room are two private dining rooms; one on the enclosed porch and the other in the building proper. On the right of the main room, is the newly built dance floor with a wonderful electric Panatrope phonograph to furnish the music.

For some years Cinderella Inn has been known for its lunches and the new management has enhanced the menu to include steaks, lobsters, and shore dinners and the Cinderella chicken dinners, which will be a specialty.

The management has been fortunate in securing the chef who has been with a well known hostelry for a number of years, and the cuisine is guaranteed to be unexcelled.

The Inn will cater to tea and dinner parties in addition to their guest trade and an invitation is cordially extended to all who appreciate excellent food amid delightful surroundings, incomparable service and the environment that spells character.

Strand Theatre

The Unknown Soldier is a wonderful photoplay of love, war peace, hope and sublime devotion, a story filled with laughs and pathos, produced by Renaud Hoffman, one of the most distinguished creative artists identified with the film industry. The Unknown Soldier, has a cast of players of signal power. The collector's efforts of those who contributed to the making of this picture, have resulted in the creation of a photoplay, which for sheer interest and soul stirring appeal has scarcely been equalled, much less excelled in motion picture history.

H. C. Witwer's "Her Father Said No" with Mary Brian, Kit Guard and Frankie Darro is a new story with a new theme and how it clicks, brim full of roaring comedy, with a laugh in every scene and the funniest climax ever screened.

The Hits and Bits of Broadway comes to the Strand Monday for the entire week. This is a musical comedy direct from New York with Casey Jim Pearl, Charlie Collins, Bob & Betty Carlton, Jean Burke, Peggy Bedell, Ann Ward, Betty Miller, with a chorus of pretty girls, clever comedians and specialty performers. Something entirely new and difficult. No old chestnuts. Music, mirth and melody, do not miss it. A big feature picture will be shown with each entertainment for Monday and Tuesday. The Cave Man will be the feature. A sensational mystery photoplay.

At Y. M. C. A. Sunday

At the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday at 4 o'clock, the second part of the unusual and impressive moving picture story, The Stream of Life will be shown. Last Sunday the story dealt with the boy leaving his country home for the city, which was accompanied with touching scenes in the old home. On this occasion the picture story will portray the boy's varied experience in city life, through many years; the old mother who still makes her home in the country, alone now that her husband is dead. The mother makes a few visits to the city where her boy, now very successful in world matters has married and maintains a most beautiful mansion, but where little or no thought is given to the higher, the spiritual things of life, and this fact continually saddens the mother, now old and grey, for she had taught her boy to love God and serve him. Sorrow enters the son's beautiful home, and the mother constantly points to the one and only source of consolation, namely, the Heavenly Father. After many sad experiences, both the son and his wife, come to see that mother is right, and they both come back to mother's God. Few picture stories have the grip on the heart that this picture does.

Broadway Theater

"Hula" with Clara Bow will be shown for the last times today. Never has this popular star appeared in anything so befitting her character as this one. And how she can "Hula". Her best yet and judging from the enthusiastic report we say don't miss it.

"The Big Parade," which has been rightly called the biggest picture in screen history, has been eagerly awaited in this city. King Vidor's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of Laurence Stallings' story, is coming to the Broadway theater Sunday night for four days.

Briefly the story of The Big Parade centers in Jim Apperson, a typical fun-loving American and much like every other rich man's son. In the spring of 1917, fired by a new patriotism, he enlists and departs for service in France. The succeeding scenes show Jim and his two buddies; Bull, a former Bowery bartender, and Slim, an ex-riveter, and their life in the doughboys' billets in rural France. Mr. Stallings is said to have c reated a trio as original as Kipling's "Soldiers Three."

And then Jim meets Melisande—as played by Renee Adoree—and forgets about his American sweetheart. This little French girl in her wooden sabots and milkmaid garb is a figure of high romance. Some of the most touching scenes ever filmed are those of the lovemaking of Jim and Melisande. Then comes the advance to the front and the lovers are separated. Vital moments of drama are shown in the advance through the forest, the attack on the French village, the trenches, shell-holes, machine gun nests, the wounding of Jim and the final fight for his two pals. Then home again and the reconstruction period when the two lovers are reunited. Realism dominates every scene. Supporting John Gilbert are such sterling players as Renee Adoree, Karl Dane, Tom O'Brien, Hobart Bosworth, Claire Adams, Claire McDowell, Rosita Marstini and Robert Ober.

This picture will be shown exactly the same as in New York at $2.00 admissions. Prices matinee 35c, all seats and evenings 50c.

Palace Theater

The management of the Palace is to be complimented on the wonderful show now playing at the popular playhouse. This show will close it's three day showing tonight. Performance rununing continuously today from 1:30 until closing. Five big acts of vaudeville are the stage attractions, featuring Jimmy Payne and His Aurorians with Mlle. Sandra, a band of radio repute and one of vaudeville's sweetest dancing features. Four other acts of equal importance are also featured. The screen's main attraction William Haines, star of Tell It To the Marines in "Spring Fever" a laughing bit of a clerk who rises to fame as a golf champion. For Sunday evening only two big pictures will hold the boards. Jane Novak and Johnny Haron in "Closed Gates" a dramatic tale of a rich man's son who disgraces the family name and enlists in the army, is shak shocked and loses his mind. Meets a girl in the hospital and seeks his father. A remarkable picture in it's entirety. The second feature that of Hoot Gibson in "The Prairie King" a five wire western, of the lust for gold. Very funny situations make this one a big hit.

Commencing Monday for three days another big stage bill of five acts of vaudeville will again be featured, headlining Lovenberg Sisters and Neary in "Knick Knack Revue" with a cast of seven people. The screen feature that of Reginald Denny in "Out All Night" a comedy farce of a man who falls in love with a musical comedy star and then the fun begins.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

HIBERNIANS

Officers were elected by the A. O. H. and the Ladies' auxiliary in the 17th biennial county convention last Sunday afternoon in Parish hall, Taftville. Previous to the county convention there was a joint session of the men's division and Ladies' auxiliary, which opened at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Susie Malone, of Taftville, county president, gave a short address of welcome. Prayer was offered by Rev. Henry Chagnon, who also gave a splendid address. There were brief and interesting addresses by Rev. Frederick R. DesSurceault, pastor of Sacred Heart church, Taftville, and Rev. O. N. Mandler. Interesting remarks were made by J. J. Murphy, of Norwich and William G. May of New London and many more followed. The joint session then adjourned, the men and women holding separate sessions for hearing annual reports of their officers and the election of officers for the coming year. The men's meeting was presided over by County President George Kennedy of New London. After he and the other officers of the county had submitted their reports, which were accepted as presented, the meeting elected county officers for the ensuing year as follows: County president, Joseph Cox, Norwich; county vice president, Joseph Nevins, Taftville; county secretary, Michael O'Connor, Norwich; county treasurer, Frank McCarthy, Norwich.

Mrs. Susie Malone, county president, presided at the women's meeting and the usual reports of the various officers were heard and accepted. Mrs. Susie Malon gave a splendid report of the National and state conventions, which she attended as a delegate. The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: County president, Mrs. Susie Malone, Taftville; county vice president, Miss Mary Hartle, Norwich; county secretary, Miss Catherine Coughlin, Norwich; county treasurer, Mrs. Herchely, New London; county historian, Mrs. Connelly, Norwich. Mrs. Brock, state treasurer, of Norwich, installed the newly elected officers. She also gave a splendid address. Following adjournment of both conventions the delegates and members of both county organizations enjoyed a delicious lunch served by the following: Mrs. Thomas Phalen, Mrs. Alice Haldron, Mrs. Margaret Nolan, Mrs. Thomas Fitzmaurice, Mrs. William Nolan, Mrs. Tenas Breault. Musical selections by Margaret Hasler, Nora Murphy, Mrs. Brooks and others closed the eventful affair. Mrs. Mame Hasler was the accompanist.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

A Paris cable message reads: The Knights of Columbus concluded their activities in connection with the American Legion convention when their hut in the Cours de la Rein was closed Saturday. A notable record has been established by European Commissioner Edward L. Hearn, Chief Secretary Milan and 40 Knights of Columbus secretaries who came to France to help make the convention a success with the old war-time slogan, "Everybody Welcome: Everything Free."

A total of 1,200,000 cigarettes were distributed, and with them 500,000 boxes of matches.

Nearly 400,000 francs' worth of French stamps also were distributed free, with which to mail home half a million postcard views of Paris and the American cemeteries. Thirty-two thousand bars of soap also were handed out.

The Knight of Columbus "dry" bar had unusual success, especially in view of the plentitude in Paris of more exhilarating concoctions. Thirty thousand bottles of soft beverages were consumed.

In addition, the Knights of Columbus performed considerable service in supplying information, arranging trips and sailings and rounding up scores of lost hats, coats, umbrellas, canes, passports, railway tickets nd other articles.

The grange auxiliary is to hold an all day meeting next Thursday with Mrs. Alida Boyens, who made the request that those who are to attend will notify her on the day before.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

State Trade School at Putnam

The exceptional development of the last few years in the electrical field brings to mind the value of electrical training for young men in this phase of our industrial development. Consistent with the ever increasing scope of the electrical trade the State Trade school program of training in electrical work strives to keep abreast by addition of new equipment from time to time and by incorporating into the course of study the latest methods employed. The course of study is laid down on the basis of a thorough understanding of theory through definite application and practice and also by giving a sufficient amount of drill or application in the various phases of the work to thoroughly stabilize the students' ideas acquired through theory study.

There has been such demand for this particular type of instruction within the last year that itwas thought advisable to add additional equipment and to this end a new superior coil winding machine, armature and stator loop winder, improved armature and stator coil former, and reel rack and tension device have been added to the department. In connection with motor re-winding there is a considerable amount of theory necessary in the analyzing and laying out of connecting diagrams as well as in the finishing work such as methods of varnishing, waterproofing, and the process employed in baking the windings before the motor is considered complete.

Mathematic and drafting are a part of the course and are selected as the result of an analysis of the trade. These subjects cover requirements of shop problems in the detailing and designing and installation of electrical equipment and generally covers the elements of mechanical drawing and design with mathematics up to and including strength of materials.

Other trades taugh at the school are, cotton textile manufacturing which includes complete experience in the work from opening of the bale through all the processess to inspecting the finished cloth with subjects related such as, analysis and design, yarn calculations, mill costs, drafting, and machine practice. Splendid courses are also offered in drafting, carpentry, machine shop practice, and masonry. The school is in operation 52 weeks in the year, all instruction is free, students may enroll at any time. Evening school sessions are conducted the winter months. The opening date this year is October 3rd. The State Trade schools are under the supervision of the department of vocational education at Hartford which is one of the divisions of the state board of education.

POETRY

The County Fair

I know of naught that can compare
To the fun we had at our county fair
Every year in the early Fall
Would go to the farmers around the county
"Get out your pumpkins, your beets and your squash,
The best of everything, too, by gosh!
Potatoes and livestock, geese and hens,
And cattle and sheep to fill the pens."

Then ma would be asked to bake some bread,
For no one could touch her on that head
She'd taken the prize for twenty years
And the neighbor women had shed some tears.

Pa always would take the old black mare,
With a cold or two and some to spare;
Some Guernsey cows, the speckled bull,
And a pair of Morgans bred to pull.

The girls made bed spreads and pillow shams,
And crocheted tidies and fluffy tams;
And Jimmy had a nice trained pig,
And John some steers that would go big.
And when we all prepared to go,
Pa would say: "We've got some show."
He and ma and little Pat
Would go in the brand new democrat.

And the rest of us would squeeze in tight
In the old two-seater—to our delight.
O, the sights we'd see and the friends we'd greet!
No one could say it wasn't a treat
To go three days and get your fill.
Those were the times we'd get a thrill,
A merry-go-round for young and old,
A striking machine for the strong and bold.

Old Jim Shaw would advertise
Beans baked in the ground—and O, my eyes!
The lemonade to quench our thirst—
And we'd eat hot dogs 'till nigh to burst,
And never a horse trot since those days
Could equal that one in many ways.
Queer gambling devices, too, were there,
To fleece some goat at the County Fair.

Floral Hall was the big show place,
Pianos and organs the front did grace,
And pinned 'round the wall and overhead
Were rugs and quilts and shams and spread—
I've been to many a Fair since then,
Heard lectures and speeches by noted men,
But was never thrilled, I do declare,
Like the olden time at our County Fair.

Iva H. Drew, in Concord Daily Monitor.

Tadousac

Steadfast as rocks that tower through cloudy space
To bastions high above the sombre bay,
Led by the Virgin of Saguenay
Came men whom ages honour in this place;
They left the sheltered cloister, yet could face
Rude strongholds on the Huron waterway,
Enduring fiery dooms that Love might sway
One heart among a dark barbaric race.

Beneath the mountain peaks that glow and change,
In battles for the dream which shall not fail
These warriors fell to save the Northern land;
But, past the reaches of the loftiest range
Where lives that conquered life and death prevail,
Heroes on heights invisible they stand.

What promises to be an important event in Vermont marble fields is the discovery of a large deposit of pure white statuary marble in the quarries at Middlebury. Sixty years ago there was a small deposit of this stone worked in Middlebury and so famous did the stone become that nearly all the prominent sculptors of that day used the marble. After a time the vein was lost and after many efforts to find it again the owners of the quarry were obliged to give up the search.

The numbers of gray squirrels about the village are attracting a great deal of attention, as this is the first year that they have made their apearance in the village streets seemingly without fear. Squirrels may be seen in the maple and elm trees on Prospect street, and on Fourth street, at almost any time and they frequently leave the trees and run across the roads where the school children have great oy in chasing them.

One boy had a squirrel cornered by a fence and was about to grab it and claim it as his own, when to the boy's surprise, it turned and bit him on the index finger, causing the boy to drop the squirrel.

ASHEVILLE TELEGRAMS THROW DOUBT ON IDENTIFICATION OF WM. RIORDAN

Dispatches from Hartford through the Associated Press Friday stating that fingerprint evidence exchanged between the New York and Hartford police authorities identified a man under arrest in New York as William Riordan of this city had a big element of doubt thrown into them when telegrams were received here Friday afternoon from Riodan at Asheville, N. C.

The man whom the New York police are holding gave his name as Paul Jeffries, 19, alias Paul Gibbons of 137 Henry street, Brooklyn, N. Y., and is charged with beating Miss Cordie Harvey of Baltimore, Md., in the Hotel Martinique and robbery of $1,500 in money and jewelry which she had on her person. He was arrested Sept. 14th with another man named Edward Kelly who took part in the assault and robbery.

Miss Harvey was registered at the hotel where she met the man known as Jeffries, who invited her to attend the theatre with him and some married friends. He told her that she had impressed him as being a fellow stranger in New York, and persuaded her to accompany him to a room at the hotel to meet the married couple with whom they would atend the theatre. When she entered the room, Miss Harvey was set upon by Jeffries and a confederate and badly beaten, and stripped of her money and valuables. Several days later while walking with detectives down Broadway, Miss Harvey pointed out Jeffries and another man as her assailants and the two men were arrested.

Relatives Telegraph to Riodan

Early this week the name of Riordan began to be brought into the case locally and an inquiry was received from the New York police by the local police department, asking for his record finger prints. The answer was sent that he had no police record here.

Local relatives of the young man believed that he was employed at the George Vanderbilt hotel in Asheville, N. C., and wrote to him there telling him of the reports they had heard about the New York hotel attack.

Friday afternoon the following telegram was received by his sister:

Asheville, N. C., 3:40 p. m., Sept. 30—
Mrs. Herbert B. Ring,
16 Laurel Hill Ave.,
Norwich, Conn.

Both letters received. I will leave here Tuesday or Wednesday, making the trip by auto so expect me home Friday.

BILL.

As soon as young Riordan's brother-in-law, Herbert E. Ring, heard of the fingerprint report Friday afternoon, he wired to Riordan and the hotel management as follows:

Manager George VCanderbilt Hotel,
Asheville, N. C.

Kindly advise if Wm. Riordan is still in your employ. Wire collect.

Say Not Riordan's Picture

UNITED WORKERS MAKING DISTRICT VISITATION APPEAL

As the annual district visitation for the benefit of the United Workers is now going on, the organization thinks it well to remind the people of Norwich how valuable is their support to the work, begun in a quiet way fifty years ago, which has grown so much that the upkeep of the six departments with three large buildings requires an income larger than is realized from the generous bequests received during the past years.

The United Workers make the following appeal:

"That this may not be the work of a dead past, but of a living present, we ask for voluntary contributions from old and young to meet the demands, which while great are no more than should be expected for so large an enterprise as this has become. We hope that our people will look upon it as their own work, will take an individual interest in it, and feel that it is a privilege to have a part in its support.

"It hardly seems necessary to make an appeal for children who need care which, for many reasons can not be given them in homes of their own, but which the Rock Nook Home provides. This work speaks for itself to sympathising hearts.

"Must we plead for older ones, reaching a time of life and state of health when care is needed that they cannot give themselves, but which they find The Sheltering Arms?

"Also we should gladly extend a helping hand to many, struggling to maintain themselves and their families, handicapped by illness or unemployment; this help we can give through the family welfare department. The public health nursing and psychiatric departments cover a wide field, not only for the poor but for any in need of their services.

"Through the club work, girls large and small are taught sewing and cooking, while they unconsciously receive instruction in the principles of Americanisation, training them to be good citizens.

"The Adam Reid Worthy Poor fund, and the Nellie Dean Fuller Memorial Fund render assistance to those who, although not absolutely in want, and who rarely ask for aid, through some tragic circumstance must have immediate help in the preservation of their families.

"The United Workers is charitable in the largest sense, it is a labor of love. In cases of greatest need its services are freely given; in all departments, however, those who can pay, do so according to their means, thus preserving their independence and selfrespect.

"Why then do the United Workers require more money? Because the amount received from board and services, combnied with the income from investments, is not sufficient for its needs under present day conditions, and no department should be neglected.

"Therefore again we appeal to the citizens of Norwich to show their appreciation of the organization in their midst, to take an active part in its support, because it is an opportunity for the strong to bear the burdens of the weak, an opportunity for those who are well able, to give of the abundance which they enjoy."

HIT AND RUN DRIVER LEAVES MAN UNCONSCIOUS

A victim of a hit and run driver, a man about 40, said to be Jack Vargo, address unknown, is unconscious at the W. W. Backus hospital. The man was found on the New London highway, just below the city line, about 11 o'clock Friday night and was taken to the hospital by a passing autoist.

About the same time police headquarters was notified by telephone that a man was in the road badly injured and the police patrol was rushed to the scene to convey the man to the hospital. When the patrol arrived it was learned that an automobile had picked the man up and taken him to the hospital. Early this (Saturday) morning the man was reported as still unconscious.

DECISION RESERVED IN FOUR DIVORCE SUITS

After dinner, he sat down and read his paper. Then he turned on the radio and fell into slumber. When he woke up there were three bullets in his body and his wife stood over him with a smoking revolver in her hand. This was the experience told to Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court at New London Friday, by Thomas M. Bamford of Hanover as he testified in his divorce action against Beatrice M. NORWICH TOWN

Wednesday dawned bright and clear for the annual Social Corner picnic held on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver (Auntie No. 1) Huntington Green, Norwich Town. About two weeks previous, Mrs. Weaver through the Bulletin Corner page, extended a general invitation to members including all S. C. clubs, an assemblage of 200 responding. This was the 12th picnic held at the Weaver home, these social occasions never having had to be postponed because of weather conditions. Although second to that of last year, the gathering was not quite as large. The popularity of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver among their friends and neighbors, is evidenced by the fact that they still hold the honor of entertaining the largest number at a gathering of this kind. Many who attended the picnic Wednesday had not met since the previous one September 15th, 1926, and there were many cordial handclasps. The first arrivals were on hand at an early hour, others coming at intervals until as late as two o'clock. Those who came late were enroute for home following vacation, stopping over while passing through Norwich Town, to enter for a brief period into the sociability, which prevailed throughout the entire day. With but one exception, that of No. 3, Lebanon, every Social Corner club was represented. There were: No. 1, Willimantic; No. 2 Norwich; No. 4, Killingly; No. 5, Norwich; No. 6, Shore Line. Including the several guests present, those attending represented the following various localities in Connecticut: Hartford, Southington, New Britain, Willimantic, Windham, North Windham, Brooklyn, Putnam, Scotland, Moosup, Jewett City, Baltic, Versailles, Plainfield, Sterling, Killingly, North Franklin, Fitchville, Yantic, Norwich, Poquetanuck, North Stonington, Mystic, New London, also Pleasure Beach and Westerly, R. I., and Detroit, Michigan.

Preceding the dinner at noon, at the request of the hostess, Dr. Charles H. Lamb as leader, invited the company to unite in singing the Doxology. Rev. Albert E. Whitten, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, who with his family were among the special guests, said grace. This was followed by the delicious menu, which consisted of baked-beans, salads, relishes, pickles, sandwiches of all kinds, macaroni, cheese, a variety of delicious cake, apple, mince, lemon and pineapple pie, doughnuts and coffee. Mrs. Weaver was assisted in serving by the following: Mrs. Charles Browning, Mrs. William R. Dennison, Mrs. James Ringland, Mrs. Everett Rogers, Mrs. Howard Smith, Mrs. William Green, Mrs. Frank Lathrop, Mrs. Henry Kendell, Mrs. Fred Irons, Mrs. Arthur Fulton, Mrs. George Adams, Mrs. Everett Maurice, also Miss Annie Ward and others.

During the hours of sociability that brought the 1927 picnic to a close as the company gradually disbanded, many took advantage of the opportunity of visiting Mr. Weaver's flower gardens, a number of beautiful bouquets of varigated asters being carried away.

In behalf of the Social Corner, Mrs. Henry Henry Kendell presented Mrs. Weaver a gift of about $15.

When the Woman's Congregational home missionary union of Connecticut convenes for its fall meeting, on Tuesday, October 4th, at the First Church of Christ, New London, the American Board cooperating with New London and Windham association, those from the Norwich Town Congregational church who are planning to attend include the pastor Rev. GREAT OVATION FOR THE PRESIDENT OF GERMANY

Police Officials in Berlin Estimate That Not Less Than 1,000,000 Persons Applauded Von Hindenburg During His Twelve Mile Drive—40,000 Singing School Children Were Among the Great Throng in Vast Amphitheatre, to Celebrate the President's 80th Birthday.

BERLIN, Oct. 2—(AP)—Von Hindenburg was first in the hearts of his countrymen today as never before, not since William I. led the German armies through the Brandenburger gate in 1871, on their return from the Franco-Prussian war, has Berlin witnessed an ovation like that showered on Paul von Hindenburg today in celebration of his 80th birthday.

It was primarily a tribute to von Hindenburg, the man, that found an outlet in the veritable drumfire cheering which echoed and re-echoed along the route which he traversed, but its political significance is set down as a tangible asset to the German republic, for the president's natal day was the signal for a political truce in which his services to the new Germany found free acknowledgment from friend and foe alike, with the colors of the republic predominating in the display of bunting throughout the city.

Veteran police officials were inclined to estimate the turnout which applauded the president on a 12-mile drive to the stadium today at not less than one million while another hundred thousand greeted him in the huge amphitheater, among whom were 40,000 singing school children.

The president began his crowded birthday celebration by attending a harvest thanksgiving in his favorite church, a modest chapel in the heart of the city, where the preacher took his text from 11 Corinthian IX-6—

"But this I say, he which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully."

At noon he received a dozen official deputations led by Chancellor Marx and the members of the cabinet. Mgr. Pacelli, papal nuncia, conveyed felicitations from the diplomatic corps, which were inscribed on parchment and signed by the president of foreign diplomatic representatives.

The president's reply to Chancellor Marx, who voiced greetings in behalf of the government and German people and eulogized the president's devotion to duty and Christian citizenship, was a fervent plea for national unity and reconciliation with the new order of things in Germany.

"It is my fondest hope to see our people united," he said. "Many Germans, unable to find a connecting link between the past, present and future, are continuing embittered and suspicious towards their neighbors. Despite the diverging viewpoints and interests, it should not be so difficult to find a means of uniting in thought common to the fatherland, connecting all with the land of our forefathers."

Accompanied by the chancellor, the president proceeded to the stadium by automobile, and it was this drive that contributed the culmination to the two-day birthday celebration because of the vociferous manifestations and acclaim from the masses who flanked the route.

MONSTER HINDENBURG CELEBRATION IN VIENNA

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 2—(AP)—Seventy-five thousand pan-Germans held a monster demonstration in front of the old royal palace today in favor of Austria's union with Germany.

The ostensible purpose of the gathering was to celebrate the 80th birthday of the German president, Paul von Hindenburg, but, as it developed, the intention was to emphasize Austria's kinship with Germany and Austria's right to self determination.

The government was not officially represented at the gathering, but members of the pan-German party in parliament were present. The assembly took on a religious aspect when a large altar was erected in the great quadrangle in front of the palace and a field mass was solemnly celebrated, while the crowd knelt.

Led by a professional male choir, the participants, who included many Austrian ex-soldiers, sang the German national anthem and German battle hymns. Sympathetic throngs of onlookers joined vociferously in the chorus, waving banners and battlescarred standards, and crying "Long live Germany! Long live von Hindenburg!"

Count Lerchenfeld, German minister to Austria, responded to repeated calls from the crowds for a German spokesman by reciprocating Austria's aspirations and declaring that Germany always would welcome her sister state into the new federated Teutonic realm.

MAN WAS CRUSHED IN COAL POCKETS OF VESSEL

PORTLAND, Maine, Oct. 3—(AP)—A tale of 20 men struggling to save the life of a shipmate in the coal bunkers of the steamer Eastern Temple bound from Hampton Roads for Portland, was told tonight when the body of Garey C. Patrick was brought ashore in a small harbor launch.

The victim of the tragedy, who was crushed in the coal pockets of the vessel on the night of September 30, was 32 years old, single and came from Tampa, Fla. He was making his first trip to sea.

Patrick was standing his watch Friday night about a day out of Hampton Roads, and with two other shipmates, was shoveling coal from the bunkers to the fire room when a section of the bunkers on which he was working caved, completely burying him under the coal.

All hands with the exception of the men on watch were ordered below decks to assist in the job of extradiling. Manned with shovels, picks and bars 20 men worked frantically for 15 minutes shoveling coal to uncover their buried sulpmate. They found him crushed and lifeless.

Instead of the old time burial at sea, the body was packed heavily in ice until the arrival of the ship in port tonight. The body was placed in charge of a local undertaker to await word from relatives.

Fire Caused Death of Five of Family

All Were Suffocated in Third Floor Rooms of a House in Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A fire in the Chinese section of the city early today caused the death of five members of one family. Peter Hamaty, his wife Alice, and their three children, Libby, 4, Lillian, one year old, and Aleck, an infant, were suffocated intheir rooms on the third floor of a four-story building.

Mrs. Hamaty's brother, Toppil Seaydy of Lawrence, was burned severely about the head and body before firemen rescued him from a third floor window. At the City hospital his condition was said to be serious.

Arthur Mamary, another occupant of the third floor, jumped to the street before an alarm had been sounded. Although he suffered numerous cuts and bruises he made his way to the nearest fire-alarm box and tried to pull the hook but failed.

He called for help but the streets were deserted and persons in nearby houses were asleep. He renewed his frantic attempts to manupulate the mechanism in the box but to no avail. Meantime Mrs. Dean Lawson, who lived on the second floor of the burning building was awakened by the flames which burst into her bedroom. She aroused her husband, mother and young daughter and they made their way down a fire escape.

Mrs. Lawson ran to the alarm box but she was also unable to pull the hook. As she reached for it she was overcome by the excitement and collapsed. Several minutes more were lost before the alarm was finally sounded by Joseph Donovan, a teamster, on his way home from work. Before the firemen arrived Eugene Peckham, who lived on the fourth floor, saved his wife and four children. The stairs had fallen and Peckham thought the fire escape too dangerous because of the heat and flames from lower windows so he swung himself to the window of another building. His wife held the children out to him one by one and he swung them across to safety finally lifting his wife across the gap between the two windows.

The Hamaty family apparently had not been awakened until it was too late. Firemen found the bodies of the father and two children in bed and Mrs. Hamaty, wiht the baby clasped in her arms, was found on the floor in the kitchen where she slept, near her bed, indicating that she tried to escape but was overcome by the smoke.

The fire started in the hall on the first floor but the cause was unknown. Officials of the fire department estimated that the loss would amount to $5,000. Firemen expressed the opinion that but for the delay in sounding the alarm the Hamaty family would have been saved.

BISHOP'S PASTURAL LETTER ON THE SANCTITY OF OATHS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A keen controversy has arisen in Ireland over the bishop's pastoral letter, insisting on the sanctity of oaths, which was read in all Catholic churches today.

The question debated is whether the letter is meant to apply to happenings in connection with the Dail Eireann when Eamon De Valera and other Fianna fail deputies took the oath and their seats after deciding to regard the oath as an empty formality.

It is believed by many that the letter is intended to apply to perjury which has become a disquieting feature in the law courts and that the pastoral letter was drafted before De Valera and his followers took office.

Bishop McCory of Down and Connor, said today that the pastoral letter might be taken as it stands and that nothing can be added to, or substracted from it.

TERRIFIC HEAT CAUSED GREAT RUSH FOR BEACHES

There Was More Traffic on the State Roads Sunday Than There Has Been Any October Sunday For Several Years —Water Was Cool, But None Too Cold For the Bathers —New Haven Reported Temperature of 86 at 2 P. M.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 2—(AP)—Connecticut today experienced an October Sunday marked by terrific heat which drove thousands of persons to the beaches for a dip in the cool waters and thousands of others into the country in search of a cool spot of greensward.

Only yesterday, the bathing season was officially closed at Lighthouse Point park, the municipal beach of this city and the 2,000 bathing suits were packed away. The demand for bath houses was so great today, that the park authorities were finally compelled to open about 500 houses for those persons who had brought their own bathing suits.

At Savin Rock park, the concessionaires who had wisely figured that warm weather was on its way, did a land-office business and those stand-owners who had closed their places, Labor day, made heroic attempts to gather enough stock for another day's business.

Hammonasset park held one of the largest crowds of the year. The roads leading to the park were jammed with automobiles, especially through Madison near the railroad underpass traffic was at a stand-still for long periods. Everyone that had a bathing suit was in the water which, although cool, was none too cold for the bathers.

There was probably more traffic on the state roads today than there has been on any October Sunday for several years. The Milford turnpike took on the appearance of a long wriggling caterpillar from the number of cars and their close proximity to each other.

At 2 p. m., this afternoon, the thermometer in the United States weather bureau station atop the federal building registered 86. Weather bureau officials declared that it was the highest point to which the mercury had ever risen on October 2 in the history of the bureau. On the streets, the thermometers registered several degrees higher than that figure.

In Danbury, unofficial figures gave the temperature as between 85 and 90 for the greater part of the day and in Bristol, the temperature was about the same.

JUMP FROM WINDOW RESULTED IN DEATH

WATERBURY, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary O'Connor, 50, wife of Thomas O'Connor, of 86 Cables avenue, died in St. Mary's hospital tonight of injuries suffered when she jumped from the window of her room on the third floor of her home at 9 o'clock this morning. Medical Examiner Dr. A. A. Crane pronounced death as suidical due to dementia.

Mrs. O'Connor was the mother of James J. O'Connor, 30, who died in St. Mary's hospital on September 8 of injuries suffered earlier on the same day when he either fell or jumped in front of a United States mail truck on Bank street here. Coroner John T. Monzani has not yet issued a finding on young O'Connor's death.

Mrs. O'Connor had been extremely despondent and worried since the time of her son's death which is believed to have aggravated an unsettled mental condition. She had been in the care of a nurse and jumped from the window when the nurse left the room to prepare breakfast for herself and patient. The nurse heard the fall and went outside to find the woman on the ground, calling loudly for her son, James.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—One man was shot and killed and another wounded in Greenwich village early today by an assailant who escaped in an automobile from which a volley of shots were fired.

FRENCH TARIFF NOTE IS IN CONCILIATORY SPIRIT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Study of the latest French note on tariffs over the week end has satisfied administration officials that it was written in a conciliatory spirit and contains a possible basis for adjustment of the difficulties between the two countries.

The French government called attention to section 315 of the American tariff act which is the flexible, or equalization, provision. Under it, the president may raise or lower statutory duties in case investigations show that costs of production of any commodity abroad require such action in order to make the American rate represent correctly an equalization of production costs as compared to similar home products.

At a table were three judges, Douglas McDonald, George Marks and Alfred Balerstine. At first, ten cups of coffee were brought to each man. Mother!

Child Gets Sick, Cross, Feverish if Constipated

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Fig Syrup" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, "fruity laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing." Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by "The California Fig Syrup Company."

POMFRET MAN ARRESTED FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Oct. 2—Having spent last night in the police station here, following a raid by state officers from the Danielson barracks at his Hamlet farm in the town of Pomfret, Annaiable Diani was taken back to the neighboring town this afternoon for a Sunday session of a justice's court at which he was to face charges of selling intoxicants and keeping with intent to sell.

Diani's place has been under surveillance for a long time. Last night's raid netted what might be described as an armful of the things that men drink in these prohibition days in developing a mussed up feeling. The haul included a still, in actual operation, producing "apple jack," this still of 4 1-2 gallons capacity. There were also 12 quarts of cider brandy, another name under which "apple jack" is known, two quarts of prune brandy, 608 bottles of beer, 39 bottles of dandelion wine and 25 gallons of elderberry wine, indicating that the six customers who were in the place when the officers arrived and took charge of affairs were facing more or less of a capacity job if all of this so-called entertainment had been prepared for their special benefit.

KEEN BATTLE EXPECTED IN TOWN ELECTION TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Oct. 2—All-excepting some of the candidates who would like a little more time to interview prospective supporters—was ready this afternoon for the annual town election on Monday, with the polls opening in the town hall building here at 8 a. m. and remaining open until 3 p. m., following which the annual business meeting of the town is to be held.

There is little to report this morning beyond what already has been written about the outstanding features of this annual October voting contest. It may be reiterated, however, that the battle for places on the board of selectmen is to be a cut and slash affair, with no quarter shown, and the democrats are asserting, evidently with confidence, that they are going to elect A. D. Sayles of East Killingly as first selectman this year. And it may be set down here that the republicans do not believe a word of it. Nevertheless the Sayles drive has awakened the republicans to real activity in behalf of First Selectman John A. Gilbert, the party's candidate for re-election. It should be a pretty battle of ballots, with the probable winners—Gilbert and Gingras, republicans and present members of the board, and A. D. Sayles, democrat, who has worked for many weeks with personal visitations and solicitations to win back his place on a board of which he has been a member for many years. John Ryan, Dayville, democratic candidate for selectman, is also in the running, and his supporters might turn in a surprise when the votes are counted.

FORMER NEW YORK POLICE OFFICER DIES AT PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 2—Last night George F. Bartholomew, 79, died at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, where he was taken after he became desperately ill on the street here one day last week while attempting to drive his automobile from the business section back to his home. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker A. F. Wood and conveyed to the Bartholomew home on Day street, West Side.

Mr. Bartholomew for 20 years was a member of the police department of the city of New York and came here after his retirement, being a resident on Day street, within the town of Brooklyn, for the past 16 years. He was particularly interested in poultry raising and in honey bees. Mr. Bartholomew, driving a spirited horse, an indulgence of which he was particularly fond, or, in later years, a light automobile was a familiar figure in Danielson.

He was born in Whitehall, N. Y., June 11, 1848, a son of Benjamin Franklin and Paulina Fish Bartholomew. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Iola Bartholomew, and two daughters Kathleen I. Bartholomew and Mrs. Florence O'Neil, all of Crestwood, N. Y.

This afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson on Stearns Hill, funeral services for Henry E. Burton were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church, where Mr. Burton had been secretary and treasurer of the Sunday school for many years, assisted by Rev. William Swainson, pastor of the Congregational church at Dayville. The service was attended by a delegation of members of Orient lodge, K. of P., of which Mr. Burton had been a member for years. Burial was in Westfield cemetery, where the K. of P. ritualistic service was conducted, as prelate, by Rev. Mr. Swainson. The bearers were all members of Orient lodge—Francis Trudon, Marion Young, Alton Eldridge, Arthur Barnard, Donald Armington and Eric Gilbert. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements. There were many beautiful floral pieces.

Saturday at noon at the home of his son, Winfield, on Maple street, funeral services for William A. Colwell were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Charles A. Downs of Goodyear. The body was taken to Taunton, Mass., for burial in Mayflower cemetery. Relatives acted as bearers. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

On Saturday at the home of Mrs. Oscar Jencks in Foster, funeral services for Robert Turner were conducted by Rev. Mr. McDougal of the Moosup Valley Baptist church. Burial was in the Jencks family cemetery. Relatives acted as bearers. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

A period of Forty Hours devotion opened at St. James' church this morning at the high mass. Visiting priests from eastern Connecticut parishes and more distant points are in attendance at this period of service, which is continuing through Monday and will be concluded Tuesday morning, hundreds of parishioners meanwhile receiving communion.

The Forty Hours devotion was instituted in Milan, Italy, in the 16th century—in 1534, to be exact, as explained at the masses this morning—as a solemn means of suplication, commemorating the forty hours that the body of Christ remained in the sepulchre after crucifixion, and in expiation of the sins of the unfaithful members of the Roman Catholic church, the wanderers from the fold. The custom spread throughout Italy, and eventually throughout the Catholic world, and is now an endless devotion, being taken up in one parish of a diocese just before it is concluded in some other.

In a justice's court in Hampton on Saturday Charles L. Kettlety, Jr., driver of the New England motor coach that went off the highway at the curve at the foot of Hampton hill a week ago tonight, injuring one passenger and shaking up all the others aboard the big machine, was fined $25 and costs on a reckless driving charge, the fine being remitted. After the accident Kettlety was placed under arrest by State Police Officer James Carmody and brought to the state police barracks here, later being released on bail.

Sweltering humanity fumed, and fussed this afternoon on the second day of an extraordinary fall heat wave and wondered just why long distance weather prophets do not tell people, in advance, about such happenings and let them get their panaceas for such a happening together. But things do not happen that way, long distance forecasting being the hoax that it is.

However, it may be set down that it was almighty hot in Danielson today. A recorder hopes that no one will record as official or question the accuracy of thermometers that registered as high as 110 degrees in the sun this afternoon, while scores of instruments said that it was anywhere from 94 to 105. The farmers who have risked frost damage by not cutting their corn and awaiting just such a spell of weather as this were smiling tonight over the extra tons of fodder that will be stored in their barns soon after they start cutting in a few days.

Misses Elizabeth Dunn and Gertrude Stone of the operating force at the central telephone office here, left today on a vacation trip that will take them to Maine.

Electric energy will be shut off from 12:05 to 12.20 p. m., Monday afternoon, October 3. This applies to Danielson, Goodyear, Dayville, Attawaugan, Pineville, Ballouville, Elmville, East Killingly, Wauregan, Brooklyn and Hampton.—Adv.

Bathing suits were resurrected from their winter quarters this afternoon by many who felt that, with thermometers registering 100 degrees, a plunge in the cooling waters of some nearby lake was not such a hazard.

Miss Ruth Spencer of Hartford spent the week end at her home in Danielson.

Next Saturday, October 8, brings the opening of the hunting season for protected game birds.

Along water courses and in low-lying places a riot of color forecasts the approach of fall, though this week should bring greater foliage glories for the lovers of nature.

World's series fans hereabouts find that getting tickets even for a single game in New York is anything but an easy matter, so the attendance representing Danielson will be practically nil.

On the eve of the annual town election, some candidaes for office put in a busy day mending fences and seeking new supporters today, while others rested on their oars, as it were, and awaited the result of Monday's voting.

Broadcasting from New York, a radio announcer, describing ideal routes into New England stressed the fact that the No. 3, running across the state is an excellent one and is a favorite one, and his mention of Danielson as on that route did not do this community a bit of harm. It was good advertising for the borough.

This week brings the opening of the football season in Danielson, with Killingly high school's team meeting Plainfield high school here in the opener.

Invitations have been issued for a husking bee to be held at the Mason homestead in East Killingly on Saturday, October 15.

Within the next few days the state motor vehicle department will begin to issue to motor vehicle owners here forms on which applications may be made for 1928 registrations, this being of special interest to those who wish to retain their present registration numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman M. Coulter and daughter, Jane, of New Bedford were week end visitors with relatives here. Mr. Coulter, still with the company at New Bedford in the same capacity, formerly was assistant treasurer of the Goodyear Mills, Inc., of this town.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Young and four children and Mrs. Anne Foley of New Haven spent the week end with relatives in Danielson.

Mrs. M. V. Woodworth remains seriously ill at her home on Hawkins street, though her condition was reported as slightly more favorable a

Following the war he engaged in the real estate business; he owned for a time the site of the property where the Putnam Savings bank is located and he built the armory on Livery street.

GET OUT AND VOTE TODAY

Today is town election day. There are officials to be elected who will serve for the next two years and who, during that time, will direct the affairs of the town in its various departments. This means that the election is of importance to every voter and sufficient interest should be displayed by them women as well as men to get out to the polls and participate in the choice.

Norwich has been experiencing the benefit of a good administration of town affairs. This must be apparent to the voters in general regardless of party and when that situation is realized it is time for the voters to insist upon the retention of those officials who are responsible for it. Inasmuch as they have been renominated by the republicans in caucus the opportunity is presented today to retain their services by voting the republican ticket as printed above.

All are well known and experienced officials. They are closely in touch with their respective duties and prepared to continue that excellent service which they have rendered in the past.

Election day is the time for making public acknowledgment of their good work by going to the polls and voting them into office again. Don't get the idea that it is a matter that can be safely left to the ballots of a few. There is a duty involved for the many. All are stockholders in this big town corporation and everyone who has a voice should be desirous of making it heard. There may be times when one can safely cast the votes of the many but such should not be the case on election day.

The expression is frequently heard that "one vote makes no difference." That might be true if that was the only case of indifference, if that was the only apathetic person. The great trouble is that it gets to represent the sentiment of too many individuals whose votes mean much on election day. There should be at all times a healthy interest in getting the best possible government and the voters should get out today in large numbers and give the heartiest possible endorsement to the town government of the past two years by insisting upon its retention for two years more.

Get out and vote, and vote as early as possible.

ST. LOUIS' TORNADO

Widespread sympathy will be felt for St. Louis and vicinity for the lives that were lost and the property that was destroyed in the tornado. That city has gone through a previous experience of a similar nature, but so have other sections in that region, and yet they are quickly changed to wreckage within the path of a new storm.

St. Louis faces no small task in handling the situation but it is gratifying that its seriousness is not such but what the city can deal with it without outside aid, although such would be ready in case of need. This coming after the flood accentuates the troubles in the Mississippi valley this year.

Only those who have been through the experience can appreciate the difficulties in trying to escape a tornado or its effects. Those wind swept states where bad windstorms come in all degrees of severity have been forced to give serious thought to construction as a means of protecting property and through such construction offer the best possible protection to human life. Cities have been built with the possibilities of windstorms or tornadoes in mind and yet even though St. Louis had gone through a similar experience years ago the buildings were blown to pieces, ripped open and deroofed by the twister quite as if no attention had been given to prevention.

This new disaster will mean a revival of interest in a type of construction that will offer the best resistance to tornadoes. It can be expected that there will be more storms. When they will come no one knows, but in the general course of events in the future, even as in the past, they will develop to raise havoc wherever possible and especially where there is the least preparedness.

The helplessness of the people of a city under such conditions is appalling. Experience has taught some cities that dugouts are the best means of safety in case of cyclones or twisters and could the people of St. Louis have gotten the benefit of such protection less lives might have been lost while the buildings were being torn asunder and the streets filled with destruction.

PROPERLY FOCUSED LIGHTS

In the neighboring state of Massachusetts a campaign has been underway in behalf of better brakes on automobiles, or the putting of brakes in proper condition, with the result that the registrar of motor vehicle reports "a wonderful improvement and a reduction in the number of accidents."

Following closely on the heels of that accomplishment the registrar has given orders for a drive on automobile headlights. He points out that every owner has been given plenty of opportunity to see that his headlights are in proper condition and now that we are back on standard time and autos are driven for a longer period in darkness it is only right that the headlights should be up to requirements.

Insisting upon fit headlights and properly adjusted lights is a move in the right direction to prevent much highway uncertainty and trouble. Due allowance may be made for those cases of real trouble with lights while out on the road, but there are too many of the headlights which still make driving dangerous for the drivers going in the opposite direction.

The glare may have been removed, the lenses which comply with the law may be used, the lights may be none too strong if they were headed down to the road, but the great trouble lies in the fact that such focusing is not done. The rays from the lights of automobiles show a surprising number which are spreading their light everywhere but where they should be concentrated. There are those which are aimed at the trees above, some which are shooting straight out in front and still others where one light is pointed upward and the other downward. Then there are not a few where only one headlight is doing duty.

It is not impossible for lights to get out of focus or adjustment. That may well be taken into consideration but it only emphasizes the need for giving more frequent attention to this possibility. There is no harm from plenty of light on the highways if all the restrictions are complied with and the lights are properly focused.

STUDYING CRIME

Crime has been studied from all kinds of angles, even as the means of prevention and the proper method of punishment, but it is too often the case that studies which are made in one locality, or state, are carried on along different lines, so that when attempts are made to compare statistics they do not fairly represent the respective situations.

It is the purpose of the National Crime commission, at its meeting in Washington this month, to start the collection of reliable crime statistics for the whole country. This, it is figured, will call for an outlay of about a million and a quarter, but it is believed that it will justify such an expense if all crime studied can be made from a similar basis.

It is perfectly evident that if the study of crime as carried on in Connecticut is different from that in New York or Rhode Island, it isn't going to be of much use to attempt to compare the statistics of these states. Could they be based upon the same facts there would be much value attached to them in all of the states as disclosing what results were being obtained in the various commonwealths. It is desirable that lessons should be drawn from crime statistics, but lack of uniformity, dissimilar methods or studies made from different angles stand in the way of it.

It isn't to be supposed that crime conditions are going to be found to be exactly the same in one state as they are in another, to be the same in a small city that they are in a large one, but it will be of highly valuable service to states and cities if the crime statistics of the country can be assembled according to one scheme whereby students and officials would not be forced to resort to guesswork in reaching their conclusions.

Fighting crime with the idea of public protection and crime prevention deserves every possible encouragement and an ambitious undertaknig has been shouldered by the crime commission.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Keep olive oil in the refrigerator.

Lingerie clasps may be made at home by attaching little rosettes of ribbon to tiny safety pins.

A large star cut from crazy-quilt chintz decorates a circular porch cushion of plain linen.

A cork fitted in the spout of the coffee pot will hasten boiling.

For insects bites, or burns, apply a paste of baking soda and water.

Bacon is delicious escalloped with tomatoes, spaghetti and crumbs.

Serve hot bouillon with the summer dinner to hasten digestion.

Add a pinch of cream of tartar to egg whites after whipping to keep them from falling.

To remove paint from any kind of dress goods, rub with chloroform.

You are wasting gas by leaving it turned high after the contents of a kettle begin to boil.

Oblong pillows of chintz, with a pleated ruffle, are very decorative.

Leave a half-inch space for water at the top of each jar when preserving fruits and vegetables.

Add a few raisins when making apple pies, for a change in flavor.

Utilize the sewing machine hemmer to fold hems on napkins before sewing them by hand.

Polish black combs and brushes with olive oil after washing them.

A piece of chamois that has been dampened makes an excellent duster. It makes furniture look like new.

Canned fruits that have turned acid may be restored by scalding up with additional sugar, or by adding some sugar, a little vinegar and a few whole cloves.

When sealing fruit butters or preserves, place a circle of thin cloth on top and sprinkle this with ground cinnamon. The spice prevents mold from accumulating on the fruit.

PAINT SPOTS

Obstinate paint spots on windows may be removed by scraping with an old razor blade and then washing with water in which there is a little ammonia. The most stubborn paint spots on clothing or other fabric will yield to turpentine mixed with ammonia and rubbed into the area to be cleansed.

COMBINATION FLUFF

Try this some time when you want a meatless meal: One cup rice, three large tomatoes, one small onion, two sweet green peppers, two eggs. Boil rice 20 minutes in three quarts of slightly salted water; drain, and when it has cooled, beat in the yolks of the eggs. Add the tomatoes, peppers and onions chopped fine and one cup the water in which the rice was cooked. Lastly fold in the whites of the eggs whipped very stiff and bake in a slow oven three-quarters of an hour.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Ordinary cornmeal can be used as beauty grains with excellent results. It is simply mixed with warm water when washing the hands, and its purpose is to cleanse and to soften the skin.

Iodine is supplied to the system by eating fish, particularly from salt water. Oysters, clams and other sea foods are among the best known sources of iodine in common foods.

When the youngster is convalescing from a contagious disease an interesting form of amusement is to place him at the window with a pencil and paper and get him to write the names of objects he sees, dividing them into groups, such as colors one day, flowers and trees the next day, parts of houses the following. He will get a little taste of outside interest in this way and not be quite so lonesome for the other kiddies.

When a hand lotion is to be used regularly day after day it becomes quite an item of expense in milady's budget. She may be tempted to use less than she needs in order to avoid buying so many bottles of it. It is a little timesome and expensive to have to replenish one's supply of this necessary reparation every few weeks, but this difficulty may be overcome by making one's hand lotion oneself in quanties to last a month or more. The ingredients are simple and not costly.

RESTFUL AND SOOTHING

Nothing is more restful or soothing to tired nerves than a bath fragrant with aroma of pine needles. One may buy a box containing six little metal tubes, each filled with a powder that when poured in warm water produce a pine-needle bath similar to those given at famous cures.

COAT FOR RAINY DAYS

A coat that is as light as the proverbial feather and yet ample protection on the rainiest day, is made of a light weight subberized surah silk in a pale beige tone.

KEEPING GARDEN PRODUCE FRESH

If the generous owner of a kitchen garden has presented you with more cauliflowers and cabbages than you can conveniently use at the moment, they may be kept fresh for quite a while in the following way: Take a sharp knife and hollow out a fair-sized depression in the stalk. With a piece of string suspend them stalk uppermost and keep the little cup that you have made in the stalk filled with fresh water.

MOTH PREVENTION

Do not wait for your winter coat to get a hole in its front width before having your other woolens cleaned and packed away from the danger of moths.

GLEAMING SILVER

The good housekeeper cleans her silver regularly once a week and keeps it gleaming so that it will never be necessary to scour it.

HINTS TO REMEMBER

To use the tops of leather boots and old soft gloves (tacked together and cut into shape) for iron holders.

Before storing silver rub it over with a little olive oil. This will prevent it tarnishing, and when wanted it can be washed in warm, soapy water and well dried.

BAKE THEM SLOWLY

Bread puddings should be baked slowly so that the eggs and milk will not curdle.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The polka-dot velvets are most important of the figured velevts.

A rust colored velvet suit has a scarf collar that, left open, hangs on the right side with rippling grace to show its gold lining.

A three-quarter length coat of angora knitted material has much to commend it in the way of chic and becomingness.

Lingerie that is simple and charming is made of printed chiffon in squares of pink and blue. The bindings are of blue.

Distinctly new is a tweed cape that is circular in cut and is lined with cashmere cloth either in the same or in a contrasting one.

Cut steel twinkles alluringly from the scalloped hem of a black chiffon frock and traces diamonds and triangles over the bodice.

A new caracul coat has a stock collar reminiscent of old hunting days and flared sleeves that take one back to the mid-Victorian days.

A set consisting of necklace and two heavy bracelets is made of very yellow gold combined with large Siberian amethysts.

Smoke-gray kitten's ear-fashions a tailleur that reverses conventional styling and has a box-pleated back and only one kick pleat in front.

A crystal pendant is the principal ornament of an exquisite new bracelet made of platinum links held together with crystal and lapis rondules.

Unusual designs in beautifully blended colors are the distinguished features of coats made of the new imported wools and trimmed with semi-sport furs.

The woman who is a bit tired of the ubiquitous silver fox or point fox scarf may choose one of cross fox with complete assurance as to its smartness.

A cloak that serves a decorative as well as useful purpose is exquisitely enameled in shades of lacquer red, green, black and gold and has characteristic motifs.

Printed velevt that is almost as sheer as silk has colorful designs in small conventional patterns. It will be used extensively for both informal and formal costumes this winter.

VOGUES OF BLUES

All blues are destined for a pronounced vogue this season, especially those bordering on the aquamarine tint. Navy is perhaps least important and the preference is given those a bit more brilliant in tone.

WOOL GEORGETTE

A new fabric that will achieve an equal popularity with the wool crepe introduced last season is a lightweight firm textured wool so fine that it is aptly called wool georgette. It is adapted to semi-sport tailored frocks.

DOTTED VELVET

Of outstanding fashion importance in the list of new materials is transparent velvet which shows a new polka dotted design in black and white effects. It is used for simple costumes made on semi-tailored lines.

SEWING HINTS

Black mosquito netting used as a foundation, when darning boys' stockings, will lessen the work.

Sew on buttons with a coarse thread, in half the time is takes when a fine thread is used.

A piece of net, starched and put under a hole in a lace curtain, then pressed with an ion, will hardly be noticed.

Finish the neck of the frock you are making as soon as possible as it may get stretched out of shape with frequent trying-on, and then it will be difficult to give it a neat finish.

After buying underwear work the button holes with heavy thread before wearing them and they will not tear out. This saves time, as it is more work and harder to fix them after they are torn.

PAINTED DRAWER HELPS KEEP LINEN WHITE

Paint color has been found to have a definite effect upon linen. The discovery seems to offer a solution for the long-standing household problem of keeping linen white.

By coating the inside of drawers where linen is kept with blue paint or enamel, the desired end is attained. It has long been the habit of the more fastidious housewives to keep their best linen wrapped in blue paper, but this method, while effective, is decidedly inconvenient.

The painted drawer, however, makes it possible to keep the everyday pieces as well as the finest in tip-top condition. It is a much easier and neater way.

LAST YEAR'S CLOTHES

Clothes that you are not wearing will do someone some good if you pass them along to those who need a little bit of help. Don't keep them thinking you will have them remade, only to find that you have kept them so long they are way out of date and not much use to anyone.

CAN BE USED TWICE

If you wish to save crocheted lace for another pillowcase, try this method when making. Sew strong rick-rack braid on the under side of the hem, letting the points extend below the hem for enough to catch your hook instead of hooking into the pillowcase. Then when the case wears out, rip off the braid and sew onto the new case. The lace will always outwear two pillowcases.

A CLEAN BLOTTER

When taking spots out of a garment with a cleaner that dries quickly, place a clean white blotter under the garment and clean on this. It will absorb both dirt and excess fluid and so prevent spreading further over the garment.

BEGONE, STAINS!

Immerse the ink-stained handkerchief or blouse in milk immediately after the accident and the ink will almost always soak right out.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Numerous women in England are making a success as owners of racing greyhounds.

Nearly 100,000 women in New York city earn their living as stenographers and typewriters.

A woman in St. Louis wants a divorce because her husband "has banged the front door as he went out every blessed morning for six years."

"Some men want to change their wives as they do their socks, but I'm a sticker," declared a woman defendant in a divorce action in London.

Among the women famed in English literature who never married were Harinah More, Jane Austen, Maria Edgeworth, Dorothy Wordsworth, Emily Bronte and Miss Marie Corelli.

Ex-Queen Amelie of Portugal, who is a qualified physician, once took X-ray photographs of the waists of her court ladies to demonstrate the evils of tight lacing.

MEASURING HINT

Dip the cup in water before measuring molasses or thick sirup and the sirup will pour more easily.

BURNT MATCHES

Keep a box near the stove for burnt matches. Wrapped lightly in newspaper they made splendid fire lighters to be used in place of wood.

RECIPES

Honey Raspberry Sherbet: 3 lemons, 1 3-4 cups honey, 1 egg well beaten, 1 1-2 quarts water, 1-2 pint raspberries.

Mix the juice of the lemons, the grated rind of one, the raspberries rubbed through a sieve, and the water, and let stand several hours to blend with honey. Put in a freezer, and when it begins to freeze add stiffly beaten egg white.

Apricot Sherbet: 2 quarts milk, 1 quart apricots, 2 cups honey, 2 cups shredded pineapple.

Either canned or dried apricots may be used. If the latter, they should be soaked over night in enough water to cover, and next day simmered slowly until tender. After removing from the fire, add 1 1-2 cups honey for every 3 cups apricots used, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon and 2 teaspoons le mon juice. If canned apricots are used no additional sweetening need be added to fruit. Put apricots through the food chopper and combined with shredded pineapple, using juice of both. Add the honey to the fruit, then the cold milk, stirring constantly. Freeze.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

One of the most brilliant of American women educators of women is Miss Virginia Gildersleeve, who celebrates her 50th anniversary today. For more than 15 years Miss Gildersleeve has been dean of Barnard college, the women's branch of Columbia university, in New York city. Columbia is very proud of Dean Gildersleeve, as she is a product of the university, having received her scholastic training there, and having earned the highest degree the university can confer on a woman. Miss Gildersleeve believes that a college course is as good for the average woman as it is for the average man. The world is a more interesting place to live in, she holds, for the perso nwho has a university education, be that person a man or a woman.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE LENGTHENS LIFE

By D. W. Basham, M. D., Wichita, Kan.
Member Gorgas Memorial

During the early ages of medicine and even up to the present time the chief function ofthe doctor has been to cure disease. Even in this way medicine and surgery have rendered a most beneficent service to our race. The average of life has been greatly lengthened since, with our increased knowledge, people are saved from early death because of such diseases as appendicitis, diptheria, gall-stones, and many other maladies which, in the early history of medicine, were highly fatal.

This marvelous improvement in the management of diseases is the direct result of discoveries of the causes of disease and the consequent rational treatment carried into effect.

It is now the duty ofthe public to cooperate with the medical profession in the prevention of disease and the promotion of longevity with improvement ofthe race. In short, no one should wait until disease has become established and the harm has been done before seeking relief. The greatest benefit is to be derived from preventive medicine. Therefore, an examination should be made at certain intervals in order that cancer, diabetes, and Bright's disease may be anticipated or discovered in the beginning, the cause removed, and the case treated before irreparable damage has been done.

In the present stage of development medical science has much to offer in the way of prophylaxis, or the prevention of disease.

Through patient research the causes of disease and decay are becoming known. The methods of diagnosis now employed enable the scientific physician to detect the onset of very many of the fatal forms of disease.

Thus, the opportunity for treatment is afforded before irreparable damage has been done to the constituent tissues of the vital organs of the body.

Living in conformity with the well-established scientific principles governing the laws of health, it should be possible to prolong life's period of usefulness and defer the onset of old age far beyond the present average.

The health inventory, or periodic examination, is the first and most indispensable step in this great program of disease prevention and individual health improvement. In this way only shall the physician be enabled to fulfill his highest and most exacting duties to his fellow beings.

Young and manifestly healthy individuals may forego frequent examination, but it's not advisable; and middle-aged persons cannot afford to neglect the complete and scientific health inventory at least once or twice a year.

REALTORS HEAR ADDRESS ON ETHICS OF BUSINESS

Connecticut realtors attending the annual convention of the Connecticut Association of Real Estate Boards, held in New Haven last week, heard a keynote address delivered by Edgar L. Heermance of New Haven, formerly a professor at Yale. Mr. Heermance spoke upon "The Ethics of the Real Estate Business." He said in part;

"During the past 24 years a remarkable change has been taking place in our methods of business here in America and in the attitude and spirit of business men. In this forward movement in American business, the real estate boards have had an honored place. Up to twenty years ago, the real estate business was a free-for-all fight. It was each man for himself and the devil take the hindmost, which he generally did. A competitor was an enemy. You regarded him as a scoundrel and a liar, and he reciprocated your sentiments. You didn't even speak to one another if you could help it. The object of the "game" as it was played in those days, was to steal your competitor's business, and it didn't matter much how you did it. It did not work well for anybody. And so you began to come together in these real estate boards. You began to develop a spirit of sportemanship, of fair play. There are certain things which a good realtor will not do, because it is bad form, it is "hitting below the belt". If a man who has been listing a piece of property with some other agent decides to change and list it with you, that's all fair. But for you to take the initiative and try to get him to change and employ you, is a very diferent thing. No realtor, if he is a gentleman will do that. It's bad sportsmanship. It is "hitting below the belt." "You can't run down another real estate agent, or publicly criticize his service on a particular deal. That again is "hitting below the belt"; it's not playing the game on the square. You wouldn't like to have your competitor slander you. If you have a controversy with another real estate man, it is bad form to take it into the courts. You are expected to abide by the decision of the referee, the arbitration board which has been appointed to see that the game is played according to the rules. The real estate man who is not a good sportsman has no standing in the profession, and never can have.

"Real estate ethics is not merely tradition or sentiment. It is not an extra frill which you might put on, like a dress suit on certain occasions, to make an impression on other people. It is a necessary part of your business. There is one other aspect of Ethics that I want to touch on, and that is public service. You men are paid for the work you do. Each board has fixed a schedule of minimum fees. The cutting of prices in order to get business is not to be encouraged; it degrades the real estate agent to the horse trader level. But the man who worked simply for the money that was in it would make a very poor real estate agent. Real estate began as a business, but it is coming more and more to be recognized as a profession, a calling, a form of public service."

In attendance from this city was Joseph S. Adams, as associate realtor, representing the office of James L. Case.

NATIONAL HEALTH CUP WON BY CONNECTICUT

Connecticut won the school service health cup this year for the second time, according to notice that has been received by the state tuberculosis commission from the National Tuberculosis association. The cup is presented annually to the state which shows the greatest amount of service to the health of its school children and for the correction of physical defects.

It is interesting to note that in the study of the school health service in Connecticut the state tuberculosis commission found that more than sixty-five per cent of the school children in this state received complete physical examinations during furnished to the commission through the cooperation of the state department of education and the town and city school authorities, showed that more than 40 per cent of Connecticut's children had some kind of physical defects found but rather by the extent of the correction of these defects. In this connection Connecticut has stood high because of the intensive follow-up work carried on by its school nurses.

In anticipation of a match that has been made with the rifle team of the Combat train, the team of the gas and electrical department tried shooting on the military X target Friday night at the state armory. The practice was at 50 feet, five shots in each position, 100 perfect score, and good scores were made considering the men shot with strange rifles and in position to which they are not accustomed. JUDGE GRANTS MOTION IN BROWN SUPPORT CASE

Before Judge Allyn L. Brown at the superior court short calendar session in New London Friday morning, counsel for Mrs. Isabel Yeoman's Brown of this city, wife of Arthur Chester Brown of Salem, presented a motion to have his mother, Margaret C. Brown, cited in by the plaintiff and made a party co-defendant in the case, which Mrs. Brown has brought to compel her husband to provide for her support.

When Attorney Perkins began his argument in support of the motion, Judge Brown noted that Mr. Brown's attorneys were not present and called attention to this fact. Officials of the court thereupon located Attorney G. Curtis Morgan, one of counsel for Mr. Brown, who came into the court room and told the court that counsel for Mr. Brown did not object, to the granting of the motion under argument.

Judge Brown accordingly granted the motion.

As grounds for the motion, counsel for Mrs. Brown who are Attorney Perkins and the law firm of Shields and Shields made the following allegations and claims:

The defendant has transferred and conveyed to his mother, Margaret C. Brown, of Norwich, without consideration therefor, 43 acres of land situated in the Town of Salem with many houses, buildings and structures thereon of great value, for the purpose of preventing the same being attached for the just claims of his wife on a secret and wrongful trust that this property shall be held by Margaret C. Brown for the defendant's sole use and benefit and to defeat such just claims of the wife, and that such property shall, to all intents and purposes, remain and be the property of the defendant grantor, Arthur Chester Brown. A small portion of the real estate has since been sold and conveyed away by Margaret C. Brown for which $9,000 was paid by the grantee to Margaret C. Brown, who holds the same under the trust as the property and money of Arthur Chester Brown."

That the court set aside as fraudulent, null and void the deed of said transfer and conveyance of the Salem real estate from Arthur Chester Brown to his mother, except as to that small portion thereof that was afterwards conveyed away by Margaret C. Brown to Young Men's Christian Association of New London.

"That it appears in the case that there is a controversy between the parties now before the court, as to the true title and ownership of the said Salem real estate, that it is essential for a complete determination of that question that the person, Margaret C. Brown, not a party to the case, claiming an interest and title in the property which the judgment of the court will affect, should be cited in, so that the complete determination of the controversy which the law seeks shall prevail.

CAMPAIGN IS AID TO SHELTERING ARMS SUPPORT

In connection with the annual district visitation, the United Workers make the following statement;

The Sheltering Arms is a home for worthy aged women, men and couples. For years it has been able to carry on its work by means of the generosity, characteristic of Norwich tradition. The fine new building, a place of sunshine, fresh air and comfortable surroundings, at the head of McKinley avenue, was made possible by generous gifts of money and furnishings from interested friends. Much of the furniture was in use or storage at the old home. Members of the family pay whatever they are able for board, but naturally that does not cover expenses. It is for that reason we are asking for your support to carry on the work, in the usual campaign of the United Workers this fall.

THREE EASTERN CONN. BOYS PERFORM WELL WITH AGGIE VARSITY SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Oct. 2—(AP)—Three eastern Connecticut boys played a prominent part in the 19-0 victory of the Connecticut Aggie eleven over Wesleyan at Middletown yesterday, more than bearing out early season predictions that they would hold down regular positions on the State College eleven.

Arthur V. "Pop" Williams of Danielson, the Aggies' husky 210 pound halfback, was the individual star of the game from an offensive standpoint. He pierced the Wesleyan line and went off the tackles time and again to make substantial gains and carry the leather into scoring territory.

Carl "Red" Geissler of Abington who started and played most of the game at center, and Seraphino Tombari of Norwich who played the greater part of the contest at right end were the two other eastern Connecticut youths who played impressively yesterday. These two, with Williams, made a formidable trio, and their work against Wesleyan is proof enough that eastern Connecticut is well represented on the 1927 Connecticut Aggie team, and one which according to its performances to date will make a good record this season.

That Williams was the big gun in Connecticut's offense is easily seen from the yardage gained by the Danielson boy. He played less than three quarters of the game—frequent substitutions were made by Coach Alexander because of the extreme heat—yet runs of 41, 30 and 12 yards, besides numerous shorter jaunts were made by Williams. Early in the second quarter the Danielson boy took the ball from the Wesleyan 35-yard stripe, and dashing off right tackleramed and stiff-armed his way through most of the Wesleyan eleven until he was forced out of bounds on the five yard line. Again in the third quarter, Williams took the ball on his own 28-yard stripe and by a clever exhibition of open field running advanced to Wesleyan's 32-yard line, and from that point the Aggies scored a few plays later on in the game. Although Williams did not score any touchdowns yesterday, his work certainly was a big factor and paved the way for two of the touchdowns made by the Aggies. To date Williams has scored three touchdowns, all of which were made in the Coast Guard academy game a week ago.

Geissler at center for the Aggies played a strong game despite his lack of weight, and it seems likely that he will start in the same position for the Aggies when the strong University of Maine eleven is played at Storrs in the Alumni Homecoming day game next Saturday afternoon.

The work of Tombari, former Norwich Free Academy athlete, has been one of the surprises of the season that is scarcely two weeks old. Last year as a freshman, Tombari failed to make the yearling eleven, though in all fairness to him it must be said that his failure to impress was due to a severe attack of boils which greatly handicapped his work. Tombari played on the freshman "B" eleven in 1926, which was made up of men with little or no previous high school football experience, and who otherwise failed to show enough ability to be included in the squad from which the first fresh eleven was selected.

Thus a year ago few could see varsity possibilities in Tombari, and few conceded him a chance of winning a letter, let alone a varsity position on this season's eleven. Both regular ends, and another first string sub end from last fall were back again in harness at the start of practice last month, and it looked very much as these same men would cinch their old positions again. Tombari gave them a strong fight from the start of the season, however, with the result that he displaced Callahan at right end in the starting lineup against Wesleyan. It looks now as though he will hold the position permanently, for he shows up exceptionally strong defensively, and his greater weight makes him better able to handle opposing tackles when the Aggies are carrying the ball.

The polls will be open in all districts today from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the town election.

PIRATES WITH SUBS PLAYING LOSE TO REDS

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2—(AP)—Cincinnati won the last game of the season with Pittsburgh, 1 to 0, today. The Pirates had but one regular player in the lineup at the start, Lloyd Waner in center field. All other regular players returned to Pittsburgh after the Pirates clinched the pennant yesterday. The only run scored in the game was not earned as Hughey Critz tripled to the bleachers in the seventh inning, but scored on a passed ball. Peter Jablonowski pitched a good game for Cincinnati, allowing but four hits, three of which were made by Waner. Cvengros who started for Pittsburgh allowed two hits in five innings while Lee Meadows permitted as many in three innings. Lloyd Waner was the only visitor to get as far as third base off Jablonowski. The score:

ROBINS CLOSE SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER BRAVES

BROOKLYN, Oct. 2—(AP)—Brooklyn closed the season at Ebbets field today with a 5-3 victory over the Boston Braves. Bill Clark, the Robins' recruit southpaw, pitched effective ball and was not scored on after the second inning. Brooklyn errors were responsible for all Boston runs.

Kent Greenfield started in the box for Boston but was hammered and gave way to Goldsmith in the seventh.

CARDS CLINCH SECOND PLACE BEATING CUBS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2—(AP)—With the Cardinals leading, 5 to 4, in the eighth inning with the Chicago Cubs here today, rain assured the retiring world's champions of second place in the National league standing by preventing completion of the first contest and washed out the record; ending the season.

There was a question as to whether the score would stand 6 to 4, including the home run made by Stephenson, Cub left fielder, in the eighth or revert to the end of the seventh inning which would have made the score 6 to 3. The official scorer decided to send the box to President Heydler with the score 6 to 4, including play in the eighth.

Rain drizzled on the players from the start. The Cubs were at bat in the eighth and Stephenson had hit a homer to right field. One had walked and Sherdel had replaced Haines and retired Grimm on a pop fly when Umpire Hart called time. After waiting the customary half hour while the drizzle turned to a downpour the game was called off, bringing the final curtain on the season here. The score:

BROWNS BEAT WHITE SOX IN CLOSE GAME

CHICAGO, Oct. 2—(AP)—The American league season came to a close in Chicago today with an 8 to 3 victory for the St. Louis Browns over the Chicago White Sox. The Browns won the game by bunching their hits, one of which was a home run by Kress with a man on base. Johnny Mostil played his first full game of the season for the White Sox. Nels led the attack for the White Sox with four hits in as many times up, but Beck pulled out of several close places. Manager Schalk gave several of his rookies an opportunity to display their wares. The score:

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Jackson's single in the tenth inning, scoring Lindstrom, who had doubled gave the Giants a 5 to 4 victory over Philadelphia in the closing game of the season.

PIRATES ARE FULL OF CONFIDENCE

(B. Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor.)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The momentum that has carried the Pittsburgh Pirates to victory in one of the closest and most exciting races of National league history, plus the skill of a pitching corps that has performed brilliantly over the last month with few exceptions, will be the deciding factors, if the Corsairs beat the New York Yankees in the world's series starting Wednesday at Forbes field. This at any rate is the opinion of Owen (Donie) Bush, aggressive little pilot who has steered the Pirates to a pennant in his first season.

There are not a few critics, even among the home town experts, who believe the Pirates "staggered" into the pennant. That the reaction of their hard fight will be a detriment rather than an aid and that the Yankees, anyway, pack entirely too much punch for the National leaguers to check. But if there is any lack of spirit or confidence in the Pirates it wasn't evident in the remarks of Bush shortly after his club had won the deciding game in Cincinnati.

Kremer, the 200 pound hurling ace from Oakland, Cal., is slated to twirl the opening game for the Pirates, with Waite Hoyt as a probable opponent. Kremer has fully recovered from the effects of a knee ailment that kept him idle for nearly two months. He won six games in a row up to yesterday. He won two games for the Pirates in their last world's series with the Senators, two years ago and he is ready to start two or three games in the forthcoming struggle, depending on how extended it is.

"Til pitch to Ruth and Gehrig," Kremer declared. "You can count on that. But I won't make it any easier for them than necessary."

Vic Aldridge, the Hoosier schoolmaster who has been hurling consistently fine ball, likely will be Manager Bush's choice for the second game. Viv, like Kremer, won two games in the 1925 series. He also feels he is "ripe" for the Yankees. A bit superstitious, Viv avers the second game assignment is his "lucky spot."

The rival camps of the Yankees and Pirates will both be pitched tomorrow in Pittsburgh, already aroused to high pitch by the excitement of the National league race and eager to cheer the fighting young Corsair crew in its tussle with the clouting circus from New York.

The Pirate regulars, back in town today for a brief rest, will be joined tomorrow morning by the rest of the players for a workout at noon at Forbes field. The Yankees also are due to set foot in the enemy's stronghold tomorrow.

Additions to the stands at Forbes field have increased the capacity of the park to around 43,000 for the series. With more than 30,000 reserved seats already sold, there is every prospect of a sell-out for the first two games here. The third, fourth and fifth games are scheduled in New York, Friday, Saturday and Sunday while the sixth and seventh, if needed, will be fought out here

RIVERVIEW BEATS MARTAFTS TWICE TO EVEN THE SERIES AT TWO AND TWO

After shuting out the Martafts 2 to 0 on Saturday, Johnny Tillman, pitcher-manager of the York, Pa., club, stepped into the box again on Sunday and won his game, 6 to 3, evening up the series between Riverview and Taftville at two games each. Both games gave the thousands of fans as nice baseball as they have seen anywhere and they were treated to thrill after thrill in each contest.

Saturday's game was a pitching battle between Chet Nichols for Taftville and Tillman for Riverview while Sunday's encounter saw much hard hitting and some sparkling fielding. The Sunday game was marred by considerable wrangling over the decisions of Umpire Johnny Murphy, who, like every other umpire, stood for plenty of abuse from the crowd.

The outfielders in both games turned in the fielding features, the stars in Saturday's encounter being Tommy Sipples and Dinty Moore while Davis and Jarvis with Normandin were the shining lights of Sunday's game. Faber, with his home run and Belair with his double which scored Riverview's winning runs were the hitting stars of Sunday's game. Sipples' triple in the Saturday game was a feature. Nap Liberty also hit a triple in Sunday's game.

Saturday's Game.

Taftville could do little with Johnny Tillman's slow curves and his deceptive change of pace and was never in danger until the ninth inning when Taftville filled the bases with but one down and it looked as though they might duplicate their feat of a week ago and win the contest in the final frame. Dinty Moore, Riverview's heroic fireman, saving the contest with a nice catch in the last frame.

Riverview scored in the first frame when after Faber had rolled out Moore was passed. Nichols made a balk on the next ball and Moore was given second. Mills singled to center field and Jarvis let the ball go through him, Moore coming home on the play. Mills went to third and when Hillis dropped Sipples' high fly Mills attempted to score but was caught at the plate. This ended Riverview's scoring until the seventh inning when with one away Sipples stepped up on one of Nichol's curves and belted it to left center for three bases. Christy sacrificed and Sipples crossed the plate. Christy was injured when he collided with Hillis at first on the play.

Nichols allowed but three hits, one in the first and two in the seventh, while only five hits were garnered off the delivery of Tillman, who kept them well scattered, two coming in the sixth inning but a double play cut down the chance to score.

Sunday's Game.

Fighting an uphill fight all the way Riverview took Sunday's game by bunching hits in the ninth inning after tying the count in the seventh. Taftville swung right into the lead in the first inning when they bunched four hits in succession off Tillman, with two down. After Krauss had fanned and Jarvis had rolled out to Tillman, Hillis led off with a hit to left center, Davis followed with a single to left and Hillis was held on the second sack. Comiskey came through with a slashing single through third base which sent Hillis scurrying across the plate, Davis pulling up at third and Comiskey at second. Bill Gley picked on one of Tillman's slow ones and drove it over Mills' head in left field for three bases scoring Davis and Comiskey. Eccleston was thrown out, Faber to Sipples. This ended the scoring and Taftville was able to get only two more hits, these in the sixth inning when Taftville made its final threat getting three men on, with two down, but Comiskey was a strikt-out victim.

In the first three innings only nine men faced Loftus and went out in order. Faber opened the fourth with a home run the ball sailing over the left field fence. Moore fanned and Mills walked and Sipples singled. A fast double play, Krauss to Hillis to Murphy, retired the side. Riverview tied the count in the seventh when Sipples singled and with a sure double play in sight, Krauss mussed up Dugas' roller and both were safe. Liberty then tripled, scoring Sipples and Dugas. Normandin filed out. Belair drove out what looked like a seeming hit into the right field crowd but Davis nailed it with one hand as he reached over the spectators and with a perfect throw to the plate cut down Liberty. On the play Liberty slid head-first into the knees of Eccleston and was knocked unconscious. He was unable to return to the game and Christy went in at third and Faber went to second.

The winning runs came in the ninth inning. Sipples doubled into the right field crowd and when Dugas bunted Loftus mussed up the play and Dugas was safe. Christy fanned, and Dugas stole second. Normandin was purposely passed filling the bases. Belair then drove out a long fly to the left field foul flag the ball striking close to the line and two runs came in. There was considerable argument whether the ball was fair or foul but Murphy ruled it a fair ball. Normandin scored a minute later on Tillman's sacrifice to center field.

COAST GUARDSMEN GET OFF EASY AS SHIP IS LEAVING NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 2—Oscar Griffin, Charles L. Bishoff and Peter Krause, members of the crew of the United States Coast Guard destroyer Cassin, state pier, were arrested at the union station last night by Special Agent Jorgerson, Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin and William Riordan charged with destroying railroad property. The sailors were passengers on a train and before it reached his city they had smashed two windows. They were locked up, but this afternoon an officer from the destroyer went to police headquarters and paid $12, the amount of damage perpetrated by the sailors. The Cassin went to sea at 2:30 o'clock for two weeks and arrangement was made with the railroad police to withdraw the charge against the sailors if the damage was taken care of. The sailors will be given a court martial at sea.

FINE ON ONE CHARGE ONLY IN SELESNITSKY CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 2—The much-aired hearings of Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky, against whom charges of conduct unbecoming an officer were preferred by Jack Whiteside, Ocean beach concessionist proprietor and Chester H. Brigham, Waterford constable, has resulted in what was expected—City Manager William A. Holt imposing a minimum fine for the Whiteside compaint and exonerating Seesnitsky of bame in the charges of Brigham. City Manager Holt arrived at his finding late Friday and announced it Saturday. In making his finding in the complaint of Whiteside, City Manager Holt stated that Selesnitsky had admitted in testimony that he made a "violent" remark to Whiteside and that while there may have been circumstances due, possibly to the season of the year and loss of temper on the part of both parties, nevertheless a patrolman cannot be permitted to address "violent" remarks to any person regardless of provocation. He imposed a fine of two days without pay. In his communication to that effect to the officer, City Manager Holt said that for reasons which in his opinion, will promote discipline in the department he arrived at the fine. The fine is equivalent to two days' pay.

City Manager Holt in throwing out the Brigham charges said that the testimony of Selesnitsky and Brigham was directly at variance. There were no witnesses to corroborate the testimony of either. Brigham claimed that while driving on Bank street Sept. 28, he was given a signal by Selesnitsky, who was performing traffic duty, corner of Bank and Howard streets, to stop. He said he heeded the signal, but did not come to a direct stop because of two women being on a crosswalk. He claimed that Selesnitsky upbraided him for his act by using harsh and violent language. Brigham further charged that after he had proceeded past the officer the driver stopped his auto and returned to Selesnitsky to relate just why he had stopped his auto where he did. He claims that Selesnitsky again used improper language to him. Selesnitsky, on the other hand, said that he did not see Brigham the day in question, nor did he stop a driver of any auto and censure him for failing to heed a signal. In other words Selesnitsky implied that the charges of Brigham were untrue and that he was being "framed."

MERCHANT OF HADLYME TO MARRY IN NEW YORK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—A marriage license has been issued in New York to Arthur W. Brockway, 52, Hadlyme merchant, and Theodora H. Sonneborn, 36, who is registered at a New York hotel, the Martha Washington. Mr. Brockway was born at Old Lyme, the son of Ebenezer and Sarah Peck Brockway. Miss Sonneborn is the daughter of Herman and Mary Little Sonneborn and was born at Southport, Eng.

The cell room at New London police headquarters was crowded Saturday night and is tonight, for during the past 24 hours state and railroad police made 34 arrests, the largest number in that length of time in many months. Most of the arrests for violations of the law of a rather minor nature, but in some intoxication played a part.

The state police received a telephone message this afternoon that an automobile in which were two men and two women, all intoxicated, was being driven on the New Haven turnpike between East Lyme and this city and that the existence of the car on the highway was endangering the safety of occupants of other autos. Officer Smith drove to the turnpike and came upon the auto headed for this city. The driver was ordered to stop and as he was halted the occupants were giving an exhibition that resembled that of entertainers of a metropolitan night club. The four were arrested and locked up here. William Howard, 333 Grand avenue, New Haven, was charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and the other three occupants, Jacob Bloomingdale, 872 Winchester avenue, New Haven, Anna Taylor and Mary Barry, also of New Haven, were charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Of the 34 arrests, nine were for simple intoxication, but several others were charged with breach of the peace besides intoxication. Deane Sternberg, United States Coast Guard destroyer Cassin, was arrested at Ocean beach by Patrolman Frank Linehan and shore patrol where he created a disturbance. W. E. Brown, United States Coast Guard destroyer Shaw was arrested on Bank street by Patrolman Braxton Hill and a shore patrol. He had attracted a crowd of pedestrians by his conduct. George Cadorette, United States Coast Guard destroyer Ericson and Leon Alread, submarine base, were arrested on Main street by Patrolmen Harry Watterson and George Cockell having created a disturbance. David Griffin, United States Coast Guard destroyer Wilkes was arrested on Bank street by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Thomas Lyden; Griffin was in a turbulent mood.

Paul Pabst, 18, of North Bergen, N. J., was detected stealing a ride on a New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad freight and was arrested at the union station by Special Agent Jorgerson.

Ten arrests were made of auto drivers who violated the city's parking ordinances. John J. White, 17 Amity street, parked his car in restricted area on State street, rear of the Soldiers and Sailors monument, and Joseph O. Hill, Niantic; Joseph Rodgowski, Box 95, Montville; Joseph V. Santos, 10 Tenth street; Daniel Sullivan, 27 Cutler street; Irving Lipton, 283 Huntington street; Sebastian Silva, 30 Denison avenue; Edward H. Greenhalgh, Bradford, R. I.; Joseph Byrd, United States Coast Guard destroyer, Cassin; Linton B. Crandall, Storrs and Miss Jane Cavanaugh, 233 Broad street, for parking machines on the west side of Bank street. The monthly change of parking on that street went into effect Saturday, which accounted for the arrests. Friday night it was permissible to park on the west side of the street, but last night the parking changed to the east side.

The continued case of William Prime, 18, of 34 Vauxhall street, charged with breach of peace, was heard in the police court Saturday and a continuance was ordered until March 1. Prime was arrested Friday by Patrolman Henry Sylvia, who charged that the youth applied insulting remarks to him when he passed a group of boys at Connecticut avenue and Broad street, a location where it is claimed by residents, rowdyism has prevailed among the boys a long time.

Nathan Zwiebel, 139 North Bank street, charged with driving an automobile without having registration, was fined $5.

James McDonald, 149 Eddy street, Providence and Earl Peterson, 56 Lockwood street, also of Providence, were presented on charges of train riding. They received a suspension of judgment. McDonald and Peterson were detected Friday night stealing a ride on a New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad freight.

The Fifth District American Legion held its meeting Friday night in Union lodge room. About 150 members, the largest number ever to attend a district meeting, enjoyed the session and the social hours that followed. Besides the New London legionnaires present there was also a representation of members from Norwich, Baltic, Montville, Colchester, Taftville, Mystic, Lyme and Stonington. At the conclusion of the business meeting S. N. Ganos, O. J. Rheaume, and John H. Cruise served refreshments. Dancing, with music furnished by John Coleman Prince post, No. 9, band was a feature. The members of the Woman's auxiliary were presented a bouquet by Mr. Ganas.

Gabriel Nelson and son, Edward, Bronx, of New York, who were injured in an automobile accident on the New Haven turnpike two weeks ago, were discharged at Lawrence-Memorial hospital Saturday. Other patients discharged were Baby July Griffin Ely, Jr., 41 Huntington street; Miss Dora Lubow, 326 Montauk avenue; Mrs. Eliott Lovell, Fort Michie, N. Y.; and Mrs. Ellen Robbins, Blackhall.

Miss Marie Leverone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Leverone, 18 Tilley street, is to pursue musical studies in Italy and she will sail for Europe next week. Miss Leverone has studied music in New York and at Connecticut College for Women, but will perfect her musical education in Rome and other Italian cities.

With mid-summer temperature prevailing today the officials of the Connecticut company, ordered the closed cars withdrawn from the Ocean beach line this afternoon and had open cars substituted. Several thousands went to the shore, many by automobile and about 200 enjoyed the bathing; the water temperature was 70.

SECOND CHURCH REOPENED—FIRE DAMAGE REPAIRED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 2—The rededication of the Second Congregational church took place today. The rededication was necessitated by the burning of the big granite church nearly a year ago and the services today were the first to be held within its walls since last December, when the fire completely gutted the structure. Since then repairs have been made and the church is entirely refitted. The services were in the form of a thanksgiving and were most interesting. Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the church, delivered the sermon this morning before an attendance that completely filled the auditory. This evening Dr. Lee again delivered the sermon and there was special music with an augmented and vested choir. A fellowship supper provided last evening in the Sunday school rooms, attended by about 200 members, men and women, the assemblage being seated at 20 tables. Rev. Dr. Day, of Bridgeport, delivered an address that was spirited and which created enthusiasm among the members. The church had been put in better condition than ever before, just previous to the fire and at an expense of $25,000. The fire of nearly a year ago wrecking the building, it became necessary to make an expenditure of over $150,000 to place the church in its former condition.

Harold Hale, colored, of 49 Hempstead street, employed as a garage worker, was arrested twice tonight within half an hour, both times for violations of the state motor vehicle law. Hale was driving in Groton and on Thames street, drove past another car in such a manner that a charge of reckless driving was preferred against him. A Groton officer ordered Hale to present himself in the Groton town court tomorrow. Later when Hale was driving on Howard street his auto struck a car owned by William Buckley, Mohegan avenue, the fender of the latter auto being damaged. Buckley made complaint to Patrolman Henry Hick and Hale was arrested for failing to have a driver's license in his possession. He will be presented in the New London police court Tuesday morning.

A boy of 16, who has made a practice of loitering about theatres, was arrested today by Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin charged with the theft of a quantity of tickets from the Lyceum theatre. When searched at police headquarters the boy had about 30 tickets in his pocket.

The newly elected members of the city council will handle the affairs of the city for the first time tomorrow night when the regular meeting will be held. The regular meeting will be held and will be presided over by Mayor William C. Fox, but with the completion of the handling of business for the year ending Oct. 1st, the meeting will adjourn, when Mayor Fox, who was defeated at the polls twice last month, will vacate the chair and an adjourned meeting will be held with the incoming mayor, James A. May presiding.

Tony Rispo, 82 Woodbridge street, was arrested at the Empire theatre by Patrolman Timothy T. Sullivan tonight charged with breach of the peace. He was locked up in default of a surety on his bond of $50 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow. Rispo, it is alleged, created such a disturbance that it became compulsory to remove him from the picture house. The theatre has become a rendezvous for youths because of the prices charged, 10 and 15 cents and recently it became necessary to summon police and remove seven youthful disturbers.

Peter Tulley, 76, died Saturday night at his home in Palmertown, after a lingering illness. Mr. Tulley was unmarried and is survived only by two nieces, Misses Rose and Margate Tulley, both of Palmertown. Broadway Theater

"The Big Parade," which opened last night at the Broadway theater, is without doubt the greatest picture in the history of the screen. More vividly than any words ever printed do the scenes of this motion picture tell the story of the World war. It is a King Vidor production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring John Gilbert.

Laurence Stallings, the author, and King Vidor, the director, have conceived and executed a story so great it bears none of the earmarks of the average screen spectacle. It is simple, moving, genuine. Mirth, sorrow, laughter and bitterness are all a part of The Big Parade. It is a great human document.

It has taken America a decade to attain a proper perspective on the late conflict, but now that the war is over and intelligent thought has given place to passion and prejudice on the subject, we can at last appreciate a story depicting it faithfully. That is what "The Big Parade" does. There is no glorification of war, nor of flag waving; rather is glorifies heroism and tolerance.

John Gilbert gives a great and unforgettable portrayal of the American doughboy. He endows the role with all his charm and creates a character that will forever in the memories of those who see it. Renee Adoree plays Melisande, the French girl, in a delightful and inspired manner. The love scenes between the two are romantic gems. Others in the cast who score distinct hits are Karl Dane and Tom O'Brien.

Palace Theater

In every business, be it commercial or theatrical, the management trys to do all in their power to give their customers or patrons the class of merchandise they want. Be it merchandise, vaudeville or pictures the rule applies to all. The management of the Palace have without a question of doubt, given to the people of Norwich the best in their line of merchandise, and they are to be complimented on their choice.

Commencing this afternoon at 2:15, another tremendous five act bill of vaudeville, such that will please all will be presented. Lovenberg Sisters and Neary a standard big time act, one that has played the largest and best theaters in the United States will be the headline act. Five young ladies and two men comprise the cast in a fast moving song and dance révue. This act itself is worth making every effort to see. Mack and Stanton a pair of funsters in Home Sweet Home will furnish loads of laughs. Walter Kelly and Co., two men and a lady have a comedy affering called "The Western Union." Ben Ross, a youthful offering of songs and stories. Boyd and Wallen two aerial artists worthy of special mention. Audiences as a rule radly realize the tremendous effort, time and practise necessary to accomplish these aerial stunts, this act win prove that time and patience have their virtues.

The screen's main attraction, Reginald Denny in "Out All Night."

Denny portrays the role of a wealthy young man, who meets, wooes and marries the girl of his heart in one evening, or rather one night. The innumerable comedy situations that are caused when an attempt is made to keep the marriage a secret during an ocean voyage should provide one of the most hilarious hours of entertainment imaginable. Denny's own inimitable sense of comedy value is predominant throughout and the climax is thrilling and unusual.

The leading feminine role is played by Marian Nixon, popular and talented young actress, who is once more appearing with Denny, her last having been in "Rolling Home."

Breed Theater

The Tender Hour opened a three day's engagement at the Breed theater last night to a delighted capacity house, and after seeing it this reviewer can say without reservation that First National has turned out a picture which contains all of the ingredients which have gained for George Fitzmaurice the reputation of being an ace among directors.

Beautiful Billie Dove and the ever-popular Ben Lyon have fairly surpassed themselves in the leading roles. Splendid performances were given all the way down the line in the cast, notably in the cast of Montagu Love and Alec B. Francis, who have important parts.

In addition to 6,000 extras, some 22 members of the well known Marion Morgan dancing school also appear in the picture, which is the last word in lavishness.

The theme of the wealthy American father marrying off his daughter for the sake of a foreign title is widely deviated from in Carey Wilson's original Hour is based.

It is for the title and more money that Billie Dove, as Marcia Kane, is married off to Grand Duke Sergei, played by Montagu Love. Then Ben Lyon, as Wally McKenzie, the youthful lover, who, through the duplicity of the father, is believed by Marcia to have died, appears in her bridal suite immediately after the ceremony.

Billie Dove wears many beautiful gowns and is unquestionably at her loveliest in The Tender Hour.

Alec B. Francis, as Chinilly, has one of his characteristic fatherly roles. As the Godfather to Marcia and a keen student of human nature, he is responsible for many sequences with considerable heart interest in The Tender Hour.

The picture is one that should not be missed. See it.

WEEKLY BUSINESS REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Evidences of the expected autumn expansion in business were more numerous in the last week of September, most of the so-called barometers of trade indicating a slight acceleration in the forward movement. Nevertheless, there were a number of unfavorable developments, such as the continued lagging behind of freight loadings and cold waves in agricultural regions, further retarding certain of the grain crops.

The improvement in the steel trade was slight, but apparently certain. President Farrell of the U. S. Steel corporation spoke optimistically at the recent meeting of directors, and the trade reviews were more cheerful than in the preceding week. A small gain in new orders aroused no little encouragement and led to more general expectations that the revival of the industry is close at hand. Mill operations continued low, around 60 per cent and prices showed irregularity, but more firmness was displayed, indicating a stiffening resistance to price concessions.

A picking up in the automobile industry was indicated by a slight increase in Detroit employment and favorable reports from some of the important manufacturers. The statement by President Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President of General Motors, that no price war was in prospect between his company and Ford cleared up one important point which had caused nervousness in some automotive quarters.

The lumber trade was marking time, apparently with orders for both soft wood and hard wood lagging behind those of a year ago. Cotton goods, and rayons, were the subjects of cheerful reports and raw wool was on a slight upgrade. Wholesale distribution of dry goods was satisfactory, giving further indications of a good fall trade, at least in this branch of merchandising.

Irregularity in the stock market probably had little bearing on the business situation, the erratic movement of prices being based largely upon conditions within the market itself, including the trend of brokers' loans and the top-heavy position of certain outstanding speculative stocks.

The money market was virtually unchanged. A slight stiffening in call money early in the week was followed by softening later. The usual tightening in reflection of end of month monetary requirements was practically absent.

Bank clearings continued to hold up above the figures for the corresponding period of 1926, although there was a sharp decline from the preceding six days.

The trend of commodity prices was toward higher ground, better prices being recorded for such important items as wheat, cotton, rubber, hogs and cattle. Nonferrous metals and corn were the outstanding articles on which prices were easier.

The polls will be open in all districts today from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the town election.

NORWICH HAS TWO OCTOBER DAYS OF HEAT THAT BREAKS RECORDS

In common with all the rest of the eastern part of the United States, Norwich experienced a return to summer heat on Saturday and Sunday which made these days record breakers for the first two days of October. Saturday was hot enough but Sunday was even warmer.

In the early morning hours of both days the temperature was down around 66, but when the sun began to shine the mercury took a sharp upward slant and until the top mark of 82 to 84 was was reached on Saturday and 84 to 88 on Sunday. In Franklin square on Sunday afternoon a thermometer that was in the full glare of the sun showed a high mark of 112 at one time, and it was reported that a thermometer at the Greeneville police station burst when the mercury in the tube had reached the top where the mark was 120.

The extreme heat sent Norwich citizens back into their summer clothes and one of the best known physicians in the city appeared Sunday afternoon in a straw hat, which demonstrated his idea of real comfort but subjected him to considerable good natured joshing.

Automobile traffic reached peak figures on both days. Traffic officers in Franklin square reported Saturday night as one of the busiest they had ever known, and on Sunday the highways in all directions were crowded with machines as people rode to shore or country resorts where they thought they might escape the heat.

MOCK MARRIAGES SCORED BY ST. PATRICK'S RECTOR

During his announcements at the 7:30 mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday, the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May condemned with emphasis that form of diversion, a mock marriage. He referred to it as a travesty of the sacred character of the sacrament of matrimony as sanctified by Christ and congratulated his people that such questionable forms of entertainment took place but very rarely among them and then chiefly when introduced by non-Catholic friends to desecrate a Catholic home. As reasonably, he said have a mock confession or a mock mass.

As it was Rosary Sunday, Monsignor May spoke briefly of the beautiful form of prayer called the rosary, which in reality is meditation upon the chief events in the earthly life of Christ. Meditation upon the 15 mysteries of the rosary summarizes the Savior's ministry from the incarnation until the descent of the Holy Ghost upon the Apostles. Mary, mother of Christ, is affectionally hailed as queen of the holy rosary, because through prayers for her intercession, her clients will obtain whatever is best for them in the designs of God, since her divine Son can refuse His mother nothing.

The unusually large number receiving holy communion at this mass from the rector and his assistant, Rev. John J. Reilly, included the Rosary society and the Children of Mary.

Monsignor May made reference to the success of the novena which ended Friday and the satisfaction of the preacher, Rev. Father Fidelis, with the zeal of the parishioners.

During the nine nights of the novena's progress, among others who aided most faithfully, were the ushers, Alexander Kilroy, William J. McKnight, John Wozniak, Maurice B. Looby, Austin Furling, Michael J. Murphy, James Mahoney, Christopher Barry, John Barry, also John P. Corcoran, who had general charge.

Sunday at 3:30 there was a reception of new members by the Rosary society, of which Mrs. Jeremiah Lynch, is president. This society, the Children of Mary and the Immaculate Conception sodality members marched from the lower church to special pews in the auditory. Forty-two new members were received in to the society, the address being by the rector, Monsignor May. In the procession, the three groups of mysteries of the rosary—joyful, sorrowful and glorious—were represented by little white frocked girls from the junior sodality carrying red, white and yellow roses respectively. There was special music, including congregational singing of "Mother Dearest, Mother Fairest". Benediction of the blessed sacrament concluded the exercises.

The Rosary society now has a membership in excess of two hundred.

Saturday from 5 to 8, the auxiliary to the A. O. H. No 18, served supper to a large number of patrons at Buckingham Memorial. The supper was in general charge of Mrs. Edward J. Carroll, Mrs. Frederick LaFontaine, Mrs. Catherine Kilroy, Mrs. Edward Mullins, Mrs. John A. Niles and Mrs. Timothy Leary. Tickets were sold by Mrs. Lucien R. Bissonette.

The meal consisted of baked beans, potato salad, Maryland biscuits, brown bread, cake and coffee. The auxiliary made a good profit, as most of the delicious cakes, the relishes, etc., were donated by the members and their friends.

FARM HOUSE BURNED ON NORWICH-WESTERLY ROAD

The Hewitt house on the Norwich-Westerly highway, a two and one-half story frame building, was destroyed by fire Saturday morning. The building was owned by Frank Hautink, No. 78, First avenue, New York city and was occupied by Charles Yerrington and family. As there was no available water supply firemen from Norwich and from the state hospital fire department were unable to save the house.

Miss Isabelle Yerrington discovered the fire while she was on the upper floor of the house. Glancing from a window she saw that the roof on an ell in the rear was on fire. She telephoned to the local fire department for help and the call was relayed to the state hospital fire department. Both departments sent apparatus in response to the call. Squad A used about 36 gallons of chemical on the blaze and the state hospital firemen pumped water from a nearby well. Some of the furniture was saved. The house was valued at about $7,000. Mr. Hautink, the owner, was planning to move into the house next spring. Both house and furniture were insured. It is believed that the blaze started around a chimney on the ell.

METHODIST CHURCH AT BALTIC IS RE-OPENED

Special services were held Sunday at the Baltic Methodist Episcopal church which was reopened after the summer closed period during which the church has been redecorated. Rev. Harvey H. Conklin, the pastor, conducted the service and the sermon in the morning was by Rev. Myron E. Genter of this city, Norwich district superintendent.

Rev. Mr. Genter spoke upon "Building The Church In Our Age," using the text, Matt 16.18. "Upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

In brief he spoke as follows:

The founder of the Christian church intended that this should differ from all human institutions, and asserts that he will build it and through the centuries his work continues. Physically absent yet spiritually present with his believers, in a real but mystic fashion he imparts his spirit, gives guidance divine, and through it demonstrates spiritual power to change life, enrich and empower it, and glorify it.

If in the past history of the church at large, there seem to be blunders, lapses, indifference, we should remember that the Divine Builder has to use the human material, which does not always appreciate nor appropriate the heavenly resources at hand, but wherever the human wills to follow the command divine, the church becomes radiant and irresistible.

Never before has the church of Christ had such opportunity, such means to command, such facilities to use, such a task to perform as now.

The question rises, what kind of church is Christ trying to build in our age? We reply, what do we find in his life and teachings, with major emphasis? The church of our forefathers open once a month in the countryside, and the church of our fathers of the last century open once a week for worship cannot meet the needs of today. The things which stand out in the life and commands of the Christ ought to furnish the program of the real, dynamic church of today. These need not be printed on the program but should be understood as the objectives of the body of Christ.

A temple for worship is quite indispensable, where believers may meet, worship pray, praise, commune and receive divine helps from the sanctuary. A school of religious education, for Christ taught that the church should teach others to observe whatsoever he had commanded the first disciples. The church should be hospital for souls, with weak wills, seared consciences, warped judgments, and depraved natures. It is the greatest brotherhood on earth with the sole requisite, to do the will of God. It must be a social center for good, with radiant, joyful comradeship. It should be a recreational unit of the community, for commercialized amusement, too often disregard morals for monetary gain. This church of today should be a merciful dispenser to need in its varied forms. It should be a civic inspirer, co-operating with established authority, restraining the power of evil, seeking to change conditions that the Christian ideals may obtain. It should be an enlistment station for new recruits for Jesus Christ and where the things named, previously are in operation, there will be no lack of congregations nor suitable numbers, and out of the hosts served, the new disciples of Jesus Christ will be steadily appearing.

But the church is Christ's great evangelizer of the world. If it has no horizons beyond itself, it has not his spirit. He has said, "ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." His command to take his spirit and gospel to the ends of the earth is his great commission, and the true local church always eagerly co-operates with Christ to win the rest of the world to God.

I trust we all have the urge which if expressed, would be somewhat as follows: By the grace of God I will help Christ build, in this age, the most glorious church which has yet appeared to mankind.

RIOTOUS DISORDERS AT THREE OHIO COAL MINES

Sheriff and Deputies Were Stoned, a Mine Worker Beaten and More Than Fifty Arrests Made—1,000 Union Sympathizers Threw Missiles at the Officers—Sheriff Reports the Situation Critical and Rapidly Getting Beyond Control.

ST. CLAIRSEVILLE, Ohio, Oct. 3—(AP)—Disorders starting in three Belmont county mines tonight ended with the stoning of Sheriff C. C. Hardesty and deputies, beating of a mine worker and more than fifty arrests. Sheriff Hardesty termed the situation "critical and rapidly getting beyond control."

Sheriff Hardesty reported that 1,000 union sympathizers, both men and women, lined the two mile road from Shadyside to the Webb mine as he was escorting thirty non-union laborers to work and threw rocks, stones and eggs at him and his three deputies. None of them was seriously hurt.

The party ran the gauntlet to the mine without making any attempt to arrest their attackers.

One woman, armed with an umbrella, attacked the sheriff, he said. The mob shouted for release of their officials, who were arraigned at Steubenville today on federal charges of violating an injunction order.

At the Provident mine, near St. Clairsville, a non-union worker was stoned and beaten by several men who drove up in a car filled with rocks, deputies said. Harry Basiek and John Jabrosky were arrested on charges of assault with intent to kill. The victim's name was not learned.

At the Florence mine, near Martins Ferry, federal deputies were arresting union pickets in groups of four tonight. Late tonight the total stood at 48 arrests, with more being made hourly.

H. H. Gr[illegible] in charge of federal deputies at t[illegible] Florence mine, ordered union pickets [illegible]way from the property under a federa[illegible] injunction restraining pickets from in[illegible]rfering with operations.

Sheriff Hardesty in a statement tonight said: "The situation is critical and rapidly getting beyond control. Myself and my men for the first time tonight were attacked and ignored. Twenty men along a twenty mile front could do but little. More federal men would be welcome. The breaking point may be reached any minute."

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF AMERICAN RED CROSS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Mississippi flood and St. Louis tornado disasters held the chief attention of more than 500 delegates at the opening today of the seventh annual convention of the American Red Cross.

An enrollment of more than 3,000,000 adult and 6,000,000 junior members was represented by the delegates who gathered tonight to hear President Coolidge.

The St. Louis situation, with its huge relief problems, was discussed during a day session by James L. Fieser, vice chairman of the Red Cross in charge of domestic operations.

Mr. Fieser told the convention that messages received today informed him that 129 persons still were in hospitals in St. Louis. He described as a record achievement the raising in the Missouri city of $300,000 in less than a week toward the $500,000 goal, and declared that while the city was not appealing for outside aid, the Red Cross should respond to the needs of the situation.

The assistance of nation's business men in efforts to reach a goal of 5,000,000 adult members of the Red Cross so as to meet the demands caused by 77 national and 21 foreign disasters during the present year, was pledged in an address by Edwin B. Parker, chairman of the board of directors of the United States chamber of commerce.

CONVENTION OF AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Champions of labor throughout the world accepted California's hand of greeting and received the assurance that the American Federation of Labor was "in the cause of humanity" as the 47th and probably most important convention of the federation got under way here today.

That the court injunction as used against labor would be one of the principal topics discussed was made certain by the keynote address of President William Green the federation's executive said labor did not presume to be above the law, but would insist that it was not below the law. Measures of relief from the injunction, he said will be recommended to congress at its next session.

The Boulder Canyon dam project for development of the Colorado river was placed before the delegates numbering 578 and representing every state in the Union, Canada, Mexico and several European countries, by Governor C. C. Young of California. In the principal address of welcome. The state executive declared that labor might be seriously affected if the growth of southern California were interrupted though lack of water.

President Green said the federation still was fighting for better wages, better hours and better conditions of employment. "The federation always will continue to advocate higher wages and exercise its economic power to obtain them," he said.

BOULDER CANYON DAM FIGURES IN POLITICS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—Reports of political trades involving Boulder Canyon Dam legislation were brought into the open today by Representative Madden, republican, Illinois, chairman of the house appropriations committee and an opponent of the Swing-Johnson bill.

"I hear of reports of trading going on to put over the Boulder Canyon Dam proposition," he declared. "I refer to the report that Senator Johnson, of California, has received promises of support for the Boulder Dam bill from Secretary Hoover in exchange for a promise of California's vote in the republican national convention for the commerce secretary. I am against such trading on the public treasury."

WIFE TO RE-ENACT MURDER OF DR. A. W. LILLIENDAHL

HAMMONTON, N. J., Oct. 3—(AP)—The little cottage on Main road, South Vineland, where Mrs. Margaret Thompson Lilliendahl, 42 year old widow of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl lives, was under guard today while authorities prepared to have the woman re-enact tomorrow the events which preceded the slaying of her husband on September 15.

Mrs. Lilliendahl will be asked to ride in the same little automobile which she and her husband occupied on the day he was killed and will be asked to point out to the authorities the route she followed from the house in South Vineland, 25 miles north, to the scene of the killing.

Dr. Lilliendahl was 72, and had retired from practice in which he specialized in treating narcotic users. He was shot to death as he sat in his automobile on a lonely road off the Hammonton-Atsion highway four miles north here.

IRREGULARITIES IN NEW YORK BUREAN OF CENSUS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former New York secretary of state who is accused by wasting part of the legislature's appropriation of $1,200,000 for the 1925 census, told her successor, Robert Moses, last June that she had burned official records, thinking they were largely personal and had no value, Mr. Moses declared in a statement today.

The storm created by the charges made by the cities census committee against Mrs. Knapp was further heightened today by a threat of legal action by Lafayette B. Gleason, secretary of the republican state committee, who was chief of the tabulation bureau of the census.

Gleason was mentioned in the committee's report as having been overpaid $3,000. He said that he had not received an official copy of the committee's statement, "but if, as reported in the press, the committee charges me with malfeasance in office, I shall take legal steps to correct such statements."

Discussing the Knapp charges today, Secretary of State Moses said he did not know of any criminal action contemplated, but that such action would be a matter for Attorney General Ottinger.

SAYS HE WILL EXPLAIN SALE OF STOLEN BONDS

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Harry Weintraub, an attorney of this city, who was wanted in connection with the sale of stolen bonds in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties, walked into the district attorney's office this afternoon and surrendered. After a conference he posted $10,000 bail for a hearing on Wednesday.

Mr. Weintraub, who could not be located when a bench warrant was issued for his arrest on Saturday on charges of conspiracy, larceny and receiving, stated that he had been in Norfolk, Va., on business and returned after reading an Associated Press dispatch that he was wanted. He requested that the public "withhold judgment," until his side of the story was heard.

The charge against Weintraub grew out of allegations that on Stpember 1 he offered o sell $15,000 worth of Portland, Oregon, bonds stolen from a Wisconsin bank to Hyman Landau of this city for $10,000. Investigation by Landau revealed that there was a stop order against the sale of the bonds and they were returned to the attorney. On September 19, some of these bonds were alleged to have been pledged in a Plymouth bank by B. H. McKeehan, of Wyoming, Pa., who is under $20,000 bail charged with obtaining loans on Bridgeport, Conn., bonds stolen in New York.

DECISION FAVORABLE TO C. A. BLAKESLEE & SONS

HARTFORD, Oct. 3—(AP)—The board of water commissioners met a sharp reversal in the supreme court today when a decision had handed down which laid a favorable foundation in law for C. A. Blakeslee and Sons, of New Haven to recover $159,000 additional compensation for the construction of the Richards Corner dam in the Nepaug water system during the late war period, if the New Haven company succeeds in proving its complaint in the superior court.

The act of 1919, the chief defense of the water commissioners on a claim of unconstitutionality, was held to be constitutional and to permit cities to alter their war-time contracts to pay additional compensation to contractors read in the light of the spirit of the 24th amendment to the state constitution.

C. A. Blakeslee and Sons contracted to build the dam for Hartford in 1915. The war came along and the city modified its contract with the contractors to give them additional compensation to meet the increased costs of labor and material occasioned by the war, and the plaintiffs introduced successfully legislation to overcome the state constitutional objection to cities paying additional compensation to wartime contractors. The board of water commissioners thereupon refused to pay the claims for $159,000.

How French Tariff Note is Regarded

Washi[illegible]vernment Not [illegible] to the Proposed [illegible]iprocity Pact.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—A study of the French tariff note received Saturday tended today to strengthen the impression held by Washington officials that employment of the flexible provisions of the American tariff act, as suggested by the French, might answer their complaints against excessive duties.

At the state department it was said authoritatively that this government was ready to investigate comparative production costs, without, however, pledging itself in advance of the result, and also to study existing administration of plant quarantine laws, the pure food act and even the prohibition act so far as they might discriminate against French goods.

France rejected the original American request for negotiations on the basis of a most favored nation treaty, proposing instead a reciprocity pact.

The counter French offer was a 50 per cent reduction of maximum rates during the negotiations, which officials here hold would have left American products at serious disadvantage in competition with German, British or other goods that take the French minimum rate.

On that basis the French 50 per cent cut proposal is wholly unsatisfactory to the Washington government and unless a more favorable temporary arrangement can be worked out for the treaty negotiation period a clash on that point conceivably could interrupt the more conciliatory trend of the diplomatic conversations evident today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Keg after keg of beer, untapped since it was loaded at Antwerp, lay in the hold of the Red Star liner Pennland which docked today with 780 returning delegates to the American Legion convention at Paris. The passengers had not spurned refreshment, it was explained—they were just "broke" after their stay in France.

On the trip to France with the Legionnaires, the Pennland carried three times its normal supply of beer and only eight kegs remained untapped. For the return voyage the stewards again had tripled the supply, expecting a run on the bar. But the calculating stewards forgot to reckon on the flattened purses of the Legionnaires. More than one veteran left the ship today without even carfare, and many trudged to the railroad stations for the last lap of the homeward journey, holding tightly to tickets thoughtfully purchased in advance.

MAYOR WALKER CONFIRMED STORY OF SURVEILLANCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Statements emanating from friends of Mayor James J. Walker to the effect that during his recent trip abroad he was under constant surveillance were corroborated today by the chief executive himself.

His friends, greatly wrought up over the matter, have intimated that the "shadows" were employed by political enemies seeking to discredit him, but Mayor Walker refused to comment upon this.

Neither would he disclose the friends who called his attention to insistent reports that spies were watching his every moment as he journeyed from one European city to another, adding that it was a matter of small concern to him personally, but a matter of gros concern—if the reports were true — to the American people and the American government.

"I did not personally observe anybody trailing me because at all times I was surrounded by representatives of foreign governments and large crowds as a result of the elaborate entertainment offered to us," the mayor said. "But from three different sources of unimpeachable integrity, sources which had the opportunity for observation and knowledge, I received the information that I was being shadowed."

Mrs. Von Schilling, a resident of Ozone Park, Long Island, said that before she sent her husband away he had spent the $200,000 he had saved as a hotel keeper. He told her he was too old and feeble to work any longer. She was angry, she said, because she believed he was only 53 and able to work. MARTIAL LAW PROCLAIMED IN THE MEXICAN CAPITAL

Battle is Impending Between Three Regiments of Mutineers and Federal Troops—Two Squadrons of Airplanes Are Reported to Have Departed From Mexico City—Train Service From Vera Cruz to Mexico City Has Been Suspended—Rumors of Uprising in Several Places.

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 3—(AP)—Advices to the Nogales Herald today say that martial law was proclaimed in Mexico City.

Two squadrons of airplanes are reported in the advices to have departed from Mexico City this morning shortly after it was learned that three Mexican regiments had deserted the garrison and had taken the road to Puabla. A battle was expected momentarily between the mutineers commanded by Ignacio Alamado and the federal headed by General Joaquin Amaro.

ORDERS TO ARREST ALL SYMPATHIZERS OF GOMEZ

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 3—(AP)—Orders to arrest all known sympathizers of General Arnulfo R. Gomez, Mexican presidential candidate, who with Francisco Serrano, also a candidate for president, is accused of instigating a mutiny of federal troops in Mexico City, were received by General Pablo M. Macias, commandante of the Nogales, Sonora, garrison late today.

The orders were relayed from the to Macias by General Francisco Manzo, Sonora corps area commander, with headquarters at Orita. Inasmuch as Sonora still is under martial law which has been in force since the Yaqui uprising started 14 months ago, the order is expected by Mexican officials to result in a round-up of anti-re-electionists throughout that state.

Dispatches received at Nogales today said that shortly after General Ignacio Almado led three regiments of federals out of Mexico City early today, many other officers and men joined his ranks. Order was restored immediately, however, by federal troops. Alamado is said to have marched the mutineers toward Puabla.

The revolters were folowed out of the city by a heavy detachment of federal troops under General Joaquin Amaro and two squadrons of airplanes.

General Alvaro Obregon, former president of Mexico, whose candicacy for re-election has been opposed bitterly by Serrano and Gomez, was reported safe in Mexico City while General Gomez was believed to be at Toluca and Serrano at Puebla, reputed hotbed of anti-Obregonists. Both cities are near the Mexican capital.

SUSPENSION OF TRAIN SERVICE HAS BEEN ORDERED

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Oct. 3—(AP)—The military authorities here shortly after noon today ordered the suspension of train service on the Mexican and Interoceanic railways connecting this city with the Mexican capital.

The order also affects all branch lines of the two railways. While nothing is known here as to the reason for the order, it is rumored that uprisings have occurred at several places. Federal forces, garrisoned here, left their barracks for an unknown distination on orders of the chief of military operations.

While quiet prevails in Vera Cruz the populace has been thrown into a state of expectancy.

AIRMEN ARE BOMBING THE MUTINOUS TROOPS

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 3—(AP)—Dispatches to the Nogales Herald told of first shots being fired shortly after noon today in the mutiny in the ranks of the federal troops of the Mexico City garrison.

Several airplanes of the two squadrons sent out early this morning, hurled bombs into the ranks of the rebelling troops, marching from Mexico City toward Puebla. The bombs caused an unknown loss of life and created havoc in the ranks of the followers of General Ignacio Almada, former chief of staff of the capital garrison and accused of leading the mutiny.

Four thousand federals, despatched in pursuit of the mutinous three regiments this morning, were expected to engage Almada's forces momentarily, but up to a late hour today no report of an encounter had been received here.

Between 10,000 and 15,000 soldiers are reported patrolling Mexico City following last night's mutiny. At least forty known supporters of General Arnulfo R. Gomez, presidential candidate, opposing the election of General Alvaro Obregon, former president, have been arrested. All dispatches from the capital unite in ascribing the revolt to Gomez and the opponents of the Obregon "reelectionist."

FLOOD CONDITIONS IN KANSAS LESS SERIOUS

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 3—(AP)—Fair skies today put an end to the incessant rain of last week in the southwest and removed the threat of disastrous floods.

The most serious flood situation tonight was in southeastern Kansas where the Verdigris river had inundated thousands of acres of farm lands and driven hundreds of persons from their homes.

More than 100 families living on the outskirts of Independence, Kan., had evacuated their dwellings. Minor damage was reported at Coffeyville and Neodesha.

Roads were impassable in southwest Missouri today following a tornado and torrential rain, which struck that territory early yesterday. Scores of buildings were wrecked or damaged, thousands of trees uprooted and many telegraph and telephone poles leveled by the tornado, which struck between Columbus and Crestline, Kan., and swept across into Missouri, causing heavy damage near Neosho. No one was reported injured, however.

Three deaths were caused by the week-end storms in Texas. Two persons were drowned and a railroad fireman was killed when his train ran into a washout.

ANOTHER MYSTERIOUS MURDER IN MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 3—(AP)—Another murder mystery confronted police here tonight, after a 24-hour search failed to locate a man, described by a street car conductor as the person last seen with Miss Pearl Osten, a 21-year-old college student.

Miss Osten's body was found late yesterday by children playing in a shed near an alley. Her clothing was torn, her face battered and finger marks on her throat indicated she had been strangled to death after a struggle.

The girl came here from Pellican Rapids to attend school and found employment, to aid her in paying her way, at a downtown tea room.

On her way home from working she boarded a street car at 12:30 a. m., Sunday, in company of a young man, according to a street car conductor.

During the ride from downtown, the two laughed and chatted, the conductor said, and though the girl "appeared to hesitate a little," she left the car with the man a block before her normal destination.

Four men detained by the police during the day were released tonight, when the street car conductor failed to identify them as the man with whom he had seen Miss Osten leave his car.

Relatives and friends of the girl told the police she had no men friends.

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Blood spattered wheels and small pieces of flesh on the rims of the wheels of Train 097, which pulled into the East End freight yards at one a. m., today from Harlem River, N. Y., may have come from the body of Charles Miller, 30, a painter of Glenville, Conn., which was found this morning badly mangled beside the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad tracks at the Westchester avenue crossing in Portchester, N. Y. How the man reached the crossing and whether the death was a suicide or accident, is unknown.

Train 097, a special 40-car freight, pulled into the East yards this morning with Conductor McEnroe and his engineer unaware that anything had been struck or that anything out of the ordinary had occurred. This morning when the train was being inspected, the blood and flesh were found on the wheels of the locomotive and the first four cars of the train.

FOR SKIN IRRITATIONS

FOR years the stream of life in America's greatest metropolis has swirled and eddied around the desk of its chief magistrate. Here come shattered wrecks of humanity from every social strata .... some to be made whole again .... others so far gone in drink, drugs, and depravity that it is impossible to rekindle the desire to live a normal, healthy, happy life.

These youthful rebels striking blindly against restraint are emotion-starved children, childishly seeking happiness. Broken blossoms fluttering on the edge of life's fatal vortex. What can we do for them? How can we protect them from the skillfully baited lures that tempt them?

Judge McAdoo writes about a subject that is vital. Untainted by propaganda, this article, packed with life histories, shows us an accurate and undistorted picture of things as they are.

DANIELSON

VOTING MACHINES VOTED DOWN AT KILLINGLY MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 3—A goodly company of the town's citizens sat through an interesting annual business meeting this afternoon and disposed of the matters presented for their consideration. Attorney Harry E. Back was moderator and Frank T. Preston, clerk.

Reports of various town officials were voted accepted as printed in the annual town reports, on motion of A. P. Woodward, and James N. Tucker, R. R. James and E. R. Warren were named as a committee to have charge of the expenditure of the income from the Shubael Hutchins fund during the current fiscal year.

Talking on the motion that the care of the roads in the town be left to the selectmen during the year Benjamin F. Leonard made some suggestions for the improvement of the highway between Ballouville and East Killingly, speaking particularly of a faulty culvert across the highway near his home and of failure to use heavy material to improve the center of the highway, from which it was soon swept again by heavy traffic.

On motion of Henry W. Babson an appropriation of $425 was made for the observance of Memorial day in Killingly, $100 of this to go to Dayville, $100 to East Killingly and $225 to Danielson. On motion of First Selectman John A. Gilbert an appropriation of $175 was made for the Armistice day observance here.

The voting machine project again was defeated by a vote of 182 to 103 and the announcement of the count was greeted with applause. Having been beaten twice within a period of a few weeks, this proposition likely will be packed in moth balls until next year, when, it is promised, it will be brought forward again. Attorney E. L. Darbie introduced the resolution favoring adoption of use of the machines by the town, the motion including provision to appropriate $3760 with which to purchase four machines. Attorney Darbie spoke briefly in favor of his resolution, stressing the accuracy, speed and economy accruing from the use of the machines. A. P. Woodward also spoke in favor of the resolution, which was opposed in comment made by Dr. Nathaniel Hibard and by William Behrens of East Killingly.

The meeting voted to accept the report, on motion of F. E. Bitgood, of the building committee on the enlarged high school, this being the final report, and to discharge the committee. The usual appropriation was made for the purchase of school library books and another appropriation of $1400 for the teaching of music in the schools.

On a motion offered by Luther Pilling the meeting voted favorably to naming a committee to confer with the state highway commissioner relative to the selection of some other route than the one through Reynolds street for the Providence-Hartford trunk line highway in that part of Danielson. Mr. Back named as the committee Judge Sabin S. Russell, John W. Gallup and Frederick A. Jacobs.

By the close vote of 100 to 95, the meeting still stressing its need for economy, turned down a proposal that involved the appropriation of $1500 for the care of trees along the highways of the town of Killingly, the work outlined to be done, and advocated by Luther Pilling, to be in conjunction with the state forestry department.

The meeting adjourned until 7:30 on the second Monday of next March, when the annual budget will be presented and the tax rate for the ensuing year fixed.

Counters were busy with the ballots cast in today's town election as the business meeting progresses, and the result of the balloting is told elsewhere in the column this morning.

Again American legion members here are reminding former service men who have not already given attention to the matter of their willingness to assist them in obtaining adjusted service certificates—the so-called "bonus" certificates. All claims for these certificates that have not been filed must be filed on or before January 1 next. Legionnaires are urging service men not to overlook this chance, as it really represents a duty to dependents and other relatives. Several hundred thousand veterans throughout the land have not as yet filed claim for these "bonus" certificates, many of them through carelessness, unfamiliarity with procedure or for some other reason. The American legion members are anxious to aid all of these.

Though 35 applications have been received from those who want to attend an evening school here, Supt. W. E. Parker said today that he is anxious to increase the enrollment to at least 60 prior to next week, when it is planned to begin sessions. Of those who have applied, the majority attended evening school last year, a number of them as beginners learning to read, write and speak the English language. They are so pleased with the progress that they are returning for further study this year. It is planned to have three classes in this year's evening school, one for beginners, one rated as intermediate and one that will be called advanced.

Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department is asking property owners to think at this time, before heating systems are started, to think of having chimneys cleaned, stove and furnace pipes inspected and such other checkups as may be desirable made as precautions against fire. Next week is Fire Prevention week throughout the country. Clean chimneys are one protection against unnecessary fires. Possession of fire extinguishers is still another. Removal of rubish and other inflammable material still another. What Chief Woodward is urging at this particular time is in line with his effort of every fall.

This afternoon at the home on Day street funeral services for George F. Bartholomew were conducted by Rev. Albert Abbott of the Methodist Episcopal church, with relatives and friends from this and other communities in attendance. The bearers were Clarence Morgan, Henry Anderson, Waldo Tillinghast and James Gordon, of Springfield. The body was forwarded to Fair Haven, Vt., for burial. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Glancing through the town reports distributed today, a number of the American legion called attention to the fact that Armistice day is not listed as among the holidays in the school calendar, and that the last legislature made the day a state holiday in Connecticut. The comment iso carried the suggestion that as Armistice day comes on Friday this year, it would be very appropriate if formal exercises in observance of the occasion are held in the schools if they are to be kept in session.

The truck was carrying a shipment for a chain grocery store here.

REPUBLICANS WIN KILLINGLY ELECTION BY GOOD MAJORITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 3—Alcott D. Sayles, democratic candidate for first selectman stood up in the town hall tonight and entered formal protest against Moderator Harry E. Back, declaring First Selectman John A. Gilbert, republican, reelected to his office, in view of the fact that Mr. Sayles, after personal solicitation of voters for weeks, received 758 votes in today's election against 684 for Mr. Gilbert. Mr. Back informed Mr. Sayles that he might later, in formal manner, seek a recourse from the ruling through the courts. Mr. Back said later that the count showed that Mr. Gilbert had received 589 votes designated for him on the ballot for first selectman, as against 471 designated for Mr. Sayles for the same place. Mr. Sayles of course is elected a member of the board, he also having received more votes than Napoleon C. Gingras, also a republican, who was reelected.

Another incident of the election was a tie vote at 506 between William A. Reddy and James J. Corcoran, fellow democrats, for town school committee, neither of whom was declared elected.

A day that would have been perfect for an aquatic meet hardly proved agreeable for a football game and at the end of four short quarters neither Westerly or a makeshift Speedboy eleven had scored. In spite of the intense heat a fair sized crowd was on hand to witness the fray and though the game was not at all fiercely played a few thrills were injected, so the onlookers were kept on edge throughout the game.

All but four members of the regular Jewett City squad were excused for the day and it was a light, picked-up eleven that faced the heavy Westerly team. The Speedboys resorted to an air attack and on three different occasions barely missed scoring. James, Speedboys right, intercepted a Westerly pass early in the second period and covered about 40 yards through the entire Westerly team, only to have the ball brought back to the middle of the field where the umpire declared he had stepped outside. Again in the last period the same player caught a long pass and was stopped but 5 yards short of the goal line, however the field judge claimed the Jewett City backfield was off side on the play and thus two real threats were lost. Maggia, right tackle missed by inches a try for a field goal in the second period. Westerly at no time threatened the Jewett City goal, though Moore, their 210 pound fullback made a few nice gains through the center of the Speedboy line. He was Westerly's best and only threat.

Big Boy Christy of Greeneville played the greatest game of his career at right guard for Jewett City and easily proved the outstanding lineman of the day. James also played a crack game at left as did Pop French who was the backfield star of the game. Gay from Greeneville, playing his first games as a Speedboy, showed clearly why he is rated as the fastest man in Eastern Connecticut.

For Your Guests—and Yourselves

MANY families know the meaning of the three cryptic letters, "F.H.B." It says to the initiated "for guests only." But there is no need for the family to hold back when YUBAN—the Arbuckle Guest Coffee—is served. It is delicious enough and rich enough to be held strictly as a guest coffee. But it is low enough in price to be served generously at every meal.

Get a tin of YUBAN today and see how much cheer it adds to dinner en famille.

Coffee Making Pointers

Always keep YUBAN in its closely covered can and see that the lid is on. Much of the strength of coffee is wasted if the coffee is exposed to the air.

When to Suspect Acid Scalp

It isn't age that dulls the hair. Nor frequent washing or curling. If your hair lacks all life and lustre, it may be due to a condition you can correct in twenty-four hours. Acid scalp.

Neutralize the acid secretions of the scalp, and your hair will have the lovely sheen that makes any hair so attractive. A few drops of Danderine will do this; and as its name implies, Danderine is a scientific dandruff dissolvent. Five minutes after Danderine is applied, every particle of dandruff has been dissolved!

Acid scalp should be suspected if your hair is at all stiff or stringy, or won't hold a wave. Another sign—not so easily detected in one's self—is an acrid odor to the hair when it is warm, or after exercise. And for thirty-five cents at any drugstore, you can get a bottle of Danderine that will keep your hair soft and sweet and "on its good behavior" for weeks!

THE ELECTION RESULT

Because of the excellent administration of town affairs for the past two years, it was expected that the republican ticket would be elected at the town election. It was due as an endorsement of responsibilities fully assumed and service well rendered, but the sweeping in of the entire ticket by a normal majority of 1374 as indicated by the vote for registrars of voters and the handsome majority of 2548 given to First Selectman Murray point very clearly to the sentiment of the townspeople.

These large majorities were not obtained in an election when the vote was a light one. Even though the campaign had developed no contests and not a great deal of enthusiasm it is evident by the increase in the number of votes cast over two years ago that the voters did not regard their duty lightly.

A large town vote indicates a substantial interest, in fact the very interest that there should be in matters which are of direct importance to the voters, and the large vote given the first selectman, who led the ticket, was a bit of commendation for the manner in which he has guided town affairs which cannot go unnoticed. It was a deserved expression.

By their ballots the townspeople have displayed their confidence in their town officials, have attached the proper value to their experience in office and have called upon them for the continuance of the good government which they have been providing. The sweeping victory is of much significance in connection with town management and should be followed by an equal manifestation of interest in the adjourned annual town meeting when it is held next week. The responsibilities of the voters it should be remembered extend beyond the ballott box and it is at the town meeting that the voters are expected to make provision for running the town for the next year.

BACK TO THE MINES

Inasmuch as the coal miners and operators in Illinois have come to an agreement, coal production will be resumed in that state this week. The agreement doesn't entirely settle the dispute but it marks the beginning of it, it would seem, for while the miners return under the old wage scale it is understood that this will prevail until the report is made by the special commission which will dig into the existing conditions in that region and report to the respective wage committees relative to what wages should prevail. This indicates that there is a disposition to bring about a settlement in keeping with the facts.

For six months the mines have been idle. If the attitude that prevailed in the spring had continued mines might remain closed all winter, but it is unfortunate for those who have obliged to suffer the effects of a shut down that what has been done now was not undertaken last April.

If the claims of the operators are as represented they can be proved, and it is expected that the commission will give weight consideration not only to the demands of the miners but to the situation that is faced by the operators and the competition which they are compelled to meet. After this study which has been agreed upon the commission should be in a position to indicate what is regards as fair to all concerned and their finding can well be used as a basis for a permanent agreement as to wages and working conditions.

This means of approaching a settlement is a sensible one, but no more so now than it was last spring. Had similar action been taken at that time the commission would have been ready to make its report by this time and there would havce been no interruption of coal production, no loss of wages and no hardship inflicted upon the coal consumers. In this strike the consumers have not been injured quite as much as on other occasions because of preparations in anticipation of the strike but that is one of the strike results which is usually depended upon to help advance the end.

FILM TRANSPORTATION

Opinions will vary as to whether there should be a law prohibiting the transportation of fight films, but when it comes to understanding what the law means, even in its present state, there can be no question but what the idea is to prevent the carrying of the films from one state to another whether it is by train, except or flying machine.

Following the last fight arrests were made in Chicago for violation of the federal law restricting the transportation of fight films. Because one defendant claimed that he had planned to take the films to Canada the judge is quoted as saying "he was still uncertain regarding the transportation by airplane over and not through states," although he could see no reason for stopping such traffic if no films were dropped in the states.

According to the law it is unlawful to deposit fight films in the mails, with express companies or other common carriers to be sent from one state to another. The purpose is to prevent interstate transportation of such films. At to that there is no question and it seems to be stretching the question a bit when an effort is made to claim that because an airplane is not mentioned that such transportation of films would be lawful simply because it had not been mentioned as being unlawful. The intent is the same regardless of the type of carrier. The same object would be accomplished, and accomplished quicker, if the films were carried by airplane.

It is well understood that the interstate commerce commission has no authority to regulate interstate bus lines, simply because there was none in existence to require it at the time the commission was created and that additional legislation will be required before the commission can be given any such authority, but when it comes to moving films from state to state it is transportation whatever the method employed, whether it is a railroad, a highway or the air. The intent of the law would appear to cover transportation of all kinds.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

How many are the instances where the public fails to get what it pays for is impossible to tell, but from time to time there are cases disclosed which justify all the provisions which are made for testing weights and measures and place emphasis upon giving a square deal.

Decidedly interesting are the revelations when gasoline pumps are tested out by authorities in different communities, and too often it is the case that the consumer is getting far less than what he is paying for.

Over in Waterbury a weights and measures tester found 3620 pounds in a load of coal when the ticket called for the delivery of 4000 pounds. It was a good thing for the person to whom the coal was being delivered and it was also a good thing for the coal dealer, for carelessness, whether on the part of dealer of employe, can be quite as detrimental to business as the deliberate short weighing of commodities.

Various measures have been taken for the purpose of protecting the consumer. Bad scales and bad principles have deprived buyers of much to which they were entitled. Bad pumps can do the same thing concerning gasoline unless there is frequent testing to establish the fact that full measure is being given. With correct scales there is no good excuse for underweight, no matter what is being sold. Haste in weighing that comes nearer guesswork than accuracy is a practice that deserves every possible discouragement. It comes next to dishonesty and places a handicap upon a business which means a greater loss in the end than might be gained through shortweight profits. The tester of weights and measures has plenty to do in many directions for public protection.

DISAPPOINTED FLIERS

Aviators Brock and Schlee are back in this country once more. They have crossed the Pacific but not in the air and they are considerably peeved, according to one interview because the government did not make it possible for them to try the flight from Japan to the Midway islands by providing the necessary radio beacons that would have shown the way.

These aviators made an excellent showing in their attempt to lower the record for flying around the world. Could they have negotiated the Pacific there is no doubt but what they would have accomplished their purpose, so successful was their flight after leaving this country.

By the time they had gotten to Japan, however, there had been many equally eminent fliers who had sacrificed their lives in attempts to accomplish oceanic flights which were shorter and less dangerous than the one they contemplated. It had gotten to the point where the government was not willing to sanction ocean flights in land planes and it could not lend its approval to the desires of the aviators who were out for a record to the extent of abetting them in their plan.

Had such a service been wanted it seems a bit strange that arrangements had not been made for it in advance as there could have been no misunderstanding concerning it at the last minute. It is believed, however, that whether it was the appeals of friends, the attitude of the government or their own good judgment in calling off their flight, the decision was a sensible one and made more certain the chances of their friends ever seeing them again. They may be disappointed but they are alive to tell about it, and that's something.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Monday's election shows what getting out the vote means.

It seems to be up to Admiral Magruder to put a new organ in organization.

If some one would only predict a warm winter there would be a chance for the opposition to express itself.

Every cold wave accentuates the fact that summer has gone and it is unwise not to prepare for the winter.

The man on the corner says: It is quite evident the people are not willing to risk a change in town government.

Now, if you feel the need of doing something, you might start a protest to soviet Russia against the firing of Leon Trotzky.

With coal described as a raw material, not a fuel there are those who will point to it as confirming their classification of it as real estate.

When the mayor of New York on returning from abroad says he could kiss every inch of the sidewalks of that city, he might get the chance if he would only make the right kind of a bet.

SOMETHING VERY SWEET

"Dear Postmaster," the letter read. "Is anybody left in your town that remembers an old settler named John Gildey? He and his wife live in a small flat in Chicago now and are quite feeble. They have just money enough to get along by being very careful but their folks are all gone and they are lonely.

"Next Friday is their golden wedding day and I don't think anybody knows it. They wouldn't like it if I told the neighbors. I wish somebody would come to see them Friday. I keep house for them.

JANE BREWSTER".

"Now, honeybug," said Jane Brewer to her little daughter when the letter was sealed, "you're going to watch mother make a bell out of this old waste basket. Mother's going to hang this up in the hall to surprise Mr. and Mrs. Gildey on their golden wedding morning."

"Wha's go-dun weddun, mudder?"

"It's something very sweet—or very sad," said Jane Brewer, cutting tissue paper.

In the little front room the old couple were sitting.

"Hear this, father," chirped the tiny old woman by the window. She was holding a reading glass over a newspaper. "It says a man asked his wife, 'What's an octogenarian?' an' she says 'I don't know. Why?' An' he says, 'Oh, nothing. Whatever they are, they seem to be all dying off.'" She laughed, but old John Gildey with a lengthening face shrugged his aching shoulder against the radiator and grumbled.

"Nice story to read to an 82-year-old man!"

"Well, what about me? I'm 80, too!" This was her pet rally. "We might's well laugh as cry. And say, pa"—reverting, as she sometimes did, to the old fashioned word—"do you realize it's 50 years, come Friday, since our wedding?"

"Don't want to realize," he declared irascibly. "Don't want any fuss about it. Remember," And under his breath he added, "Children gone—friends gone—nothing left but two old bodies full of aches and pains."

The little woman looked hurt.

"Pa's not himself," she thought.

"Well, I shan't mention our golden wedding again." And presently she wiped away a glistening tear.

So it happened that on Friday morning they dressed without speaking. Old John Gildey had grown to "hate a fuss" about anniversaries, but deep in the heart of Mrs. Gildey was a feeling that a golden wedding should be an exception.

They walked into the hall and saw the big white bell with its tangerine tongue swaying back and forth, and under it a little girl in a starched white dress, calling excitedly:

"Happy go-dun weddun-day! Happy go-dun weddun day!"

At breakfast, a snowy tablecloth and napkins— best dishe—everything shiny.

Buckwheat cakes and sausage. Bad for old folks, but they loved it, and, as Jane Brewer said: "Once in 50 years!"

By afternoon—a miracle! Old John Gildey, in his best coat, smiling. Mrs. Gildey, in her gray silk—happy. Jane Brewer had surprised them with a magnificent "wedding cake," goldfrosted, with a big "50" in tiny white candles on the top. Now she was making coffee.

The doorbell rang and a stranger came in.

"I'm the postmaster from your old home town, folks," he began. "We're making a special effort nowadays to honor our old settlers." He presented a box of flowers—50 golden daffodils. "You don't know me," he went on. "My folks moved west years ago, but after I lost my wife out there I came back. You might remember my grandfather, Josiah Thatcher."

"S! Thatcher!" Old John Gildey set up. "We were boys together! Si Thatcher! It's just like yesterday. Ever hear you granddather tell about the fellow that pulled him out the mill-pond when he was 'most drowned?"

"I'll say I have"—delightedly—"and you're that fellow!"

There was a splendid time after that. Cake and coffee and talk. When Jane Brewer showed the visitor out at last the little girl drewy a long "Oh!" of satisfaction.

"Isn't go-dun weddun sweet?" she asked the two old folks. And John Gildey, awkwardly—because it doesn't often happen in these days—reached for his old wife's wrinkled hand.

"Yes," he said seimply, "they are."

Outside the door the postmaster looked into Jane Brewer's brown eyes. "Couldn't find a soul that remembered 'em," he said. "Things change so fast. And I never dreamed he was the one I've heard my grandfather tell about. Say, that was luck! But look here—don't give me too much credit. Curiosity—that was what brought me. Your letter—I wanted a look at you. And I'm coming again."—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

YOUR EYES MAY REVEAL YOUR DISEASE

Frank E. Burch, M. D., St. Paul, Minn.
Member Gorgas Memorial

Few persons realize that the eyes may at some time show evidence of many diseases by the abnormal appearance of the structures visible within the eyes. Locomotor ataxia and other diseases of the spinal cord or a tumor of the brain may be discovered by the pupillary reactions or changes in the optic nerves. Undue prominence of the eyeballs comes from goiter, faulty movement of the globe results from muscular paralysis orignating in the brain, and nasal diseases show in excessive congestion and irritation of the eyes.

Disease of the kidneys, diabetes, syphilis, and certain forms of anemia may be first discovered in the background of the eye by the use of the opthalmoscope, an instrument used to look into the eye. Nor is it generally realized that so-called focal infections, such as root abscesses of the teeth, diseased tonsils, sinus diseases or such remote sources of infection as are sometime present in the genito-urinary organ, may through dissemination of their toxic products in the general circulation effect changes in the eye structures as the first evidence of serious trouble ahead.

Perhaps the commonest of all conditions which study of the retinal circulation discloses to the oculist during his careful routine examination are arteriosclerosis and high blood pressure, or both. The early signs of these conditions are found only too frequently after they are far advanced; but they may, when carefully sought for, be discovered at a time when correction of their causes may be remedied and before a serious result follows.

The retinal blood vessels are directly visible under very considerable magnification with the aid of the apthalmoscope. Diseases of the retinal blood vessels are a very good indication of similar changes in the blood vessels throughout the entire system, and when the abnormal conditions found in them are properly interpreted and timely advice given it is the means of avoiding what may become serious trouble.

The attention now being given to heart disease and degeneration of the blood vessels, incident to our high-geared mode of living, makes the evidence found in the retinal circulation a very valuable aid to the medical examiner. No examination of the eyes is thorough or complete without a study of the interior and background of the eye with the opthalmoscope. Eventually every complete clinical examination will include the evidence so obtained for in this age of preventive medicine early signs of disease are the best means of seeking causative medicine early signs of disease are the best means of seeking causative factors at a time when precentive measures may do some good.

IN DAY'S NEWS

CAMBODIA

The world's oldest monarch, the king of Cambodia, 87 years of age, recently died in his picturesque capital, Pnom-Penh, in southeast Asia. His land, part medieval, part ultra-modern, is described in the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Cambodia is a hodge podge of the unexpected," says the bulletin. "It is a land of forests, damp and leech-infested; of open savannahs, of wide rice fields and plodding water buffalo; of tigers and wild elephants; of humble cottagers, all literate, whose chief pleasure is writing poetry; of gilded modern pagodas, and temples, hoary with age, swallowed by the jungle; of automobiles, trolley cars, and electric lights.

"The forms of an oriental kingdom are faithfully followed; but behind the king, his five ministers, and his court formalities, stands the French resident-superior, and at his elbow a few French soldiers: for Cambodia is a part of French Indo-China and a protectorate of France. The country is slightly smaller than the state of Missouri and has a population of about two and a half millions.

"The Mekong, one of the world's great rivers, is the life artery of Cambodia. Sea going steamers ascend the stream to Pnom-Penh, the capital, 200 miles from the sea; and smaller steamers and junks traverse the network of streams and lakes hundreds of miles farther inland. But it is not only as a waterway that the stream is useful. On its overflowed lands the country's chief crop, rice, is raised in abundance.

"Most of the civilized people are concentrated along the river between its lower reaches and the Siamese border. The country houses in all parts of Cambodia are set on posts which raise them from six to ten feet off the ground. This is necessary along the river banks because of the high floods, and elsewhere to protect the householders from tigers.

"During the flood season a great lake forms in western Cambodia, into which the waters of the Mekong flow until it becomes a body of water 118 miles long, 18 miles wide and more than 35 feet deep. When the floods recede, the waters flow from this natural reservoir back into the Mekong and keep its lower reaches well filled. The great importance of the river and its floods is recognized by an annual festival on the stream connecting the Great lake and the Mekong. A cord is stretched across the stream and at the time of reversal of the flow this is cut with great ceremony by the king from the royal houseboat.

"The highlands to the north are occupied by wild tribes of hunters who must fight for existence against rank vegetation, wild animals, snakes and insects. Slave raids from neighboring countries have made them wary and suspicious and they look upon all outlanders as enemies. Some of them protect their villages by poisoned darts stuck up in the ground.

"Practically all of the civilized Cambodians are literate. The country abounds in old temples, built during the Cambodian Golden age, some 700 years ago.

"In these the Buddhist priests conduct schools which are attended by all children, from those of humble farmers to those of the royal family. The princes, like all other boys of Cambodia, must live during a certain period as novitiates in a temple, subsisting by means of the begging bowl, as the Buddha did, and as the priests do today.

"Pnom-Penh is a colorful capital set upon hills on the banks of the Mekong, its ornate temple spires and magenta tiled roofs half hidden by giant palms and flowering tropical trees. In a parklike inclosure of his multitudinous feminine retainers. Whomever happens to be the king of Cambodia might be described as a manarch entirely surrounded by women. Some are wives, some servants ,and hundreds are dancing girls, trained from childhood to perform the intricate movements of dances handed down from the remote past.

"Cambodian women present a striking modern appearance with their short hair and what might be mistaken at first sight for knickerbockers. This nether garment is the 'sampot.' In making it a width of cloth is girded about the waist, then the ends are folded between the legs and tucked in at the waist line. Both men and women wear the sampot, and it is often difficult for a westerner to distinguish between them. The men, however, wear a sort of jacket above the sampot, while the women for the most part wear a cloth or scarf draped over one shoulder and under the other arm.

"The sampots of both men and women are usually of brilliant colors. Every where on the streets of Pnom-Penh one sees the yellow robes of the Buddhist priests; and the parasols carried by the men of the upper classes add still other hues to the street scenes. But though the capital is soaked in eastern atmosphere, the west has been introduced by the handful of French officials and business men. Electric street lights twinkle among the hanging flowers of tropical trees; tram cars lumber by; and one may book passage to outlying towns in motor buses that ply over well metaled roads.

"Evidence of the high culture and power of the Cambodians at the height of their Khmer empire, from the eighth to the fourteenth centuries is seen in the remarkable ruined temples and palaces of the old capital city of Angkor-Thom, now deserted and surrounded by forest and jungle. The terrances and walls of the old structures abound in excellent stone work, intricate carvings, and highly artistic sculpture. Despite the difficulty of access, thousands of visitors go annually to see the wonders of this old capital city.

"The culture of the Cambodians during their Golden age was owing in large part to their leadership by Hindu colonists and conquerors. Brahmin influences are still to be traced in the Buddhism of Cambodia."

CHILD TRAINING

TEACHING CHILDREN SELF-DISCIPLINE

Helen Gregg Green

We have a motherhood club in our town which has proved very helpful. To the last meeting, one of the members brought her small son, John Russell. During the afternoon the child became restless and cross. Finally to cap the climax, he had a first-class tantrum. His mother seemed quite unconcerned.

After John Russell had won his point, he ran out-of-doors to play, as serene as the proverbial summer day.

"He's a wonderful boy!" his mother said beamingly. "He has so much will-power. He really was cunning, wasn't he! And," a bit wistfully, "he'll get over the disagreeable part of it."

"O, yes, don't worry," Grandmother Mills advised. "Joe was of the same temperament. I remember one day I took him to the doctor's. He didn't want to go in the first place. The doctor told Joe to open his mouth, he wanted to see his throat. Joe slapped him! Oh, it was so funny! And look at my boy today, a most successful business man!"

After we left Joe's wife burst forth, "Oh! I get so angry with Joe's mother. I've heard her tell that story gleefully time and time again. She prides herself on having always allowed Joe plenty of 'self-expression.' I never curbed the child,' she boasts. And now the children and I are paying the piper. O, don't misunderstand me. Of course I love him and I've never mentioned this to anyone else. But Joe has a terrible temper—absolutely no self-control. Often when he's helping the children with their lessons he'll become provoked at some trifle and zip! he's off. A hectic scene follows, with Judith and Dickey in tears. The last time, he yelled at Judith, 'You're dumb, Judy! Just plain dumb! That's why you don't know.' I told him I would rather he would never again help with the lessons, and I meant it. O, yes, Joe was never curbed, and his children are suffering in consequence. I'm trying my best at this late date to teach him self-control, but it has meant many unpleasant scenes, without very good results. Oh! why did his mother encourage, yes, actually encourage, those tantrums when he was small!" And my little friend's eyes snapped.

So le's all take a hint; what may seem "cute" and indicative of a strong mind in a child may become an odius characteristic in an adult.

Little Talks on Thrift

Efforts are being made at this time to concentrate public thought during the second week of October on the very important theme of fire prevention. This is a phase of thrift that should have the attention of every citizen of the nation. We are told by experts that during the last six years upwards of $3,000,000,000 worth of property in the United States has been destroyed by fire. This represents about one-half of the amount we spend each year on new buildings.

What is even more alarming is the fact that the annual loss of life due to fire is about 15,000, or more than 40 lives a day—terrific price, indeed, to pay for a national vice that traces its origin almost entirely to individual carelessness!

Fire and insurance experts tell us that 90 per cent of all fires are preventable and are due to small acts of carelessness.

It is paradoxical that many of life's most important happenings originate from unimportant causes. The carelessness tossing of a lighted cigar, cigarette or match the overturning of a lamp, the accidental crossing of wires, the accumulation of oil-soaked rags, and a thousand and one other equally small circumstances have caused historic tragedies.

Statisticians report that during every minute of the day and night in the United States property worth $1,064 is lost through fire. Substantially every hour of the day or night bringe the loss of two human lives—all due to a great extent to carelessness and, therefore, unnecessary.

We cannot hope to merit the honor of being a thrifty nation when we permit the continuation of such criminal thriftlessness.

It is well that one week early in October will be devoted to efforts to arouse greater public attention to the need of fire prevention.—American Society for Thrift.

Peter Rabbit Makes a Threat

The making of a foolish threat
But paves the way for vain regret.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was dissatisfied. Yes, sir, he was dissatisfied. He had been dissatisfied before, but never quite so dissatisfied as he now was. He was tired of the dear Old Briar-patch. It is hard to believe, but it was so. He wanted to move up to the Old Pasture, or else over to the edge of the Green Forest. Timid little Mrs. Peter wouldn't listen to it. She just wouldn't listen to it.

"Peter Rabbit," said she, thumping the ground with one of her feet, "are you wholly and altogether crazy? Haven't we always been happy here in the dear Old Briar-patch? Haven't we always been safe here? Haven't we brought up a family every year without ever losing one of the children? What under the sun has put this idea of moving into that silly head of yours?"

"But, my dear," protested Peter, "you haven't been out in the Great World and you don't realize that there is anything except the dear Old Briar-patch. It is a good thing to live around. It broadens one." Peter said this with a very grand air.

"Broadens one!" sniffed little Mrs. Peter. "Broadens one! That is just what a tramp rabbit said when he visited the Old Pasture when I was young. You know very well, Peter Rabbit, that there is no place in all the Great World like a good home."

"True, my dear, true," replied Peter "I want a good home. I've always wanted a good home. No one appreciates a good home more than I do. But there is no reason why we can't have a good home somewheres besides in the dear Old Briar-patch. Now, up there in the Old Pasture, for instance."

"Don't talk to me about the Old Pasture," snapped little Mrs. Peter, and really her voice was quite sharp. "Didn't I live up there all my life until you took me away? It's beautiful and all that, but you know very well that Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy are living up there, and that Old Man Coyote and Mrs. Coyote are living up there. I don't like such neighbors. What is more, I don't purpose to have such neighbors. They can't get into the dear Old Briar-patch and we have never had to worry about them and we never will have to worry about them. If you would stay at home and mind your own business, instead of poking that homely nose of yours into other people's business, you would be a lot better off and you would find the dear Old Briar-patch quite good enough for any Rabbit. Now, I don't want to hear anything more about moving from the dear Old Briar-patch. If you go you'll go alone. Don't think that I'll come after you, because I won't. Don't fool yourself that way, Peter."

"True, my dear, true," replied Peter.

Never since they were married had Peter Rabbit been talked to like this. He didn't know what to make of it. At first he couldn't find his tongue. He couldn't think of a thing to say. The very fact that he couldn't answer back made him lose his temper. And once he lost his temper he became very angry. "I will," said he.

"You will what?" demanded little Mrs. Peter.

"I will leave the dear Old Briar-patch," retorted Peter. "I'm tired of it and there isn't any reason in the world why we should stay here. If you want to stay here you can, but I'm going to leave." He held his head very high as he said this.

"Very well," said little Mrs. Peter, "but if you do leave you needn't come back. Do you hear that?"

"I hear it," replied Peter. "You needn't worry. I won't want to come back."

NEW BOOKS

The House of Fulfilment. By L. Adams Beck. Cloth, 432 pages. Published by Cosmopolitan Book corporation, New York. Price, $2.50.

Mrs. Beck's new novel is set in the high hills of India, where a rich and cultured English couple, Lance and Lucia Dunbar, had come for peaceful study. With the Dunbars in their beautiful home lived Brynhild Ingmar, a sculptor of genius who attributed her phenomenal power to the study of yaga.

To this place of quiet came Cardonald, a man who was running away from his conscience; and the novel unfolds in the bizarre love story of Cardonald and the radiant Brynhild Ingmar.

The Dunbars and Miss Ingmar were about to set out on a perilous journey to a Tibetan monastery, in search of ancient manuscripts of fabulous wisdom. Cardonald went with them and shared their adventures through high mountainin passes, flooed rivers and bandit-infested lands. As in Rudyard Kipling's "Kim", the whole of India unfolds in the eventful journey-scenes of exotic beauty, strange people and strange adventures in which philosophy and danger and quaint humor are blended in one. Cardonald decides to go study yoga and is tutored by the guide of the party. There is a clear cut picture of the essentials of Buddhistic philosophy.

It is a colorful panorama that leads up to the winning of the lovely Miss Ingmar. Monasteries perched on breath-taking chasms; monks with beautiful, far-away eyes; men of gentle wisdom and savage Tibetan bandits; the hunger for the spiritual truth and the more earthy hunger for tea and buttered cakes are all a part of the picture. It is an adventure story in more than one sense.

Janny. By Jane Abbott, with illustrations by Emlen McConnell. Cloth, 288 pages, published by J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price, $1.75.

It's a real adventure for a girl who has lived all her 15 years at Painted Post, a mining camp in Canada, to find herself whisked way to New York. That's what happened to Janice Bartley when, after her father's death, an almost forgotten uncle turned up to take her to his home. Janice didn't want to go. She loved Painted Post, its games and all its queer characters—but she was won over by the tales of all the fun her cousins had—the tennis and dancing and skating. But it wasn't as easy as she had expected to enter into their good times. Carol wouldn't take a "country cousin" to her parties. Charlie wouldn't take her to the skating rink with his friends. But Janny made the best of it. Then Uncle Nicholas' business failed. Janice thought of the envelope her father had given her to keep until Joe Primrose came for it. Joe had never come—so Janice peeked and found it contained a great treasure. And now Uncle Nicholas needed it. So she sent the envelope back to Painted Post and waited impatiently. They had to leave their lovely house and move to the farm. Then what a chance to show her mettle! She felt she had conquered the world when Carol finally said "I need you."

It is a whole-hearted, true to nature story, the kind girls like to read, and the kind Mrs. Abbot knows how to write.

Hue and Cry. By Patricia Wentworth. Cloth, 320 pages. Published by J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price, $2.

Mally was a fugitive from the police. It all happened because she had taken a position as governess to Sir George Peterson's little girl, Barby. Barby asked Mally to hate the Slug, her father's secretary; and Mally did—the minute she saw him. But he liked Mally—he wanted her; and if a Slug wants anything he can't have he is apt to be unpleasant. So when, a few days later, the lost Moghul's diamond was found in Mally's possession the Slug was delighted. It was his chance. He had made a terrble mistake and now he could blame it on Mally. If she had stolen the pin they would believe anything of her. Mally, of course, could not stay and let them turn her over to the police—guilty or innocent she was going to leave that house. And she took with her as a remembrance some drawings of Barby's. Day after day Mally wandered—she had not a friend in England. Until she met Ethan—what a comfort he was—big, friendly, cheerful. Days passed. And her mind kept reverting to Ethan—whom she feared she'd never see again. But after the very darkest night came the brightest dawn, and Mally found herself not only happy but a heroine as well. It is as delightful as "The Amazing Chance" by the same author.

NORWICH REPUBLICANS PUT MURRAY BACK IN OFFICE BY RECORD MAJORITY

Norwich voters paid a great personal tribute to First Selectman William S. Murray and the conduct of town affairs under the republican administration when they returned him to office Monday by the record breaking majority of 1,548. Two years ago his majority was 367.

The normal republican majority, as figured on the count for registrars of voters in which there is no contest was 1,374. Every one of the six districts in the town gave republican figures, but the margin was close in the fifth, Taftville, where there was a wavering towards Michael J. Curran and Arthur J. Roy, the two democratic candidates for assessors, both of whom beat out their republican opponents in that district.

The composition of the board of selectmen will remain the same as before as Charles P. Bushnell, republican, was re-elected and Patrick T. Connell, democrat, again is given third place on the board.

Fred G. Prothero, for two years, and John B. Oat, for six years, were re-elected assesors, while James C. Fitzpatrick and Francis Beique are returned to the board of relief, with Edward Kirby, democrat, winning the minority place on the board.

Voting was slow for the larger part of the day, but in the central district there was a sudden rush in the last half hour and both men and women arrived so fast in the town hall that lines were formed in front of the checker's desks. The last person to vote there was a woman who got inside the doors just as Moderator M. E. Jensen was swinging them shut at the first stroke of five on the town clock.

There was about a 60 per cent vote as shown by the following tabulation from the several districts:

	MEN		WOMEN

Moderator Jensen as assisted in taking the figures from the three machines by Registrars Guy and Downes. Reports from the other districts came in quickly in the following order, East Side, Taftville, West Side and Greeneville. Then there was a wait for over an hour for the Norwich Town figures, due to delay in making up some of the clerical details there.

The vote was finally assembled and announced by Moderator Jensen shortly before 7 o'clock and the annual town meeting was called to order, but at once adjourned to next Monday night at 8 o'clock.

Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court for this county has received the following notice of a vote passed at a meeting of the judges of the superior court on Saturday, Sept. 24 1927:

"It was voted that section 49 of the rules of the superior court, practice book page 252, be amended to read as follows:

"Section 49—The clerk shall mail to each attorney or firm of attorneys in the first week of each month, a bill for any fees that may be due from them to the state, and payable to him in its behalf, and said bills must be paid to him within one month after they are so mailed. You Pay

No more, no less... but Quaker Oats has the flavor

THE difference in breakfast oats is in their flavor. The price mostly is the same.

Millions demand the Quaker brand because of its toasty, wonderful flavor. For flavor is the important point in food.

Some 50 years were spent perfecting that famous Quaker flavor. Once you taste it, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates and vitamines and "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.

Get Quick Quaker (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes) or Quaker Oats today at your grocer. See how much finer tomorrow's breakfast will be than today's.

Hard corns, soft corns, corns between the toes and calluses lift right off! You'll laugh—it is so easy and doesn't hurt a bit!

Just drop "Freezone" on any tender, touchy corn. Instantly it stops aching; then shortly you just lift that old bothersome corn right off with your fingers. It works like a charm, every time. Seems magic!

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs only a few cents at any drug store—Try it!

It was also voted, upon recommendation of the director of law or deny the request of the Salvation Army for an abatement of taxes on the army building, Main street. For the city's counsel stated that the city did not have authority to make the abatement inasmuch as the lower floor of the building is used for cokercial purposes. He said that no religious organization is chargeable for taxes when the property of such organization is used solely for religious purposes.

At the regular meeting the newly elected members, including Mayor May, were sworn to the faithful performance of their duties by City Clerk Julian D. Moran. After numerous contracts for material for city construction work had been awarded, upon recommendation of the city manager, Mayor May addressed the council in a prepared speech, in which he pledged himself to perform the duties of his office to his best ability and always bearing in mind the interests of the taxpayers, whom he represented. He asked for support from the members of the council.

Mayor May announced the following standing committees: Education—Councilor Lucius E. Walton. Finance—Councilor John F. Murray. Public Safety—Councilor Malcolm M. Scott. Administration—Councilor Edward L. Streeter. Jr Public Works—Councilor Robert B. Chappell. Public Welfare—Councilor Cornelius D. Twomey.

RAIN HINDERS PRE-SERIES PRACTICE OF PIRATES AND YANKS AT PITTSBURGH

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3—(AP)—If there is anything in a weather omen, it seems that the Pirates may have the edge on the Yankees in their battle for the world's baseball championship, starting Wednesday. The swash-buckling National leaguers captured the world's series of 1925 in the mud and mist of Forbes field and it appeared today, as a steady rain turned this battleground into a quagmire, that the elements again were casting favorable signs toward the Corsairs. But the prospect for the opening day is for brighter and fairer weather.

Today was dark and gloomy as the rival clans gathered for baseball's classic and the game's white haired overlord, Commissioner Landis, arrived to give the scene a preliminary survey. However, there was anything but a dark and gloomy touch to the spirits of the walloping Yankees who reached the scene of the conflict this morning, or the attitude of the Pirates, reassembled again after their great fight for the National league pennant.

The opening game, it seems assured, will be a struggle between the two right hand pitching aces of the contending clubs, Remy (Ray) Kremer, the California comet, for the Bucs, and Waite Charles Hoyt, the Brooklyn undertaker, for the Yankees. Smith, of the Pirates, and Collins of the Yanks, will be the opposing catchers in the opener.

Donie Bush, scrappy little chief, has committed himself definitely to Kremer as first choice, with Vic Aldridge, the Hoosier schoolmaster, slated for the second game assignment. Miller Huggins, conceding some poundage to Bush in this battle of midget master minds, probably will start Hoyt but he declined to commit himself definitely today beyond saying that the first game would see either Hoyt or Wilcy Moore, the Oklahoma "sinker ball" artist, on the mound. Huggins will make a positive selection after tomorrow's workout.

Ruth, always the dramatic figure is the hub of most comment as the clans gather from far and near for what seems likely to be as colorful a series as any in recent years. The famous Waner boys, Paul and Lloyd, are a source of keen interest because of the big part they played in bringing the Pirate craft into the pennant port. There are almost as many wagers, as a matter of fact, on whether the Waners will outhit Ruth and Gehrig as there are on the teams.

Should this series go the limit it would be possible for the attendance to exceed 360,000 and the receipts to be around $1,500,000, still short of Tex Rickard's expensive boxing spectacles, but a mark unheard of in baseball history.

SPECULATORS OPERATING ON BIG SCALE IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3—(AP)—Without police opposition and apparently seeking, rather than avoiding newspaper publicity, speculators in world's series tickets opened numerous offices in the business section today in anticipation of a big demand for the pasteboards.

In one hotel, speculators were offering $35 to holders of $5.50 grandstand tickets and, in turn, putting them up for sale at $25. Others, however, were selling strips of less choice tickets, three to a strip, for as low as $30. The face value of the three-game strip is $16.50.

Newspapers published the names and addresses of a dozen speculators doing a buy-sell-or-exchange business.

PIRATES WILL HAVE EDGE IN CATCHING DEPT.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3—(AP)—With the peppery and aggreaive Earl Smith slated to do the bulk of the work behind the bat, the Pirates are expected by most critics to have an edge over the Yankees in worlds series catching.

Smith not only has a better defensive record than either of the Yankee regulars, Pat Collins and Grabowski, but he is regarded as more dangerous threat at bat.

Earl's fiery spirit cost the Pirates his services for a month of the league campaign, during which he was suspended and fined $500 for attacking Dave Bancroft, manager of the Braves.

Smith has always been talkative and aggressive. "Oil" got much of his baseball education in the John McGraw school. The players credit him with getting the "goats" of Bucky Harris and Goose Goslin in the 1925 series, which the Pirates won from the Senators.

Johnny Gooch, Smith's alternate, is a capable receiver but he lacks Smith's experience.

Collins, a heavy hitter and steady backstop, had done the bulk of Yankee work but Pat's slowness afoot is a handicap. Grabowski and Bengough, who has seen comparatively little action since breaking an arm over a year ago, are younger and more aggressive. "Benny" may see considerable series service, as a matter of fact, although the other two have done most of the regular season work.

The catches' comparison, based on latest unofficial averages:

	Ab	H	B.Pct.	Fld.Pct.
Collins	250	67	.268	.975
Bengough ..	83	20	.241	.985
Grabowski .	191	53	.277	.983
Gooch	289	75	.260	.976
Smith	184	49	.266	.986
Spencer	89	26	.292	.973

WORLD'S SERIES SIDELINES

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3—(AP)—Rain washed out the range finding of the Yankee artillery today shortly after it went into action at Forbes field. The Huggins clouting circus twins—Ruth and Gehrig—sank two long home runs each into the reaches of the right field stands. Meusel and Lazzeri tried to drop the ball into the temporary bleachers erected in the street back of the left field fence. The Babe remarked later that the Yanks ought to batter all the fences and said it was a good hitting field.

Centerfield is called middlefield in Pittsburgh, and Babe Ruth, noticing that the scoreboard was lettered "MF" instead of "CF" called out to Traynor, the Pirate's star third baseman, sitting in the stand: "Say Pie, where is centerfield in this park"

Pie grinned and replied "over in left field, Babe."

The first and third basemen won't have many long runs for fouls. Temporary boxes encroach far into foul territority so that the fleet Traynor and Jumping Joe Dugan will see many foul balls drop safe that they otherwise could catch in their hip pockets.

Temporary field boxes in deep left field run within four feet of the foul line and balls hit past third base may prove troublesome.

Buster Gehrig flung his cap high in the air and did a dance today when he received a telegram that his mother had successfully undergone an operation for goitre. Lou as well as the other Yankees, had felt much concerned over Mrs. Gehrig, herself an ardent fan, and the players shared the first baseman's joy at the good news.

INFIELDS OF PIRATES AND YANKS COMPARE WELL

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3—(AP)—There is little to choose in the relative offensive and defensive strength of the Yankee and Pirate inner cordons, although the American leaguers hold perhaps a slight edge on form, such as it is revealed by the latest unofficial records.

Where the Pirates are strong on the left side, with Glenn Wright at short and Captain Pie Traynor at third, the Yankees appear considerably stronger on the other side, with Lou Gehrig at first and Tony Lazzeri at second.

Traynor and Gehrig are the outstanding pair. The Pirate captain, generally rated the best third sacker in the game, has a big margin over his veteran rival, Joe Dugan, in every department of the game. Gehrig, the "boy buster", also has a record of achievement, especially at bat, that outshines the performance of Joe Harris but it is largely because the Pirate veteran, after finding National league pitching more to his liking than anything he ever faced, slumped through illness.

Traynor has a margin of 71 points over Dugan in batting while Gehrig has a 45 point edge on Harris. Traynor and Gehrig are comparative youths, in their prime, while Dugan and Harris are past the peak. Dugan, if his trick knee is in shape, may not be outshone by his rival in the field. Harris, too, if he recovers from the stomach trouble that has been bothering him, may prove as dangerous a batsman as Gehrig, as well as reliable on the defense. Joe has a habit of getting his hits when they are needed most.

The keystone combinations are pretty well matched. Although Lazzeri and Mark Koenig, the Yankee pair, boast slightly better marks than George Grantham and Wright, both at bat and afield, Lazzeri is steadier than Grantham on the defense but both are dangerous long distance clouters. Tony has hit more homers but Grantham has walloped more doubles and triples.

Koenig and Wright are a good deal of the same type, occasionally erratic but often brilliant. Wright has had four years big league experience to Koenig's two. The Pirate star is more of a "clean up" hitter. Batting fourth, Wright led the club in driving in runs until Paul Waner came along to grab the honor this season.

Here are the latest unofficial averages of the infielders:

	AB	H	B.Pct	Fld.Pct
First baseman:
Gehrig	574	215	.374	.994
Harris	403	133	.330	.992
Second baseman:
Lazzeri	559	175	.313	.960
Grantham ..	524	162	.309	.956
Shortstop:
Koenig	512	145	.283	.949
Wright	564	159	.283	.941
Third baseman:
Dugan	377	101	.268	.935

HARVARD-PRINCETON ALUMNI TO PATCH UP BREAK

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—The younger alumni of Harvard and Princeton, men who have clashed in time-honored "Big Three" rivalries of the past and regret the passing of the historic triumvirate, revealed a definite plan today to restore the breach in under graduate relations between the two universities that followed the annual football contest last fall.

In an effort to demonstrate to the undergrate bodies the "childishness of their attitudes," former grid heroes of the two schools have arranged a football game between alumni of Harvard and Princeton to take place at the Yankee stadium Oct. 30. The field has been turned over to them for that date by Charles C. Pyle, professional football promoter. Proceeds of the game will be given to the Red Cross.

Spokesmen for both bodies of alumni declared today that the contest was "purely for the sport of the thing in the belief that the game might act as an opening wedge to restore the breach in Harvard and Princeton relations." Stress was placed on the fact that the move was "purely independent of the official bodies of either institution" and had resulted from a score or more of unofficial conferences between former football stars seeking a remedy for the situation.

Speaking for Harvard men who have battled the Tiger in the past and who are willing to face Princeton again to prove that the ancient rivalry is "too precious a thing to sacrifice because of petty differences," Joe McGlone, Crimson quarterback in 1924, said:

"The game can do no harm. It may do a lot of good. If the contest is a means for healing the breach we all will have helped do a great thing for the two schools."

An imposing array of former Crimson and Princeton stars already have been gathered to start practice sessions next week. Coaches will be secured later. William H. "Big Bill" Edwards, Princeton captain in '00 and a famous figure in Nassau sports since, probably will handle the Orange and Black veterans.

In the prospective Harvard lineup are Lou Gordon and Roscoe Fitts, ends; Buck Evans, tackle; Vic Miller, guard; and Percy Jenkins, Erwin Gehrke, Joe McGlone, Billy Murray, and Isadore Zarakov, backs.

PHILLIES BEAT ATHLETICS IN PLANK MEMORIAL GAME

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3—(AP)—Rain ended the Eddie Plank memorial baseball game between the Phillies and Athletics at the end of the sixth inning today, the final score standing 1 to 0 in favor of the Phillies. Despite the overcast skies more than 5,000 fans were on hand.

Eddie Plank, Jr., attired in a military uniform, stepped to the mound and tossed the first ball. He is 11 years old and a student at the Manassas Military school, Virginia.

The proceeds from the game will be used to help pay for the Eddie Plank memorial gymnasium at Gettysburg college.

Nick Altrock and Al Schact, baseball comedians of the Washington club, provided entertainment for the crowd and as the game progressed, broke into the pitching and catching columns, respectively. Score by innings:

Phillies	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	4	0

MISS COLLETT LEADS FIELD IN CANADIAN GOLF

TORONTO, Ont, Oct. 3—(AP)—One under par for the Lambdon course with a 77, Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., today led the qualifying field in the Canadian women's open golf championship. Two other Americans finished right up at the top, Miss Helen Payson of Portland, Me., being second with an 80, and Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, third, with an 82.

The defending champion, Miss Ada Mackenzie, and Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, former American titleholder, tied for fourth place with scores of 83.

Miss Collett achieved the medal honor by a run of birdies, starting at the fifteenth hole, after taking sixes on the previous two holes, on the 15th she topped her drive, but followed with a fine uphill mashie shot which brought her close to the flag. The Providence girl was especially effective with her long shots, averaging better than 230 yards. On the 510 yard tenth she collected a four by hitting a high mashie straight to the pin.

Thirty-two qualified in today's 18 holes. Scores of 95 or better were good enough to place for tomorrow's match play.

JACK JOHNSON ADMITS HE IS FLAT BROKE

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—(AP)—Jack Johnson, who knocked out Jim Jeffries in 1910 to win the world's heavyweight championship, entered an insolvent debtor's petition in court today to save himself from a debtor's cell.

Johnson made the petition because he said he was unable to pay a $2,500 balance on an $11,000 bill for jewelry purchased in 1922 for his former white wife, Lucille Cameron Johnson, in the futile attempt to dissuade her from divorcing him.

"Nobody cares for an ex-champion," Johnson said. "You've got to save your dough while you're making it. When I was making big dough, I would have laughed if anybody had ever told me I would end up in court trying to explain why I couldn't pay my bills."

BROWN LOSES $13,000 ON SPORTS DURING PAST YEAR

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 3—(AP)—The net income of $54,494 from football at Brown university in 1926 was not sufficient to carry the other sports, none of which showed a surplus, and to take care of general expenses and improvements to the fields. The net loss on all sports for the year ended June 30 last was $13,405, as shown by the financial statement made public by the Brown Athletic council tonight.

The football income was $131,460, with expenses of $76,966. Track sports showed a deficit of $9,921 and baseball $6,516.

REVIEW OF SATURDAY'S GAME SHOWS A FEW WEAK SPOTS IN ACADEMY TEAM

Out of all the heat, sweat, dust, grime and other unpleasant surroundings to the Academy's opening football game Saturday at the campus with Chapman Tech there were three facts of the Red and White victory that stood out. They were, briefly the forward pass system, the backfield and the line.

Just these few words mean little so that something must be added to bring out what is meant to be brought out.

Although a lot of fans will object to what is to be said first because of the many times that old pigskin smacked the ground on incompleted attempts at the overhead, nevertheless the fact remains that the Academy showed the makings of a strong forward passing game in their first tilt.

Only about 5 of about 20 passes attempted were successful but it is interesting to look back and see what was the matter with the 15.

It will be recalled that the passing system was hardly to blame at all here but rather other defects that no doubt can be remedied much easier and quicker. About three quarters of the incompleted passes were the fault of the receivers, either by dropping the spiral or by being just a step or so too late in arriving with the ball. Many times receivers had clear fields when they dropped the pass.

The fact is that the throwing and general placing of the passing attack was almost perfect, the only trouble being with the holding of these throws.

Probably it was a sort of slight nervousness, probably it was the sticky weather which caused a general attack of "fumblitis" but the fact remains that that and only that was the cause of the Academy's forward passing system not going over "big" Saturday. Once they start holding them up at N. F. A. then look out Bulkeley, Windham, Westerly, Warren Harding, Torrington, et al.

The backs Saturday impressed as a mighty speedy and shifty bunch and this, in the first full scholastic tryout for all but one. Aside from Capt. Jack Marks the rest of the Red and White's ball carriers were getting their first taste of scholastic football as regulars and that they should be much better, even as soon as the Torrington game the coming Saturday seems the logical conclusion.

Another thing about the backs that cropped out was that, should occasion again demand as it did in the first part of Saturday's game, they will be well able to do more than their share of defensive work.

Their tackling was a bright spot in the local's play with Marks and Jim Kelly, especially showing this and other fine work in breaking up passes. In Billy Tirrell at quarter, Jim Kelly and Harry McGlone at the halves and Capt. Jack Marks at fullback the Red and White seems well taken care of while for highly capable second stringers Tommy Vitlano and Clint Robinson also looked mighty fine. The latter two saw a bit of service Saturday and fine work was contributed.

The line, mostly during the first half, was the only poor spot in the local's work Saturday. On the defense, they were pretty good but in opening those holes they showed a weakness during the first 24 minutes and a part of the third quarter. The Tech forward wall played them to a standstill during this time until they finally found themselves after a few minutes of the third period and from then on they improved steadily until in the closing moments they were going at top speed.

No doubt, the heat had a lot to do with this fault along with their lack of condition so that with this week's workout, placed alongside the experience of Saturday's tilt then lots better things can be expected against Torrington here this coming Saturday.

The fact that the Red and White has had but two week's of practice was easily discernable in the large list of injuries in Saturday's game. Almost everyone on the team had something to show for his work with some being hurt two or three times. Certainly these burdens of lack of condition and the terrific heat being placed on the locals at the same time detracted somewhat from their showing and not too much, at that, can be judged from this initial game. When you consider the fact, that but three of that club were starting their first scholastic tilt as first stringers in going against a much more experienced Tech team then their 18 to 0 win must be considered as pretty good.

Other Scholastic Sports

Warren Harding of Bridgeport, which comes here Oct. 22, swamped Ansonia High Saturday 36 to 0.

Wilby of Waterbury, which plays host to N. F. A. Oct. 29, won from Derby High Saturday 7 to 0 in its opener.

Bulkeley of New London is having a hard time getting started. Their 18 to 0 defeat from Meriden Saturday still leaves them as not having scored a point this year. They lost their opener to Weaver 24 to 0 a week ago.

Westerly, which comes here Oct. 14 also has not scored this year. Two scoreless ties has been their work to date.

The Academy had but a short workout Monday, because of the heat and their work Saturday, which sure was a tax on the physical system.

Bulkeley of New London is planning to dedicate Mercer field, its new athletic field, Oct. 15.

Dan Polsky, former Academy lineman, is seeing quite a bit of service with the Brown university varsity, while Pheno Tombari and Marty Gilman of Conn. Aggies, round out N. F. A.'s contributions to the varsity football world.

Five members of the 1926 N. F. A. eleven are reported as being candidates for the Conn. Aggie fresh eleven. They are Ed Brewer, Jim Williams, Ed Golumb, Fred Schwartz and Jim Moore. Good luck, boys!

LACK OF SCORING PUNCH SEEN IN MANY TEAMS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Coaches and players on most of the major gridirons of the east today tackled the task of giving a scoring punch to teams which have faltered badly against early season oponents.

Football machines of the steam roller type, usually so common, that bowl over their first two or three opponents with scores in the 70's or 80's, could be counted on one hand this year. As a consequence the scrubs on many practice field felt the crash of a hard driven varsity attack in what was for them a black and blue Monday.

Possible exceptions were Dartmouth, Georgetown, Yale, Maryland and Pittsburgh where the attack thus far has measured well up to expectations. These five have averaged more than 40 points a game and have not been scored upon.

Having the material for a great scoring machine, Coach Biff Jones of the Army set out to see what held his team to 19 points in its first two starts. Bill Roper at Princeton had a similar problem in an eleven that was slow to unlimber and made but two touchdowns against Amherst.

Defense as well as attack required attention at Cornell and Harvard for the Red and the Crimson both have been scored upon by minor foes.

Of the metropolitan universities, Columbia started the week of practice with the best record, an average of 30 points in two games while holding its opponents scoreless.

Penn state, too, has much work ahead before reaching the standard of some other years, despite the great individual play of Johnny Ropeke, captain. The University of Pennsylvania, with perhaps the toughest schedule in the east, began a week of hard practice for the game Saturday with Brown, the first of a solid array of major opponents.

The going gets noticeably rougher this week and among the big games Saturday for which training drives were launched today were intersectional tilts between Harvard and Purdue, Yale and Georgia, Navy and Drake, Army and Marquette. In other interesectional games, Cornell plays Richmond, Colgate meets Virginia Poly and Syracuse clashes with Johns-Hopkins. Princeton's next opponent is Lehigh.

PAUL WANER HAS HIS FIRST DAY'S REST

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3—(AP)—Paul Waner, senior member of the famous "Waner act", and new batting king of the National league, Sunday enjoyed his first day-off of the entire season.

It was his last chance for a layoff and he earned it, together with the other Pittsburgh regulars, by helping clinch the pennant Saturday in Cincinnati. It took the Pirates 153 of their 154 games to settle the flag issue and Paul didn't miss a single inning of any of them. He is the only regular on the team who has not been out at one time or another during the campaign through illness or injury. A bridegroom of only a few weeks, Paul couldn't get a day off even when he was married. His brother, Lloyd has only missed a half dozen games.

Returning from Cincinnati Sunday with nine other regulars, Paul said it was "just luck" that he won this year's batting crown. But there were at least two co-workers. Coach Jewelens and Pitcher Kremer, who proclaimed loudly their pre-season predictions had been fulfilled by the elder of the "poison brothers".

Paul Waner is the first left handed batsman to lead the National league in eight years. Red Hargrave of Cincinnati, 1926 champion, and Rogers Hornsby, king for six previous years, both bat from the starboard side. Ed Roush, in 1919, was the last left-hander to top the list. Waner's unofficial average for the full 153 games is .382.

DEAN SAYS HE KNOWS NOTHING OF ALUMNI GAME

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 3—(AP)—Dean Henry B. Fine, acting chairman of the Princeton board of athletic control today said he knew nothing of a football game between Harvard and Princeton alumni scheduled to be played in New York on October 30.

"If such a game is played, it will not represent Princeton he added. "No alumnus of Princeton has the authority to represent Princeton in athletics except through the board of athletic control or its constituted committee. The consistent attitude of the Princeton university athletic association, publicly expressed, has been against professional football."

CANZONERI GIVES RYAN A TERRIFIC BEATING

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, Broklyn sharpshooter, gave Tomy Ryan of Buffalo a severe pasting in their 10-round bout tonight. Canzoneri had an advantage in every round and after flooring Ryan in the fourth with a right to the jaw continued on with a stiff attack to the body.

"Cotton" Wilcox Out of Game

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—(AP)—"Cotton Wilcox, illusive Purdue back, whose twisting runs, thrusts at the line and passing has made him one of the outstanding players in the big ten will be out of the Harvard game Saturday, due to injuries, physicians announced today.

A chipped ankle bone necessitated an operation which will keep him out of the line-up for an indefinite period.

Mello Knocks Out Cohen

BOSTON Oct. 3—(AP)—Al Mello of Lowell won the New England welterweight championship tonight by knocking out Meyer Cohen of Holyoke in the eighth round of a scheduled 10 round bout at the Boston arena.

NOANK

Noank Crushers' football team opened the season Saturday afternoon, with their old rival West View Eagles, at Williams field. The Golden Rod band played and a short parade was held by both teams. The cheering section for West View team had white and red coats, while the Crushers section had black and orange coats with caps to match. A good crowd turned out, for it was a July day in October more like baseball than football weather. It was 2:30 o'clock when Full-back E. Bogue kicked off to the Crushers and then the game got under way. It was nip and tuck for the first half, the score being 0 to 0. In the second half both teams worked for a touchdown; the Eagles line was like a stone-wall while the Crushers were trying forward passes and could not gain any. The final quarter was good and in the last few minutes the little quarter-back Flash McDonald for the Crushers stood on the 50-yard line and with a pretty drop kick with right foot went over the goal line for 3 points. Then the cheering section went wild, for soon the game was over—Noank Crushers 3, West View Eagles 0. The stars for the Eagles were Fullback Lefty Bogue and E. Pray. Referee, Carl Ashcraft. Attendance 115. The next two games will be played later in the season, for the championship of the village.

Leo Harris was officer of the day. Early Sunday morning Cook Eugene Butson gave them oat meal, bread with no butter, also black coffee. After their chow was put away they marched to church in Center Groton. The rest of the day several of the scouts went wandering through the woods and Snake Charmer S. Weaver caught a black snake four feet long. That is a sign that warm weather will continue for another month. Robert Lane got a large snapping turtle which weighed 13 pounds and had letters on its back "D. D. C." and the year "1908" cut with a jack-knife. The turtle was kept and taken into the village that night and was shown to many people, but Monday morning the turtle was set free. The boys claim it will bring good luck to the scout troop.

Care of Babies

This baby has never had a day's sickness and never a cross or fretful spell that lasted an hour. And what do you suppose is responsible for this healthy, happy condition? Not diet, for he has eaten just about anything and everything a child could eat. Not drugs, for he has not been dosed with opiates; he has never had a drop of paregoric. Nor has his sensible mother ever made him taste castor oil. Yet his nerves are sound and his little bowels are strong, and when he does seem the least restless or walkeful, or out of sorts—or likely to be—his mother has him all serene again in ten or fifteen minutes!

The secret of this complete freedom from the many ills and upsets so common to infants? Plain old-fashioned Castoria. A million and more mothers swear by Castoria, and no wonder! A few drops and an approaching fever, colic, diarrhea or constipation seems to vanish in thin air. Castoria is purely vegetable; that is why physicians tell parents they may use it freely with children of any age—the youngest infant. And how they love the taste!

One word of warning: get the pure real Castoria. Fletcher's Castoria is the original. It is the kind the doctor's specify. And with every bottle comes a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" that is worth its weight in gold to any mother or prospective mother. So remember: tell your druggist you wish Fletcher's Castoria.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES ON EXHIBITION

A Golden Eagle

I saw him, nobly poised, imprisoned
there,
In a poor place, housed in a narrow cage;
That royal spirit, lord of the upper air,
With great wings folded, mute in sullen rage.
And all the luster of the golden noons,
And all the splendor of the scattered stars,
And the fair glory of unclouded moons,
Met in that lightning glance, behind the bars.
Those untamed eyes that answered to the sun,
Now glittering in the dimness, turned on me;
I shall remember till my race is run
The still, proud anguish of that voiceless plea.

The Monkeys

I, who laughed at first at the little solemn sages,
Quaint and smileless creatures,
wrinkled as with years,
Felt the sudden weight of the sorrow of the ages—
Saw the weird, small faces through a mist of tears.

A Black Panther

In dumb, unwearied protest, to and fro,
He paces, pausing but for food and sleep.
Oh, for a song to voice the hidden woe
Of those wild souls that cannot plead nor weep!

Marion Couthouy Smith in Youth's Companion.

To a Canary

O little bird with yellow throat,
All vibrant with your happy note,
From what fair country did you come,
To make this narrow cage your home?

Do fond remembrances now spring
Within your heart, that you can sing?
And though a prisoner still can be
A messenger of song to me.

No, little bird, with throat of gold,
'Twas in a cage you learned, I'm told,
And other singers, prisoners too,
Passed on their joyous song to you.

W. J. Holliday.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

The Flicker, known as the bird of many names is a real interesting member of the feathered family. He is known as a "yellow hammer" a "golden-winged woodpecker" a "high hole" a "clape" a "yucker" and many other names.

The wild cherry is his staff of life in season. He seeks the tree at early morning to breakfast on the black fruit; is there at high noon for luncheon, and at the sunset-hour for supper, while his golden wings flash in and out of the laden boughs repeatedly between meals. Before the last morsel is cleared from the leafy festal board, we find ourselves wondering why everybody doesnt call him "Wild Cherry Woodpecker."

He likes to "give himself airs;" whether vainglioriously or whether to supply unselfish entertainment is, however, a question. Last year a flicker proceeded to hew a hole in the small trunk of a dead elm. The trunk is a mere stub of a trunk, 10 feet high; and the flicker was drilling a roomy aperture, open to the sky, in the broken top. This particular hewer of wood was a male; and as there was no female in evidence, it looked as though he was rough-hewing a select bachelor apartment. For four or five days he drilled into the yellowish wood. Then he went away.

About a week later a pair of bluebirds rejoiced at finding the newly-chiseld opening. The female lined the bottom of the eight-inch hole with grasses and soon was warming her four bluish eggs. Then the flicker came back.

Coldly he destroyed the bluebirds' eggs and every particle of nest-material ruthlessly to the ground. It was deliberate ouster. He did not eat the eggs—nothing as crude as that. One of the azure-tinted ovals, falling on a tuft of grass, did not so much as break. The flicker simply wanted that bird nest out of there, and with a few businesslike movements of his body and head he put that nest out of there.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY THE WIDE AWAKES

How I Spent My Vacation

Uncle Jed: When school ended I was very glad. I spent many joyful weeks on my cousins farm. The first Sunday in vacation we went to the farm in my brother's auto. The first week I did not do much but my cousin showed me around the farm. I saw many new things as a new up-to-date harvester and also a calf which we called Betty. After I got used to the work we had to get up early in the morning and milk the cows. As we finished this we sent the cows to the pasture while we spent the rest of the morning in hunting and fishing. We also spent many hot summer afternoons in the swimming pool.

We had many wonderful sports and also many tasks to do such as hoeing potatoes or raking hay on a hot July day.

Sometimes I went with my cousin peddling milk and bringing vegetables to the market. As school was about to open I did not like to leave the farm but I am glad I will be able to go again next summer.

Our Hot Dog Roast

Dear Uncle Jed: Where I used to live we had a club which was called Firelight girls. One day we planned to go on a hot dog roast. Our class and the boys class were to go. We went up to the lake about six o'clock in the evening.

First, we girls gathered wood while the boys made a place to build the fire. Soon we had all the wood we needed and built the fire.

Each one had a stick to put the frankforts on. After we had our fill of frankforts we had hot coffee and doughnuts. After a while we had toasted marshmallows and put the fire out and started for home. Some of us walked while the others rode. We returned home tired but happy.

A Lesson

Dear Wide Awakes and Uncle Jed: Suppose the Wide Awakes are back to school and enjoying it. Here is a lesson: One day there were two horses, one old and one young, both drawing carts filled with jars and dishes, and going down a hill. Now the old horse went down very carefully and slowly. So slow that the young horse laughed at him and said, "My but you are slow! Can't you go down a hill fast? That gait is alright going up, but I'll show you some speed going down." The young horse started to run; the heavy cart rolled after him, faster, and faster, over stones and ruts, until horse, cart and the dishes went into a ditch. Young horsie looked at the overturned cart and broken dishes and said, "I see I have lots to learn. Old horses know best after all." Wide Awakes let us too, see that we have lots to learn and old folks know best of all.

At the Circus

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story. I and my sister woke up very early for we were going to the circus. We dressed quietly so as not to disturb my aunt.

We ate our breakfast so fast that I don't know whether I had enough or not. I cleared the table and washed the dishes while my sister swept the floor.

After a while we were already to start. We took the bus at the corner.

As we got off the bus I saw a big elephant and a man on his back. There were so many wondeerful things! My sister bought our dinner in the hotel.

It was nearly nine o'clock when we reached home. We had a lunch and then we went to bed.

The Cave

Dear Wide Awakes: This is my first letter to the Wide Awakes. The name of my story is The Cave. One day there was a little girl who was going over street for her mother. On her way she happened to see a great big cave. She thought she would go in so she went in to the cave. When she got in she saw all kinds of stones with letters on them. She wondered what the letters meant.

All of a sudden a noise was heard. The cave fell in and the girl was buried. Her feet were covered and her body. Her head wasn't and she cried for help. But no help came for a long time.

They needed eight men to dig her out. When they got her out her both legs were broken. After that she never went in to a place that she thought wasn't safe.

Our School

Dear Uncle Jed: I am goin to tell you about our school house. A man has been painting it. He has not finished it yet. One side is red with red blinds and the other three sides are red with green blinds.

Inside there is a closet. In it there are three shelves. On them we keep our books, supplies, and other small things. Then there is an entry, where we hang our coats and hats. At the end we keep our wood. In the school room there are six windows, 13 desks, one stove, one sand table, two chairs, teacher's desk, and a victrola. Underneath two of the windows there are shelves where we keep vases of flowers. There are seven children going here. They are all girls. There is one in the second grade, four in the third, and one in the eighth grade. I am in the sixth grade. Some people call this school house. The Little Red School House. The name of it is the Unionville school.

Saved a Bird

Dear Uncle eJd: This is my first letter to the Wide Awakes. The name of the story is The Bird.

It was a hot summer day when I started to the story for my mother. I picked many beautiful flowers on the roadside.

As I was coming back from the store I happened to see a beautiful blue bird lying in the green grass. I started to pick the bird up when I saw that his wing was broken.

I took the bird home and made a cage for it. After a few weeks the bird was well and I let him go.

My Adventure in the Creek

Dear Uncle Jed: This occurred while I was visiting this summer at Ocean Beach. My friend, Lenore and I thought it would be great sport to swim in the creek. We thought it tiresome to go swimming in the ocean everyday. We dove from the dock which was near the creek. It was then high tide and the current was flowing southward toward Ridgewood bridge. The current carried us as far as the bridge when we attempted to swim to our starting point, but it was in vain for swimming against the current is difficult.

Lenore, who is a better swimmer, saw a stick in the bottom not far off. She finally reached it after a long while. Fortunately a man in a boat happened to pass by, saw our peril and quickly rowed to us and lifted us in. He rowed us to the nearest dock and we went ashore after thanking him for his kindness. We never went swimming in the creek again.

A Sad Day for Me

Dear Uncle Jed: One day my two girl friends that lived with me, had to go away, and I couldn't go. And we always were together.

Well I tried to amuse myself but I just couldn't. Noon came, I wasn't hungry. At half past three came a knock at the door. I went to the door, and my two girl friends were there. They surely surprised me. For they were not to come home until six.

They said to me, "Come up to your room with us at once!" I hurried up with them at my heels.

They said, "We have planned to have an entertainment to night and we want you to help us." Anything pleased now. I said, "I would do all I could to help." The entertainment turned out fine, and everyone had a lovely time. So the sad day turned into a glad night.

A Good Time

Dear Uncle Jed: A girl friend from Norwich came visiting me and upon her return I returned with her. We visited several interesting places in the city including the Submarine Base at Groton. We went to the theater several times and greatly enjoyed the shows. We also went automobiling in the country with the father of my friend which was also greatly enjoyed. We visited Mohegan park. The two weeks spent with my friend in Norwich was the best time I had this summer.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Stock prices made further recovery in today's market despite a rather large volume of profit-taking and sporadic bear selling. A sprinkling of high price rails and industrials recorded gains of 3 to 10 points, while advances of a point or two were quiet common in the general list. A few weak spots cropped out here and there, but comparatively little attention was paid to them.

There was nothing in the day's news to explain the brisk demand for many stocks, although the usual crop of rumors was in circulation. Week-end market letters, as a rule, stressed the slow improvement in business and a few predicted higher money rates when the U. S. Treasury's financing plans were completed. Call money held firm at 4 per cent but there was no appreciable calling of loans. Despite the falling off in freight traffic compared with the corresponding period of last year, railroad shares were again in high speculative favor. Chesapeake & Ohio continued its sensational advance by climbing nearly 10 points to a new record high at 218 1-2, later reacting to 216 on profit-taking. Chesapeake corporation, which sold as low as 64 3-4 earlier in the year, touched a new record high at 84 1-4, or more than 4 points above Saturday's close. New York Central crossed 170 for the first time since 1901.

Other rails to break into new high ground for the year, or longer, included Canadian Pacific, Illinois Central common and preferred, Union Pacific, Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, Chicago & Northwestern preferred and Norfolk & Western. Texas & Pacific, a recent strong spot, fell back more than 3 points, and a further recession took place in Erie common.

Extension of the Seminole curtailment agreement for another 30 days failed to have any influence on the oil shares, which have been under the depressing influence of a sharp increase in production in the West Texas fields.

General Motors (old stock) regained its former place as a leader of the industrial group by climbing 1 1-2 points to 277 1-2, a new high record, on President Sloan's prediction that 1927 earnings would better those of 1926. The new stock advanced more than 4 points to 138 7-8. The long list of new highs in the industrial group included American Shipbuilding, Bush Terminal, Commonwealth Power, Cushman's Cuyamel Fruit, Homestake Mining, May Dept. Stores, North American Co., Stewart-Warner and U. S. Leather.

Electric Refrigeration, which sold above 380 a share less than 2 years ago, sank to a new low at 10 3-4. American Water Works (new), a recent strong spot, fell back more than 3 points, and conspicuous heaviness also was shown by Case Threshing, Eastman Kodak, Kraft Cheese, Tobacco Products and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe.
